Explorer Post Established By Local Hospital

To assist high school students in learning more about health careers available in the community, Garrett County Memorial Hospital has established an Explorer Post.

"Studies have shown that the teenagers today are very concerned about the career decisions they face tomorrow," commented Dave Betz, RN, emergency room nurse at Garrett Memorial and coordinator for the Explorer Post. "Our Explorer Post will give interested high school students an opportunity to gain knowledge and insight into this plant's operation through guest speakers, presentations and firsthand experience."

The Explorer Post meets on the first and third Tuesdays of each month during the school year at 7 p.m. in the hospital. According to Betz, the meetings and agenda are determined by the post officers in coordination with the adult advisors. "Meetings focus on careers, learning, and fun," Betz said.

Explorer Posts are organized by the Boy Scouts of America to provide young adults with more information about careers and employment opportunities. "Other posts are being organized in our area which focus on a wide range of careers," Betz explained.

For more information about the Explorer Post program, persons may contact post advisors Dave Betz at 334-2155, ext. 205, or 387-7965, or Charlotte Bock at 334-2155, ext. 492.

LEARNING ABOUT EMERGENCY SERVICES - Garrett County Memorial Hospital, in conjunction with the Boy Scouts of America, has established an Explorer Post program, giving high school students the opportunity to learn about health careers. As part of their emergency services orientation, Explorer Post participants toured Garrett Memorial's emergency room as well as a Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad ambulance. Pictured above, from left to right, emergency room nurse and Explorer Post coordinator Dave Betz, RN, shows students Todd Howard, Kristi Stemple, Julie Caruso, and Angela Shaffer instruments on a suture tray. Pictured below, from left, David Moon and Cathy McGoldrick of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad give students Danny Schroyer, Jason Sines, and Scott Sines an ambulance tour. (See story).

Correction Noted

In an article titled, "K-9 Teams Race Grim Reaper," published in last week's issue of The Republican, the National Police Bloodhound Association's camp host and instructor, Sgt. R.E. Brown, who is employed by the Allegany and Garrett County sheriffs' offices, lives in Lonaconing, not in Thomas, W.Va., as noted in a photo caption. We regret the error.

Council Meeting Slated; Theater Group To Perform

"Julie has worked very hard since her employment at First United. Her experience and education will help in her new position," Stanton said.

Mrs. Hill started her career with First United in January 1989. She has held the positions of typist in the typing pool, commercial services secretary, and customer service officer. She is a licensed Life and Accident & Health insurance agent.

Oakland Man Convicted In Dist. Court Of Felony Theft Charges

Among the numerous cases heard in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings was one involving an Oakland man who was convicted on one count of felony theft.

James E. Patton II, 21, was sentenced to five years in jail for his part in the theft of items from the home of Richard Lawrence, McHenry, between July 6-28, 1994. Patton will serve 18 months of that sentence, and has been awarded 69 days' credit for time already served. He was also ordered to pay $1,393 restitution, continue substance abuse counseling, and was placed on two years of supervised probation. An additional charge of first degree burglary was not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

According to district court records, a co-defendant in the case had implicated Patton in the theft of several items, including a 12-gauge shotgun, a television set, and microwave oven from Lawrence's home. The defendant apparently kept the items, and later sold the gun.

In other district court news, Dennis J. Landes, 41, Severn, will serve 60 days of a three-year jail term for a guilty verdict on a possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) charge. He was also ordered to pay $2,050 in fines and court costs, and was placed on three years of supervised probation.

Additional charges of possession of CDS, and conspiracy to sell cocaine; possession of CDS paraphernalia; possession of CDS with intent to manufacture, distribute, and dispense; and possession of narcotics with intent to manufacture, distribute, and dispense, were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

District court records indicate the Maryland State Police, Drug Enforcement Division, received information in Aprii 1994, from a concerned citizen who said the defendant transported large amounts of cocaine to the Garrett County area, where he would then distribute it.

During a surveillance on April 15, 1994, officers reportedly initiated a traffic stop and recovered 10 baggies containing various amounts of cocaine, $1,680 in U.S. currency, a hypodermic syringe, a gram scale, spoons, straws, rolling papers, etc., resulting in Landes' arrest.

Charles S. Thomas, 34, Barton, pleaded guilty to one count of possession of CDS, one count of possession of fireworks without a permit, and one count of DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs). For the CDS conviction, he was sentenced to 60 days in jail, with all of the sentence suspended except 76 hours, and was granted probation before judgment on the fireworks charge. A 30-day suspended sentence, and $500 fine was handed the defendant on the DUI charge, and he was placed on 12 months of supervised probation for the combined offenses.

Additionally, one count of removing/altering a CDS label, two counts possession of CDS paraphernalia, one count of failing to drive right of center, and one count of refusing to sign a traffic citation were not prosecuted against Thomas.

The charges stemmed from the defendant's July 3, 1994 arrest on Savage River Road, by NRP Officer John Frank, who initially stopped him for the traffic offenses. Upon contact with Thomas, Frank reportedly detected the odor of alcohol, and noticed he appeared "rumpled and dirty." The defendant told the officer he had consumed three beers.

A subsequent search of Thomas' vehicle revealed 111 packs of firecrackers, 106 bottle rockets, two flying planes, 58 M80s, two large jumbo sky rockets, one Toat's twirl, a 37-hole erupting display, and a lighter. Court records indicate he told Frank he was on his way to a cabin on the Savage River Road to set off the fireworks in observance of the 4th of July.

Jeremy M. Skoglund, 19, Morgantown, W.Va., was found guilty of one count of felony theft. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail, with all of the sentence suspended except 48 hours, and fined $200. He was also placed on one year of supervised probation for the offense. One additional charge of felony theft was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

The charges against Skoglund stemmed from his Jan. 24 arrest at the Wisp Resort, by Maryland State Police, after he was found to be in possession of a stolen snowboard. The charging statement indicate the victim, Charles R. Varndell, saw his snowboard in the back of Skoglund's vehicle, along with another board, belonging to Colin S. Dierman, that was also stolen the same evening.

During a sentence revision hearing for David W. Kulick, 30, and Jason D. Dinisio, 30, both of Glen Burnie, the judge granted each probation before judgment on earlier guilty verdicts for possession of a controlled dangerous substance, stemming from their Nov. 25, 1994, arrests for that offense by a park ranger at Savage River State Park. Conditions of each defendant's probation will remain as originally imposed.

Walter O. Friend, 59, Friendsville, was not prosecuted on one count of reckless endangerment, and one count of battery, because the complainant, Judy D. Friend, asserted her spousal privilege and refused to testify. The charges were filed after an August 1984 incident, when the defendant reportedly held a gun to his wife's head and threatened to shoot, hit her with his fist, blackened her eye, and choked her.

Clifford F. Elliott Jr., 23, Oakland, was found guilty of one count of DUI in recent district court proceedings. He was handed a 60-day suspended sentence, fined $150, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to complete 30 hours of community service, and attend a 26-week alcohol treatment program at the local health department. Additional charges of possession of CDS and its related paraphernalia were placed on the stet docket.

Charges against Elliott were filed on Dec. 31, 1994, after he was stopped initially for a traffic violation. The investigating officer noticed an odor of alcohol, and that the defendant's eyes were "glassy and bloodshot." A subsequent search of the vehicle revealed a quantity of marijuana and CDS paraphernalia, resulting in his arrest.

Ronald W. Warnick Jr., 24, Swanton, pleaded guilty to one count of being disorderly in a public place. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail, with all of the sentence suspended except 10 days, fined $50, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. One count of disorderly conduct and disobeying a police officer was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

District court records indicate Warnick's charges occurred on Feb. 18 after sheriff's deputies responded to a domestic complaint at the Deer Park VFW. An officer reportedly asked Warnick to go outside, but told him he couldn't take his beer with him. The defendant apparently became belligerent, and insisted on drinking the beer. He continued to be disorderly, according to the report, and began to curse. The officer said Warnick told him "he was drunk and knew it, and didn't care what he (the officer) said."

Charges of malicious destruction of property, and being disorderly in a public place, filed against Adam C. Daley, 23, Frostburg, were placed on the stet docket. Conditions of the judge's decision stated Daley must pay $1,084.50 restitution to Razberry's, and also complete 20 hours of community service. The charges stemmed from a Jan. 13 incident when the defendant damaged a door at the establishment.

DWI CASES

Numerous DWI (driving while intoxicated) and DUI cases were heard in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings.

Karen Lee Stover, 45, W.Va., was found guilty of DWI. She was fined $150, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation. She was also ordered to attend a 26-week alcohol treatment program at the health department, and complete 30 hours of community service. A one-year alcohol restriction was also placed on her driver's license. Her arrest by Maryland State Police was on May 9, 1994.

Scott Allan Carr, 25, Md., had a charge of DWI amended to read DUI. He, too, was sentenced to 30 days in jail (suspended), fined $150, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He must attend an alcohol treatment program, and a one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license. He was arrested for DWI by state police on Dec. 31, 1994.

A guilty verdict for DUI was handed to Craig David Forbes, 20, Md., who had been arrested for the offense by state police on Feb. 19. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $150, and placed on 12 months of supervised probation. He must also attend an eight-week alcohol treatment program, and complete 30 hours of community service. A one-year alcohol restriction was added to his driver's license.

Richard Arthur Hill, 41, Md., found guilty of DWI, was sentenced to 30 days in jail (suspended), fined $200, and placed one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to attend a 26-week alcohol treatment program, and complete 30 hours of community service. A one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license. Hill's arrest for DWI by Maryland State Police occurred on Jan. 15.

During a sentence revision hearing for Edward Wayne Meyers, 31, W.Va., the judge granted him probation before judgment on an earlier guilty verdict for DWI. The conditions of his probation, however, will remain as originally imposed. His arrest for the offense was on July 6, 1994.

District Court Correction Noted

In last week's issue of The Republican, a case in Garrett County District Court that involved F. Leslie McDaniel, Oakland, who was granted probation before judgment on a guilty verdict for a misdemeanor theft charge, incorrectly reported that District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett handed the decision in the case.

Judge Burnett had recused himself from that case, and Allegany County District Court Judge Paul Stakem was the adjudicator for this particular court action. We regret the error.

Shillingburg Farm Is Site Of Sheep Kill By Black Bear

by Bernice Kepple

During the long cold winter days and nights, Lee Shillingburg can be found in his barn tending to his flock of sheep and helping the ewes bring their newborn lambs into the safe world of his secure warm barn. Once the sheep and lambs are turned out of the barn onto pasture, however, they become prey to the wild, but protected animals of Garrett County, including the black bear.

Over the past five years a total of 176 sheep have been devoured on the Shillingburg farm by packs of dogs and wild animals, which in the past two years have included black bears. In 1991 he lost 52 animals; in 1992, 68; in 1993, 16; in 1994, 21; and already this year he has lost 19 sheep. The number and value of these sheep would be more than enough for someone to start out in the sheep business.

Shillingburg's wife, Ellen, says it's a "sad sight" to walk into the yard and find one of Lee's prize sheep lying dead and partially eaten by a black bear. And even sadder to walk out on the farm on a bright sunny day to enjoy the sight of his beautiful sheep grazing on the green dew lavished grass, and find instead a registered Dorset sheep (just its head and wool coat) lying dead, the recent meal of a protected black bear of Garrett County. This is quite a loss to the farmer who cannot purchase insurance to cover damage by wild animals, nor is he reimbursed by the state. It's a total loss.

Shillingburg says he cannot use his farm to raise sheep and cows like he and his ancestors did in the past. His ancestors could at least protect their animals by killing the predators. Shillingburg cannot protect the animals on his property because the law protects the predator. It is considered a crime to kill a black bear and carries a heavy fine and possibly a jail sentence if one should kill a destructive black bear. Occasionally a black bear will be trapped and destroyed for killing by the DNR, but usually they are taken a few miles away and released to return to the farm to tear down fences, destroy crops and kill livestock again and again.

Since the bears have come into the Shillingburgs' yard, Ellen is afraid to leave her car until her husband is on the porch. So he waits up at night until 11:45 to make sure she gets safely into the house when she returns home from her 3 to 11 job at the local hospital.

Ellen says a documentary film was made of the bear damage to crops and livestock and shown on many TV stations; still nothing is being done to stop crop damage or to save livestock from destruction by the black bear. The Shillingburgs are worried about children in the area, too. "Some say they (black bears) will not bother humans, but we all know if they kill animals they will kill a defenseless child," Ellen said. "If the people in lower Maryland like to come here to see the bear, let's let them take the black bear back to their counties with them," she concluded.

District 1-A Delegate George Edwards, who has made legislative efforts to solve this problem in the past, says the Department of Natural Resources has told him they would like to meet with him during the interim to look at the situation. Edwards says the Department (DNR) needs to thoroughly investigate the problem again.

Meanwhile, Natural Resources Technician DeWitt ways a trap has been set on the Shillingburg farm, and if the bear is captured, Shillingburg and the Department will decide its fate. DeWitt says that the two sheep killed last week were definitely killed by a black bear. He says a dead sheep found as recently as this week was a dog or coyote kill, however. A bear, he says, kills differently than a dog or coyote. It attacks the top of the animal's neck and shoulder and severs the spinal cord. A dog will attack the animal's throat and hang on until it suffocates.

DeWitt says Shillingburg's farm is in a geographic location where bear continually cross the nearby Potomac River in and out of West Virginia where there is a hunting season for bear. This makes his property and livestock unusually susceptible to bear damage. Five more of Shillingburg's sheep have been missing since the bear attack last week, and their fate is unknown.

Del. Edwards says that one suggestion has been to compensate for bear damage the same way deer damage is compensated for by the state -- with permits to kill the animal or animals doing the damage, giving the farmer the right to keep and use the meat.

Edwards encourages anyone sighting a bear in Garrett County to report it to the DNR at Mt. Nebo. He especially encourages farmers who suspect bears of crop or livestock damage to report it to the DNR so cases can be documented, making legislative arguments much more meaningful. The DNR Wildlife Division can be reached at Mt. Nebo by calling 334-4255, or the nuisance animal hotline at 1-800-442-0708.

BEAR DAMAGE has been suspected by Lee Shillingburg for several years at his farm on the White Church Road. This recent kill and one sheep killed last year were confirmed by the DNR to have been bear kills.

"Producers who provided evidence that they did not market more milk in 1994 than in 1993 were eligible to receive the entire amount deducted from their milk proceeds, if they met the eligibility requirements and claimed the refund by March 15," Kozier said.

The 1990 Act provides that the 11.25-cent-per-hundredweight milk marketing assessment will be increased on May-December milk marketings each year to compensate for refunds made for the previous year. Effective May 1, 1995, the assessment was increased by 6.98 cents, bringing the total to 18.23 cents per hundredweight. Kozier said that this rate will remain in effect for the rest of this year. On January 1, 1996, the rate of assessment will be reduced to 10 cents per hundredweight, as required by the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1993.

Garrett County Dairy Refunds Total $28,168

Garrett County dairy producers, who reduced or did not increase their 1994 milk marketings, filed 28 applications and received refunds totaling $28,168, according to Michael R. Kozier for the Consolidated Farm Service Agency.

The cash payments were issued to dairy producers in Garrett County under the Dairy Refund Payment Program, authorized by the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Acts of 1990 and 1993.

Small Grains Turning

For the week ending May 28, small grain crops were in fair to mostly good condition. Winter wheat and barley had completed heading, while rye had reached over 90 percent. All have begun turning, with wheat and rye running a little behind average and barley running ahead of average. Cereal leaf beetle and powdery mildew have been reported in wheat. Corn planting is running at a close to average pace. Soybean planting was at a slightly below average pace. Vegetable planting continued. Cucumber planting remained at a below average pace, while lima beans and snap beans jumped ahead of average. Sweet potato planting continued and reached 30 percent. Apple and strawberry blooming was virtually complete. Strawberry harvest continued and went over 20 percent. Pastures were mostly good to excellent with nine percent reported as fair, 66 percent good, and 25 percent excellent.

Across the state, topsoil moisture was one percent short, 73 percent adequate, and 26 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was five percent short, 92 percent adequate, and three percent surplus. Conditions allowed for an average of 4.6 days suitable for fieldwork. The first cutting of other hay was aided by last week's good conditions and is right on average. Alfalfa cutting also made great improvements, but is still running a little behind average.

Maryland's progress for the week ending May 21 was as follows, listing the item, this week's percentage, last week's percentage, last year's percentage, and a percentage for the 5-year average.

Small Grains Progress: Wheat, heading, 99, 96, 95, 93; Wheat, turned, 4, 0, 4, 13; Rye, turned, 12, 3, 8, 20; Barley, turned, 33, 15, 8, 20. Planting progress: Corn, field, 90, 80, 92, 91; Soybeans 24, 12, 30, 29; Sweet Corn 73, 59, 79, 76; Watermelons 78, 51, 87, 80; Tomatoes 77, 61, 84, 85; Cantaloupe 62, 56, 85, 80; Green Peas, harvested, 5, 1, 15, 16. Haymaking: Alfalfa, first cutting, 45, 10, 54, 54; Other hay, first cutting, 33, 12, 32, 34. Fruit Crops: Apples, bloomed, 98, 87, 100, 100; Strawberries, bloomed, 97, 95, 98, 98.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ending May 26 had above normal temperatures and below normal precipitation. Temperatures averaged 68.9 degrees, 3.8 degrees above the normal of 65.1 degrees for the week of May 20 through May 26. The low temperature for the week was 36 degrees at Oakland. Low temperatures were mainly in the low 40's to mid 50's. The high temperature was 90 degrees at Cumberland. Highs were mainly in the mid to upper 80's. Precipitation averaged 0.57 inch, 0.29 inch below the normal of 0.86 inch. Precipitation ranged from 0.03 inch at Hancock to 1.91 inches at Smithsburg. Regional rainfall averages were: Western, 0.56; North Central, 0.40; Southern Maryland west of the Bay, 0.53; and Eastern Shore, 0.79 inch.

Crop Insurance Benefits Broadened

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture activated the last link in its crop insurance program with the publication of the regulations on the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP)," said Kenneth R. Bachtel, Garrett County CFSA Committee. "This program provides insurance on crops for which federal insurance was previously unavailable."

Eligible crops include commercially grown crops produced for food or fiber, such as barley, wheat hay and vegetables and products such as floricultural and ornamental nursery crops, Christmas trees, turfgrass, industrial crops, and aquacultural species.

To be eligible for NAP protection, a producer must report the acreage of a crop to the local office of the Consolidated Farm Service Agency. A producer who fails to report will be ineligible for NAP payments.

NAP will provide protection against crop loss at a level similar to that provided by catastrophic crop insurance, which provides insurance coverage for crops for which insurance policies are available.

"For NAP payments to become available. two conditions must be satisfied!" said Bachtel. First the area in which the crop is grown must suffer a 35 percent production loss. Second, the individual farmer must have lost at least 50 percent of his or her approved crop yield.

"When these conditions are met," said Bachtel "payments will be made at the following rate." Farmers will be paid 60 percent of the average market price for crop losses in excess of 50 percent of their approved yields.

"To be eligible, if disaster strikes," said Bachtel, "farmers in Garrett County must report their acreage of crops subject to NAP by July 17."

Farmers can contact the Garrett County CFSA Office at the Oakland Courthouse at 334-1901.

GARRETT COUNTY NOTICE OF A PROPOSED PROPERTY TAX INCREASE

The County Commissioners of Garrett County proposes to increase property taxes.

1. For the tax year beginning July 1, 1995, the estimated assessable base will increase by 2.4%, from $664,637,199 to $681,150,806.

2. If Garrett County maintains the current tax rate of $2.24 per $100 of assessment, property tax revenues will increase by 2.4% resulting in $369,905 of new property tax revenues.

3. In order to fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the property tax rate should be reduced to $2.19, the constant yield tax rate.

4. The County is considering not reducing its property tax rate enough to fully offset increasing assessments. The County proposes to adopt a tax rate of $2.24 per $100 of assessment. This tax rate is 2.4% higher than the constant yield tax rate and will generate $369,905 in additional property tax revenues.

A public hearing on the proposed property tax increase will be held at 9:00 a.m. on June 13, 1995, at the County Commissioners Meeting Room, County Courthouse, Oakland, MD. The hearing is open to the public, and public testimony is encouraged. Persons with questions regarding this hearing may call 301-334-8970 for further information.

Be On The Lookout For Alfalfa Weevil

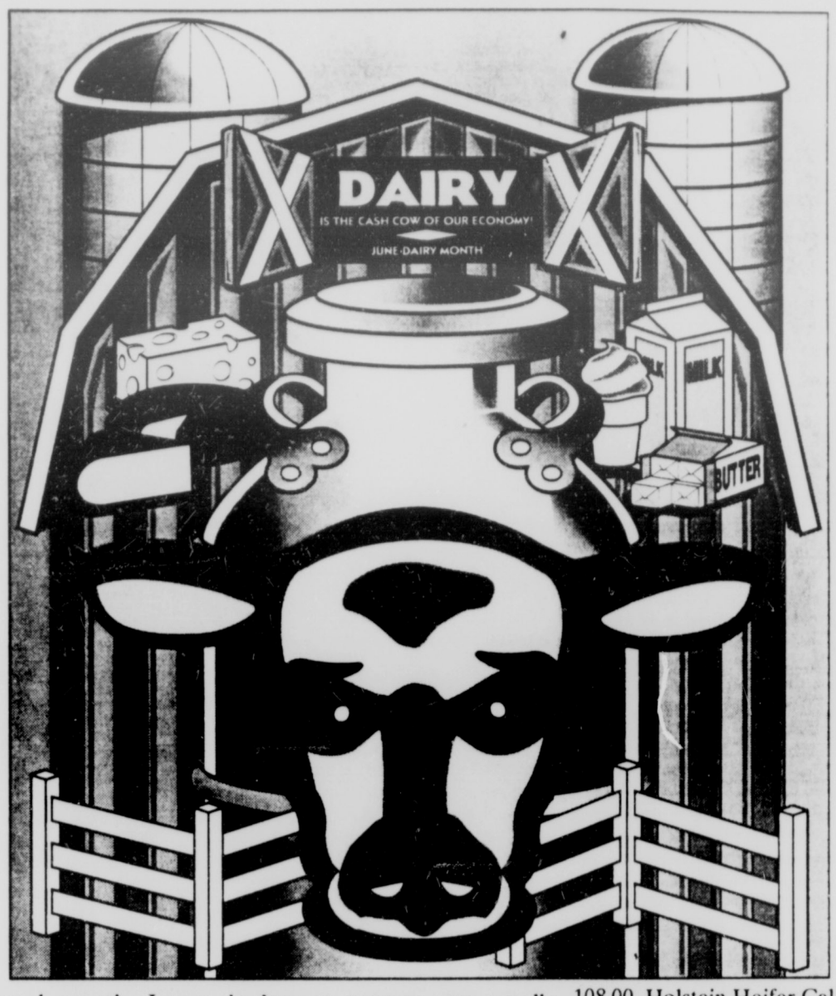
Last week we found alfalfa weevil in the plots down at the Community College. By the time you read this most of you will have harvested the first cutting. Normally, the weevil's major threat is on the first growth period; however, if the population is moderate, they may be around to work on the regrowth. I would strongly recommend that you scout your fields to check on the regrowth. A moderate population of the weevil can devour most of the new regrowth. If you have not yet harvested the alfalfa, you still should check for the weevil. Zigzag across the field and collect around 30 stems placed top down in a bucket. Shake the plants and count the larva in the bucket. This procedure should give you an idea of weevil present. If you find the weevil, you should give me a call for recommendations.

Potato Leafhopper

I would expect the invasion of the leafhopper into the alfalfa fields rather soon. I would recommend sampling spring-seeded plantings and the regrowth of the second crop. The tender regrowth is highly susceptible to leafhopper feeding injury. I would like to review the seriousness and the impact of the leafhopper feeding on alfalfa. Leafhoppers feed and remove plant juices, thereby blocking the normal movement of fluids within the plant. This blockage results in a V-shaped yellowing on the leaves, commonly referred to as hopperburn. Leaves showing hopperburn do not recover after the insects have been killed with an insecticide. When feeding is intense, yield losses within the growth period occur as a result of reduced stem height. Damaged plants are severely stunted, often to the point of providing opportunities for increased weed growth. Losses in harvest tonnage are usually attributed to this stem-shorting response. However, if hopperburn injury occurs over several cuttings, the potential yields of future cuttings and the winter survival (stand viability) of the crop may be reduced. An additional impact of leafhopper feeding is the delay in maturity of the crop. In some cases, the delay may be extreme enough to eliminate a final harvest in the fall. In next week's Farm-O-Gram, I will give you information on procedures for scouting and determining when controls are necessary.

Mark June 26 On Your Calendar

For the past five years, Dr. Les Vough, agronomy specialist form the University of Md., has been conducting alfalfa research at the Garrett Community College. We are going to have an evening field workshop on Monday, June 26, starting at 7 p.m. with a cookout followed by a program reviewing the research results over the last five years. I think you will find this program interesting. I will need reservations for food preparation. There is no cost. Interested persons should call 301-334-1990.



Glickman Makes Rural Development A Priority In 1995 Farm Bill

The Clinton Administration's farm bill guidelines released last week call for cutting red tape in USDA's rural development programs through streamlining funding and allowing more decisions to be made locally.

"This restructuring initiative will help to direct a high proportion of rural community development assistance toward communities that are economically distressed," said Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman. "By better coordinating rural development efforts, we can ensure that the people who need help the most get it."

The Rural Performance Partnership initiative, which is also part of President Clinton's reinventing government efforts, would change funding for 14 separate rural development programs now administered by Rural Economic and Community Development (RECD) offices into three broad funding categories. Each funding category would be directed through one of the three USDA rural development services; the Rural Utilities Service (RUS); the Rural Housing and Community Development Service; and the rural Business and Cooperative Development Service.

State RECD staff would be permitted to transfer up to 25 percent of one funding category to another, as long as no more than 10 percent of any one funding category was redirected nationally. The decision on how to spend these funds will be based on a rural development master plan that is created by local, state and federal officials--with help from local non-profit institutions.

"In April, I attended six regional rural forums and joined President Clinton at the National Rural Conference to listen to rural Americans from across the country," Glickman said. "At each forum, I heard there was a need for more flexibility in carrying out USDA programs and that state and local officials must have more authority to target rural development efforts. I believe that inclusion of RPPI in the 1995 farm bill is consistent with the sentiment voiced by local leaders and is a very positive step in the right direction."

"The 1995 farm bill will be an opportunity for us to address the needs faced by rural American," said John S. (Jack) Walls, acting state director for Delaware and Maryland RECD. "I am happy to see that the Clinton Administration is determined to tackle the problems of rural America by making rural development a priority in the farm bill."

Ag News With Beth

by Beth Massey, Extension Agent
Preston County Cooperative Extension Service

Tent Caterpillars Are On The Move

It's migration time for eastern tent caterpillars as they move out of their nests and strike out in search of places to spin their cocoons.

According to the West Virginia Department of Agriculture (WVDA), these caterpillars are responsible for those unsightly nests or tents you see primarily in wild black cherry trees and cultivated fruit trees. This spring, in fact, their nests were extremely visible especially along Interstates 79 and 77, and heavy populations have been reported statewide.

For about eight weeks while they mature, eastern tent caterpillars feed on the leaves of host trees before striking out in search of a place to spin their yellowish cocoons. It's not unusual for WVDA staff to receive numerous calls from homeowners complaining that caterpillars are crawling over houses, sidewalks, play areas, and other outdoor living spaces.

"Once caterpillars start to migrate, most of the defoliation has already happened, and control measures are generally ineffective and unnecessary," said plant/pest biologist Berry Crutchfield. "Migrating caterpillars are just a nuisance as they wander about at random."

The best but often unwanted advice is to just endure them for another two to three weeks until the caterpillar stage is over.

Eastern tent caterpillar moths lay their eggs in early summer on the branches of trees, especially black cherry trees, their favorite. The following spring, those eggs hatch and the tiny caterpillars begin building their familiar cobwebby tents. The insects stay inside the tents when not feeding on the foliage as they mature. As more caterpillars join in the group, the tent continues to grow.

Once the insects reach full size, which is about early or mid-May, depending on weather and temperature conditions, the caterpillars migrate off the trees and wander around looking for a place to spin a cocoon. They'll pupate, which is when they change or metamorphose, into moths just about anywhere, such as on the side of a house, in the dirt, or on a piece of bark.

"When they start wandering around, we start getting phone calls," Crutchfield says. "It's when the caterpillars are most visible, and people get concerned when they see so many of them all over the place."

About two to three weeks after spinning their cocoon, the caterpillars will emerge as moths, which mate and lay eggs on tree branches. Thus, their cycle continues for another year.

For additional information or specific pesticide recommendations, contact your county extension agent or WVDA's Plant Industries Division in Charleston at 558-2212. The following pesticides may be used: Methoxychlor, Liquid Seven, Dipel, or Orthenes. If you do not wish to use any pesticides for controlling the caterpillars, your other alternative is to pick off the caterpillars and crush. The trade or band names mentioned above are only for your information. The Cooperative Extension Service intends no endorsements nor implies discrimination to the exclusion of other products which also may be suitable. It is the sole responsibility of the user to read, understand, and follow all directions and precautions listed by the manufacturers.

What To Do About Tent Caterpillars Next Year

As biologist Berry Crutchfield said, "Enduring this year's bumper crop of eastern tent caterpillars is about all you can do at this stage, especially now that most of the insects are mature. Now that they've left their tents, they're just randomly wandering around, and that makes it impossible to focus any sort of treatment."

Below are a couple of suggestions you may want to use to be ready for the caterpillars next year.

* Remove wild black cherry trees around the home. Since these trees are the insect's favorite food, this will help limit the numbers the following year. It won't eliminate them since wild cherries are common in West Virginia.

* Prune out the egg masses over the winter. Eastern tent caterpillars leave behind shiny, black egg masses on the branches of trees. As long as you know what you're looking for, and as long as your trees aren't very tall, this can be an effective control. Of course, it won't help for this season.

* Treat brand new tents and neighboring branches with the proper insecticide in early spring, just as the leaves begin to emerge. That's when the small caterpillars hatch and begin building their tents in the tree branches. If the trees are too large, this measure won't be feasible.

THE AGRICULTURAL CARE AND EDUCATION (ACE) PROGRAM, an integrated consortium delivery system of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the Garrett County Health Department and the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS), received a check in the amount of $500 from Progressive Farmer magazine to assist in the implementation of a farm safety day camp that will be held July 22 at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. The fairgrounds will serve as one of 12 sites across the nation that will host farm safety day camps this summer for kids age 10-15 who live and/or work on farms. The goal of the farm safety day camp, sponsored by Progressive Farmer in cooperation with the ACE program, is to prevent farm injuries and deaths by teaching kids about farm-related hazards and how to avoid them. "We hope that those who attend our day camps will in turn share what they learn with their parents and others, thus preventing more injuries and deaths," commented a spokesperson from Progressive Farmer. Pictured, left to right, are: Darlene Murphy, ACE Advisory Committee member; Arthur Lake, ACE Peer Review Committee member; Richard McCrobie, ACE Advisory Committee member; and accepting the check from Progressive Farmer on behalf of the ACE consortium, Mikal McCartney, ACE program director. State Conference On Day Care To Be Held June 10

Day care providers and people interested in starting their own day care businesses will find a wealth of information about opportunities in day care at an upcoming statewide conference, "Maryland Meets the Need for Quality Day Care in the 90's." The conference will be held Saturday, June 10, from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Anne Arundel Community College in Arnold.

"Helping to provide quality day care for Maryland's working parents and families by expanding the types and number of day care facilities in the state is part of this agency's mission," said James T. Brady, secretary of economic and employment development (DEED). "The day care industry is one of the state's target growth areas for the next century, especially for the elderly, children and the disabled."

Keynote speaker for the conference will be Maryland Lieutenant Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend. A human and child rights advocate, the Lt. Governor will speak on state efforts to expand the day care industry. Maryland recently was ranked by Working - Mother magazine and the television show "Working Woman" as among the top 10 states in the nation for providing quality, affordable day care. "This conference is a must for anyone interested in entering the day care business or expanding an existing day care facility," said Joan Case, director of DEED's Day Care Financing Programs. "It will focus primarily on the business aspects of day care, providing information ranging from business plans to marketing to zoning regulations."

In addition to DEED, other conference sponsors include NationsBank, which is known for having extensive family programs that have achieved national recognition. NationsBank has been selected six times by Working Mother magazine as one of the nation's best companies for working mothers, including appearing two years in the top 10 list.

Other sponsors are the Maryland Department of Human Resources (DHR) Child Care Administration, the law firm of Weinberg & Green, Anne Arundel Community College, the Governor's Office of Children, Youth & Families, the Maryland Committee for Children and the Maryland Child Care Resource Network.

Topics to be covered at the conference include: Financing a Day Care Business; Establishing a Financial Reporting System; Day Care for the Elderly - A Growing Need; Writing a Business Plan; Formulating Marketing Strategies; and Starting Your Own Day Care Center and Meeting Zoning and Location Regulations.

Other topics are: When Do You Need an Attorney and an Accountant; Expanding from Family Child Care to Small Group or Center Care; and Marketing your Day Care Services to Corporate Clients.

The cost of the day-long conference is $50, which includes breakfast, lunch, and all conference materials. Participants will earn Continuing Education Units (CEU's) and certificates required by DHR's Child Care Administration will be awarded. For registration materials, the public may contact Anne Arundel Community College's office of Community Services/Continuing Education at (410) 541-2325.

Wasserman To Address AHEC's Annual Meeting

Dr. Martin P. Wasserman, secretary of the state Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, will address regional health professionals at the 19th annual meeting of the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC). Wasserman's topic will be titled, "Managing Rural Health Resources in an Era of Reform."

Introducing Dr. Wasserman will be David J. Ramsay, DM, DPhil, president of the University of Maryland at Baltimore.

The meeting is set for Tuesday, June 6, at the Cumberland Holiday Inn. The event will begin with a reception at 6:45 p.m., followed by the meeting at 7:30 p.m.

In addition to his leadership of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, Wasserman serves on both the National and Maryland Associations of County Health Officials, having held the office of president for both organizations.

He represented local health department perspectives for the Public Health Foundation, the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials, and the Centers for Disease Controls (CDC). He was an inaugural participant in the CDC Public Health Leadership institute between 1991 and 1992, having served on the steering committee in 1992. Wasserman has testified before Congress on numerous occasions.

He is a recipient of the prestigious Ford Foundation/Harvard University Innovations in State and Local Government Award. In 1992, Dr. Wasserman led a delegation of public health officials to Russia and Czechoslovakia under the Citizen Ambassador Program, "People to People."

Following his presentation, the annual meeting's agenda will turn to the presentation of the John M. Dennis Award and the Western Maryland AHEC Award for Distinguished Service. Recipients of this award are university representatives who have made noteworthy contributions to off-campus health professional education in Western Maryland through outstanding leadership, ingenuity, advocacy, and dedication, according to an AHEC spokesperson.

The AHEC serves Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties, providing training sites for health professional students from various university programs, off-campus education programs, continuing education for health professionals, interagency networks, and learning resource services. The AHEC is part of the Maryland Statewide Medical Education and Training System and works in partnership with the University of Maryland at Baltimore.

For further information about the annual meeting, or the AHEC, persons may call 301-777-9150.

Low-Interest Home Repair Loans Available

More low-interest financing is available for home repairs to homeowners with low and moderate incomes, according to Aurelia Marple from Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc. The housing rehabilitation funds are provided by the Small Cities Community Development Program. The funds are administered in Garrett County by Garrett County Community Action.

Ms. Marple, the loan manager for Community Action, said this program is for Garrett County residents who own the home they live in and cannot afford high interest rate loans to make needed repairs.

To quality for a loan, one needs an acceptable credit record, be able to repay the loan, meet income guidelines, and have an acceptable debt to income and loan to property value ratio. Income limits range from a maximum of $22,000 for one person to a maximum of $31,450 for a family of four.

One of the goals of Community Action is to help provide affordable, safe, decent, and adequate housing to residents of Garrett County. The low-interest funding with rather liberal income guidelines will help many homeowners make the necessary repairs to their home, according to Marple.

Persons interested in more information can call Ms. Marple at 301-334-9431.

Oakland, Maryland 21550

All Bids must be made on the required Bid form. All blank spaces for Bid prices must be filled in, in ink or typewritten, and the bid form must be fully completed and executed when submitted.

The Owner reserves the right to waive any informalities or minor defects, or to reject any and all Bids. Any Bid may be withdrawn prior to the above scheduled time for the opening of Bids or authorized postponement thereof. Any Bid received after the time and date specified will not be considered. No Bidder may withdraw a Bid within 90 days after the actual date of the opening thereof. Should there be reasons why the contract cannot be awarded within the specified period, the time may be extended by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

All questions and requests for clarification regarding the Contract Documents shall be made in writing to Jeff Gilbert, Engineer for the Garrett County Sanitary Commission, at the above address.

Bidders must satisfy themselves of the scope-of-work by examination of the site and a review of the Contract Documents including Addenda. After Bids have been submitted, the Bidder shall not assert that there was a misunderstanding concerning the quantities of work or of the nature of the work to be done. All excavation is unclassified without provisions for extra payment for rock excavation.

The Contract Documents contain the provisions required for the work included in the Project. Information obtained from an officer, agent or employee of the Owner or any other person shall not affect the risks or obligations assumed by the Contractor or relieve him from fulfilling any of the conditions of the Contract.

BID SECURITY AND BOND REQUIREMENTS

An acceptable Bid Bond, payable to the Owner, in the amount of five percent (5%) of the total bid must accompany each Bid. A certified check in the amount of five percent (5%) of the total bid, drawn on a solvent bank chartered in the state of Maryland, and payable to the Owner, may be substituted for the Bid Bond.

Attorneys-in-fact who sign Bid Bonds, Performance Bonds, Payment Bonds, or Defective Materials, Workmanship and Equipment Bonds must file with each Bond, a certified and effective dated copy of their power of attorney.

The Bid Bonds of all bidders, except the bonds submitted with the three (3) lowest acceptable bids, will be returned within a fifteen (15) day period following the time of opening of the bids. The Bid Bonds accompanying the three lowest acceptable bids will be returned after the Contract has been awarded to and executed by the successful bidder. Provided the Owner, for any reasons whatsoever, determines that it is not in its best interest to award a Contract, the Contract award will not be made by the Owner and the Owner will not then be liable for any payments whatsoever to the Bidder. Extension of time beyond the ninety (90) day period of the award may be made only by mutual agreement between the Owner, the Bidder, and the Bidder's Surety.

The party to whom the contract is awarded will be required to execute the Agreement within ten (10) calendar days from the date when Notice of Award is delivered to the Bidder. The Notice of Award will be accompanied by the necessary Agreement and contract forms. In case of failure of the Bidder to execute the Agreement, the Owner may, at his option, consider the Bidder in default.

The Owner within ten (10) days of receipt of an acceptable Agreement signed by the party to whom the contract was awarded, will sign the Agreement and return to such party an executed duplicate of the Agreement. Should the Owner not execute the Agreement within such period, the Bidder may, by Written Notice, withdraw his signed Agreement. Such notice of withdrawal shall be effective upon receipt of notice by the Owner.

A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted.

Award will be made by the Owner to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder.

All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over the work shall apply to the Contract throughout.

TIME FOR COMPLETION

Contract No. 2: The successful bidder will be required to fully complete all contract work within one hundred twenty (120) days of award of contract by the Owner.

Contract No. 3: The successful bidder will be required to fully complete all contract work within two hundred (200) days of award of contract by the Owner.

AWARD OF CONTRACT

The award of any contract will be made by the Owner.

Bidders are cautioned that bids that are deemed by the Owner to be obviously unbalanced may be rejected.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any proposal for failure to comply with all requirements of this notice or of any of the Contract Documents; however, it may waive any minor defects or informalities at its discretion.

The Owner further reserves the right to reject all proposals, or to award a contract or contracts which in its judgment is in best interest of the Owner.

NONDISCRIMINATION OF EMPLOYMENT

BIDDERS ON THIS WORK WILL BE REQUIRED TO COMPLY WITH THE PRESIDENT'S EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 11246. THE REQUIREMENTS FOR BIDDERS AND CONTRACTORS UNDER THIS ORDER ARE EXPLAINED IN 41 CFR 60.4.

Notice of Requirement for Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities

Bidders and offerors are cautioned as follows: By signing this bid or offer, the bidder or offeror will be deemed to have signed and agreed to the provisions of the "Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities" in this solicitation. The certification provides that the bidder or offeror does not maintain or provide for his employees facilities which are segregated on a basis of race, creed, color, or national origin, whether such facilities are segregated by directive or on a defacto basis. The certification also provides that he will not maintain such segregated facilities. Failure of a bidder or offeror to agree to the Certification of Nonsegregated facilities will render his bid or offer nonresponsive to the terms of solicitation.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is to secure the foreclosure of all rights of redemption in the following property situate in Election District 14, Garrett County, Maryland, sold by the Collector of Taxes for Garrett County and the State of Maryland to James E. Holland, and whom then assigned all of his right, title, and interest in and to the aforesaid Certificate of Sale for real estate in Garrett County to John M. Pannell and Etta M. Pannell, his wife.

Many Students At GCC Named To Who's Who

Twenty-seven students from Garrett Community College will be honored in the 1995-96 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges as national outstanding campus leaders.

Va. Man Arrested, Charged By MSP With Gun Violation

A Staunton, Va., man was arrested Monday morning and charged with knowingly transporting a handgun in a vehicle, according to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry.

Herbert C. Rockwell Jr., 52, was charged with the offense by Tfc. A.S. MacLane, after the officer stopped his 1980 Ford Pinto for a registration violation. The officer noticed a box of .38 Special ammunition in plain view on the console, according to the report.

A subsequent search of the vehicle revealed a Derringer and a revolver. Both guns were loaded, MacLane said.

Rockwell was transported to the Garrett County Jail where he was held on $500 bond. He was scheduled to be released this morning.

LOST TEEN FOUND

A teenage girl, reported missing Sunday, was found safe several hours after she disappeared.

State police said 16-year-old Tarrah Patrinos, Pittsburgh, went for a walk that afternoon, and when she didn't return, Tfc. E.S. Derham, MSP Trooper 5 helicopter, a K-9 unit, and volunteers from the local fire department responded to initiate a search.

Trooper 6 reportedly located the girl at approximately 9:35 p.m. in a wooded area near Mountainside Drive. Patrinos was transported by helicopter to the Garrett County Airport, where she was released to relatives. She told officials she got lost while walking, and sat on a rock until rescuers arrived.

THREE INJURED

One person was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a two-vehicle accident Saturday morning on Rt. 219, near the Doerr Road.

State police said Shannon D. Ringer, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, was injured when the car he was a passenger in struck a concrete culvert. He has since been released from that facility, according to a hospital spokesperson.

The accident occurred when Daniel M. Seaman, 18, McHenry, who was traveling north in a 1980 Chevrolet Blazer, attempted

MAY RAIN IS A JUNE FISHERMAN'S GAIN - The frequent showers that area residents experienced in May have resulted not only in a flash flood of green foliage to sweep over the county, but have also added a generous helping of life-giving water to our local lakes and streams. Two afternoon anglers, pictured above, decided to try their luck on Broadford Lake yesterday. The fishermen's lines had to be reeled in by dusk, though, because of new, stricter lake rules adopted by the Oakland Town Council two days earlier. The new Broadford policies were enacted as a response to reported illegal activity in the park. (See story.)

State Secretary Of Health Visits Garrett County

In his first official visit to a Maryland county, newly appointed Maryland Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene Martin P. Wasserman traveled to Garrett County this week to meet with the Garrett County Board of Commissioners and the staff of the Garrett County Health Department.

"We have not had a secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene visit Garrett County and meet with the county commissioners and the staff since we moved into this building [in 1983]," remarked Garrett County Health Officer Rex Archer.

Archer and Wasserman have worked together before as members of the Maryland Association of County Health Officers, an organization which Archer now serves as president.

Before his appointment by Governor Parris Glendening to the office of HMH secretary, Wasserman served as health officer for Prince George's and Montgomery counties. Archer commented that these experiences have helped Wasserman to better understand the issues affecting county health departments.

Humane Society Requests Spay, Neuter Funding

In an effort to stem the increasing numbers of unwanted cats and dogs in the county, members of the Garrett County Humane Society (GCHS) recently came before the Garrett County Board of Commissioners to request funding for the GCHS spay/neuter program.

GCHS representative Carol Craver asked the commissioners to designate a $5,000 line item in the county's budget for fiscal year 1996 to pay veterinary fees associated with local spay/neuter clinics.

A total of 1,421 cats and dogs were euthanized at the Garrett County Animal Shelter in 1992, Craver remarked. In 1993, the number increased to 1532, she added.

"In other areas in the country, euthanasia dropped nearly 50 percent after a spay/neuter clinic was started," Craver remarked in interview this week.

According to Bernadine Friend, GCHS executive director, the local humane society has operated a spay/neuter program with private funds since 1982. However, she explained that the problem of unwanted pets has grown too large for the group to handle.

Friend added that the humane society has approached the county board to request funding for the spay-neuter program on four other occasions. Each of these requests was declined, she said.

Currently, the program is funded through donations and fund raising events.

Craver noted that 17 humane society members were present at the recent commissioner meeting.

Board Discusses Glendale Bridge, U-Turn Concern

A construction delay for the new Glendale Bridge and concerns about trucks turning in a church parking lot were discussed by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week.

Construction of a new Glendale Bridge over Deep Creek Lake will not begin until September of 1996, the Commissioners announced during their regular meeting.

Ground-breaking for the bridge's new $3.8 million superstructure, which will be built on the existing stone piers, was scheduled to take place as early as this September. However, necessary redesign and engineering work on the bridge entrances, and the following state approval process and bid procedure, will cause the one-year construction delay, the commissioners explained.

The commissioners voted two-to-one in early February to replace the bridge's upper structure on the existing piers. Commissioner Wayne Wilt had favored a total rebuilding of the bridge, a project which would have cost an estimated $7.5 million.

The new, two-lane bridge superstructure will be similar in appearance to the U.S. Route 219 Bridge over Deep Creek Lake. The construction project will take several months to complete.

On another road issue, Ed DeWitt of the McHenry United Methodist Church came before the commissioners to express his concern about heavy trucks using the church parking lot to make turns between Mosser and Bumble Bee roads.

According to DeWitt, for some time long trucks and school buses have used the parking lot to avoid the sharp U-turn at the intersection of Mosser and Bumble Bee roads.

However, he added that a paving project at the church, completed two years ago, has extended the parking lot over an abandoned septic tank, and he warned that a heavy vehicle might break through the surface of the lot when passing over the old tank.

Wilt suggested that DeWitt bar entrance into the church lot on weekdays with a chain, or place "No Turn-

Show times for this weekend are 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 2 p.m. Sunday.

HIGHLY DECORATED ATHLETE - Jeremy Fitzwater, a 1995 graduate of Southern High School, has received numerous honors during the past few weeks for his outstanding athletic accomplishments during his high school career. He was named Male Athlete of the Year at the recent annual athletic banquet. He was named the Most Valuable Player on the Rams' 1994 football team, as he directed that squad to the regional finals from his quarterback position. He received the Coaches' Award for his outstanding baseball playing, was one of only 20 high school players in the state to make the Maryland Crown High School All-Star Team, and learned this week that he has won the Skip Cook Memorial Award, given to the student athlete voted to be the top baseball player in Garrett, Allegany, Hampshire, and Mineral counties. The son of Bill and Shirley Fitzwater, Jeremy will be playing in the Maryland Crown game at Oriole Park, Camden Yards, prior to the Orioles-Angels game on June 11. Fitzwater was unable to attend the sports banquet, photos from which appear on page A-12.

Two Area Men Arrested For CDS Offenses

Two Kitzmiller men were arrested last Wednesday evening, and charged with various drug offenses, including possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), and possession of CDS paraphernalia, according to a report filed with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Robin Lee Stillwagon, 31, and Rex Alan Guthrie, 24, were arrested after Det. Jeff Murphy reportedly received information that the two would be traveling to Westernport in Stillwagon's vehicle to purchase a quantity of marijuana.

Murphy, Deputy Bittinger, and a K-9 unit reportedly set up an observation post along Rt. 135, near Bloomington, and observed Stillwagon's vehicle traveling toward Westernport. The vehicle returned past the same point later, and the deputy noticed the vehicle displayed a broken tail light and had loud exhaust, according to the report.

The officers initially stopped Stillwagon's vehicle for safety violations, and a subsequent search revealed a small amount of suspected marijuana, and its related paraphernalia. When questioned about the larger amount of CDS, Guthrie told Murphy he had thrown the bags out of the car window when the vehicle was pulled over. A search of the area revealed the suspected marijuana in a ditch, approximately 15 feet from the vehicle, the report read.

Stillwagon was charged with possession of CDS, and possession of CDS paraphernalia, and Guthrie was charged with possession of CDS following the 10 p.m. incident.

Ryscavage Seeks $35,000 For New NHS Classrooms

Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Jerome Ryscavage came before the Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week to request that $35,000 be added to the education board's current budget request to help pay for the construction of a six-classroom addition at Northern High School.

Ryscavage also made a request that the commissioners permit the school board to put the balance of funds not needed in the completion of the Southern High School locker room project toward the cost of the NHS classroom addition.

Earlier this spring, Ryscavage received a low bid of $890,000 for construction of the NHS six-classroom addition, a price tag some $35,000 higher than had been previously expected. The low bidder, Pifalo Contracting, Luke, also offered a bid of $855,000 to construct a five-classroom addition, a total that is within the education board's current capital outlay for the project.

However, even if the commissioners do not grant his request for $35,000 in additional funding, Ryscavage stated that he will still advise the education board to contract for the six-room addition and find the extra funds needed for the project somewhere in the existing budget.

Ryscavage explained that a predicted increase in class size at Northern will make the sixth classroom, a mathematics instruction room, very useful in the near future.

"As you know, the basic bid was for a six-classroom addition," Ryscavage told the commissioners Tuesday in a prepared statement. "The $890,000 low bid will still exceed the funds avail-

Beitzel Honored For Leadership

Wendel Beitzel, administrator of the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., was recently selected to receive the Decision Maker of the Year Award from the Maryland Rural Water Association, a chapter of the National Rural Water Association.

This award is presented each year to a director or executive in recognition of outstanding leadership and management achievements in working with small rural water or waste water systems in Maryland. The Garrett County Board of Commissioners officially delivered the award to Beitzel at a recent meeting.

Dorothy Leuba, chair of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission (GCSC), nominated Beitzel for the award, citing the progress that he has made in improving the water and waste water systems in Garrett County over the past 14 years.

"A major factor in selecting Beitzel for this award was his development and implementation of the universal user rate system," a GCSC spokesperson stated. "This set uniform rates for all users of the district's water and waste water systems. Garrett County is the first county in the state to utilize this method of charging for water and sewer service, and many counties in the state and other parts of the county are attempting to implement this concept."

Oakland Man Cited For Valor

Jeffrey G. Meyers was presented a Certificate of Valor by Col. David Mitchell, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, who noted Meyers "acted without regard for his own safety, and waded through icy water to extricate an accident victim and pull him to safety."

During the early morning hours of Jan. 15, Meyers heard an automobile plunge into Cherry Creek, near his home. When he went out to investigate, he saw a vehicle partially submerged in the creek. The vehicle's intoxicated operator was calling for help, Mitchell said.

Meyers waded approximately 30 feet through chest-high water to reach the victim and pull him to safety.

"The victim may have drowned if Mr. Meyers had hesitated, or awaited arrival of rescue personnel," Mitchell said.

Planning Continues For Chautauqua Program Set For July 5-8 At GCC

A country fair atmosphere will prevail at the "Democracy in America Traveling Chautauqua" scheduled for Garrett Community College July 5-8, according to Terry Norris, chairperson of the coordinating committee.

Norris is currently seeking local cr. ft persons and artists who would like to have booths on campus those evenings to sell their work. He is also interested in hearing from community organizations who would like to have food booths. Interested persons should contact Norris at 387-3043. A $25 fee will be charged for each booth.

During those four evenings, 19th century characters will come to life under a large tent on the GCC campus. Each evening performance will begin at 8 p.m. with local artists performing for the first half-hour, and the Chautauquans for the remainder of the evening.

Wednesday's program will feature folk music by Tom and Sue Peterson, followed by Alexis de Tosqueville, 19th century traveler who first chronicled American democracy. On Thursday, the local dulcimer group Hammers & Strings ensemble will perform, followed by Maria Stewart, pioneer black abolitionist, and Domingo Sarmiento, Argentinean observer of American democracy.

Friday's program will begin with GCC Pipes and Drums followed by author Harriet Beecher Stowe and women's activist Frances Wright. On Saturday, magician Ben Sincell will perform, followed by P.T. Barnum and Horace Greeley.

The "Democracy in America" Traveling Chautauqua is presented by the Maryland Humanities Council and made possible by The Inland Empire Educational Foundation Humanities Coalition through a major grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Additional support has been provided by the following local sponsors: Garrett County Arts Council; Maryland State Arts Council; Frostburg State University, Frostburg; Garrett Community College, McHenry; Bausch & Lomb, Inc., Oakland; Book Mark'et, Oakland; Devlin, Inc., Oakland; and Peters Fuel Corporation, Grantsville.

Fire Damages House Saturday

A fire of unknown origin caused an estimated $5,000 damage to a newly constructed house along Boiling Springs Road near Deer Park Saturday afternoon.

The one-story frame residence of Kenny Collins, who is an officer on the Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department, sustained fire damage in the attic and considerable smoke damage throughout after fire was discovered at 12:21 p.m. Responding to the scene were units from the Deer Park and Oakland fire departments, the air cascade vehicle presently being housed at Terra Alta, and the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

The fire was brought under control in about 15 minutes. Firemen remained on the scene until about 2 p.m.

The cause of the fire was accidental and believed to be related to the furnace; however, a final determination had not been reported by presstime.

Two Injured In Separate Water Mishaps

Two people were injured in recent water-related activities, according to Department of Natural Resources officials.

The first accident occurred May 28 on the Youghiogheny River, near Friendsville. DNR officials said Marlene Guth, 28, Kettering, Ohio, sustained a head injury when she fell from a raft, owned by Whitewater Classics, at the Heinzerling Rapid. She was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by Maryland State Police Medevac Helicopter, where she was reportedly treated and released.

Volunteers from the Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department, and Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded to the scene.

A Clairton, Pa., man was injured early Friday afternoon when his boat ran ashore on Deep Creek Lake.

Patrick Bredel, 44, lacerated his forehead in the 12:30 p.m. accident near the Point View Inn. He was treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospitalk.

Natural Resources Police officials said Bredel was operating a 1995, 19-foot Fair Winds craft south on the lake toward Stump Point, when he momentarily turned away from the wheel. The boat beached before he could recover.

Bredel's wife was a passenger in the boat, but she was reportedly uninujured.

No charges were filed by the NRP. Also responding to the incident were rescue personnel from Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, and the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Department.

Council Votes To Tighten Rules At Broadford Lake

In an effort to lessen vandalism and deter other possible crimes at the recreational Broadford Lake Park, the town council of Oakland voted Monday to tighten the rules of the area and to enforce them with the help of area law agencies. Several incidents of vandalism, theft, and other illegal activity led to the discussion and action at the regular council meeting.

The park will now have strict closing hours, according to a newly adopted ordinance, as well as new fishing regulations. The Broadford Road entrance will no longer be opened to the public; visitors are now required to enter at the Pittsburgh Avenue gate. The park will close one hour after sunset - dusk - at which time the park gates will be locked.

Fishing will be allowed from 7 a.m. until dusk, and each participant must have a fishing permit, obtainable at the Oakland Municipal Building. Fishing is allowed from March 1 through November 30.

The ordinance also states that all users of the park ball fields are responsible for locking the gates at the conclusion of their activities. These persons must also enter the park at the Pittsburgh Avenue gate. The teams and leagues that use the park will be expected to be certain the gates are locked. If they fail to do so, the town council will have the right to ban the responsible leagues from the park, according to the ordinance.

Nicole Halmos To Play With WMS In Season Finale

The Western Maryland Symphony's final concert of its inaugural season will be held June 18 on the Allegany Community College Quadrangle. A special guest for the evening's event will be Cumberland native Nicole Halmos, an accomplished singer/actor who recently toured with Marie Osmond in The Sound of Music and also had the unusual opportunity to portray Hamlet in a small theatre on New York City's East Side.

With Jon Bauman conducting the WMS, which will be accompanied by a local chorus, Halmos will sing numbers from Rogers and Hammerstein's musical Carousel: June is Bustin' Out All Over, What's the Use of Wondering, and You'll Never Walk Alone.

Halmos performed in Cumberland last year as Aldonza in Man of La Mancha and Kate in Love, Sex, and the I.R.S. In New York this spring, she was involved in a production of an opera theatre piece titled Young Goodman Brown.

The concert will be a "promenade concert" during which patrons may purchase food and beverages prepared by local caterers and then stroll along the grounds of the quadrangle as the music is performed. Food service will begin at 5 p.m., with the concert set to open at 6:30 p.m. In addition to Halmos's selections, the orchestra will play music of Handel, Bizet, Strauss, Dvorak, and Kalman.

Tickets for the event are available at the following local sites: Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville, and The Book Mark'et, Oakland. Patrons are encouraged to bring chairs or blankets for their own comfort. In case of rain, the event will be held in the ACC gymnasium.

Food For Thought

by Chef Francesco Pisano
McClive's Restaurant

Brush big shrimp with soy sauce, grated gingerroot and sesame oil and let stand awhile. Grill on skewers or a perforated rack.

Some vegetables take longer to cook than others. Smart move: place different vegetables on separate skewers and time the grilling so they're all ready at once.

Never, never put grilled meat or fish on the same plate that held it raw. There's a real danger of food poisoning. The easy alternative: line the plate with foil before you bring the food out to the grill. Crumple and discard the foil before you serve.

Beware the fat and calories hidden in today's fancy coffee drinks. A large cappuccino can have as much as 200 calories and 8 grams of fat if it's made with 2 percent milk. Skim milk eases the caloric "cost".

There's nothing ordinary about packaged pasta sauce once you've doctored it up with some heavy cream (use 1 cup per 28-ounce jar), liquid hot pepper sauce to taste and a splash of vodka.

There's nothing ordinary about our famous shrimp & garlic linguine. Come discover why everyone loves it!

Hawkins Quartet To Serenade GLAF "Red Hot Affair"

The John Hawkins Quintet will provide music for "A Red Hot Affair," the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival benefit dinner and auction, slated for Saturday, June 24, at Wisp's McHenry House. The affair is to begin at 6 p.m.

Dr. John Hawkins, professor of music at Potomac State College, will perform and direct a program of varied popular music styles with his group. Singers include Fred Riley, Mark Riley, Richard Frush, and Jon Bush. All are musicians currently performing with the Potomac State College concert and jazz bands and the Fred Shannon Smith Orchestra.

The annual benefit, which supports GLAF's performing arts program, will feature a dinner buffet followed by an evening of dancing, entertainment, and live and silent auctions. Roger Ware will serve as the auctioneer at this year's event.

Hawkins's jazz quartet and quintet performances as well as his classical music recitals have drawn critical acclaim. He is the composer of the score for McNeill's Rangers, a musical performed during the summer season at Larenim Park, Burlington, W.Va. He has served as musical director of several theatre productions during his career. His current interest in electronic music has led to the receipt of commissions for musical soundtracks for theatre and solo performances, most recently a request to sequence and perform the sound for the Garrett Choral Society's GLAF production of The Wizard of Oz.

For reservations or more information about the gala benefit, persons may call 387-6371 or 387-5018.

"As we see it," Craver commented, "spay/neuter programs can only reduce euthanasia costs, reduce danger from rabies because there won't be so many animals reproducing, reduce damage done by feral dogs, reduce suffering of unwanted and abandoned animals, [and] reduce the number of domestic pets killed on the highway for someone to clean up."

Craver also expressed her belief that a spay/neuter program would reduce the number of dog and cat bites since, she stated, "Neutered animals are less likely to bite, less likely to roam and get into trash, [and] less likely to fight."

Craver noted that offering incentives to pet owners may be an effective way of promoting the spay/neuter program.

"It may be possible to offer free dog licenses for the first year after an animal is sterilized," she explained.

Craver also suggested that the license fee for an un-altered dog be set at double the fee for licensing a sterilized dog.

"In this way, the cost of sterilization of a small dog pays for itself in three years," Craver commented. "In many areas, public clinics have become self-supporting due to fees paid by pet owners. Even if additional funds are required, [the commissioners'] costs for euthanasia will go down."

Annual Highland Fest Deemed "Great Success"

The 8th Annual Mc-Henry Highland Festival, held Saturday at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry, was deemed a "great success" with over 1,800 attendees sharing in a full day of entertainment and activities.

Over 20 Scottish Clan and Celtic societies from throughout the eastern U.S. participated, as well as a wide array of entertainers, pipe bands, Celtic and Scottish vendors, and local food concessions.

Amateur solo piping competitions sanctioned by the Eastern United States Pipe Band were held, and the Piper of the Day was Debbie Willis of Greensburg, Pa., who has won this honor for the fifth year. The seven Scottish Athletic Competitions were also held, and Athlete of the Day was John Paul Wright of Broad Run, Va. Winners of other events were:

Kilted Mile Race - 1st place Women - Florence Grant (Clan Grant); 1st place Youth - Donald McClelland (Clan MacClellan); Men - 1st place - John Haycock (Clan MacGregor); 2nd place Jeff Middleton (Clan Middleton); and 3rd place - Jim Miller (Clan Johnston/e).

Ladies Haggis Hurl - 1st place - Nancy Ann McKenzie (Clan McKenzie); 2nd place - Amy Savage (Clan Davidson); and 3rd place - Jenny Kitchin (Clan Kitchin).

The festival was sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council and Bell Atlantic Maryland and funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council, Maryland State Arts Council. The Saturday evening ceilidh at the Will O' the Wisp was co-hosted by the Wisp Golf & Ski Resort and the Festival Committee, and Sunday morning's Kirkin' O' the Tartans was hosted by St. John's Episcopal Church in Deer Park.

GCC GRADS HEAR BAMBACUS - John Bambacus, former state senator and current mayor of Frostburg, was the speaker for the recent commencement at Garrett Community College, at which 70 GCC students were awarded degrees or certificates. Bambacus challenged the graduates to "accept the responsibilities inherent in a democratic form of government." He said, "A democratic society is not a perpetual motion machine. Democracy did not come easy. The challenges to be met require effort on the part of everyone. It will take patience and hard work." Bambacus, who is also a professor of political science at Frostburg State University, focused on the significance of the community college in American education, pointing out that public education is a most important part of a democracy and that 54% of Maryland residents who attend college are enrolled in community colleges. He commended GCC's vision in developing the "communiversity" concept that he believes will enable the college to become the "hub of the information network" in the community. "Take what you have learned here and give something back. The vitality of our democracy depends on it," he concluded. Bambacus is pictured above left being welcomed by GCC President Dr. Steve Herman. Talent Abounds...

Many aspects and advantages of life in Garrett County are so often taken for granted, particularly by those of us who have lived here our entire lives. Among them is the incredible amount of talent we have right here in our midst, a current demonstration of which is the production of the Wizard of Oz by the Garrett Choral Society. The show had three sell-out crowds last weekend and all three performances slated for this coming weekend are sold out.

The cast of that production includes dozens of young people, many of whom have never set foot on a stage before, but who have worked extremely hard and have produced a truly outstanding, professional show. Our hats are off to Nancy Learey, director; Ben Sincell, technical director; Dr. John Hawkins, accompanist; Dave Cartwright, make-up consultant; Brenda Brosnihan, choreographer; the entire cast and crew, and scores of other individuals who have worked so hard to share their talents for the enjoyment of so many.

Another great assembly of talent which is the result of more hard work will take place this Saturday, also at Garrett Community College, as the second Enjoy Yesteryear Heritage Festival begins at 9:30 a.m. Scores of artists, craftspersons, and local experts in a wide variety of media will be sharing their wares, talents, and information throughout the day. There will be demonstrations, seminars, exhibits, workshops, and presentations for persons of all ages and interests, all of which recognize and celebrate our rich history and heritage.

The members of the Civic Club of Oakland, another group of local intelligent, talented ladies, have pulled out all the stops to make the event both enjoyable and informative. It will also include bus tours on Sunday, and local restaurants are participating by serving old fashioned boarding house meals throughout the weekend.

Just as maximum crowds have turned out for the Oz performances, we hope there is a similar response to the Enjoy Yesteryear celebration.

It has always been our theory that every rural community is blessed with many talented individuals. For some reason, though, not every community has the leaders, teachers, and the various directors to help those people discover and develop those talents. We're certainly glad that Garrett County does have such an asset.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In a recent issue of The Republican there was a letter concerning the slaughter of some dogs in Grant County, W.Va. The writer stated she could not believe the Garrett County Humane Society members were siding with the owner of the dogs. The members of the Humane Society are not siding with anyone but the animals. To torture and kill an innocent animal is, in my opinion, sadistic. Regardless of the problem, these animals should have been euthanized humanely. If there was a problem, the owners should have been taken to court and if found guilty of not caring for her animals, go from there. Imagine the torture and suffering those animals went through plus the traumatic experience the children endured.

I believe it is about time someone starts a Humane Society in Grant County and their animal laws are improved.

Bernadine Friend
Executive Director
Garrett County Humane Society, Inc.

To the Editor:

It was a pleasure to have had the opportunity to be a part of the recent Success Awards presentation at Southern Middle School. It is a testimonial to the teachers especially and our school system as a whole that so many students have been inspired to "be all that they can be" as School Board President Rodney Durst put it. We are most of all proud that our daughter, Julia, was one of the middle school students from throughout Garrett County to receive recognition for her achievements.

Finally, thank you Dave Thomas and the Metikki Corporation for sponsoring the awards. The event was wonderful and the plaques each student received are handsome. The self esteem of students and teachers alike has been raised and the entire county will ultimately benefit.

There are a lot of good things happening in Garrett County schools.

Sincerely,
Jerry and Nancy Geisler

To the Editor:

Thanks to John W. McLaughlin for his accurate school education article.

The U.S. Supreme Court banned prayer in public schools in 1962, banned the Bible in 1963, banned the Ten Commandments in 1980, and banned God in 1987. All public schools are now legally atheistic; therefore the fact of creation has been replaced by the theory of evolution. Responsibility for this situation is to all who cast liberal money votes in past years over moral conservative ones. The results of their folly are self-evident. The cure is very simple. Replace the present 3 R's of rape, rebellion, riches with remorse, repentance and regeneration.

"And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind." Rev. 1:28. "Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools." Rom. 1:22.

GOBA had its most successful fund-raiser ever on May 24th with the Roberts Brothers Circus. This could not have been done without the many volunteers and local supportive businesses. Monies raised by GOBA are returned to the area through various projects and advertising of the greater Oakland area.

With circus posters still up throughout the town, businesses and any willing volunteers are asked to remove the ones they see.

To the Editor:

I would like to bring to your attention two mistakes you made when setting my letter for publication last week in your "Letters to the Editor" column.

The first occurs in the second paragraph, the fourth sentence, the thirty-fourth word. The word should read instilling rather than installing. The second, which by its use in the plural changes the entire tone of my summation, occurs in the ninth paragraph, the fifth sentence, and the twenty-first word. That word should read society, not societies. As the tone of the entire letter, and especially the context of that particular sentence should indicate, I believe in one American society (singular), not a collection of societies. I am assuming that these mistakes were entirely inadvertent.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely,
John W. McLaughlin
Swanton

Dear Mr. McLaughlin,

Your assumption is correct. Sorry for the errors and thanks for the corrections.

Editor

To the Editor:

In response to Mr. McLaughlin's letter in last week's paper, I'd like to correct his assumption that the trend in education is away from local control and toward centralized control. In the last few years the opposite is the case in Maryland and many other states. That is the point, as I understand it, of outcome-based education: that each school is accountable for the student progress it produces, as measured by student testing. Each school handles its own budget now, with input from the principal, parents, and teachers (the School Improvement Teams, or S.I.T.'s). Everyone whom I've met who is working with outcome-based education is very excited and pleased to have this kind of local input and control.

As I'm sure most people realize, the articles he objects to, published by the NEA and Education Update, are in some cases written in response to pressure from extreme right-wing political groups. Some of these groups call themselves "Christian" in order to gain a broad base of support. Actually, however, these radical right-wing groups do not follow Jesus' example of being loving, tolerant, humble, and inclusive. Some of these groups seek to dismantle public education altogether, rather than working to improve it, which would benefit only the rich.

As for your fears about student cooperation, this method has been working very well in my children's classrooms. They work together in groups on projects, and, in the process, learn important skills about getting along with other people, which I'm sure will be useful to them in their future workplaces. They seem to absorb and retain the content of the lessons more completely using this group approach.

If there is a chance for peace in this world, it will come about through tolerance and cooperation. If the schools are teaching these as, "values and morals," instead of exclusion and competitiveness, I think that's a step in the right direction.

And if the schools are encouraged not to include religious content in their lessons, it is to allow parents, rather than the government, to control their child's religious life. Religious tolerance is a cornerstone of American history and American values, Mr. McLaughlin. That is why we have a separation of church and state.

Sincerely,
S. Thayer Haydel

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Delegate George Edwards requested that it appear in this column.

Delegate Edwards:

Recently, a scandal in county government was brought to the attention of the citizens of Garrett County by virtue of a lawsuit filed by concerned citizen John Hinebaugh. The suit alleges improprieties pertaining to the purchase of county roads equipment by county administrator Robert Fousek, who acting as roads administrator, oversaw the purchase of roads equipment in a manner that was most likely flagrant violation of the existing bid laws.

You overlooked the opportunity to represent the interests of the citizens of Garrett County by helping to investigate this matter and to assist in seeing that it is not repeated. Instead, you took the low road by sponsoring legislation that is no more than a pardon for what may have been criminal conduct. You have betrayed the trust and confidence of the citizens, voters, and taxpayers of Garrett County.

Hopefully, the voters will remember this on election day and install into the office of delegate an individual of greater in-tegrity.

An Update From The Superintendent

By
Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent
Of Garrett County Public Schools

Of course, with students off for the summer only a skeleton crew remains at schools. In the larger schools (i.e., high schools, middle schools, Broad Ford, and Dennett Road) the principal and one secretary share manning the school office over the entire summer. They are there to respond to student, parent, and school business concerns which can develop at any time.

In the smaller schools, principals schedule themselves on a periodic basis - it is best to contact the central office to determine when principals of smaller schools might be scheduled. At the central office we are open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day of the week during the summer - these hours, by the way, are the same as the larger schools.

There are at least four primary functions which the central office is involved with during the summer months. They include staff and curriculum development work, budget and finance work, personnel work, and maintenance work.

This summer, if sufficient funds are available, we will be conducting a number of staff development workshops in things like math/science technology, performance task writing, handwriting/spelling, school improvement team training, etc. Each of these workshops will involve groups of teachers ranging from two to 20 working anywhere from one to five days in duration extending from June 12 to August 18.

In addition, I want to note the School-Community Centers Program, which is our recreational program, is offered at various locations throughout the county - namely, Center Street, Grantsville Park, Kitzmiller, Finzel Park, Northern High School, Broad Ford, and Southern High School.

This coming year (i.e., 1995-96) our school board budget will total approximately $30 million. This past year the budget totaled approximately $29 million. These funds are budgeted from over twenty different program sources. Consequently, a great deal of time, and care, have to be spent in properly expending as well as accounting for these funds. Since the summer is the period of time when we make a major portion of the non-salary/wage expenditures for the ensuing school year, this kind of activity keeps us very busy. This does not include the great amount and variety of expenditures made during the summer for our food service program. This coming year, for instance, we are budgeted to expend over a half million dollars for supplies and materials involved in the school breakfast and lunch programs.

As far as personnel work is concerned, we typically hire about 25 to 30 new staff during the summer as a result of resignations, retirements, or new hires. This process involves a relatively lengthy screening-interviewing-hiring process which takes the involvement of a considerable number of people at both the school and central office levels. Perhaps just as time-consuming to do as hire 25-30 new staff is to also transfer as many as 25-30 staff as a result of various other factors.

The last primary function of our summer work is probably the most involved both from its varied scope as well as its depth of operation. Here we band together our regular six-man maintenance staff with approximately 25 to 30 custodians to do anything from electrical, plumbing, roofing, carpentry, or painting work. This summer, for instance, we will be replacing portions of roofs at Northern High, Dennett Road, Bloomington schools. Our maintenance crew is probably one of the "best kept secrets" in the school system since it can do so many different things.

As you can see, the summer will be a busy one for the 12-month Board of Education staff, even though students are enjoying the summer vacation period.

THE WILSON FAMILY REUNION

In 1745 the Scots rose in support of Charles Edward Stuart-- Bonnie Prince Charlie -- who Claimed the crowns of England and Scotland. I should say "some Scots" did because, as in most things Scottish, there were at least two opinions. George II, who could barely speak English let alone Gaelic, loosed the military might of England against the Scots, and ended the Stuart's pretensions to his throne.

After the war came repression. The government in London wanted to make sure the Scots had energy enough to eat and take shelter and little else. Hard times made Scots consider their alternatives and in the following generation many of them came to the British North American colonies.

Among the emigrants was one Archibald Wilson, reputedly a Presbyterian minister though no one in recent times has been able to verify that. He settled in the district now known as Pylesville, Harford County, Maryland, and began a farm called "Wilson's Chance" which until just a few years ago remained in hands of his descendants.

The family of this Archibald gathered recently to celebrate our lineage and our long association with this area, and to reacquaint ourselves with one another. For the first century and a half after Archibald's emigration whatever get-up-and--go the Wilsons had was spent on coming here.

Even into my childhood all one had to do to see much of the family was to attend church on Sunday morning. The men, dairy farmers nearly to a man, might doze, but they were there. The elders of the church session were the patriarchs of the old families cousins and uncles or, at a minimum, connections.

Earlier this century some of the Wilson boys decided not to be farmers and some of the Wilson girls did not marry farmers. The wanderlust reappeared, and scions of the family went west. From Charleston, West Virginia and Peoria, Illinois and Kansas City, Missouri and Shreveport, Louisiana and Billings, Montana and other points west the family returned to reunite with those of us who if we went anywhere else did not see anyplace we liked better than home.

There were other, unplanned gatherings at various homes, showing hospitality to the out-of-town cousins, and taking the time for those long, leisurely chats which planned events rarely permit. The message shared among us was simple: this is still home, and we are still family.

It is not easy to explain how we have remained true to our traditions against the destructive forces of our society. I think that Bible reading and church attendance -- not so much today, sad to says as in earlier times -- inculcated a deep commitment to a few basic principles of Biblical society. God calls a people and not individuals. God gives a promise to the people (not makes a promise but gives it) for the promise is not just between God and the people rather also is the glue which binds the people together Every promise needs a place for fulfillment.

No one ever iterated the principles quite like this, but they were inherent in all the Biblical stories which were rehearsed and explained week by week. It was the sort of the thing that could be soaked up even while dozing. In other Words, all those "begats" which we joked about, signified something. And the Wilson family gives expression to the significance.

By Tuesday the last of the out-of-towners was driven to the airport. The locals had returned to their routines. Going our several ways we were, nevertheless, stuck together more and better than we had been only a few days before. The circle is sometimes broken, but it is mended again.

Employees' Suggestions Reduce Hospital Expenditures By $32,000

As a result of Garrett County Memorial Hospital's "Wipe Out Waste" program, three hospital employees' cost-saving suggestions will reduce Garrett Memorial's operating costs by $32,000 per year.

As recommended by outpatient care nurse, Ginger Massey, RN, medication record duplicate copies, used by the outpatient care unit, have been reduced from five copies to just one, saving Garrett Memorial over $2,500 per year.

Mary Dawson, radiology department clerk, has also saved Garrett Memorial an additional $2,500 per year. Radiology films and computer disks, normally transmitted to Cumberland by phone, are now being transmitted using a toll-free exchange rather than incurring long-distance charges for each transmission made.

Arthur Taylor's recommendation to clean and rebalance the heat wheel in one of the hospital's air handlers will allow the heating and ventilation system to operate more efficiently, resulting in a savings of $27,000 per year.

"Our employees are one of the best resources we have for determining new and effective ways to reduce costs," commented Donald Battista, vice president of operations at Garrett Memorial. "Through daily interaction and involvement within their respective departments, many of our employees have come up with innovative ideas that have assisted us in reducing our costs, while operating more efficiently. Our Wipe Out Waste award winners are to be commended for their efforts."

Two Arrested

driving on a revoked license, following his arrest on May 25 by Deputy Clark H. Warnick.

According to Warnick's report, he observed a vehicle, operated by James Lee Nicholas, 30, Oakland, pulled to the side of the road along Rt. 135. Upon closer inspection, the deputy reportedly noticed a strong odor of alcohol coming from inside the vehicle. A routine check through the Motor Vehicles Administration revealed Nicholas was driving on a revoked driver's license, according to the report.

Barbara Lynn Butler, 33, Oakland, was arrested May 26 and charged with DWI and leaving the scene of an accident.

Deputy Warnick was dispatched to the scene of a reported one-vehicle mishap in Loch Lynn, and arrived to find the driver had left the scene. He later found Butler at a nearby residence, and arrested her on the above charges, according to his report.

DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY REPORTED

Several destruction of property reports were filed with the sheriff's office during the past week.

Montea Lynn Blue, Oakland, reported unknown persons drove through her flower bed, and struck a nearby brick pillar, causing extensive damage to both. A witness to the incident reportedly saw a Ford pickup truck run through the flower bed, strike the pillar, and then drive away. An investigation is continuing into the June 2 incident.

Several mailboxes in the Swanton area were reportedly destroyed sometime during the night on June 2. According to the police report, Donna S. Bittinger, Ruth V. Wilt, and Tim G. Foster all reported damage to their mailboxes, resulting in a total of $100 in damage.

Foster, a substitute teacher at Southern High School, told police he had substituted there that day, and had a problem with a student who was striking a baseball bat on a desk. Foster said he asked the student to stop, and when he didn't, the educator took the bat away. He later returned the bat to the student, according to his statement. Police indicated the damage to the mailboxes was possibly caused by a club or a bat, according to the report. An investigation is continuing.

ROBBERY REPORTED

An Oakland woman told the sheriff's office she was robbed by unknown assailants Sunday afternoon, while she was walking to her home near Overlook Drive, Oakland.

Patricia K. Schrock told police that two men dressed in dark clothing jumped out from behind a bush and robbed her of $150 in cash. Schrock described the men as white males, both approximately 6'2", 20 years old, 140 pounds, with long black hair and beards. Both men, according to Schrock, were dressed in black T-shirts and black pants. One man reportedly had his hair pulled back in a ponytail, and had a picture of a snake on the back of his shirt.

An investigation of the crime scene revealed no clues, and no suspects, according to the report.

WARRANTS ISSUED

A warrant was issued May 30 for the arrest of Matt Storey, 37, on a disturbing the peace charge. Teresa Friend, the complainant, alleged the defendant played his radio loudly, and began cursing her after she called the police.

Shirley Wagner, 35, Frederick County, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant on May 31. She was charged with failure to appear on a disturbing the peace charge. according to the report.

Two bench warrants were served, June 1, for the arrest of Johnny Jason Thomas, 34, Deer Park, on charges of violation of probation, for failing to continue court-ordered counseling.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Charles Lee Paugh, 38, Mountain Lake Park, on May 23, concerning a hit-and-run incident.

David Edwin Liller, 33, Corinth, W.Va., was arrested on the strength of a warrant on May 31, for a motor vehicle theft charge.

Stephen Kenneth Fonzi, 41, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested May 25 on the strength of three warrants. He has been charged with forgery and uttering false documents on three separate occasions. Fonzi allegedly forged the amounts on three Social Security checks and cashed them at area grocery stores, according to the report.

A bench warrant was served, May 22, to David Richard Armstrong, 22, Swanton, for failure to appear at a Garrett County Circuit Court hearing.

Crawford Speaks To New England Law Graduates

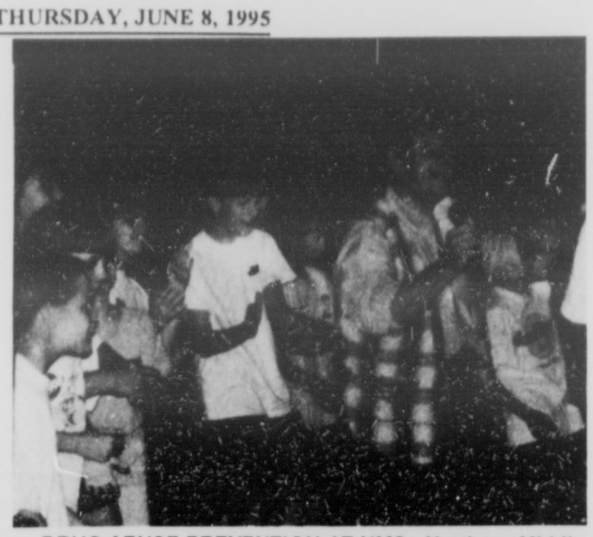
Susan Crawford, judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces, and part-time resident of Garrett County, recently delivered the commencement address to the 84th graduating class of New England School of Law in Boston and received an honorary doctor of laws degree.

In her message to the 300 graduates, Judge Crawford emphasized the need for greater civility in the legal profession in order to restore public confidence in the profession. "You begin your careers with blank slates that will quickly be filled in by others," she said, "your peers, your superiors, your clients, and the judges before whom you will appear. While your analytical skills will be important to your future success, of equal importance will be your integrity."

For Crawford and her husband Roger Higgins the event marked a return to the alma mater from which they graduated together. Crawford is the first graduate of the institution to become a member of the Federal Judiciary and is currently serving on its Board of Trustees. She practiced law in Garrett County for several years following her graduation.

Before being named to the Court of Appeals, she had served as general counsel of the U.S. Army, general counsel of the Defense Department, and special counsel to Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney.

The New England School of Law ceremony marked the fourth commencement address Crawford had given. Previously, she had been commencement speaker at Garrett Community College, Frostburg State University, and her undergraduate alma mater Bucknell University. She is the daughter of Bill and Joan Crawford, Deep Creek Lake.



DRUG ABUSE PREVENTION AT NMS - Northern Middle School students recently attended two presentations which emphasized making positive decisions and living healthily and drug free. "Motivational musician" Lauren Stalnecker recently brought his "Yes to Life" tour to the school. Sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department and Food Lion, Stalnecker, pictured above with local students, presented an interactive concert focusing on positive self-image, stopping violence, and avoiding substance abuse. Julie Herber of Theatricks acting company also performed a one-woman show at the school in which she portrayed four different characters, including the one pictured below. Herber's show addressed such social issues as cultural differences, problems at home, and loss of a loved one. Her show was one in a series organized by Young Audiences of Maryland, a non-profit arts education group. The event was sponsored locally by the Northern Middle School Student Council, under the coordination of Doris Cooper, and funded by a mini-grant from the Garrett County Health Department's prevention program.

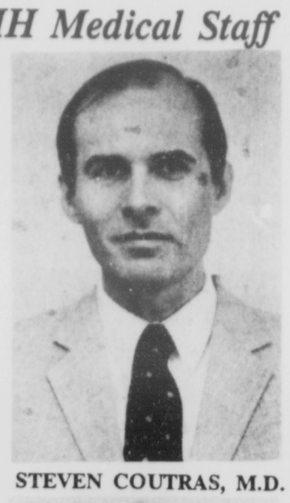
ASHOK VENKAT, M.D.



STEVEN COUTRAS, M.D.

DODD LEVY, M.D.

As part of a continuing efforts to expand the medical services available to area residents, Garrett County Memorial Hospital announces the addition of three new physicians to its medical staff.

Steven Coutras, M.D., provides services in Oakland at the GW Plaza located off Route 135. As an ear, nose and throat, head and neck surgeon, Dr. Coutras deals with problems pertaining to hearing, dizziness, nasal allergies, tonsillitis, head and neck cancer, disorders of the sinuses and nasal passages as well as facial plastic surgery. He is providing surgical services at Garrett Memorial.

Board certified in otolaryngology, Dr. Coutras is a graduate of the Georgetown School of Medicine and completed his internship and residency at the Portsmouth Naval Hospital in Portsmouth, Va. He was active in the United States Navy for 10 years where he served as the medical officer on the U.S.S. Sylvania from 1982-1983 and on the island of Guam from 1987-1990 before entering private practice.

Dr. Coutras's Oakland office is open Wednesday afternoons from 1:30 to 4:30 pm. Appointments can be made by calling (301) 722-0954.

Foot specialists Dodd Levy, D.P.M., and Ashok Venkat, D.P.M., have expanded their Allegany Foot Centers' Cumberland office to Oakland where they provide medical and surgical treatments for disorders of the foot, otherwise known as podiatry, a service not previously available at Garrett Memorial. Dr. Levy and Dr. Venkat perform major foot surgeries at Garrett Memorial.

Dr. Levy is a graduate of the William Scholl College of Podiatric Medicine in Chicago. He then went on to complete residency training at the James A. Haley Medical Center in Tampa, Fla. Prior to taking over the Allegany Foot Centers' Cumberland office in 1992, Dr. Levy practiced as an associate at the Norridge Foot Clinic in Chicago and then went into practice with West Hollywood Podiatry Associates in Los Angeles.

Dr. Ashok Venkat, who practices along with Dr. Levy at Allegany Foot Centers' Oakland office, is a graduate of the College of Podiatric Medicine and Health Science in Des Moines, Iowa. He completed his residency training at Kensington Hospital in Philadelphia and Riverside Hospital in Wilmington, Del. He has been in practice with Allegany Foot Centers since 1994.

The Allegany Foot Centers Oakland office is located along Memorial Drive. Office hours are: Monday and Wednesday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Tuesday, open at 1 p.m.; and Thursday, 1 to 5 p.m. Appointments can be made by calling 334-5680 or 800-224-0259.

"With the addition of Dr. Levy, Dr. Venkat and Dr. Coutras, area residents can obtain specialized foot care as well as ear, nose, and throat, head and neck services without the inconvenience and expense of having to travel outside of the local area," commented Benjamin Rosenthal, president of Garrett Memorial. "We're pleased to have these physicians as part of the medical staff team at Garrett Memorial."

Glimpse of The Past . . .

PAVING PROJECTS on local roadways will undoubtedly get underway soon, a procedure that is considerably more refined than in was in 1914 when Main Street in Accident was paved. This particular project was not completed until 1915. The town had few sidewalks at the time, and those that did exist were made of wood or stone. Buildings on the left include the Philip Smith house, the Goehringer Blacksmith Shop, the Adam Goehringer house, and the J.L. Englehart Store. Those on the right include Ries Saloon and Hotel, the Englehart Funeral Home, the G.W. Englehart house, the Zinkan house, a general store (now Matthew's), the Richard Fairall house, and the Zion Lutheran Church. The REST of Your Life

"There is no music in a rest" but there is the making of music in it. In our whole life-melody the music is broken off here and there by rests and we foolishly think we have come to the end of the theme. God sends a time of forced leisure, sickness, disappointed plans, frustrated efforts, and makes a sudden pause in the choral hymn of our lives; and we lament that our voices must be silent, and our part missing in the music which ever goes up to the ear of the Creator. How does the musician read the rest? See him beat the time with unvarying count, and catch up the next note true and steady, as if no breaking place had come between.

Not without design does God write the music of our lives. Be it ours to learn the tune, and not to be dismayed at the rests. They are not to be slurred over, not to be omitted, not to destroy the melody, not to change the keynote. If we look up, God Himself will beat the time for us. With the eye on Him, we shall strike the next note full and clear. If we sadly say to ourselves, there is no music in a rest, let us not forget there is the making of music in it. The making of music is often a slow and painful process in this life. How patiently God works to teach. How long He waits for us to learn the lesson.

Area Speedway Review

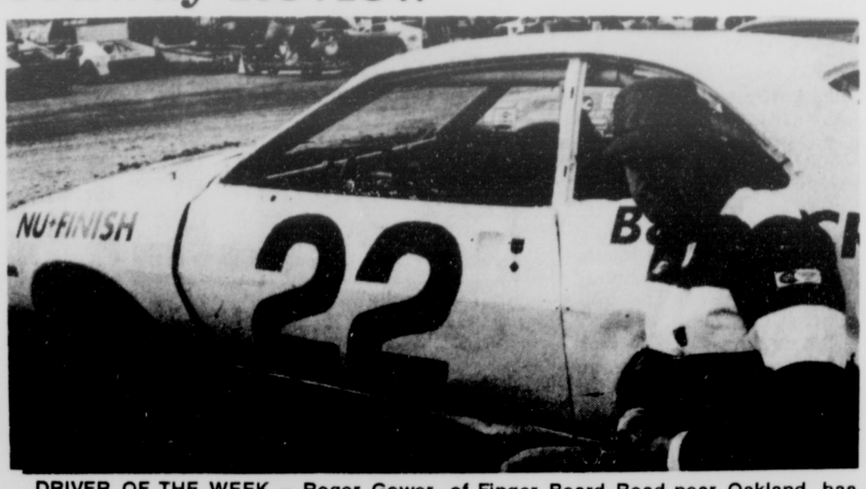
Somerset County Speedway

Sunday night racing returned to the Somerset County Speedway in Meyersdale after another Friday night rainout. Sixty five cars vied for the checkered flag as seven heats and four features filled the card.

Heat winners in the Street Stock division included Vince Smith, John Valentine, Bob Davis, Don Shaffer, and Jim Sayler. The Pro Stock heats went to Quint Milburn and J.R. Isner.

Robert Porter of Berlin was able to pick up his first checkered flag of the season when he led the way to victory in the "C" Main. He was followed by Kirk Smith, Roger McKenzie, L.C. Powers, Nelson Bailey, Doug Kimmel, Marvin Hosselrode, Dennis Sell, Dan Delancy, and Rick Brown.

The "B" Main also had a new face in the winners circle when Duane Horning of Meyersdale took the lead in the fifth lap and never looked back. Horning has had trouble getting it together this year so this was an especially sweet victory. He was followed by Bob Singo, Brad Reckner, Terry Mitchell, Don Bittinger, Clair Duppstadt, Dave Greer, Greg Cornell Sr., Carl Arnold, Eric Stayrook, Joe Fullerton, Dale Wilt, Bill Nolf, Denny Rounds, and Mike Jones.



DRIVER OF THE WEEK -- Roger Gower, of Finger Board Road near Oakland, has been racing four years at Interstate 79 Speedway and Elkins Motor Speedway. His Number 22, Ford Pinto Mini Stock runs in the 4-Cylinder class and has an engine built by Automotive Machine in Oakland. The car is owned by Mark Gower. Roger, who is 24 years old, is employed by B & S Scrap. He and his wife, Jennifer, have a six-week-old son, Joseph. His sponsors are NuFinish Auto Body and B & S Scrap, and his pit crew includes Mark Gower and Kenny Baker. Roger celebrated his first feature win this season, hopefully one of many, and his goal for 1995 is to win a points title.

Roger Shaulis of Somerset kept it together for 13 laps in the "A" Main before making way for Bob Davis of Berlin. Davis picked up his third victory at the track and the trophy from Tressler Oil Company in Confluence. Shaulis had to settle for eighth. Davis was followed by Bobby Smith, Jon Deal, Kevin Bender, Dwane Shultz, John Valentine, Jack Dively, Shaulis, Brian Taylor, Rodger Stephens, Carl Sullivan and Doug Shaffer.

When the Pro Stock feature began, John Sayler of Meyersdale and J.R. Isner of Cumberland held the first and second spots. Eighteen laps later they still had these positions. Before the nineteenth lap was completed, Isner lost a wheel and Sayler had a flat. When the checkered dropped Tom Humberson of Grantsville was able to pick up the win. He was followed by Ed Kemp, Brad Brown, Joe Donaldson, Dave Grasser, Dave Porter, Mike Barndt, Alvin Hosselrode, Bill Goss, Gene Moats, and Duane Folk.

If a hard luck award was given, it would have to go to John Sayler. Every week he gets closer and closer to the checkered flag, but so far this season it has eluded him. By now he's probably wondering when it will be his turn. Racing continues this Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the speedway. Maybe the ninth will be Sayler's lucky day.

Elkins Motor Speedway

For three weeks Dave Groves has been going to Elkins Motor Speedway, adjusting his late model to the track conditions, and consistently finishing in the top three of the Bank One Late Model features. Finally, Saturday night, after gaining his first pole position start of the season, Groves tore off the starting line with a head of steam that left him alone ahead of Nolan Dalton and Denny Chamberlain. Restarts after cautions on laps 3, 4 and 7 did nothing to slow Groves as it seemed he was headed for an easy first feature win of the season. But as is the case with most things related to auto racing, nothing is sure until the checkered flag falls.

Grove's defeat did not come at the hands of Chuck Harper or Denny Chamberlain as it had in the previous weeks. Groves defeat was not caused by an accident or the mishandling of his car. Dave Groves was beaten because his magneto refused to refire after slowing for a caution on lap 9. With the $1,000 first place paycheck lost, the failed magneto turned out to be one of the most expensive he'd ever purchased.

With Groves out, Denny Chamberlain took a hefty lead after the race resumed, leaving Nolan Dalton, Chuck Harper, and Mark Myers in a duel for second that ended on the last lap as Dalton raced under the flag stand with a car length to spare. Harper and Myers, finished third and fourth respectively, were nose-to-nose at the finish line. Gary Dalton was fifth.

Tim Harsh broke out in front of pole position starter, Scott Miles, on the first lap and left the 12-car field of semi-lates in his wake as he easily won his second feature of the year. In a closer battle was Kevin Hamrick who moved from a 12th position start to challenge Steve Booth for most of the race. Hamrick held off Booth for second. Miles and Chris Smith rounded out the top five.

A caution-filled Coca-Cola U.M.P. Modified feature strung out the special 25 lap event for thirty minutes as the 24-car race looked more like a demolition derby at times. Greg Tressler led much of the first half of laps but mishandled turn four on lap 10 causing a caution that sent him to the back of the pack. Ron Parrish took the top spot upon restart and 15 laps later led Charles Cochran, Roy Gibson, Jr., Mike Hawkins, and Phil Harris under the checkered flag.

For the second time in four weeks, the Simpson brothers led the four cylinder stock feature across the finish line as Mike edged out brother Thomas for the win. Tommy Pennington was third.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Interstate 79 Speedway's regular Friday night racing program was canceled because of afternoon rains. Racing will resume this Friday evening with action in five classes - late models, semi-lates, UMP modifieds, pure stocks, and 4 cylinder stocks. There will also be bike races for the kids at intermission.

On Sunday, June 11, Interstate 79 Speedway will present the N.T.P.A. Copenhagen-Skoal Truck and Tractor Pull at 6 p.m.

These modified machines have not one, but two aircraft engines. Each 12 cylinder engine has over 1700 cubic inches. This will be the second annual N.T.P.A. sanctioned truck and tractor pull. Jet tractors, tractors with awesome power and three full blown engines and huge churning wheels turning at over 100 miles per hour will be here. These are the same unbelievable tractors that have been seen on ESPN and the Nashville Network.

The N.T.P.A. Copenhagen-Skoal pulling contest will include huge modified tractors and the very best ground-pounding modified four-wheel drive trucks. A special class has been added for local enthusiasts who own street-legal four-wheel drive trucks. There will be two divisions for the street-legal four wheel drives -- one for the pure, 100% stock trucks and one for the hotter, but still street legal trucks. A special class for the semi trucks will also be offered during the show. Rules and regulations are available at the speedway office by cailing 304-592-3200. Gates will open at 4 p.m.

Interstate 79 Speedway is located at Exit 125 just north of Clarksburg, W.Va.

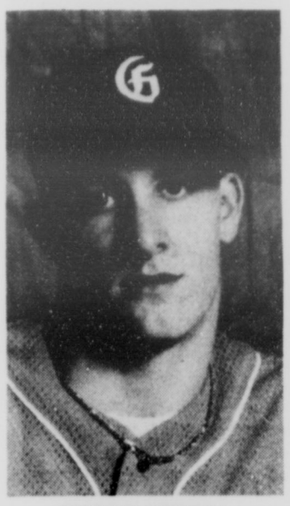
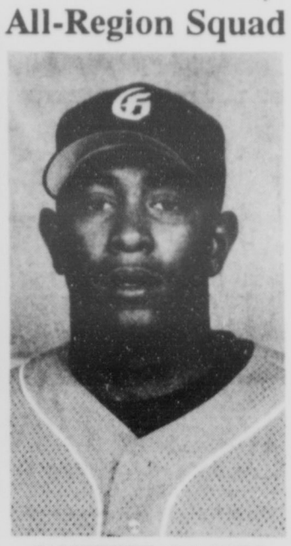
GCC Laker Signs With Pro Team; Others Named To All-Region Squad



TOM DARRELL



JAMETHRO ROGERS

One member of the Garrett Community College baseball team has been signed by the California Angels' professional organization, according to Ed Wildesen, coach of the Lakers, while two others have received post-season honors.

Tom Darrell became the 16th player in 21 years of GCC baseball history to be signed by a professional baseball club.

Darrell, a pitcher, recorded a 6-4 record this past season for the Lakers with a 2.30 earned run average. He started eight games, pitched 89 innings, giving up 72 hits and 25 runs. He struck out 63 batters and walked only 29. He also recorded one save.

"If anyone deserves a crack at major league baseball, Tom does," Coach Wildesen said. "His drive and eagerness to learn, along with advanced maturity for his age, makes his signing a bittersweet experience for us, as now we will have to try to replace him. He really emerged as a leader for us, which is somewhat uncommon for a freshman."

Darrell, who is from Connellsville, Pa., will leave today for Arizona.

The two players receiving post-season recognition are sophomore center fielder Jamethro Rogers and freshman first baseman Ron Palmer, both of whom were named to the first team Region XX squad.

Rogers batted .400 for the Lakers this past season, with 54 hits in 135 at-bats. He had four home runs, four triples, and seven doubles, scored 54 runs and recorded 16 RBI. He walked 22 times and stole 18 bases.

Rogers, of South Hills, Va., will be attending Virginia Commonwealth University this fall.

Palmer batted .404 during the 1995 season with 49 hits in 121 at-bats. He had six home runs and eight doubles, and finished with 32 RBI.

Palmer is a resident of Hagerstown.

Baseball Camp Coaches Named

Ed Wildesen, coach of the Garrett Community College baseball team and director of the GCC Baseball Camp to be held June 26-30, has announced the names of camp staff members.

Assisting Wildesen with instruction will be former GCC head coach and current coach at Davis and Elkins College, Lawrence Nesselrodt; John Cullen, assistant coach at the College of Charleston, S.C.; and Steve Crosier, a scout for the Milwaukee Brewers.

The camp will be held each day of that week from 9 a.m. to noon. Persons desiring more information may contact Wildesen at GCC.

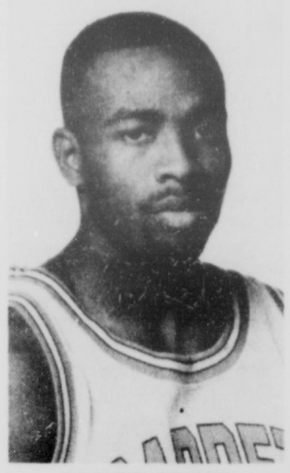
Garrett Athletes Honored For Abilities As Well As Academic Achievement



OLIVER JONES

ELAINE DEBERRY

BRETT COLEMAN

WANDA SWARTZWELDER

Oliver Jones, a standout on the Garrett Community College basketball team for two successful seasons, and Elaine DeBerry, anchor of the Lakers' women's volleyball team the past two years were recently named the Male and Female Athletes of the Year at GCC.

Meanwhile, two other GCC athletes were named Male and Female Scholar Athletes of the Year, as Wanda Swartzwelder, representing both women's basketball and volleyball, and Brett Coleman, a member of the Lakers' basketball and golf teams, received these honors.

Jones led Coach Dennis Gibson's 1993-94 team to the national championships, as he averaged 16 points and eight rebounds per game as a freshman. He was named to the Maryland JUCO and Region XX All-Tournament Teams.

As a sophomore he was a pre-season first-team All-American selection and was again named to the first team Region XX and JUCO all-star squads after averaging 18.5 points and 6.2 rebounds per contest. He also averaged just under three steals and nearly four assists per game in the 1994-95 campaign.

Elaine DeBerry as a freshman was named Best Offensive Player and received honorable mention honors in Region XX. She led the team in solo blocks with 24, while compiling 135 kills and 44 aces. She had a service reception percentage of 82 and a service percentage of just over 82.

As a sophomore, DeBerry was named to the All-Region XX second team and to the first team at the Region XX Tournament. She was named both Best Offensive Player and Most Valuable Player for the 1994-95 season, having recorded 156 kills with 80% proficiency. She served 36 aces and had an 84% service effectiveness percentage.

The Scholar Athlete award is presented to the male and female student athletes who have the highest grade point average among all athletes at the college.

Garrett Legion Team Drops Two, Then Wins Three

The Garrett County team in the American Legion Mountain District, being coached this year by Southern and Northern high school varsity mentors Jim Bosley and Phil Carr, opened its season with a doubleheader loss to Somerset on Saturday, 5-2 and 11-2, but then rebounded for three straight wins.

Garrett swept Preston of the Kingwood Legion Post on Sunday, 4-1 and 4-3, and then topped Frostburg Farady Post on Tuesday, 14-3, on Northern's field.

Seth Tressler was the winning pitcher in the first game against Preston, as he tossed a four-hitter, walked three, and struck out nine. Jim Pamepinto singled twice and doubled, Joey DiSimone singled home a pair of runs, and Brian Heslop also had two RBIs.

A two-out, two-run single by Garrett County's Jason Sweitzer in the top of the seventh inning tied the score at 3-3 in the second game and a bloop single by Tressler sent home the winning run. Matt Umbel, who took the mound in relief in the bottom of the seventh, was credited with the win.

Tressler and Heslop each recorded three RBI in Tuesday's win over Farady Post, while Joel Uphold earned the four-hit, three-walk, 13-strike-out win on the mound for Garrett. Danny Butler was perfect in relief in the ninth inning.

After trailing 1-0, Garrett took the lead for good with a pair of runs in the third.

Tressler doubled and singled, Jeremy Fitzwater and Ryan Folk each singled twice, and Uphold aided his own cause with a double and two RBI. Heslop had a single along with his three RBI.

Recording doubles for Frostburg were Tim Neumark and Mark Harbaugh.

Garrett County will play again today at 5 p.m. against Fort Cumberland Post 13 at Allegany Community College. They will host Preston in a 2 p.m. doubleheader at Northern High School on Sunday.

Grantsville Wins Two In Bi-State

Grantsville upped its Bi-State Pony League record to 5-0 with a pair of victories this past week, including a 14-4 rout of D&L Coal-Elk Garden on Sunday at Elk Garden and a 4-2 win over Central Garrett Monday afternoon at Grantsville.

Joe and Jed Wilhelm led the Grantsville offense against D&L as Joe went three-for-three at the plate with a triple and two singles, and Jed also recorded three hits including a double. Zach Rawe, who started on the mound, added two singles and Matt Fritz, who relieved Rawe in the third inning, tripled. Fritz struck out nine batters in four innings.

Rawe and Fritz allowed only two hits, one of them a double by Joe Harvey that drove in a pair of runs.

Joe Wilhelm smacked a grand slam to account for all four runs on Monday against Central Garrett to spoil a two-hitter by Central pitcher Scott Sisler. Rawe added a harmless double to account for the only other hit against Sisler, who struck out eight.

Fritz went the distance to record the win as he gave up seven hits and fanned nine.

Jason King finished with two singles for Central (3-2). Central will play at Midland on Friday when Grantsville is at Lonaconing.

In other Bi-State League action, Western Garrett was blanked by host Mount Savage on Monday, 7-0, as Savage pitchers Chad Huffman and Adam Stafford combined for a one-hitter and struck out 14.

John Snelling and Aaron DeWitt allowed only four hits, with Robby Goebel's double being the only extra-base hit of the game.

June Sailboat Racing "Starts With A Bang"

by Harry Filemyr

The Deep Creek Lake Yacht Racing Association scheduled the start of its June racing series for noon Saturday--the exact time when a thunder storm rolled up the lake. The races were delayed for about an hour.

The second race of the day was scheduled to follow right after the first, but the weather was still so threatening that the majority of sailors headed back to shelter. Two Lasers sailed each course, but were not scored as it takes three boats to make a race. Dave and Monica Wible would have sailed the second race, but no other B Fleeters appeared for the start, so they went home.

A number of the "senior" sailors, accepting that they were no longer competitive with the "youngsters" (those under 55), decided to keep track of scores among themselves within the A Fleet. The minimum combined age of skipper and crew was fixed at 114½. (Every game except peek-a-boo can be fixed!) This "over-the-hill" gang of Old Salts then contradicted their own reasoning, by collectively scoring two firsts, a second, and two fourths in three races.

This writer made a bumbling start in the first race and floundered in the back of the pack . After rounding the second mark, with nothing to lose, we split off for clear air. Having second thoughts, I grumbled, "I think I went too far upwind." My faithful crew, Marilyn, replied, "No! You can never be too rich, too thin, or too far upwind! " We took the lead and finished first.

Correction: The Lasers results in the Becker Cup Regatta last week should have been:

Tom Johnson, first; Gordon Clefton, second; Keith Spinnenweber, third.

Oakland Falls To Romney In Pen-Mar Action

Oakland was blasted with 19 hits by Romney Sunday afternoon in Pen-Mar Baseball League action, as the Oaks were defeated by the West Virginia team, 12-7, on Moorefield's diamond.

The Romney defense, particularly in pitching, was equally impressive, as Courtney Cooper, Brian Mohr, and Chad Cooper combined for 17 strike-outs and allowed just six hits.

Wes Alt drove in three runs for Romney with a home run, while Dusty Brill finished with four hits, driving home two runs. Mohr and Mitch Moran each had two hits and two RBI, while Jeff See tripled and singled, Jamie Ganoe finished with three hits, and Courtney Cooper added two.

In other Pen-Mar action on Saturday, Romney defeated Paw Paw, 5-1; Hyndman topped Frostburg, 6-4; and Cumberland blanked Keyser, 10-0. Other games on Sunday saw Cumberland and Hyndman split a doubleheader and Fairmont sweeping a twinbill from Morgantown.

Oakland will host Paw Paw in a single game this Saturday at 3 p.m. on the Southern High School field, while Romney will play at Hyndman, Cumberland will play at Morgantown, and Fairmont will host Frostburg.

Sunday doubleheaders will feature Oakland at Frostburg, Morgantown at Keyser, Fairmont at Paw Paw, and Romney at Cumberland.

Commissioner John Braskey and DeWitt then discussed the possibility of creating a new county road behind the church to serve as an accessible connection between the two roads. Braskey stated that he will seek a map of the church area and continue to review the issue.

able even if you allow us to use the balance of funds left from the Southern High School locker room project.

"In that it would only cost $35,000 for the sixth classroom, I plan to recommend to our board of education to award on the basis of the six-classroom addition. I would like to initially ask for an additional $35,000 from you for this purpose.

"However," Ryscavage continued, "I recognize the fact that you are in the midst of fiscal year 1996 budget decisions. Consequently, if you are unable to provide an additional $35,000 for this purpose it will be my recommendation to our board to find the $35,000 in our FY 1996 budget, whatever that turns out to be as a result of your FY 1996 budget allocations."

Following his comments to the commissioners, Ryscavage asked that the county board respond to his funding request by June 13, prior to the board of education meeting scheduled for that evening.

to pass a 1989 Ford F-150 pickup truck operated by 24-year-old Bryan W. Davis, Oakland, who was turning from the highway into a private driveway.

Police said Seaman's vehicle struck the pickup, causing the Blazer to run off the road and strike a cement culvert.

Seaman and another passenger, Jessica L. Perry, 15, were reportedly treated and released from Garrett Memorial following the 9:25 a.m. mishap. Davis was apparently uninjured.

Also responding to the scene were personnel from the Accident Volunteer Fire Department, and Northern and Southern rescue squads.

All occupants were reportedly wearing their seatbelts. Charges are pending.

An Oakland woman was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital Friday afternoon, following a single-vehicle accident that reportedly occurred in heavy rain.

UNIQUE CRAFT AND ANTIQUE SHOP IN GRANTSVILLE -- The works of local crafters and artists are featured at K's Korner located near the intersection of Rt. 40 and U.S. Rt. 219 across from Hilltop Fruit Market in Grantsville.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

K's Korner

Visitors traveling the National Pike east of Grantsville now have a place to stop and explore the works of local crafters and artists. K's Korner is conveniently located at the corner of U.S. Route 40 and U.S. 219 north, across from Hilltop Fruit Market. It gives locals and travelers a chance to stop and shop or just browse and chat with Kay.

K's Korner was formerly Calico Craft, an established craft shop which closed in 1993. One month later Kay Layman reopened the shop and added antiques and collectibles to the craft line. Kay's appreciation of the work of local crafters and the wealth of antiques available in the area inspired her to open a shop that allowed shoppers the opportunity to sample a wide variety of these items at one convenient location. Her interest comes naturally, it was instilled by her father's love and knowledge of heirloom antiques. Her fascination with crafts comes from past memories of her mother's amazing ability to make anything; from Kay's first prom dress to baby booties for the grandchildren.

Local shoppers have come to know K's Korner as the place to go when a special gift is needed to make an occasion memorable. Helping people select the gift that is "just perfect" is part of what Kay does and it is a service that she enjoys providing. The works of over 80 local crafters are on display in the shop as well as an ever changing selection of antique items. Special order items are also available through the shop for the person who knows what is needed but does not know where to go to find it or to have it made.

K's Korner is a unique shop that brings shoppers and crafters together in a comfortable and charming atmosphere. Visitors and local folks alike have come to know K's Korner as a place where shopping is comfortable, selection is extensive, and where the right item is available at the right price. The shop is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays by appointment only. Those interested should call 301-895-5775 for more information.

Commencement At GCC Honors Seventy Students

Seventy students received degrees and certificates at Garrett Community College's 23rd commencement last month and a number of them received special awards. Graduates and their families heard speaker John Bambacus tell them to accept the challenges of American democracy and college president Dr. Steve Herman tell them to use their minds to think.

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, presented 62 candidates for degrees and eight for certificates to Rob Michael of the Board of Trustees who conferred the awards.

Keith Wiley was named outstanding transfer student and Tony DiCianni outstanding career student. Helen Stephens received the award for the highest G.P.A. Named scholar athletes for the year were Wanda Swartzwelder and Brett Coleman. Recipient of the Ann Dilgard scholarship was Jennifer K. Beckman, and the Lucille Sines scholarship recipient was Crystal Shaffer. Twenty-year service certificates were awarded to Linda Fike, John Furr, and Susan Stem. Dr. Nancy Priselac received the award for outstanding contributions to GCC presented by Charles C. Bender, chairman of the Board of Trustees. An emotional moment in the ceremony occurred when director of the GCC library Dana Shimrock presented the Inspiration Award to Patrick Lee for having the courage and dedication to complete his education against what she termed "incredible odds." Lee, a member of the Laker basketball team and a residence hall assistant, received an associate in arts degree in social and behavioral science and plans to continue his education at Salisbury State University in the fall.

This 23rd commencement marked several "firsts" in the history of the college. The first students to graduate in the Adventure Sports program, Tony DiCianni and Todd Reed, received degrees. For the first time, a member of the graduating class, Scindra Rossen, was also a newly-appointed member of the college's Board of Trustees. It was also the first time commencement was held in the evening.

The Rev. Manning Smith, associate dean of students services, spoke the invocation and the benediction. The GCC Pipes and Drums led by Dwight Jeffrey performed the processional and recessional.

Tamra Kelley, Gary Friend Wed In December Double-Ring Ceremony

Tamra Sue Kelley and Gary Alan Friend were united in marriage December 10, 1994. The double-ring ceremony took place at the First Presbyterian Church, Terra Alta, W.Va., with the Rev. Victoria Moss officiating.

The bride is the daughter of William and Carolyn Kelley, Oakland. The groom is the son of Robert and Arlene Friend, also of Oakland.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. The bride was attired in a traditional white satin gown with a high neck line. A full skirt fell from the waist and swept to a cathedral train edged in embroidered applique. The sheer upper bodice was highlighted with strands of pearls running from the collar to the bustline. The fingertip veil was held from a crown of pearls, silk roses and crystal sprays. She carried a bouquet of white roses, holly and pearl sprays, accentuated with cascading satin ribbons.

Serving as matron of honor was Shannon King, Oakland, and bridesmaid was Michelle Evans, Mtn. Lake Park. They were attired in red, tea-length taffeta dresses with fitted bodices and full skirts. The dresses were designed and created by Shirley Snyder, Oakland. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of white roses, red carnations and holly accentuated by pearl sprays.

Todd Kelley, brother of the bride, Oakland, served as best man, and William Thomas, brother-in-law of the groom, also of Oakland, was groomsman. They wore classic black tuxedos with red ties and cummerbunds.

Organist for the ceremony was Nancy Sisler, Terra Alta. Soloist was Mary Beth DeMartino, Frostburg, friend of the bride, who performed Perfect Union, and I Will Be Here prior to and during the ceremony. Attending the guest book was Charlene Friend, cousin of the groom, and acolyte was Scot Kelley, nephew of the bride. Photographer for the ceremony was Ty DeMartino, Frostburg.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Oakland Country Club. Prayer was offered by Rev. Moss, and a toast was made by Todd Kelley. Greg Carrico, DJ, provided music during and after dinner. The cake, baked and decorated by Alice Wilt, featured a three-tier center cake, accentuated with two-tier side cakes joined by flowing red, green, and white ribbons. The cake was decorated with cornelli-lace, double dropped garlands, and red sweetheart roses. It was surrounding by greenery, holly, holly berries and illuminated by mini-lights. The cake was served by Kim Thomas, sister of the groom.

A surprise bridal shower was hosted by Shannon King, and a surprise bachelorette party was hosted by Michelle Evans.

The bride is a graduate of West Virginia University with a master's degree in social work. She is employed at the Garrett County Department of Social Services, Oakland. The groom is employed as a salesman for Glotfelty Enterprises, also in Oakland.

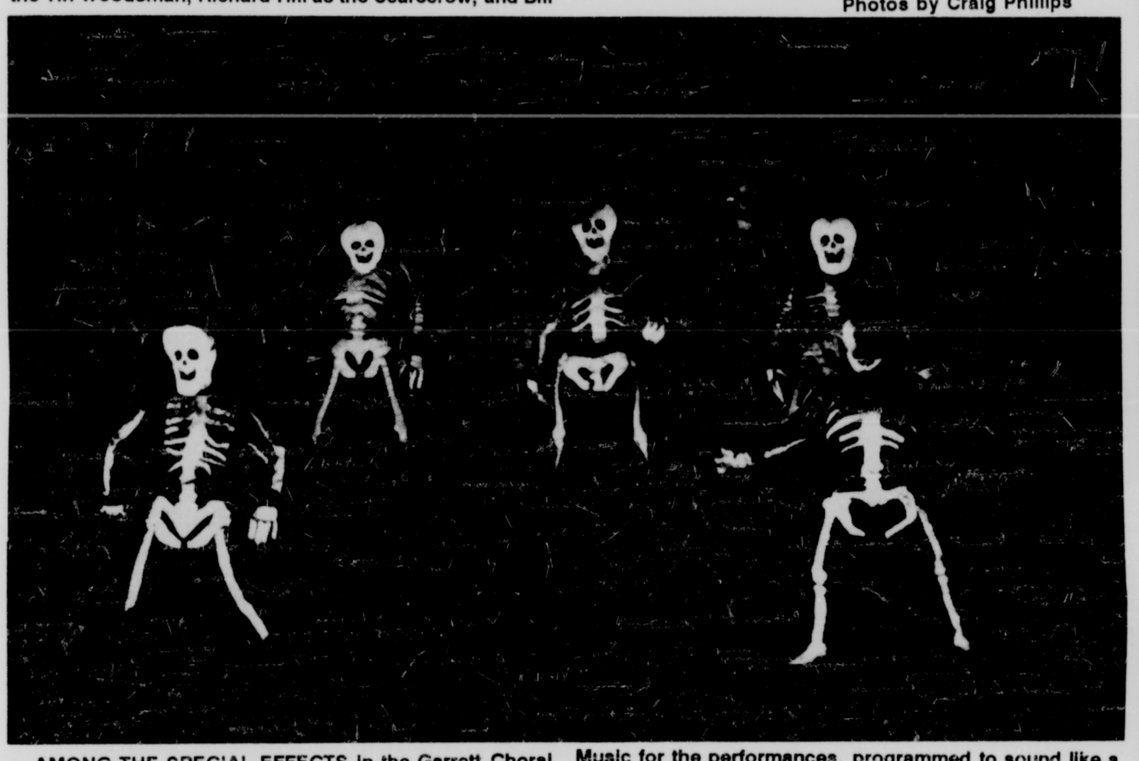
Wizard Of Oz Is A Smash

IF IT WEREN'T FOR GLENDA, the good sorceress, Dorothy Gale and her unusual friends would have never survived their long and dangerous trip to Emerald City in the land of Oz. Sell-out crowds attended the first three performances of the Garrett Choral Society's presentation of the famous Frank Baum fairytale, and there are literally no tickets remaining for this weekend's three performances. Cast members pictured above, from left, are Cathy Heibig as Glenda, Dana Braskey as Dorothy, Jim Harvey as the Tin Woodsman, Richard Hill as the Scarecrow, and Bill Grant as the Cowardly Lion. Sell-out crowds attended the first three performances of the Garrett Choral Society's presentation of the famous Frank Baum fairytale, and there are literally no tickets remaining for this weekend's three performances. Persons wanting to try to get a seat left vacant by a no-show ticket holder may have some opportunity by reporting to the GCC theatre prior to showtime (8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday). Any vacant seats will be filled just prior to curtain time.

Photos by Craig Phillips



AMONG THE SPECIAL EFFECTS in the Garrett Choral Society's production of Wizard of Oz at Garrett Community College is this skeleton dance performed in black (ultraviolet) light by a troupe of dancers from Brenda's Body Shop. Music for the performances, programmed to sound like a symphony orchestra, is being provided by Dr. John Hawkins, of Potomac State College.

"NOW I'VE GOT YOU, MY PRETTY," or so thinks the Wicked Witch of the West, who succeeds in capturing Dorothy and nearly shrinking her into oblivion with a special potion boiling in her caldron. Dorothy is played by Dana Braskey, while a greatly made-up Susan Bell portrays the mean old woman.

OVER 65 CAST MEMBERS, many of them children playing the roles of Munchkins, are featured in the Garrett Choral Society's production of Wizard of Oz, to be presented three more times this weekend. The little people are pictured above in a state of great elation after learning that one of two wicked witches that often make their lives miserable has been destroyed by Dorothy's house. The set for the performance was designed by Richard Hill and Ben Sincell, and constructed by Sincell, who is also technical/lighting director.

THE ARMY OF EMERALD CITY has a major problem, in that it has but one private and this host of generals. The private, being portrayed by Alex Hill, finally gets disgusted with all of the generals' orders and takes charge of the situation. Portraying the chief general is Sara Sincell, left, and the other generals are played by (from left) Amy Suess, Angela Sincell, Rachel Sincell, Alison Ulino, Caroline Britton, Shawna Sines, Todd Foley, and Jenny Grant.

WATERSHED CONFERENCE

Hancell Teets, Aurora, represented Monongahela District Soil Conservation Service at the Fourth Biennial National Watershed Conference held May 21-24 in Charleston. There were nearly 500 people in attendance from 44 states and several foreign countries.

The event was designed to show participants from around the country the diversity of ways to address flood protection, land treatment, stream pollution, water supply, water recreation, and aquatic habitat protection. Billy Wilson, chairman, says that they "advocate looking at the needs of entire watersheds," an unusual effort at combining the various interests in cooperation.

Speakers at the conference included West Virginia Governor Gaston Caperton, as well as several key national environmental leaders, including Paul Johnson, chief of USDA Natural Resources Conservation; Brig. Gen. Gerald E. Galloway, executive director of Interagency Floodplain Management Review Committee; and Robert Perciasepe, assistant administration for Water, EPA.

The conference included local presenters, and culminated in a planning session to make practical plans for water management over the next 10 years.

Q. I have a game called a "Chiromagica" by McLoughlin Bros. of New York. The game has a holder and several cardboard discs and paper inserts with questions. Put the disc in the right place and you can learn the right answers to the questions. The game must be old. It asks, "Who is president of the United States?" and the answer is, Ulysses S. Grant. Is it valuable?

A. Chiromagica was made about 1870. Grant was president from 1869 to 1877. The game sells for about $300 today.

TIP: Watch burning candles in glass candlesticks. If the candle burns too low, the hot wax and flame may break the glass.

Q. I just found a very strange toy that my mother says dates from the 1950s. It is a glass "bird." The body is a clear glass that is partway filled with red liquid. It is suspended between tall metal legs that form a stand. The bird's head is made of a fuzzy material and has a feather at the top. There is also a feather tail. Mother remembers that it moved. We can't figure out exactly what it did. Can you help?

A. Wet the bird's beak and place it near a glass of water so it can bob up and down into the water.

The red liquid will rise and fall, forcing the bird to replace its beak in the water. There is a chemical inside the body that reacts to the temperature. The water cools the head. After a few minutes, when the head dries out, the bird moves again.

The toy was known by several names. Most of them were boxed as "Peace Birds."

They were popular in the 1950s and '60s, but the chemical and the easily-breakable glass made them dangerous toys for children.

Q. My silver cut-out bowl with a china insert is marked "Knickerbocker Silver Company." Where was it made?

A. Knickerbocker made silver-plated pieces in Port Jervis, N.Y. The company was in business from 1896 to 1935.

Q. My milk pitcher is burgundy and white. It has a scene of men, women, a dog and a picnic basket, a castle and a river. The bottom of the pitcher says "Yonquin, Royal Staffordshire, Clarice Cliff." It was a wedding gift 60 years ago. I'd like to know more about it.

A. Royal Staffordshire Pottery was a name used by Arthur J. Wilkinson of Burslem, England. Clarice Cliff was an important ceramics designer who worked at several factories.

The mark on your piece dates from 1930.

SOBERING FACTS ABOUT ALCOHOL: The next time someone tells you that it's safer to substitute alcohol for a controlled substance, here are some facts you can use to shake up that mistaken notion:

1. There are 18 million alcoholics and six million drug addicts in the United States. (At least, those are the numbers we can be sure of; there may well be many more unreported cases.)

2. Alcoholism, which the American Medical Association classified as a disease back in 1956, is considered potentially fatal if left untreated.

3. Active alcoholics have a life expectancy 25 years less than the average American. Women are especially vulnerable since their bodies are damaged more quickly from alcoholic abuse, which can lead to cirhossis, circulatory disorders, and other illnesses.

4. Alcoholics who drive cause more fatal accidents than any other group.

5. Alcohol and drugs are the third leading cause of death in America.

6. Most of the inmates in federal prisons are there because of crimes committed while under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

7. Children of alcoholics can be born with severe congenital problems, including mental retardation.

8. Because of the physical problems caused by alcoholism, average health care costs of alcoholic patients for any disease or condition is several times higher than for non-alcoholic patients.

9. Alcohol is often a contributing factor in spousal abuse and in the abuse of children.

10. Alcohol is a major contributory factor to mistakes in the workplace that can range from minor to potentially life-threatening, depending on the kind of work one does.

Besides giving you talking points in any discussion over the merits of drug abuse vs. alcohol, I'd like to add one especially sobering fact: The use of alcohol among young people is increasing, and the age of youngsters who begin drinking is getting lower all the time. A recent investigation in substance abuse among teenagers and preteens revealed that drinking often begins in the eighth grade.

Home Tips

LIPSTICK REMOVER — My granddaughter washed a whole load of her good college clothes in cold water and then put them into a hot dryer. When she took them out, they were covered with spots of red lipstick. Evidently one of her lipsticks was in a pocket.

I thought a while and, knowing the lipstick was on the greasy side, I thought I would try a popular grease-cutting dishwashing detergent. I very carefully put some of it on each spot and then put everything in the washer on a warm-water setting. They came out beautifully, and not a spot showed. Rita F., Salem, Ore.

RESIDUE REMOVER — My beautician suggested I wash my hair once a week with baking soda to remove the hair-spray buildup and then shampoo it.

A final rinse with vinegar (1-2 tablespoons vinegar to 8 ounces water) tops off with a clean, shiny head of hair.

I take the baking soda one step farther and once a week I wash my face with it. It isn't as abrasive as the apricot scrubs and it's much less expensive. Gina R., Wayland, N.Y.

GIFT GIVING — When I find an item while shopping that I know a particular person would like for a gift, I write the person's name on my calendar and note what I purchased. This way, I can buy months in advance and not forget that I've already gotten the gift.

COOL! — My 2-year-old enjoys oatmeal for breakfast. To make sure that it isn't too hot for her, I stir in an ice cube until it melts. Then it's just right for her to eat. You can also cool it by adding a few tablespoons of cold milk. Anne F., Ruskin, Fla.

FROZEN TREAT — I have a wonderful tip for anyone with children.

I bought some cut-up watermelon and put it in my refrigerator to eat at a later date. Lo and behold, my refrigerator froze the watermelon solid in its juice and I decided to cut it up in small squares.

This has made a wonderful substitute for sugar-filled frozen ice pops during any time of the year.

Your Health
by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Q. Is it possible for a woman to have a false pregnancy? The story in our town is that one of our neighbors had one. I can't believe it's possible.

A. Believe it. The condition of false pregnancy is also known as phantom pregnancy or pseudocyesis. It can and does occur in humans as it does in animals. When it does, almost all the usual signs and symptoms of early pregnancy may accompany it: morning nausea, enlargement and sensitivity of the breasts, cessation of the menstrual period, a gain of weight and later, abdominal enlargement.

Sometimes this false pregnancy continues almost up to the supposed time of delivery. Almost always when this situation occurs, it happens in women who desperately want a child and who have been unable to conceive. Fortunately, the condition is exceedingly rare.

When the doctor is sure that a false pregnancy exists, it becomes a very precarious matter since this is a highly charged neurotic situation. Doctors will seek the guidance of a psychiatrist for the handling of the problem until the patient herself can be referred for sustained emotional support.

It takes a great deal of understanding and psychological insight by the doctor to give the patient the gentle support she needs.

Following the "delivery" of a false pregnancy, these patients are consumed with guilt, disappointment and embarrassment. They need the combined love and talent of family and doctors to carry them through such an emotion l upheava!

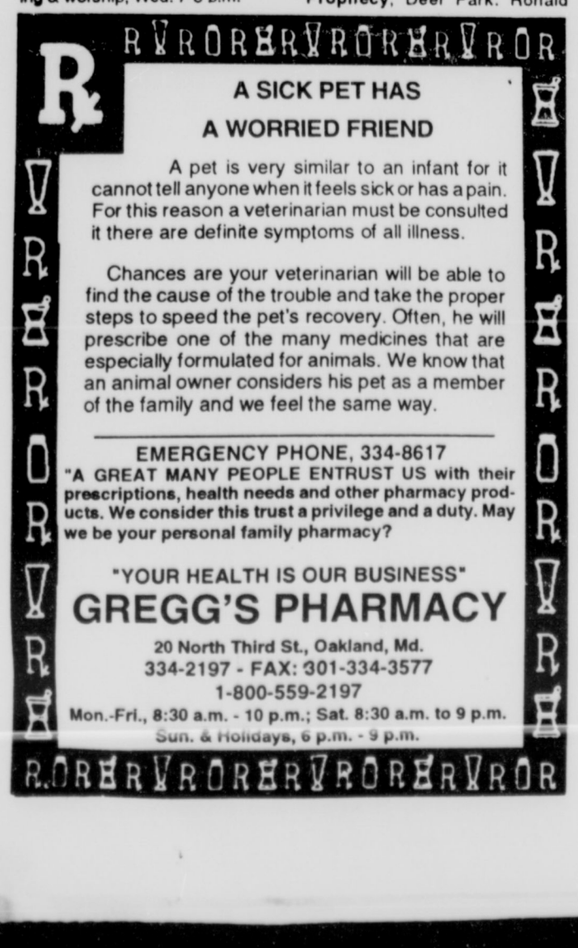
Invite someone to church today.



"Just Keep on Swimming..."

"Goldie, don't look now, but I think big trouble is lurking right over our heads. Just keep swimming and pretend you don't know. Maybe his head will get stuck in the bowl before we become catfood. Maybe he won't like getting his nose wet. Anyway, just keep on swimming..."

If fish pray, this was the time. If not, let's hope luck was in their fishbowl. You know, it is said we all live in a fishbowl.

Access to personal information is as simple as pushing a button. It is not surprising we feel vulnerable. We read of crime each day. Luck is seldom an effective deterrent. Are we helpless against evil that is lurking...waiting to pounce?

Help is only a prayer away. As you worship God at your local church or synagogue, ask Him to surround you with His mercy and strengthen you with His love. You need not be afraid. Trust God's will ... and keep on praying.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHY ARE YOU LIMPING?
June 11, 1995

Background Scripture:
1 Kings 18
Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 6:5-15a

In our newspaper recently I read an article reporting a poll of the American public indicating that 95% of those polled said they believed in God or some ultimate being!

At first, I was pleasantly surprised, but, after giving it some thought, it occurred to me that I need not have been so surprised. In my own experience I have found just about everyone I've known could fit into that 95 percentile. Actually, I've personally known only one professed atheist and that was 50 years ago. I've known some agnostics—while the atheist does not believe in God, the agnostic believes that we cannot know if there is a God.

But that doesn't mean that the balance of people left after you subtract the atheists and agnostics believe essentially the same. So, more important than whether people believe in a deity is the kind of deity in which they believe.

THE NAZI GOD

In the 1930's and 40's many Nazis believed both in God and Adolph Hitler. Dietrich Bonhoeffer, a German Lutheran pastor, protested that Nazism and Christianity were incompatible. The God of Jesus Christ, he said, was not the god of the Third Reich. For those pronouncements he was thrown into a concentration camp and just 50 years ago he was executed by the Third Reich.

During the Middle Ages there arose in the Church a diabolical phenomenon called the Inquisition. Some brave souls, martyrs most of them, protested that the God of Jesus was not the god of the Inquisition. Historians have helped us to understand that neither was the God of Jesus Christ the god of the Crusades, nor of many of the other aberrations that have often been paraded under the banner of Christianity or some other religion.

In our own times Christianity has been used as a cloak to lend respectability to other blasphemies against the God of Jesus Christ. Islam, Buddhism, and Hinduism have also been abused in a like manner. Someone has commented that God made us in his own image and we have returned the favor. Too often the god we present to the world is not the God of Jesus Christ but a projection of human passions and prejudices.

WHO IS GOD?

So in 1 Kings 18 the prophet Elijah comes to the people of Israel—and to us—with two great imperatives: "If the Lord is God, follow him; but if Baal, then follow him" (21). First, the people must decide who is God. Is it the Lord or is it Baal. Is it the Creator/Savior God of Abraham, Isaac, Israel, Moses and Joshua, or is it the licentious deity of the Baalists. And for us it is imperative that we too decide what is the nature of the God in whom we will believe, is he the God of love revealed in Christ or the god of prejudice and injustice, the deity of selfish privilege? Just because we call ourselves Christians doesn't mean the god we serve is the Lord.

Once we have decided that, we come to the second imperative: follow the God you have chosen. It is not enough to say you believe in him, but to live as Jesus Christ has shown us. The problem is that often we try to profess one God but serve many. We salue the Lord of Jesus Christ but we pattern our lives and our society on other gods. Elijah chided the Israelites, saying: "How long will you keep hopping from one leg to another?"—switching from one god to another? Choose just one and live accordingly.

Elijah's challenge is just as timely for us: Why are you professing one God but failing to serve Him alone? Why are you still limping?

COVER STORY

Rescues in the Sierras give ideas for new show

BY AMY HIBBERT

Robert Conrad

The stories in NBC's High Sierra Search and Rescue may seem like fiction to viewers, but for a California emergency team, they are real.

The new dramatic series, which debuts Sunday, June 11, before moving into its regular time slot starting Wednesday, June 14, takes its story lines from actual rescues by a volunteer group.

"It's about the people in the town of Bear Valley who live in the High Sierras. It's about the common man as a hero," says actor Robert Conrad, who stars as helicopter pilot Griffin "Tooter" Campbell.

Conrad, who lives in the area and was a volunteer with the team in the '70s, knows firsthand the dedication and effort put forth by the rescue group. He believes the show will pay tribute to the community while raising viewer awareness.

"(The series) is not about a superhuman pilot or a superhuman woman who is Joan of Arc. It's about your neighbors – yours and mine – who, when called upon, do extraordinary things and they do it as volunteers," Conrad comments.

The stories are taken from actual rescues and stay close to the truth, yet Conrad says sometimes an ending may be changed to make the show more positive.

"One boy, two years ago ... disappeared and died," Conrad says. "We do a similar story, but he doesn't die. We had a choice – play the death or play the other option. We chose to go with the positive story."

The show is realistic, though, and not every story will have a happy ending.

While the series, evolving from a '94 TV movie, focuses on the physical demands of the job, it also examines the emotional and personal obstacles faced by the volunteers.

"They are all members of the community," Conrad says. "The people who run the general store; the people who run the gas station. They are who these search-and-rescue people are."

Some of the actors from the TV movie reprise their roles in the series.

Dee Wallace-Stone portrays a general store owner. LaVelda Fann returns as a service station owner. Ramon Franco reprises his role as a teacher.

The rest of the characters on the team are new additions.

"We added three new people," Conrad says. "There's the Mel Gibson of the '90s. His name is Alistair MacDougall and he's from Australia.

"And then there's Jason Lewis. If you think (Brad Pitt) is the sexiest man alive, People magazine, check out Jason Lewis. I had a 12-year-old and a 50-year-old both faint.

"For those of us who have no interest in hunks, there is Brittney Powell. Aside from being striking, Brittney is talented. Twenty years ago, 30 years ago, I probably would have tripped over myself to introduce myself to Brittney Powell."

For Conrad, the show is mainly a tribute to the community. Understandably, though, the actor hopes High Sierra is as successful as his previous hits, like The Wild Wild West.

Airing against reruns, High Sierra aims to scale the ratings heights.

Crampton gets true love, new job

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Was it true love, a sweet job or some powerful psychic influence that really convinced Barbara Crampton to chuck her life in New York City and head back to the West Coast? Fans may never know.

The actress left the popular role of Mindy on Guiding Light a few weeks ago to join her fiance on the West Coast. Her contract had been up for renewal, and she thought it was a good time to go. She had also decided her priorities were with her future husband.

But less than a week after her departure from GL, Bradley Bell, supervising producer and head writer for The Bold and the Beautiful, announced that Crampton would be joining his cast. The actress swears the whole thing was a coincidence.

"I was hoping to relocate to the West Coast to be with my new fiance (writer/director Kristoffer Tabori), and by pure coincidence I landed the B&B role," Crampton says. "The timing could not have been better."

She will play the role of Maggie Forrester, Jessica's (Maitland Ward) mother. Jessica's parents sent her to live with Stephanie while they went through a messy divorce.

But now Maggie has come back into her daughter's life, and Jessica is not the same little girl who left her parents' home a year ago, so it could be very interesting. The airdate of Crampton's first appearance is set for Wednesday, June 14.

The Young and the Restless fans may remember Crampton from her stint as Leanna Love.

Barbara Crampton

That popular character was one of many who were on the show one day and gone the next without any explanation – a frequent practice on Y&R. The actress says she left that show on good terms.

To date, the only CBS soap opera she hasn't done is As the World Turns.

But Crampton has done time on NBC, too – she played the role of Trista Evans on Days of Our Lives. She also has appeared in several films, including Cabaret, Re-Animator and Puppet Master.

Crampton says that when she and her fiance first became engaged, they thought it would be a year or more before they got married because of logistic problems. Now she says they may marry as early as July, depending on how quickly they can pull it all together.

Van Ark should have hidden from Dark Man

BY SUZANNE GILL

It's every TV actor's nightmare: waking up from a hit show to find that a couple of years later the only offers are from cable channels with worn-out ideas for schlocky TV movies.

For Joan Van Ark, the nightmare has come true. Van Ark, who played Valene Ewing on Knots Landing for 13 seasons, stars in When the Dark Man Calls, premiering on USA Network Wednesday, June 14.

Van Ark's character, Dr. Julie Kaiser, is a radio psychologist. For reasons viewers must take on faith, she is divorcing her hometown-sweetheart husband (Barry Flatman).

Unfortunately she's also got some repressed memories from her childhood to deal with. Poor Julie was the key witness in her parents' murder trial. She convinced the court a hired hand (Geoffrey Lewis) had stabbed her mom and dad to death. He got 25 years-to-life and is back on the street, looking for Julie and vengeance. Just don't ask how he got her married name, address or the location of her daughter's schoolyard. (The screenwriter gave them to him.)

Julie's loving brother, Lloyd (Chris Sarandon), takes her to the police to ask for protection. Julie is a gal in a tight skirt and a tight spot, and there's only one logical TV movie thing to do: undress. As the script would have it, the detective (James Read) assigned to her case is an old flame.

Dark Man is the sort of horror story viewers are supposed to identify with, but there's no reason to worry. It could only happen to the former star of a hit series. Van Ark's agent, however, should be afraid, very afraid.

Joan Van Ark stars in When the Dark Man Calls, premiering Wednesday on USA Network. She portrays a radio psychologist facing a threat from her past.

Out of Sight and Out of Mind!

Introducing Tympanette, a hearing aid now available at Allegany Hearing & Speech Associates. This tiny device fits deeply inside your ear canal so that it is virtually invisible. No one will know that you are wearing a hearing aid!

The Tympanette is also extremely comfortable. AHSA's audiologists use state-of-the-art equipment to measure the ear canal and guarantee a perfect fit. The deep placement and customized fit significantly reduce the feedback and hollow sounds frequently associated with larger hearing aids. You'll forget that you're wearing a hearing aid!

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

McHenry Man Convicted In Dist. Court Of CDS Possession

A McHenry man was sentenced to six months in jail during recent Garrett County District Court proceedings, after he was convicted of one count of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS).

Curtis A. Springman, 30, was found guilty of that offense by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett, who allowed Springman 88 days' credit for time already served. Additional charges, including possession of CDS with intent to manufacture, distribute, and dispense, and possession of CDS paraphernalia were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

The charges against Springman stemmed from an April 14, 1994 undercover operation, initiated by members of the Maryland State Police, Drug Enforcement Division, who gave the defendant $60 to buy marijuana. According to district court records, Springman entered a residence on Marsh Hill Road, and returned with one-quarter ounce of marijuana. A search and seizure warrant was then issued for Springman's home, and officers recovered 329 marijuana plants in his bedroom, along with growing lights and a large glass bong.

In an unrelated case, Springman was not prosecuted on two counts of possession of a CDS with intent to manufacture, distribute, and dispense, one count of CDS possession, and one count of possession of CDS paraphernalia. These charges stemmed from an undercover operation in February 1994, at the Wisp Ski Resort.

During this incident, an undercover officer made arrangements with the defendant for private ski lessons, and during one lesson, Springman was in possession of marijuana.

In other district court news, John J. Miller, 19, Kitzmiller, was found guilty of one count of felony theft, and one count of malicious business. Judge Burnett sentenced him to four years in jail on the theft charge, with all of the sentence suspended except 18 months, and one year in jail on the malicious business conviction, with all of that sentence suspended except six months. Miller will serve a total of two years in jail for the combined offenses. The sentences will run consecutively. He was also placed on two years of supervised probation upon release from incarceration, and was ordered to obtain his General Education Development certificate. One count of first degree burglary against Miller was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

The charges against the defendant were filed on Oct. 27, 1994, when he reportedly broke into a trailer belonging to a neighbor, and stole a microwave oven, and a VCR.

Court records indicate Miller was in possession of a large digital microwave oven at his mother's home the day after the theft, and told her about a VCR he had pawned in Pennsylvania. Later that day, he attempted to sell the oven to Don Nine, owner of the This 'n That Store, but the front of the item had been damaged, and Nine refused to make the purchase. Miller then sold the oven for $25 to Sylvia Moore, and also told her about pawning the VCR.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies reportedly retrieved the oven from Moore, bearing the same damaged front as the one Nine refused to buy, and it was identified by its owner.

In an unrelated case, Miller was not prosecuted on one count of petty theft because of lack of evidence as to his actual participation, and because a co-defendant pleaded guilty to the offense. Miller and the co-defendant were reportedly involved in the Oct. 18, 1994 theft of an electric guitar from the This 'n That Store, which was later located and identified by its owner.

Carmella M. Kish, 45, Swanton, pleaded guilty to one count of obtaining a prescription drug by fraudulent means. She was handed a 30-day suspended sentence for the offense, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. She was also ordered to continue counseling with the health department. Two additional charges of forging a CDS prescription were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

According to district court records, Kish attempted to fill a prescription for Lorcet Plus (a narcotic pain reliever). The pharmacist determined the prescription looked suspicious, and notified John Sines, Oakland City Police, who determined Kish's physician had written the prescription for her, but it was for Lopermaide, not Lorcet Plus.

The results of a presentence investigation for Mark D. Bridges, 36, Cumberland, who was found guilty in January of one count of battery, and one count of impersonating a police officer, resulted in a 30-day jail term for the combined offenses. He was also fined $350, and placed on two years of supervised probation. A fourth degree sexual offense charge against Bridges was not prosecuted. He was, however, ordered to continue attending Alcoholics Anonymous.

The defendant, under the pretense of being an Allegany County police officer, entered Hoyes Store on Aug. 8, 1991, and asked a 16-year-old employee there if he could use the phone. While the teen was leading Bridges to the phone, he grabbed her by the arm, pulled her close, and grabbed her buttock, according to court records.

SERVICE TREE PLANTED - Planting a service tree that was donated to the town of Mtn. Lake Park on Memorial Day was the mayor of that town, David M. Turney, who was assisted by Dorothy Leighton, a member of the Civic Club of Oakland and founder of the club's "Planting for the Future, Celebrating the Past" project. Another tree was planted at the Accident memorial site, and service tree seedlings will be given to the first 50 families that attend this Saturday's "Enjoy Yesteryear" program at Garrett Community College. Volunteering to help with the tree plantings in the towns was Timberjax of Oakland.

Barbara E. Robbins, 29, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded not guilty, and was found not guilty of battery. She was charged with the offense on March 12, by Ginger Atkinson, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, after an altercation between the two.

In a cross-complaint, filed by Robbins, Atkinson was also found not guilty of battery, stemming from the same incident.

Scott W. Jones, 31, Glen Burnie, was cleared of one count of CDS possession, and one count of possession of CDS paraphernalia in recent district court proceedings. He had been charged by Maryland State Police on July 16, 1994, after a traffic stop on I-68. Jones and a co-defendant were both charged with the drug offenses, but neither had initially claimed ownership of the drugs.

James M. Dean, 34, Grantsville, was not prosecuted on one count of malicious destruction of property, and one count of battery. He had been charged with the offenses on Nov. 26, 1994, by D. Daniel Boone, Grantsville, who claimed the defendant trespassed on his property to retrieve a deer he killed. Boone told Dean he could not access his land to get to his (Dean's) tree stand, and said the defendant became angry and threatened to "bust" him. Dean then reportedly butted his chest against Boone's, and tried to start a fight. When Boone asked him to leave, Dean threatened to close off his access road.

According to district court records, Dean called Boone the next day and demanded a picture back he had lent him, and told him to move his mailbox because he now considered it his (Dean's) property. Boone later noticed the mailbox was pulled out of the ground, and it was lying in the driveway.

VOP CASES

A violation of probation charge was filed against Calvin R. Schrock, 33, Oakland, on his earlier battery conviction. He apparently failed to cooperate in his parent counseling, a condition of his probation. The judge ordered Schrock to successfully complete counseling classes at the health department, and withheld sanctions. Schrock was convicted in March 1994 of striking a 6-year-old child in his care with a belt and a board.

Also determined to be in violation of probation was Rodney G. Rounds, 29, Grantsville, for failing to obey all the laws of his probation. The judge ordered his probation to be continued. Rounds was convicted in Oct. 1992, of assault, resisting arrest, and being disorderly in public during a July 18, 1992 fiddlers' contest in Friendsville.

Gary A. Beckman, 33, Mtn. Lake Park, was found to be in violation of probation from his May 24, 1994 conviction for non-support of a minor child. He reportedly failed to report to his agent during his probation. The judge's decision was to impose sanctions, and ordered Beckman to attend one meeting per week for the next two months.

DWI CASES

Several DWI (driving while intoxicated) and DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) cases were heard in recent district court proceedings.

William Michael Anderson, 38, Md., was found to be in violation of probation from an earlier DWI conviction. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest, and a $1,000 cash bond was issued. His initial DWI arrest occurred on July 6, 1991.

Mark Howard Scarbro, 35, Ohio, pleaded guilty to DUI. He was fined $350, handed a 60-day suspended sentence, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to attend an alcohol treatment program at the health department, and a one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license. His arrest for the offense was on March 13, 1994.

Timothy Scott Kingsinger, 32, Md., had his DWI charge amended to read DUI. He was fined $50 in court costs, and sentencing was set for June 27. He was charged with DWI on Jan. 23.

Johnathan Arciniegas, 25, N.Y., pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty of DUI. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $150, and placed on 12 months of supervised probation. His DWI arrest occurred on Feb. 5.

Ronald Clifford Hetz Jr., 22, Md., was convicted of Regulations, Profitability Top Young Farmer Concerns

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Farming In Maryland.....

Sustaining profitability while contending with government regulations is the biggest challenge facing America's young farmers and ranchers. At the same time, young producers say the federal government should take steps to protect property rights and cut spending, according to an American Farm Bureau Federation survey. Overall, the future of American agriculture is promising and appears to be in able hands. Those are some findings of a recent AFBF survey of 215 farmers and ranchers, ages 18 to 30, from across the nation. The survey tracks the attitudes and choices of young farm and ranch couples on issues ranging from the environment to off-farm employment. This is the survey's third year.

According to the survey, 30 percent of the young producers say their biggest concern is overall profitability. Last year's top challenge, government regulations, is second this year, selected by 22 percent of those surveyed. Overall profitability was last year's second choice and the top choice in 1993.

Like 1994's survey, the availability of agricultural financing is third, cited by 12 percent of those surveyed, and the availability of land and facilities is fourth, with 11 percent. This year's list of other top concerns, in order, are: tax burdens; the willingness of parents to turn over the operation's reins; urban encroachment; and rural health care.

When asked to select the most important action that government could take to benefit their farm or ranch, nearly one of every three young farmers say the government should strengthen property rights protection -- a result that mirrors last year's survey. Cutting federal spending is second with 24 percent, and lowering federal taxes is third with 15 percent.

Other important recommendations include: decreasing government involvement in agriculture, 10 percent; and meaningful regulatory reform, seven percent. Health care reform is also a priority, as is ensuring the availability of crop protestants, increasing voluntary environmental incentives and increasing rural development programs. When asked their opinion on 1995 farm program legislation, 84 percent say they would like a more market-oriented approach with greater flexibility, compared to 16 percent who say they prefer the current program with only minor modifications.

On conservation issues, the group, as in past surveys, reports high usage of leading stewardship practices. Sixty percent say they employ conservation tillage on their farm. Fifty-four percent say they practice crop rotation using three or more crops, and 47 percent say they regularly test soil or crop tissue prior to nutrient application. Twenty-eight percent say they employ integrated pest management techniques, such as field scouting, to reduce crop protestant use.

Regarding other stewardship practices, 23 percent report they participate in the conservation reserve program; 21 percent regularly test their well water; 18 percent contour farm or strip crop; 15 percent leave crop strips unharvested for wildlife; and 15 percent actively manage wetland resources.

Recognizing the importance of both economics and the environment, 62 percent say they select farming practices based on the effect on the environment and costs - with an emphasis on economics. Nearly a third (31 percent) say they base their farming practices on both - with an emphasis on the environment. Those results mirror last year's survey. Only 6.2 percent say they base their farming practices solely on economics, and 1.4 percent say their decisions are based solely on environmental considerations.

This year's survey indicates that young farmers employ a number of management and marketing practices to gain a competitive edge. Thirty-six percent say they use outside accounting services -- the most popular choice. More than 35 percent say they use marketing information services, and just more than 30 percent say they use futures and options to market their commodities.

Thirty-one percent of the young farmers employ crop consultants, 27 percent are involved in contract production and 20 percent consult with agricultural marketing or management specialists. In an area headed for considerable growth, three percent of respondents say they use the satellite technology of global positioning in their operations.

Overall, young farmers and ranchers are on the cutting edge when it comes to the use of electronic and communications technology. Seventy-one percent say they use computers in their operations, 59 percent use cellular telephones and 27 percent use fax machines. The use of other technology includes: computer on-line services, bulletin boards or electronic mail, 22 percent; and home satellite reception, 21 percent.

When asked their attitude regarding agriculture's future, 72 percent of the young farmers say they are more optimistic than they were five years ago. Less than two thirds of last year's survey group (61.5%) were more optimistic, down from 67 percent in 1993.

This year, 80 percent of the survey's respondents say they are "better off" than five years ago. Again that number is more optimistic than 1994's 66 percent and 1993's 77 percent.

Nearly all (99.5 percent) of the young farmers surveyed express wishes to be life-long farmers or ranchers, compared with 99 percent last year and 95 percent in 1993. On a similar note, 94 percent say they would like their children to follow in their footsteps as farmers. That compares to 87 percent in 1994 and 81 percent two years ago.

However, 68 percent of the young farmers indicate that they, their spouse, or both work off the farm, up from 62 percent in 1994. Wives are the sole source of off farm employment in 68 percent of those instances (65 percent in 1994), while, like last year's survey, husbands were the sole off-farm worker for 12 percent of the respondents. Both spouses work off the farm in 20 percent of the cases, down from 23 percent last year.

Of the young producers that say one or both spouses work off the farm, 47 percent say the availability of health insurance is the primary reason. That's up from 46 percent in 1994.

When asked why they choose to farm, 67 percent say their choice is based on both lifestyle and business aspects, up from 1994's 54 percent. Thirty-two percent say they farm because of lifestyle advantages, down from 46 percent last year. Just less than 1 percent say the sole reason they farm is the business aspect of agriculture.

Milk -- Quality Control From Cow To You

When it comes to food the United States has not only one of the most plentiful food supplies in the world, but one of the safest.

Perhaps the safest product of them all is milk. Consumers can be assured that milk is safe, because it's the most monitored product in the entire food supply, according to the National Institutes of Health.

The milk safety inspection system involves a series of tests by federal and state inspectors and by the dairy industry itself to confirm the safety of all milk and dairy products. From the cow to your store, at least 10 checks, tests and inspections are made to ensure that consumers have only wholesome, healthy and safe products from which to select at their local supermarket dairy case.

Quality Starts On The Farm

The continuing high quality of milk starts on the dairy farm. Even beyond natural pride, producers have a real incentive to produce the safest milk possible. If they don't, they lose money. Dairy farmers work closely with their herd veterinarian to practice sound disease prevention, conduct careful medical treatment and maintain timely, accurate records. State and federal regulations require on-farm cleanliness and equipment sanitation. Many dairy producers even do their own on-farm testing to further ensure milk quality.

Milk delivered to the dairy plant is tested before it is unloaded. Any load that does not pass inspection is dumped without ever entering the plant. Recent studies have shown that well over 99 percent of all milk delivered by farmers passes inspection.

FDA Supervision

Two branches of the Federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA) work to ensure the safety of dairy foods. The Milk Safety Branch enforces the Pasteurized Milk Ordinance, the basic federal reference for all milk-testing program. The FDA Center for Veterinary Medicine (CVM) reviews all animal medications to be used on milk-producing cows. Test medications must meet stringent CVM standards regarding effectiveness and safety before being approved. FDA doesn't just rest there. Above and beyond all other tests, last year alone FDA also made 5,500 random tests of milk samples inspected by state regulators to ensure testing accuracy. In addition, FDA distributed 5,000 medication-specific test kits to state regulators for their use.

Additional Protection

In addition to federal testing, each of the 50 states, as well as the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, carries out extensive dairy-safe and milk-quality tests. Each state also tests pasteurized milk and milk products. Dairy farms and dairy plants handling fluid milk production are covered by the National Conference on Interstate Milk Shipments, an organization of federal and state health officials and regulators, state agricultural regulators and representatives of the dairy industry. This group makes recommendations on strengthening the Pasteurized Milk Ordinance and coordinates voluntary efforts of local, state and federal regulatory agencies as they oversee and ensure the production, processing and handling of quality milk and dairy products.

Finished Milk Testing

As milk is processed, pasteurized and homogenized, laboratory checks are made to evaluate the color, odor, appearance, temperature and taste of milk. Butterfat content is analyzed for accuracy and tests are conducted to ensure proper pasteurization.

Next, a laboratory runs additional tests to ensure safety. Shelf-like testing is conducted to ensure that the code life is correctly stated. Routine tests are also made to ensure package integrity and weight, and to offer a final check for the presence of animal medication residues or added water.

Finally, there's the ultimate test. Consumer satisfaction. Each day, millions of Americans give their stamp of approval to wholesome, healthy and safe milk.

Pork Board To Elect Delegates

Maryland Pork Producers Association (MPPA) President, Steve Ernst has announced that the election of the two pork producer delegate candidates for the 1996 Delegation Body of the National Pork Board (Pork Act) will take place at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, June 20. What's Happening To The Cattle Market?

by Dr. Scott Barao
Extension Livestock Specialist

Any one who has been watching the cattle markets can't help but be depressed. Everyone is asking questions about what's happening and why. NCA recently provided some insight into recent and future market trends. Here is some information based on some of the most frequently asked questions.

What's Behind Recent Declines In Cattle Prices?

A number of factors, both short and long term, are involved. A basic problem is that there are record supplies of meat weighing on the market. At the same time, demand for meat is not currently growing as fast as supply. The industry is in the midst of a longer-term cyclical increase in beef output--during a time of record supplies of competing meats. In the first quarter of this year, poultry production increased eight percent; pork, seven percent; and beef, two percent over year-earlier levels. As usual, factors like market psychology and bargaining position are involved in short-term fluctuations. Among other factors analysts note, is a trend to more "captive" supplies (inventory controlled by packers). This trend has resulted in a decline in the number of negotiated cash trades, which is believed to have contributed to recent price weakness and volatility.

What's Happening To The Spreads Between Cattle Prices And Retail-Beef Prices?

Featured retail-beef prices have declined with cattle prices. Most beef sold by supermarkets moves on advertised specials, and data from the Beef Industry Council/-Cattle-Fax Beef Featuring Analysis Program show featured retail-beef prices have declined along with fed-steer prices. In early 1995, the advertised-feature price trend was below the live-steer price trend. Retailers narrowed their margins during this period and more than passed lower prices for boxed beef on to consumers through advertised price features. The analysis program show beef featuring has increased substantially and beef has accounted for increasing shares of the total price-feature advertising of meat in newspapers.

Be On The Lookout For Slugs

I have had a couple of reports of slugs in corn. The wet weather we have had is just excellent for slugs. More often slugs will bother corn that has been planted in corn stalks or where heavy applications of manure have been placed. There is a new slug product on the market called Deadline Bullets. It is a bait that is broadcast over the corn. I doubt if the product is available in our area. The other alternative is to apply 20 gallon of 30 percent urea liquid nitrogen per acre overtop the slugs. The liquid must come in direct contact with the slugs; therefore, the application must be made when they are feeding which means you will need to be in the field around midnight. If you need additional information, persons may call at 334-1190.

MD Thoroughbred Industry Cultivates Japanese Connection

While conflicting opinions between state-of-the-art automobile manufacturers in the United States and Japan made headline news during early May, a small group of thoroughbred boosters from Maryland and Japan prepared to follow American humorist Mark Twain's century-old philosophy that "a difference of opinion is what makes horse races."

To that end, Yutaka Yoshioka, chairman of the Japan Association of International Horse Racing, spent a day (May 9) visiting segments of Maryland's thoroughbred industry. Yosioka's stops in the Old Line State included Pimlico Race Course in Baltimore--home of the famed Preakness Stakes; Northview Stallion Station at Chesapeake City--home of the first and second leading sires in the Mid-Atlantic region--and the Dark Hollow horse farm near Upperco-breeder of the Eclipse award winner, Safely Kept.

Arrangements for Yoshioka's Maryland tour were coordinated by Malcolm J. Commer, Jr., livestock economist for the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland at College Park. Dr. Commer is stationed at the Extension Service's Agricultural Marketing Center, located near Queenstown.

Commer had met Yoshioka during a two-week trip to Japan last December in an effort to enhance prospects for exports of U.S. thoroughbred horses.

Commer is the coordinator for a marketing project, originally funded by the USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service and the Southern United States Trade Association through the Maryland Department of Agriculture under an agreement with the University of Maryland.

Also accompanying the Japanese thoroughbred representative on the Maryland tour were Dr. Henry A. Virts, deputy secretary, Maryland Department of Agriculture; Paul W. Scheidt, executive director of the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation; Dr. Sheldon S. Steinberg, executive vice president, International Bridge, Inc.; and Richard W. Wilcke, executive vice president of the Maryland Horse Breeders Association.

Yosioka appeared favorably impressed by what he saw in Maryland. So a strengthening of the Maryland-Japan thoroughbred linkage seems likely.

Already, Dr. Commer is exploring funding sources to support a possible series of educational seminars, starting in 1996, that would deal with common issues affecting the U.S. and Japanese thoroughbred industries. The first seminar is scheduled to be held in Japan in June 1966.

Funding to support the seminars is expected to come from a combination of industry and government sources in both Japan and the United States. For further information contact Dr. Malcolm J. Commer Jr. at (410) 827-5378, or T. Milton Nelson at (301) 405-4596.

USDA Survey Of American Ag To Begin Soon

Farmers will be asked during the first half of June to take part in a nationwide survey of American agriculture.

As the primary source of agricultural information for NASS data, this survey is one of the largest and most important conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS). The resulting information will be used to make reliable state, regional, and national estimates of crop acreage, grain stocks, and hog inventories. The Maryland Agriculture Statistics Service in Annapolis is handling the Maryland portion of the survey.

Producers themselves rely on the data to reach valid production, marketing, and investment decisions. Congresspersons and regulators use the information to produce better regulations and farm programs. Industry analysts, extension agents, farm organizations, and agricultural lenders need the information for a variety of reasons.

It is therefore important for Maryland farmers to participate in the survey to ensure that local agriculture is accurately portrayed. Most producers selected for interviews will soon be notified by mail.

"We safeguard the confidentiality of all survey responses," Bruce West, said. "Data about individual operations are used only in conjunction with information from other producers." Participants may receive summarized survey results for their state and the nation upon request.

Food Celebrities Tune In To June Dairy Month

This year marks the 58th celebration of June Dairy Month, a tribute to the vital role milk and dairy products play in the American diet and the outstanding contribution made by American's 140,000 dairy farmers.

Back in 1937, when June Dairy Month was first celebrated, Americans were learning how to cook in their mothers' kitchens, using treasured family recipes handed down from generation to generation. But over the years, busy lifestyles and working parents meant less time to spend cooking. Today, many adults learn about food through newspapers, magazines, cookbooks, and television's popular chefs.

To help celebrate June Dairy Month, TV food celebrities are sharing some of their favorite dairy recipes. Included are Martha Stewart's buttery Peach and Nectarine Cobbler, Bob Bowersox's satisfying Mushroom Broccoli Stroganoff, and Pierre Franey's luscious Chicken Breasts with Blue Cheese Sauce, plus several others.

Although the way we learn to cook has changed, one thing has stayed the same since the first June Dairy Month: cooks know they can count on the exceptional taste, quality and versatility of dairy products.

Martha Stewart, America's foremost food and design expert, has welcomed thousands of Americans into her home through her national weekly television show and many publications. Martha uses only the finest ingredients in her cooking, including real butter as featured in her Peach and Nectarine Cobbler.

Peach and Nectarine Cobbler

Crust:

2½ cups unbleached all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons sugar
1 cup (2 sticks) unsalted butter, chilled and cut in small pieces
4 tablespoons ice water
2 large egg yolks, lightly beaten

Filling:

14 peaches
8 tablespoons vanilla sugar (see note)
4 tablespoons (½ stick) butter

Preheat the oven to 375°F. Butter two 8- or 10-inch dishes. Combine the flour and sugar in the bowl of a food processor. All ingredients should be cold. Add the chilled butter in pieces and process for approximately 10 seconds, or until mixture resembles coarse meal. (To mix by hand, combine the dry ingredients in large mixing bowl. Using a pastry blender or two table knives, cut in the butter until the mixture resembles coarse meal.) While machine is running, add the ice water, a few drops at a time, along with the egg yolks, one at a time, through the feed tube, just until the dough holds together without being wet or sticky. Do not over-process; 30 seconds should be sufficient. Test the dough at this point by squeezing a small amount together. If it is too crumbly, add a bit more water. Divide the dough into two equal amounts. Place each on a piece of plastic wrap and press the dough into a flat circle with your fists. (This makes rolling easier than if the pastry is chilled as a ball.) Wrap or chill well, at least one hour. Wash and dry the fruit. Cut into wedges and evenly distribute between the two prepared baking dishes. Sprinkle the fruit with 3 tablespoons of the vanilla sugar per dish and dot with the butter, 2 tablespoons per dish. Roll out each piece of dough large enough to cover the top of each baking dish. Place the dough over the fruit and pinch around the edge of dough large enough to cover the top of each baking dish. Place the dough over the fruit and pinch around the edge of the baking dish to seal. Trim the excess dough. Make 4 or 5 slits in the dough to allow steam to escape and divide the remaining sugar, sprinkling it over the top of each crust. Bake for 45 minutes until the crust is golden brown. Serve warm or cooled.

Yield: Two 8- or 10-inch cobblers. Note: To make vanilla sugar, store 6 to 8 fresh vanilla beans in a covered quart jar filled with white sugar. Replenish the sugar as you use it.

GCCAC Raising Funds To Purchase Needed Freezers

In an effort to raise funds to purchase two new freezers for the Garrett County Community Action Committtee's (GCCAC) Food Resources Warehouse, the GCCAC Community and Emergency Services Department sponsored a recent raffle to give away a handmade knotted comforter and an afghan.

The raffle, one in a series of fundraisers being coordinated through the joint efforts of Volunteer Maryland member Melissa Green, and AmeriCorps members Shannon Ottaviani and Jeannie Frazee, raised GCCAC RAFFLE WINNERS NAMED - Betty Murphy was the winner of a handmade knitted afghan donated to the Garrett County Community Action's freezer fundraiser. $150 to be used toward the necessary purchase.

The comforter, made and donated by CAC volunteer Erma Stephens, was won by Brenda Roszell, Friendsville. The afghan, made and donated by CAC volunteer Mildred Stewart, was won by Betty Murphy, Oakland. The winning tickets were drawn by Head Start student Nick Wilt.

"The GCCAC Food Resources is in desperate need of more freezer space," said Frazee. "Right now, they are trying to serve 804 needy families with only two freezers."

"We have the opportunity to purchase a variety of frozen products for the 'Brown Bag' program," said Linda Green, director of C&E Services. "Because of limited freezer space, we have not been able to take advantage of what would be a wonderful food resource. If we had several more freezers, it would allow us to stock more meats and a wider variety of foods."

Donations for the Food Resources' Freezer Fund are still being accepted, and may be made by contacting Linda Green at 334-9431.

Funds Available For Humanities

The Maryland Humanities Council grants awards competitively for exhibits, films, lectures, conferences, or public programs in those academic disciplines which study people, their ideas, history, literature, and values - "the humanities." The humanities include history, philosophy, languages, literature, ethics, linguistics, archaeology, comparative religion, jurisprudence, those aspects of the social sciences employing historical or philosophical approaches, and the history, theory, and criticism of the arts and architecture.

Eligible sponsors include non-profit community organizations such as libraries, museums, local governments, public radio and television stations, educational institutions, historical organizations, civic groups, senior citizen centers, churches and synagogues, jails and prisons, and ad hoc committees. These grants support over 339 programs annually reaching 1,188,600 Maryland citizens.

Proposal deadlines are as follows: first drafts, June 15 and October 16; final drafts, July 31, and November 30; and decision dates, September 16 and January 20, 1996.

There are no specific deadlines for programs requesting $1,200 or less.

Persons may call or write the Maryland Humanities Council at 601 North Howard St., Baltimore, MD 21201-4585, (410) 625-4830, to request grant information or a free subscription to the council's magazine Maryland Humanities.

The Maryland Humanities Council is an independent, non-profit, statewide affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. In 1995, the NEH provided Federal funding representing 73% of the council's overall budget for operations, programs and services. Additional support for council programs is provided by Maryland's Division of Historical and Cultural Programs; and by foundations, corporations, and individuals throughout the state.

Persons may sign up for the canoe trip in person at the office of Savage River State Forest or by phone at 895-5759 or 746-8359.

Commission Seeks Grant Applications

The Maryland Drug and Alcohol Abuse Program Fund is now accepting grant applications from community groups and organizations seeking to initiate or continue community based, grass roots programs dealing with crime prevention, the prevention of drug and alcohol abuse, and substance abuse treatment. The fund is administered by the Governor's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission and is responsible for overseeing $600,000 in awards to chosen programs.

Governor Parris N. Glendening said the program is an "excellent opportunity" for local communities and grassroots organizations to assess their needs and request assistance in startup funding. "The program assures seed money that allows communities to initiate a wide variety of prevention efforts specifically targeted towards their needs and their residents," the Governor said.

Last year 150 completed grant applications were received requesting more than $1.5 million. The program funded 106 organizations with most grant awards ranging between $500 and $5,000. Terry Walsh Roberts, executive director of the Commission, said demand for these grants far exceeds the dollars available and that the Commission strives to fund as many requests as possible. "We prefer to see grant applications that are non-salary driven, and request such items as printing and copying costs, support equipment or in-state training programs for community groups," he said. Grant requests should not act as a substitute or replacement of existing resources, volunteers, or contributions, he added.

Community groups and organizations requesting a grant application should contact Diana Evans at 410/321-3521. Applications are due by June 30. Awards will be announced in late July.

Bank Employees Collect $1,500 For Heart Assoc.

Employees of the First United National Bank & Trust recently raised over $1,500 for the American Heart Association (Western Maryland Division, Garrett County Branch) during the third annual TeleParty event held at the bank's Oakland Office.

The TeleParty raises funds for the American Heart Association through a telephone drive.

"This year we had 11 volunteers calling past donors to the AHA to renew their support. We also recruited new contributors for the American Heart Association," stated Kathy Knotts, community office manager for First United's Oakland and mid-town offices, who serves as chairperson for the event.

"I'd like to commend all of the First United employees who dedicated their time to help the American Heart Associations" added Jeannette Rudy Fitzwater, first vice president and director of marketing for the bank and in-coming chairperson for the AHA's Garrett County branch. "Kathy Knotts, Kimberly Shaffer, and Susan Piper did a tremendous job organizing the event. This was First United National Bank & Trust's third year conducting a TeleParty event for the American Heart Association and the grand total raised by our employees has topped $5,000."

Also assisting with the TeleParty event were Shirley Bernard, Christine Dull, Stephanie Filsinger, Helen Moyer, Carissa Rodeheaver, Jonna Sanders, Stephanie Shay, and Robin Tasker.

"The American Heart Association and First United National Bank & Trust would like to thank all of the generous contributors who helped make this event so successful," remarked Francis L. Grimm, senior vice president at the bank and chairman for the AHA's Garrett County branch. "I would also like to thank all of the local businesses that contributed food and prizes for the event, including Denny's Restaurant, Dr. Willy's Seafood Company, Food Lion, Mid Towns Cinemas, Oak-Mar Motel and Restaurant, Par-Matt Lanes, Pizza Hut, and Pizzeria Uno.

"The funds raised by the First United employees will help continue cardiovascular research as well as educational programs in our area. The good news is [that] there has already been a dramatic reduction in the death toll for cardiovascular diseases. From 1979 to 1989, the death rates from all major forms of cardiovascular disease dropped impressively: heart attack deaths were down 30 percent, stroke deaths declined 31.5 percent, high blood pressure related death rates dropped 19.3 percent, and rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease rates were reduced 42.3 percent.

"These important gains are one of the American Heart Association's continuing success stories. But there is still much to do and that is the reason First United National Bank & Trust supports the AHA in their fund-raising efforts, Grimm concluded."

For more information about cardiovascular diseases and stroke, or to make a contribution to the American Heart Association, persons may call (800) 734-3769.

Local Students Complete Course On Babysitting

Eighteen area students recently completed the professional babysitting course offered by the Continuing Education Department of Garrett Community College.

The 12 hours of classroom study included sessions on responsibilities of a sitter, dealing with emergency situations, entertaining youngsters with games, discipline strategies, developing positive bedtime and mealtime procedures, and general information on proper child care. Presenters/instructors were: Alice Hevner, of the Cooperative Extension Service; David Moon, of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad; Sally Boone, prevention and outreach coordinator for the Garrett County Health Department; Patricia Baer, assistant program director for continuing education at GCC; Renee Sherrard, R.N.; and Laurel Grant, R.N. of Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Students also received some hands-on experience in the care of 1-year-old Patricia Sherrard.

Each student was awarded a citation for the number of contact hours completed. The names of the students who completed all 12 hours of the training are available to persons needing the services of babysitters. They may be obtained by contacting the GCC Office of Continuing Education.

Because of the overwhelming response to the April course, GCC will conduct another class this month. It will meet Friday, June 23, and Saturday, June 24, from 9 a.m. to 3:35 p.m. at the Oakland Center of the college.

According to Mrs. Baer, the course is also good training for new parents or those about to become parents. For more information on the class or to register, persons may contact Mrs. Baer at 334-8304 or 387-3069.

Chip Lee, pastor. The church, which is operated in conjunction with St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park, was built in 1932 on land donated by Judge George Stewart Brown. According to church historical records, it was established by "faith and 50 dollars," with the 50 dollars provided by the Women's Auxiliary of Old St. Paul's Church in Baltimore. Rev. Lee invites all to attend the summer services.

Chaplaincy Of GCMH To Note 10th Anniversary

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital chaplaincy will host a reception on Wednesday, June 14, in celebration of its 10th anniversary of service to the patients and staff of Garrett Memorial.

The reception will be held from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the main lobby of Garrett Memorial for hospital patients, staff and the community, with chaplains available each hour to serve refreshments as well as provide information about the chaplaincy program. "Our original group of 10 chaplains has grown to a volunteer staff of 24. We're pleased to be able to continue being a vital part of total patient care at Garrett Memorial."

Friendsville Students Create Island Memorial

Students of Friendsville Elementary School recently participated in "Islands", an arts project focusing on an island which was once located in the Youghiogheny River immediately adjacent to the present elementary school site. The island, destroyed in the '50s as part of an effort to control the river's flooding, was remembered fondly by older Friendsville residents as a "natural playground".

The project, based in Carolyn Collen-Dubose's art classes and directed by resident artist Don Cook, encouraged students to create imaginative drawings and paper sculptures in response to older town members' memories of the lost Youghiogheny island. Students from the classes of Mrs. Miller, Mr. Glotfelty, and Mrs. Schofield participated in the "Islands" project.

"Islands" provided an opportunity for students to integrate art, geography, earth science, and local history into one, focused project. According to spokesperson Don Cook, the project also brought together the memories of Friendsville's older citizens and the imaginations of the town's youngest members to form a common expression of community memory and childhood dreams. In the final phase of the 12-day project, students collaboratively built a large compound wreath of woven natural materials, including grapevines, greenery, and launched it onto the site of the original island as a part of the school's recent Enrichment Fair.

Community support was provided by Gary Galloway and the staff of Friendsville Elementary School, Ina Hicks and the Friend Family Museum and Library, Jerry Custer, James "Pappy" Ross, Karen Meteny, Sharon Hoover, Mary Dewitt, and Crede Calhoun. The project was made possible through a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council.

Amnesty Granted To Illegal Child Care Providers

The Child Care Administration at the Maryland Department of Human Resources is continuing its Amnesty Program to help unregistered family child care providers become registered providers.

The Amnesty Program allows providers to continue caring for children while completing the registration process.

"We know there are many people out there providing child care who may not be aware that the law requires them to be registered," said Secretary Alvin C. Collins. "We want to let them know that their commitment to care for children is admirable, but they must meet state regulations."

To be granted amnesty, participants must enter into an agreement with the Child Care Administration, attend an orientation meeting, complete an application and complete the registration process within 12 months.

Maryland law makes providing illegal child care a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of up to $1,000, and also provides for civil penalties up to $1,000 for each violation with a maximum penalty of $5,000.

For additional information about the Amnesty Program, persons may call the Child Care Administration at 767-7063.

Receives Honors For School Work

Mandy Stemple, daughter of Robert and Wilma Stemple, Oakland, and a 1995 graduate of Southern High School, was recently named to Who's Who Among American High School Students for the fourth straight year and was also named a U.S. Achievement Academy award winner in both history and government, and honor roll.

Only five percent of the nation's high school students are named to Who's Who. She is eligible to be awarded one of 150 scholarships provided annually by Who's Who.

Miss Stemple received the awards from the Achievement Academy based upon a variety of criteria, including academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, citizenship, and attitude, as well as a recommendation by a teacher, coach, counselor, or other school official. This is the second time in her high school career that she has been so recognized by the Academy.

Her biography will appear in the Academy's yearbook.

Inducted Into Honor Society

Melissa Thomas, Accident, was among seven Frostburg State University students who were recently inducted as charter members of the Epsilon Zeta Chapter of Alpha Honor Society.

Phi Alpha is the largest social work honor society in the United States. It was founded in 1960 by a group of undergraduate social work majors at Michigan State University. Over 60 chapters are now in existence, with new chapters being founded each year.

According to an FSU spokesman, Phi Alpha seeks to foster high standards of education for social workers and welcomes those who have attained excellence in scholarship and achievement in social work. An undergraduate student is eligible for membership after achieving national requirements: declared social work as a major, achieved at least sophomore status, completed nine semester hours, achieved an overall grade point average of 3.0 on a 4.0 scale, and achieved at least a 3.25 gpa in required social work classes.

FIVE SOUTHERN MIDDLE SCHOOL students have excelled in mastering the art of basket weaving under the direction of art teacher Marcette Danner. Ms. Danner taught basket weaving as a practical vocational skill. She stressed not only creativity and skill, but also manual dexterity and eye-hand coordination. These latter skills are necessary preparation for various vocational endeavors. Pictured first row left to right are: Jerry Sweitzer, Mark Dever, and Adam Duncan; second row: Charles Sisler, Marcette Danner, and Joshua Geroski.

Local Middle School Students Study At Hickory

Soil profiles, tree diameters, pH readings, river otters, weather instruments, fossils, Cove Run, bears in the forest, compasses, spring wildflowers, predator/prey, trapping, rabies, echolocation, nature games, recreation, soil erosion, producers, consumers, decomposers, and graphing were among topics studied recently by 141 local seventh grade students at Hickory Environmental Education Center near Accident.

According to Joseph L. Winters, coordinator, this three-day program, coupled with the fall resident sessions, allowed all seventh grade students from Northern and Southern middle schools, as well as seventh and eighth graders from Bloomington schools, the opportunity to participate.

The intent of this program was to aid the seventh grade in the meeting of the Maryland School Performance Science Standards. An additional goal was to assist the students in demonstrating the acquisition and integration of some of the major concepts in their life science curriculum, according to Winters.

Instruction during the various sessions were provided by Sharon Hoover; instructional assistant at Hickory, Jay Rice, Gayle Farrar, Linda Mosser, Kurt Lear, Cathy Zinn, and Winters, all science teachers at Northern, Southern, and Bloomington middle schools. Also providing learning experiences were: Louise Upole, Donna Burton, and Leslie Johnston of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources; Garry Morfoot, district soil conservationist; Liz McDowell, bat expert; and Butch Miller who provided a program during each session dealing with basic soil concepts.

Each session provided programs entitled, "Wings and Things," accompanied with live hawks, owls, and ducks, presented by the Department of Natural Resources. Alan Kidmore, Richard Stevens, Sharon Hoover, and April Tichnell were the adult night counselors.

Foster Parents Honored During Appreciation Event

The Garrett County Department of Social Services honored local foster parents with a dinner, May 20, at Silver Tree Inn. Twenty-two licensed foster parents were recognized for the work they do for area children throughout the year, according to a social services spokesperson.

Local department staff, including Robert Shaffer, Rick DeWitt, Cordelia Carson, Tamra Kelley, Monica Barnett, Mike Downton, and Carma White were on hand to salute the foster parents. Board members Eleanor Plachta, Jane Fox, and Wayne Wilt also attended, as did the agency's attorney, Tom Dabney.

Helen and Ernest Ackerman, Mtn. Lake Park, were honored for providing 10 years of service as the local "emergency foster home." In addition, Glenn and Diana Sharpless, Kitzmiller, and Dave and Lynn Shafer, Swanton, were recognized for completing five years of service to the program. These families all received certificates from Governor Parris Glendening.

All foster parents received local certificates, presented by Department of Social Services Director Robert Shaffer. They were commended for their years of service and continued dedication to the children in their care, the spokesperson added.

County Commissioners Roger Glotfelty and Wayne Wilt presented a proclamation to Shaffer and Foster Parent Association President Jim Cornelius, declaring May 1995 as "Foster Parent Appreciation Month in Garrett County."

The Garrett County Department of Social Services currently serves 42 foster children and their families throughout the foster care program. "There is a constant effort to recruit and approve new foster homes, and to retain existing homes," the spokesperson said. "We never know when children will need foster care."

"The goal of foster care is to re-unify families. Temporary care of children is provided by foster parents, while caseworkers and other professionals assist the parents or relatives in solving their problems and meeting the needs of their own children," the spokesperson concluded.

Persons seeking more information about the foster care program, or those who wish to become foster parents, should contact Tamra Kelley at 334-5403.

Cranesville Swamp Tour Planned By Local Sierra Club

The Western Maryland Group of the Sierra Club will lead a public tour of the Cranesville Swamp on Saturday June 10. Biologist Joan McKearnan will lead the group along the boardwalk to look at plants and watch birds.

Cranesville Swamp is one of several Sub-Arctic swamps in Garrett County, according to a Sierra Club spokesperson. These peat bogs are the remains of lakes that were formed thousands of years ago. Now, owned by the Nature Conservancy, the swamp provides habitat for a variety of unusual plants and bird species.

Participants of all ages are invited to meet at the Swallow Falls parking lot at 9:30 a.m. to drive to the area, or go directly to the swamp site, the spokesperson said. The hike will begin at 10 a.m., and end by noon. Participants may bring a lunch and picnic at Swallow Falls following the hike.

From Oakland to the Cranesville Swamp, the directions are as follows: take Herrington Manor Road towards Swallow Falls; follow Cranesville Road to the west; at Lake Ford Church, turn left; follow the dirt road that bears to the right; watch for signs that lead towards the Cranesville Swamp parking lot. For further information, persons may call McKearnan at 689-3650.

BUCKLING UP IN PICKUPS - Seatbelt use in pickup trucks was promoted recently during a Maryland Tourism open house at the Youghiogheny Overlook Information Center near Friendsville. A display, designed by the Garrett County Health Department's highway safety program, was intended to reminded visitors that locally, pickup trucks represent only one-fourth of the vehicles on the roads, but in 1992 were involved in 44 percent of the total number of wrecks that occurred. "In a recent Garrett County survey, only 36 percent of the pickup truck drivers observed were buckled up in their seat belts," commented Diane Lee, GCHD highway safety director. Parents visiting the display were also reminded to use child safety seats properly when children ride along. Pictured is Darlene Murphy, GCHD Community Outreach Team member, along with "BuckleBear," and Accident resident Brenda Ruggiero.

Increase In Fire Deaths Noted In Md.

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele recently announced that the state has experienced an increase in fire deaths during the 1994 calendar year.

According to statistics provided by the marshall's office, during the past year, there were 114 deaths resulting from 83 fatal fires reported in Maryland, which represents a 42.5 percent increase over the 80 fire deaths reported in 1993.

A total of 42 of the fire deaths resulted from 21 fires in Baltimore City, accounting for 36.8 percent of all fire deaths in the state. This represents an increase of 23.5 percent over the 34 fire deaths reported in Baltimore City during 1993.

The majority of the fire deaths in Baltimore City occurred during the first half of the year with 26 deaths reported during the unusually frigid months of January and February. One heating related fire in January resulted in 7 deaths. A total of 13 of the victims of those fires were children age 12 or younger.

Prince George's and Montgomery counties reported a total of 25 fire deaths during 1994: 11 deaths from 10 fatal fires in Montgomery County and 14 deaths from 11 fire incidents in Prince George's County.

After a brief respite, careless smoking has become the leading cause of fatal fires in the state. In 1994, 23 deaths resulted from 16 smoking-related fires, compared to 14 such fire deaths in 1993.

Arson fire deaths continued to decline last year with 8 deaths reported during the year, compared to 10 such deaths during 1993 and 20 in 1992.

Children under the age of 15 accounted for 36 percent of the fatal fire victims in the state last year. Twenty-four of the victims were 4 years old or younger, represented 21.1 percent of all fire death victims during the year.

In 1994, 103 of the deaths resulted from residential structure fires. This was also an increase over the 67 such residential fire deaths recorded in 1993 and 77 such deaths recorded for 1992.

Almost two-thirds of the fire deaths occurred in fires that originated in the living room or bedroom area. A total of 47 deaths were the result of fires that started in the living room while 22 of the deaths resulted from fires that began in the bedroom.

Although Maryland law requires a working smoke detector in all residential properties, there were no working smoke detectors installed in structures where 48.5 percent of the fire deaths occurred.

Last year's tally of 114 fire deaths marks the first time since 1988 that the number of fire deaths in the state exceeded 100.

"It is abundantly clear that the severe winter had a drastic impact on the number of residential fire deaths in our state and, in particular, Baltimore City," Gabriele remarked. "It is also important to note that the failure to install smoke detectors or to maintain detectors in a working condition was a major contributing factor in nearly half of all residential fire deaths. Everyone must realize that fire safety is a personal responsibility that must be shared by all of our citizens."

Teachers' Lives Are Dedicated To Our Nation's Better Future

This year's graduating classes have received their valued diplomas. Their valedictorians have bravely told us how they all face the future unafraid, prepared for whatever may come.

Distinguished speakers addressed the graduates, reminding them that they are the custodians of our nation's future and expressed complete confidence in their ability. And, they are right.

But, let us not forget the teachers who made all this possible. Their work is certainly a "Labor of Love", for their financial reward is far from adequate.

We know most students agree, that graduation day is also a day for remembering that our teachers have completed an important epoch in the lives of their pupils.

Congratulations teachers on another successful graduation day.

State, County Jobless Rates Fall In April

Maryland's employment rate dropped from 4.9 percent in March to 4.6 percent in April, as seasonal hiring caused employment to increase for the second consecutive month.

Maryland's jobless rate is now a full percentage point below the national rate, which fell from 5.7 percent in March to 5.6 percent in April.

Meanwhile, Garrett County's rate dropped from 12. 1 percent in March to 9.9 percent in April. the April 1994 rate was 9.7 percent.

"We are encouraged that Maryland's unemployment rate has reached it lowest point in five years." said Secretary of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) James T. Brady. "However, other economic indicators show that the slowing in the rate of economic growth nationally is being felt in Maryland."

During April, employment grew by 13,500 people to 2,563,104. With this increase, employment rose to a record high for the month, exceeding the April 1994 level by more than 37,200 people. As employment rebounded, the number of employed people fell by about 7,350 to 124,116.

Following seasonal adjustment, the state's unemployment rate remained at 4.9 percent in April.

Seasonal expansion continued to stimulate hiring in April, causing job totals to rise in almost every major industry sector. Most of Maryland's economic expansion is because of job growth in the services sector and strong retail sales. Services, retail trade and construction generated the largest job gains, with seasonal increases in amusements, restaurants, agricultural services and special trade contractors leading the monthly expansion.

Other economic data show that Marylands' economy expanded at a moderate rate during April. Employment by place of work grew moderately, while unemployment insurance claims and benefit payments fell. Retail sales continue to show strength. However, new automobile registrations and housing permits fell, compared with year-ago levels.

Labor market conditions in the Western Maryland regional were noticeably improved in April, with the unemployment rate dropping by more than a full percentage point from 8.0 percent in March to 6.7 percent in April. Jobless rates fell in all the Western Maryland counties. Garrett County's unemployment rate, while remaining the highest in the region, dropped from its double-digit level of the past four months.

Statewide, unemployment rates in April ranged from a low of 2.5 percent in Montgomery County to a high of 12.8 percent in Somerset.

Funds Awarded For New Housing Units In Oakland

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) will provide $447,249 toward construction of new housing units for families and the elderly at the site of the recently demolished Bradley Manor complex in Oakland, U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes announced late last week.

The ARC grant, which is part of a package of federal, state, and local funds totalling $4,472,496, will be used to create 32 townhouses and apartments for the elderly in a development called Yough West, and 32 one- and two-bedroom units for families in a complex called Glades West.

In addition to the 64 housing units, a public park will also be constructed at the 4-acre Bradley Manor site.

"[This] announcement caps years of work to have the Bradley Manor buildings demolished and replaced," a Sarbanes spokesperson stated. "Senator Sarbanes first contacted federal officials in the late 1980's to support local plans for the development. In October of 1994, the senator's wife, Christine Sarbanes, visited the site and met with Oakland Mayor Asa McCain to discuss future plans."

"It is very gratifying to be able to announce the availability of these funds," Sen. Sarbanes commented. "Working with local and state officials, we have waged a long struggle to get this decent, affordable housing for the residents of Oakland, but it has been worth the fight. Decent homes are the basis of a decent life for families and the elderly, and the 64 new homes in Glades West and Yough West communities will be a tremendous asset to Oakland and Garrett County."

Progress on this development was impeded by legal and regulatory snags, a recent Sarbanes press release explained.

"The announcement of these funds is the last step

"WHOA - WHERE ARE THE BRAKES ON THIS THING?!" says Paul Hadfield, a "new vaudevillian" slated to appear in Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's Variety Show for All Ages. The variety show will take place this Saturday, June 17, at 2 and 7 p.m. at Garrett Community College. The show's headliner is Magician Louis Paul, accompanied by numerous other entertainers. Hadfield has toured the country as a wire-walker, unicyclist, and juggler with the Royal Lichtenstein Circus, and has performed solo at festivals, theatres, and schools in the United States and Canada. In addition to the skills mentioned, he also juggles, plays the ukelele, and performs as a character actor. Tickets for the show are available at the following pharmacies: Beachy's, Englander's, Gregg's, and Deep Creek. For more information, persons may call the GLAF office at 387-3082. The show is being made possible in part by funds from Ronald McDonald House.

MOTORISTS DRIVING ALONG HAIR HOLLOW ROAD this past weekend may have thought they were driving back in time. What they actually were driving past was an outing by the Mountain Top Wagon Train Club. The club, formed 15 years ago by Kenneth Resh, Roy Bittinger, and Freddy VanSickle, begins its season on Memorial Day weekend and ends it in October. After paying a $15.00 membership fee, club members ride on donated wagons once a month along various rural routes throughout the county, starting at 9 a.m., stopping for lunch, and ending their journey at around 4 p.m. Persons interested in "going back in time" may call Orvis Platter, club president, at 814-395-5655.

W.Va. Man Injured When Tree Strikes Rig

A Scherr, W.Va., man was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital Friday afternoon after a tree fell across the road and struck the tractor-trailer he was operating on the Loch Lynn-Gorman Road, near the King Wildesen Road, according to the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry.

Allen C. Moreland, 35, was admitted to Cumberland Memorial, but has since been released. He was initially taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

State police said the tree hit the cab and roof of the 1979 Ford tractor Moreland was operating. The flatbed trailer was reportedly undamaged in the 4:55 p.m. mishap.

Also responding to the scene were members of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Man Convicted Of Stabbing Wife Sentenced To Five Years In Jail

An Oakland man previously convicted of unlawful stabbing with intent to maim was sentenced by Garrett County Circuit Judge Fred A. Thayer to five years in the Maryland Department of Corrections. Thomas Franklin Koton, 44, incurred the charge after stabbing his estranged wife several times during a dispute on August 13, 1994.

Koton was convicted of the crime on March 17. He had originally pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity, but that plea was withdrawn and he entered an alford plea of guilty. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered at that time, with the defendant remaining incarcerated at the Garrett County Jail.

Koton stabbed Judy C. Koton, 39, seven times with a pocket knife after entering her property against an ex parte order, according to the report in the court document. This was the second time the defendant had violated the order, which was to have been in effect until January 1995. Mrs. Koton was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the assault.

In other circuit court news, a man who allegedly attempted to rob a Kitzmiller bank will spend two years in jail. Carl Robinette, 28, of Mineral County, W.Va., was indicted by the Grand Jury earlier this year, and faced the charge of conspiracy. Robinette pleaded guilty to the charge at a March hearing, and was sentenced to four years in the department of corrections, two years suspended. Thayer said the remainder of the sentence will be served in the Garrett County Jail, according to the report.

Robinette was indicted after police alleged that he had conspired with Robert Bean, Kitzmiller, to rob the American Trust Bank on Nov. 10, 1993.

Grantsville Man Dies Friday When Car Strikes Tree

One Grantsville man was killed, and another seriously injured in a one-vehicle accident early Friday morning on Rt. 40, near the New Germany Road.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Eric Loye Wilt, 23, died when the 1990 Chevy S-10 pickup he was operating traveled off the road and struck a large tree. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

A passenger in the vehicle, Phillip Andrew Dice, 37, was transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad. Initially listed in serious condition at that facility, he has been upgraded to "stable," according to a hospital spokesperson.

Wilt was born May 4, 1972, in Meyersdale, Pa., a son of Robert Loye and Sheila Ann (Finzel) Wilt, Grantsville.

He was a heavy equipment operator, and a member of St. Ann's Catholic Church.

STOCK MARKET STATE CHAMPS - A three-member team of students from Southern Middle School was recently honored for achieving first place in a state-wide stock market game. The boys were advised by teacher Louis Newcomb and PrimeVest broker Robert Sharps and were able to increase their original simulated sum of $100,000 considerably. See story. Pictured in the front row, left to right, are team members Jared Fike, Jamie Bosley, and Andrew Grant. Shown in the back row, same order, are Bill Ewing, assistant principal; Jack Rickman, principal; and Sharps.

SMS Stock Market Team Honored For Taking First In State Contest

A team of sixth grade students from Southern Middle School was honored last week by the Maryland State Department of Education for placing first in the Maryland Regional Stock Market Game competition, held this spring. Team members Jamie Bosley, Jared Fike, and Andrew Grant were recognized for their achievement at the Economic Education Awards Ceremony, held in Baltimore on May 31.

First United National Bank & Trust sponsored nine middle school teams in the 10-week stock market simulation, and Robert Sharps, local PrimeVest Financial broker, worked with the local team to explain the basics of owning stocks, such as the risk and reward relationship, how to read the financial tables in a newspaper, how to select stocks, and how to develop a portfolio strategy.

For the contest, the state rankings were divided into grade school, middle school, high school, and adult categories. A total of 838 teams from across the state participated in the competition.

At the beginning of the game, each team was allotted a hypothetical sum of $100,000 to buy and sell stocks. In the final standings in this year's competition, Southern Middle's winning team ranked first in the middle school division and ninth place overall with a total of $132,587 in its portfolio. Commissioners Plan To Keep Property Tax Rate At $2.24

In preparing the county budget for the 1995-1996 fiscal year, the Garrett County Board of Commissioners will seek to adopt a property tax rate of $2.24 per $100 of assessed property value, the same tax rate used for the past four consecutive years.

In a public hearing this week, Board Chairman John Braskey stated that although the commissioners have received budget requests from county funded agencies totalling some $5.2 million more than the county's projected revenue for the same period, the county board will seek to preserve the existing $2.24 tax rate.

"Unfortunately, the budgets as submitted are approximately $5.2 million higher than this year's projected expenditures," Braskey said in a prepared statement Tuesday. "The board has been working diligently to scrutinize the various budgets as submitted in order to achieve a tax rate of $2.24.

"I don't think anybody is going to get their proposed requests," Braskey added. "It's just not possible to do that."

Braskey stated that the county budget will be completed by June 27, and will be adopted by the commissioners at 11 a.m. on that day.

This week's public hearing was required by law since the local $2.24 property tax rate will exceed he constant yield rate, which has been set by the state at $2.19 for the tax year beginning July 1. The constant yield rate is the tax rate determined to generate the same amount of revenue as was generated during the previous year.

During the next year, the county's estimated assessable base will increase by 2.4 percent, from $664,637,199 to $681,150,806. If the $2.24 tax rate is maintained during this period, the county will collect 2.4 percent, or $369,905, more property tax than last year.

If the $2.24 tax rate is adopted, one penny of the tax will generate approximately $68,000 in revenue, compared to $62,000 last year and $60,000 during FY 1993-1994.

However, this increase in property tax revenue will

GRANTSVILLE DAYS TURNS WORLD CLASS -- The Annual Grantsville Days Festival, which drew an estimated 12,000 visitors last year, has acquired steadily increasing regional recognition within the '90s. This year, the event will attain a genuinely world-class accent, with the help of not one, but two, international quality performances. Cherie Ort, Grantsville, pictured above on her world champion horse "My Event," competes regularly in world equestrian championships and has won several place finishes. Her best performance came in 1988 when she took the title of World Champion Reserve on one of her saddlebreds, which she describes as "the love of my life." Ort will perform with and display one of her horses on Saturday, June 24, for Grantsville Days. Then on Sunday, Tony Artice, Friendsville, a fourth degree black belt instructor, will lead a Tae Kwon Do demonstration that will include members of the first U.S. martial arts team to tour Russia. Topping off the new events for Grantsville Days, a German shepherd is tentatively scheduled to demonstrate its K-9 skills, under coordinated supervision of the Md. State Police and the Garrett County Sheriff's Dept. Final details, schedules, and times will appear in next week's edition of The Republican.

The Republican Newsstand Price To Be Increased

Citing skyrocketing prices for newsprint, the management of Sincell Publishing Company, Inc., announced this week that the newsstand price of The Republican will be raised to 47 cents per copy, effective with the June 22 issue.

Robert B. Sincell, general manager of the company, noted that the cost of newsprint is now $800 per ton, or approximately 70 percent higher than it was just one year ago. He said that publication of one issue of The Republican requires between three and four tons of newsprint, the price of which is predicted to continue to rise, perhaps through 1996.

"On a percentage basis, raising the price of our newspaper from 35 to 47 cents is a fairly large increase," Sincell said, "but on an individual basis, it amounts to only 12 cents more per copy per week, which is relatively painless for our newsstand customers. We also believe that 47 cents for our newspaper is still a bargain."

He noted that, by making the price 47 cents, with three cents tax the total cost per copy will be a convenient 50 cents.

The additional revenue generated by the price hike will not cover the additional newsprint costs, he said, "but it will obviously offset a large portion of it."

The Republican has currently been averaging nearly 50 pages per week, making it one of the largest weekly newspapers in the state.

Date Set For Grantsville Days Parade

The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department and Grantsville Lions Club will sponsor the annual Grantsville Days Parade slated for June 23 at 7 p.m.

According to an event spokesperson, the parade will be "one of the largest parades in the county."

To register parade entries, persons may call Ken Miller at 895-5470. Line-up time for parade participants is 5:45 p.m. at Grantsville Southern States store.

Juvenile Charged In One-Vehicle Crash Sunday

A 16-year-old juvenile has been charged with several violations by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office following a one-vehicle car wreck Sunday morning. The boy escaped injury in the crash, but the vehicle, which had reportedly been taken without the owner or driver's consent, was totalled.

According to the police report, the defendant took the Colt Vista at approximately 3 a.m. Sunday morning. It had been parked at his home, where the driver, Ann-Marie Ashby, 16, was staying overnight with a friend. Miss Ashby had no knowledge that the vehicle was being taken, as the defendant did not ask her permission to do so, according to the report. The car is owned by Joseph Ashby Jr., Oakland.

At approximately 5:30 a.m., the defendant was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed and at the intersection of Steiding Church and Turkey Neck roads, failed to negotiate a curve. The vehicle crossed over the eastbound lane and traveled onto an embankment. After going 300 feet across the embankment, the car hit a ditch and overturned three times, coming to rest on its wheels, according to the report.

The sheriff's office was notified at approximately 6 a.m. about the accident, and officers responded to a family member's home where the defendant was asleep. According to the report, the family member spent 20 minutes attempting to wake the defendant for the officers to question him about the accident.

The 16-year-old was charged with taking a vehicle without the owner's consent, driving while intoxicated (DWI), speeding, negligent driving, and driving without a license.

In other sheriff's office news, an Oakland woman was charged with DWI by Dep. C. Warnick. Beverly J. Snyder, 26, was stopped at 2:50 a.m. on Rt. 50 after she allegedly crossed the center line.

"A SUCCESSFUL RUN" would be an understatement in describing the recent presentation of Wizard of Oz by the Garrett Choral Society, which played to six sell-out crowds at Garrett Community College. During the curtain call of the final performance Sunday afternoon, Choral Society director Nancy Learey was called to the stage and presented a plaque of appreciation by the McDonald's Corporation, which was a major sponsor of a grant awarded the Choral Society by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Board of Directors. Mrs. Learey is pictured above with Jason McClung, right, assistant manager of the Oakland McDonald's Restaurant. At right is Fred Stemple, executive director of GLAF. Also identifiable in the photo is Dana Braskey, second from left, who played the lead character, Dorothy Gale, in the production, and at far right is none other than the Wizard of Oz himself, portrayed by Paul Shogren.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Alfred D. Friend Jr., 38, Swanton. He was accused of failing to pay fees, according to the report.

Ellinor Benedict To Give Cello-Fiddle Recital

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival has announced its fifth offering of the 1995 season, which will be a unique recital by local musician Ellinor Benedict. The performance, set for June 23 at 8 p.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium, will feature Ms. Benedict as cellist as well as fiddler.

For the first half of the program, the musician will perform classical pieces on the cello, including Sonata in G Major by Sammartini, Sonata in E minor by Brahms, and The Swan, Saint-Saens; The Bee, Schubert; and Hungarian Rhapsody, Popper.

The atmosphere will change for the second half of the program as Ms. Benedict takes up the fiddle to perform rag-time pieces, waltzes, and numbers such as Bile Them Cabbage Down, Red Wing, and Orange Blossom Special.

Born in Cambridge, Mass., to musical parents, Ms. Benedict began studying cello at age 8. She earned a bachelor of arts degree from Radcliffe College and a master of arts degree from Vassar College, both in music. Following a year of post graduate study at the Juilliard School in New York City, she joined the cello section of Washington's National Symphony Orchestra under Howard Mitchell in 1949.

According to the musician, she suddenly became inspired to learn fiddle when her daughter took her to the Friendsville Fiddle Contest in 1986. Never having played the violin in any form before, she said she has found it a "huge challenge" to acquire proficiency on it since, compared to the cello, the fiddle is "miniature, upside down, and backwards." The styles and tunes were also entirely new to her, having been in concert music all her life. She has won trophies in numerous fiddle contests, beginning at Friendsville in July 1987.

Accompanying Ms. Benedict in the recital will be pianist Anita Childs and guitarist Philip Birkby.

Vandalism Reported To Oakland Police

The Oakland City Police are currently investigating the report of a vandalism at Simon's Barber Shop, Alder Street, Oakland.

According to the property's owner, Mary Bennett, who reported the incident on June 7, approximately 20 feet of pipe railing that runs along the sidewalk was damaged, and the vandals also pulled it loose from the building. Bennett noted the sidewalk drops approximately four feet to the walkway into the barber shop.

Cpl. E.L. Alexander is the investigating officer.

THEFT REPORTED

James H. Garner, Oakland, reported the June 10 theft of an AM/FM Magnavox radio/cassette player from his 1986 Chevrolet Cavalier.

The radio, valued at $200-$250, was taken from the vehicle as it was parked on Fifth Street. Garner said the car was parked in the morning, and when he returned that afternoon, the radio had been removed.

Police said no other damage was reported to Garner's vehicle. Cpl. Alexander is continuing his investigation into the matter.

Silver Spring Man Charged By DNR Ranger

A Silver Spring man was arrested Sunday at Swallow Falls State Park, according to a release from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. Eric D. Adams, 27, was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Adams was arrested as Ranger Michael Cooper was registering him for a campsite at the park, according to the report. The defendant was later released on his own recognizance by a District Court commissioner.

GLAF Gala Benefit Auction Plans Nearly Complete For June 24 Event

Auction preparations are being completed this week for the eighth annual Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Gala, "A Red Hot Affair" benefit dinner and auction slated for Saturday, June 24, at Wisp's McHenry House. The event is to begin at 6 p.m. Guests are encouraged to wear some article of red to enhance the festive evening of dining, dancing, and bidding at the traditional auction. The proceeds of the affair will benefit the performing arts program of GLAF.

Crosswinds, a dance band from Keyser, W.Va., under the direction of Dr. John Hawkins, will make its first appearance at the benefit.

Numerous works of art, home accessories, trips, and services will be available for bidding under direction of the auctioneer Roger Ware. A watercolor work by Alexis Lavine, a Cumberland artist, is one of the original paintings being featured, along with works of Jim McNeil, Milburn Melhop, Hannah Hollister Ingmire, Hannibal, Missourit and Lisa Schmidt, and Savage Mills. Works by photographer Robert Beach will also be offered.

Dennis Ruane has contributed his hand-carved spoons, and Charles and Donna Garman of Adonna Dolls have donated a handcrafted original Noah's Ark. A bentwood hickory chair of local Amish artisan Amos Zook will round out the original wood designs.

Also going on the auction block will be a Victorian oak side table, given by Jan and Judy Finkel, a plantation desk hand-crafted by cabinet makers at Casselwood Furniture, Grantsville; and a signed Steuben glass pedestal bowl donated by Byewater Antiques.

Among the services being auctioned this year are a full day's rental of a pontoon boat donated by S&H Marina, McHenry, and six scuba diving sessions for two people complete with use of equipment and open water certification, contributed by Breathe Deep Scuba, Inc. Tickets to a Steeler football game will be offered again this year, according to Mary Warther, auction chairperson.

A large dried flower wreath and two framed Bangladesh textiles of silk embroidery on cotton, contributed by Harley Farms Bed and Breakfast, will be included in the offerings. Other unusual pieces include an antique piano stool, two Amish dock chairs, a hand-painted denim jacket, and two handcrafted mirrored windows.

Porcelain pottery and jewelry by ELEE Bookout, Waterford glass, Baroque Fostoria yellow ware, and framed lithographs will be available for bidding, as well as "one-of-a-kind" items such as a bird feeder, an herb-planted strawberry jar, a pair of solid brass deer, and a handmade stained glass kaleidoscope by A Touch of Glass, Spruce Forest.

Children's books from The Book Mark'et, a KATEE bear, a wine and cheese picnic basket, a pen and pencil set, and a set of four "Flower Fairies" framed prints will be found on the silent auction table.

Numerous Thefts Probed By GCSO; Thousands Lost

Numerous incidents of theft occurring in the past month are currently being investigated by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, according to reports at that agency. Combined losses in the cases reach over $4,000.

The largest loss of the reported cases was experienced by William G. Nelson who owns a home on Sand Flat Road. Nelson left the house from May 14-18 and during that time, unknown persons broke into the home and removed nearly $2,000 worth of property.

Stolen from the home were two cameras, a VCR, a camcorder and tripod, numerous home decorations, jewelry, a television, and various antiques. Dep. C. Nolan inspected the theft area and was reportedly able to obtain some fingerprints at the scene. An investigation is ongoing.

Chauncey C. Sisler, of White Rock Road near Cranesville, W.Va., contacted the sheriff's office to report the theft of a tailgate and bedliner from his vehicle. Sisler said his 1995 Ford F-150 pickup was parked near his home one evening earlier this month and the theft took place without anyone hearing anything suspicious.

The tailgate and bedliner were worth a combined total of $1,250, according to the report. Detective P. Kelly is investigating.

A Poulan powersaw was apparently stolen sometime between 8 a.m. on June 7 and 4 p.m. on June 8. Owen T. Ravenscroft reported the theft, explaining to the police that the saw was in an unlocked garage on his Oakland property. The saw is worth $400.

A theft was reported by the Mountain Villa Association. According to the report, culprits entered a construction site in the Blakeslee development and removed $278 worth of building materials. Frank Fitzwater reported the theft, stating that the theft occurred sometime during the week of May 27. Some clues were reportedly obtained at the scene.

Michael W. Deem, Crellin, reported the theft of his Murray 10-speed bicycle. Deem rode the bike to the Crellin swimming hole on June 8. Upon his return, the bike was gone. Its worth was listed at $200. Some individuals have been questioned in the case, but no solid leads have been established, according to the report.

GC Narcotics Task Force Gets Federal Drug Control Grant

The Garrett County Narcotics Task Force (GCTF) was among 39 drug control programs in 29 jurisdictions throughout Maryland to receive grant funding from the Governor's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission.

Awarded $26,910 for its existing program, the locally funded grant comes from the Edward Byrne Memorial State and Local Law Enforcement Assistance Program, which was created by the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1988.

The commission has also selected 26 new programs throughout the state to receive nearly $2 million in federal control grants. The current awards emphasize partnerships between law enforcement and citizens, and cost effective sanctions programs for non-violent drug-addicted offenders, according to a commission spokesperson. After evaluating 135 applications, the commission awarded 26 new grants to 22 local jurisdictions throughout the state.

Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend noted the importance of such funding in emphasizing community involvement in anti-crime and drug control and prevention programs. "Local communities all across Maryland know what they need best," she said. "Many want to shirt resources toward prevention and to break the cycle of addiction through effective and enforced treatment programs. By targeting these funds toward front-end initiatives, we have a much greater long term impact on the health and safety of our communities."

The Inclusion Mandate...

Among the federally mandated policies that is causing considerable problems in our public school systems is one known as inclusion, which requires the inclusion of students with severe physical and mental disabilities into the regular classroom. The philosophy behind the policy is that all children, regardless of their limitations, not only deserve to be with their "normal" peers, but must be with them in order to be guaranteed the opportunity to receive a comparable education.

Among the problems that inclusion has generated is the requirement of teaching assistants to regularly perform certain delicate, physical procedures and therapies for some of these children. If the assistants, who are certainly not and have no desire to be nurses or therapists, refuse to comply with this requirement, they have been told they will lose their jobs. We believe that fulltime nurses should be hired, with federal funding, to attend to these medical problems.

Another problem resulting from the policy is that regular teachers, also not trained to deal with these special situations, must spend an inordinate amount of extra time with some of these youngsters, while basically having to neglect teaching the other 20-plus members of the class. In other words, an effort to guarantee equal educational opportunities for a few is having a detrimental effect on that same right for the majority.

Before we are rent with the wrath of various special interest groups who represent those with various disabilities, we want to emphasize that we agree wholeheartedly that each and every child, regardless of his or her abilities and particular physical/mental condition, deserves a public education. However, we do not believe that inclusion is always the best way to provide that education; best for the child or best for the rest of the members of his class. It is simply one more unfunded federal mandate placed upon the shoulders of our educators, who are expected to not only educate our children, but to address and repair every single problem with society at large.

It seems to us that some of these special children would fare much better educationally in a self-contained classroom with specially trained teachers. They should also be afforded as many opportunities as possible for socialization with other youngsters, such as on the playground, at lunch, and during school programs. Their "value" as human beings is absolutely no less than that of "non-special" children; but the differences with which they must live are just as absolutely real and cannot simply be ignored.

To the Editor:

A year has passed since the death of Bill Roby. Bill was one of our most generous supporters of the Humane Society. Every month Bill would send a supply of pet food via his sister and brother-in-law, Marjorie and Neil Dunham. The Dunhams and their daughter, Sheila, are also members of the Humane Society. Bill cared very much for animals. He had taken on two stray cats--one was in such a terrible condition it cost him a small fortune to save it. The two cats are now living in New Jersey with his niece, Sheila, and her husband. Caring people like Bill Roby are very special to our society. Without them we could not feel and care for the many animals in our foster homes. (We have eight foster homes in the county.)

We miss Bill very much.

To the Editor:

As a teacher who is retiring from the Garrett County system this year, I found this following "perspective" on teachers' salaries (obviously by a parent/taxpayer) interesting. Please if you will print it, I'd appreciate the kindness.

Thank you
Nancy Learey

A Perspective On Teachers' Salaries:

I'm fed up with these teachers and their hefty salary schedules. What we need here is a little perspective. If I had my way, I'd pay these teachers myself. I'd pay them baby-sitting wages. That's right. Instead of paying these outrageous taxes, I'd give them $3 an hour out of my own pocket. And I'm only going to pay them for five hours, not for coffee breaks. That would be $15 a day. Each parent should pay $15 a day for these teachers to baby-sit their child. Even if they have more than one child, it's still a lot cheaper than private child care.

Now how may children do they teach every day? Maybe 20? That's $15 x 20 = $300 a day.

But remember, they only work 180 days a year! I'm not going to pay for all of those vacations! So $300 x 180 = $54,000. (Just a minute. I think my calculator needs batteries.)

Now I know you teachers will say, "What about those who have ten years experience and a Master's Degree?"

Well, maybe (to be fair) they could get the minimum wage and, instead of just baby-sitting, they could read the kids a story. We can round that off to about $5 an hour x 5 hours x 20 children...that's $500 a day x 180 days...that's $90,000.

UHHHH...

Wait a minute, let's get a little perspective here. Baby-sitting wages are too good for teachers. Did anyone see a salary schedule around here?

To the Editor:

The new encyclical, Gospel of Life, issued by Pope John Paul II states that all who participate in the crime of abortion are excommunicated, including "accomplices." Pro-abortion legislators and their supporters--voters must be considered accomplices. They have excommunicated themselves and have committed mortal sin! The papal encyclical, vague in details, does not provide this specific and necessary moral instruction.

Pope John Paul, the cardinals, and bishops have an obligation and not a "choice" to declare the excommunication of all accomplices in the abortion holocaust regardless of social or political status. The prelates are responsible for a grievous sin of omission caused by their fearful hesitancy to make this Christ demanded declaration of excommunication: "What you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven."

The Gospel of Life fails to fully protect unborn children who will continue to be sacrificed on the altar of moral compromise. May God have mercy on the souls of the bishops and on us all.

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Health Department's Prevention program would like to take a moment to thank all of the people who supported the recent, successful celebration of National Senior Health and Fitness Day here in our area.

Two events were held, with activities taking place at the Grantsville fire hall on May 30 and at the Oakland Armory on May 31. Supporters of the celebrations included: Barbara Hornyak and the Area Agency on Aging; Pat White and S.A.L.T. (Seniors and Law Enforcement Together); Kathy Powell, Helen Heath, and Donna McClintock from Geriatric Evaluation Service; Glenn Seaman and Sgt. Scott Price from the Maryland State Police; square dance leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rainier; sing-a-long leaders, Rick and Margie Jordan; Pat Kelly from the sheriff's department; Pauline Faucett; Lula Brown from the fire department; Southern Rescue Squad; Community Action and Garrett County Health Department AmeriCorps members; and Garrett County Health Department staff members, Amy Ritchie, Kendra Todd, and Community Outreach Team members, Pam Braskey, Gail Dever, Donna Gilpin, Donna Knox, Darlene Murphy, and Nancy Rhine.

With your support, approximately 200 seniors enjoyed healthy activities right here in their own county, close to home! Thank you all.

Man Convicted

73, had made an alford plea of guilty to the charge in March, at which time a presentence investigation had been ordered. For the year's sentence, Thayer said the court will consider home detention.

Friend allegedly sexually molested an 8-year-old female on various occasions during the summer of 1994. The child reported the offenses to a school counselor, according to the report.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for a man who pleaded guilty to resisting arrest, possession of marijuana, driving while intoxicated (DWI), and driving recklessly. Randy W. Ervin, 25, Oakland, was arrested on these charges on November 6, 1994, by Deputy Jeff Green of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

According to the report, Green was responding to a call concerning a vehicle off the roadway on Rt. 560, south of White Church Road. The deputy found a truck at the location, and when he began to interview the persons inside, Ervin allegedly became violent, attempting to grab Green's gun and verbally threatening his life. Green retreated to his vehicle until back-up officers arrived and assisted in arresting Ervin.

A search of the defendant apparently uncovered marijuana and cash, and the defendant was determined to be intoxicated. He was also driving with a suspended license, according to the report.

A sentencing date was not indicated in the court document. Bail was continued for the defendant.

A jury found a Bloomington man not guilty of battery. Richard A. White, 40, had been arrested on the charge after allegedly whipping a 10-year-old boy with a belt. The child sustained bruising on the buttocks and upper thighs, according to the report.

White had made a motion for the judgement of acquittal, which Thayer denied.

A suspended two-year sentence for a Mountain Lake Park man was reimposed after he pleaded guilty to violation of probation. All but 60 days of the reimposed sentence was then suspended for Mark E. Whitacre, 26, but an additional year was ordered for a separate charge of violation of probation. He was also ordered to three years of supervised probation following his release from jail.

Whitacre was originally convicted of failing to stop at the scene of an accident involving property damage, reckless driving, driving with a revoked license, and DWI, according to the court document.

View From My Window

FLOWERS FOR FATHER'S DAY

Crocuses, daffodils and forsythia are welcome sights after any winter, whether a white winter like that of '94 or the grey one we experienced this year. After the initial splash of color comes the burgeoning of blooms in April and May which overwhelm the viewer. The world is filled with bouquets at that time of year. The flowers of June, by contrast, are not as beautiful to behold as those of April and May. Their distinction lies in their perfume.

The June flowers are the uncultivated flowers of nature, after all. Two pernicious weeds scent the world sweetly and subtly, multiflora rose and honeysuckle. I love driving at night this time of year with the windows down, the rush of air carrying upon it the wafting smells of fecund earth. The fragrance is like that in a church after a well attended service when the perfumes of dozens of women unite to pervade the sanctuary. It smells to me, after long acquaintance, like holiness. Driving in the soft June nights church has moved outdoors, and the world has become a sanctuary.

It is at this time of year that Father's Day falls, a newer holiday of only 85 years standing. First observed in Spokane, Washington.

The irony is that in the century when the family has fallen apart as the basic unit of society we have created holidays to celebrate the roles of mother and father. There has probably never been any time in history or anywhere in the world that mothers and fathers have had less to do with the rearing of their children than the parents of late 20th century America. In just such an age, Mother's -- and Father's Day mean big business.

So Father's Day wound up in the midst of those strongly scented flowers of the field which do not labor and yet are endowed with fragrance the likes of which humans try to capture in a bottle. Honeysuckle and multiflora rose precede Father's Day, and privet, the last blossom of spring, follows it. A well-trimmed privet hedge will never blossom. Benign neglect is essential to the flowers of the privet hedge. A row of privets stand on the west side of our home. By night the westerly breeze carries the pungency of the fragrance into windows. At the same time summer blows in.

These three flowers -- honeysuckle, multiflora rose and privet -- are appropriate symbols of fatherhood as it once was. A father's nurturing was like the perfume of June flowers: it just happened, without any cultivation. Not so many years ago fathering was universally indigenous in our culture. In more recent years it has become an endangered species.

So much of what fathers used to do has been institutionalized, and the world has crowded the home taking over the dining and living rooms and a good deal of the rest of the house. The modern dead-beat dad is not so much a syndrome as a symptom. Many of them took a long walk because they couldn't figure anything else that "dad" was supposed to do except write a monthly check. At the end of 85 Father's Days many fathers don't know anymore what they are supposed to do.

There needs to be justification for flowers on Father's Day. If fatherhood is to be celebrated, then it must be cultivated anew. There are movements now afoot, most prominently one called "Promisekeepers" to promote and encourage fathers to father, that is to nurture those whom they procreated. There are men leading other men in fresh discovery of the art of fatherly cultivation, and therein have shown a new and creative way of keeping the old promises. For this there ought to be flowers in June, and there are.

Team Honored

Jacob Dehus, Ryan Ewing, Michelle Miller, and Katie Steyer ended the contest in fourth place for the middle school division and 21st place overall with $118,374 in its portfolio. All nine local teams ended with more than the original $100,000.

In the Baltimore ceremony last week, Dr. Allen Cox, coordinator for the state game, presented Jared, Jamie, and Andrew with a plaque for the school, commemorating their outstanding performance. Each student on the winning team received a certificate and a framed commemorative stamp of the New York Stock Exchange. Accompanying the students to the awards ceremony were their parents: Mary Lynn Bosley, Carl and Suzie Fike, and Bill Grant. Their teachers, Louis Newcomb and Mary Jane Fike, also attended the event.

The Maryland Regional Stock Market Game was developed by the Joint Council on Economic Education and funded by the Securities Industry Association. Its purpose is to encourage a broader understanding of the American free enterprise system in general and the roles of the securities industries in particular, according to Newcomb. The teacher stated that the game enriches the classroom curriculum by providing the students with an opportunity to practice their listening, research, computational, and communication skills.

In addition to the help provided by Sharps, the teachers were provided with lesson plans and the materials necessary for participation in the state competition. According to Newcomb, emphasis was placed on the fact that strategies for competing in a 10-week competition are different from those for investing for long-term goals in real life.

"All of the students who participated in the program showed a high level of interest and involvement in the program," Newcomb said. Ms. Fike stated that the game was "highly motivational" for the students and that it provided a practical real-world application for math skills as well as economic concepts.

This is the first year Garrett County students have participated in the Maryland stock market game and were only able to do so through the support of team sponsors First United and PrimeVest Financial.

"It is evident that involvement in education by businesses, interested citizens, and parents holds many positive benefits for the community," Newcomb said.

Theatre Review

Lions, Tigers, Bears--oh, yeah, and Jitterbugs
by John R. McEwen

Playing to packed houses for virtually every performance for the last two weeks at GCC was Frank Baum's classic, The Wizard of Oz, produced by the Garrett Choral Society. Directed by Nancy K. Learey, the veteran leader of the society, the show represents a monumental triumph for all involved. Directing a cast of over 60 people and a crew to match is no simple task, especially given a stage the size of a postage stamp. The show was fun, colorful, scary, and thoroughly entertaining. And absolutely loaded with talent. Thank you, Nancy; you've done it again.

The lead roles were all played with enthusiastic, childlike characterizations despite heavy clothes, loads of makeup, hot lights, and swarming munchkins. The sweet-but-not-sugary Dorothy was played by theatre newcomer Dana Braskey, who honestly gives Judy a run for her money. Her singing was a little strained at times, but she gave Dorothy energy and vibrancy. We will hope to see her involved in more productions in the future.

Richard Hill as the Scarecrow, Jim Harvey as the Tin Man, and William B. Grant as the Cowardly Lion all shared the award for Most Uncomfortable Costume. Yet none of the three showed the slightest hint of distraction as they hopped, danced and clanked all over the stage, filling the disbelieving eyes of my 3-year-old and scores of other children in the audience. Hill did the classic Dick Van Dyke rubberlegs routine after he was removed from his "post," while matter-of-factly yodeling out "If I Only Had a Brain." Harvey (in his last performance with GCS before he moves away), exuded heartfelt emotions inside his aluminum shell which forced him to hold his arms out at 45 degrees from his sides. Grant was absolutely a hoot as he cowered around in his PJ's, alternately pouncing on defenseless victims and shrinking away in fear from anything even close to his own size. Truly, I think stocks would triple if he ever wore that costume to the bank.

Susan Bell was truly a bundle of evil, but a huggable bundle, as the Wicked Witch. Clad in the traditional black cloak with a pathetically lumpy hat, she took over control every time she came on stage. She really impressed my son; whenever he wants to be really scary these days, he screeches "I'm the Wicked Witch!" Her forays into the audience, coupled with her Phyllis Diller-style inflections, proved to be just the perfect combination of scary/silly.

Cathy Helbig lent an eminent sense of purity to the role of the Good Sorceress, as she twinkled around the munchkins, speaking softly and carrying a big...wand.

The part of the Wizard was played by Paul Shogren, whose face appeared and disappeared as he boomed his fateful judgements. His balding head looked amusingly unthreatening in that microwave-oven type thing (which made it even funnier that the cast was so petrified), and his demeanor matched after he was discovered as a sham.

Also included in the cast were a seeming multitude of children, who all did a really fantastic job, and a number of dancers from Brenda Brosnihan's local dance studio, including Brenda herself. The choreography was innovative and inspired, and the dancing was superb, yet I can't help but wonder if these sequences were in the original script. They didn't seem to have much to do with the story, and seemed to sort of break up the action. Interesting, though.

Live music was provided by Dr. John Hawkins and company, who filled the voids with beautiful, Vince Guaraldi-style improvs of the famous Oz themes. This added a jazzy flair to the show. Good choice.

The set and lighting were expertly handled (as usual) by Ben Sincell, and his choices were very effective. The use of revolving platforms, mirror balls, and interchangeable backdrops gave that little stage the appearance of another world.

Terri Hagglund lent a professional hand to the costume design, with lots of bright colors for the munchkins and lots of innovation for the principals.

Technically, this show was a bit choppy. The scene changes were a little lengthy, and since they weren't done in complete darkness, they occasionally took the wind out of the sails. Especially during the tornado scene, which was, frankly a little disappointing from a technical standpoint. It was filled by Hawkins's music though, so this helped.

All in all an excellent show, filled with exuberance. Kudos.

Maryland Police Run For The Special Olympics

Police across Maryland are on the run this week as they join forces to carry the torch for the 1995 Law Enforcement Torch Run for Special Olympics. More than 1,200 police officers are participating in the Torch Run and are part of either the northern, southern, eastern or western legs for the Torch Run route.

The Torch Run began Monday morning in the four corners of Maryland, with Garrett County officers, Trooper 1st Class Gregory Becker and David Broadwater, starting at the Pennsylvania line of Route 40 continuing to Allegany County. The run took the officers through geographical areas ranging from the mountains of Garrett County and the shores of Ocean City. The run is expected to end through the streets of Baltimore on Friday June 16, to the Towson State University stadium where the Special Olympics summer games are expected to kick off. The games will then continue until June 18 at the university stadium.

The Torch Run is sponsored by the Maryland Chiefs of Police Association. Runners for the 1995 Torch Run include police chiefs, police officers, FBI, DEA, ATF and Secret Service agents, state troopers, correctional officers, sheriffs, military police and other law enforcement personnel.

The Law Enforcement Torch Run for Special Olympics is the largest single sponsor of Special Olympics. Last year, Maryland police officers raised $105,000 for Special Olympics. Police officers raised money by purchasing commemorative T-shirts that were worn during the run. Corporate sponsors include Toyota, Client Support Services, Inc., Texaco, Annapolis, Services, The Maryland Personal Insurance, Maryland Screen Printers, Motel 6, and Sons of the American Legion.

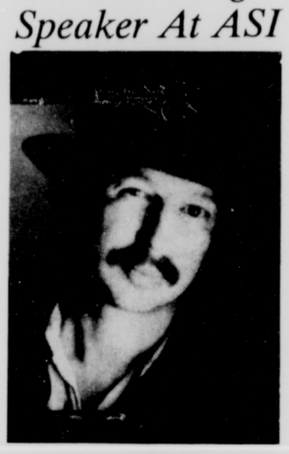
Richard Bangs To Be Keynote Speaker At ASI National Forum



Richard Bangs, world adventurer, international river explorer, award-winning author, and founding partner of the world's largest adventure travel company, Mountain Travel-Sobek, will deliver the keynote address at the first national Adventuresports Forum, to be held September 17-19 at the Wisp Resort and Conference Center in McHenry. A number of nationally prominent professionals will also speak and conduct workshops at the Forum to provide information on new trends and developments in the fast growing adventure sports industry.

Bangs is best known for pioneering rafting on remote rivers around the world during the past two decades and chronicling those and other explorations in award-winning books, hundreds of magazine articles, films, and television specials.

He began his career in adventure as a teenager in Bethesda, where he rafted and canoed on the Potomac, followed by seven summers between college semesters guiding rafts on the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. As a "last fling" before joining the routine working world, he decided to tackle the Awash, a little-known previously unrun African river filled with crocodiles and hippos, and to try to get some clients to help pay for the trip.

That successful venture gave birth to SOBEK Expeditions, named for the ancient Egyptian crocodile god who seemed to have honored the group with safe passage through the croc-infested waters. In May, 1991, Sobek combined operations with Mountain Travel, thus creating the largest company in the adventure travel industry.

Since then, Bangs has led first descents of 35 rivers around the world, published over 500 magazine articles and 10 books, including Riding the Dragon's Back, winner of the 1989 Lowell Thomas travel journalism award. This adventurer who holds a bachelor's degree in English from Northwestern University and a master's degree in journalism from the University of Southern California also lectures extensively on adventure travel, related environmental issues, and his latest exploratory expeditions.

Of his chosen life's work, Bangs has stated in a recently published interview, "An adventurer is driven by passionate curiosity to find out what's around the next bend or under the rock in the woods. Where other people become exhausted or want to retreat to comfort, the adventurer is driven by this potent curiosity....It's almost addictive. You must continue to probe, to challenge yourself."

Bangs predicts that adventure travel will continue to soar in popularity over the next decade, as people are spending more and more of their lives indoors and are feeling the need to get out into the wilderness and "to feel their muscles working."

"The whole concept of wilderness," he says, "is one where you cut loose the tether, surrender to an unfamiliar environment. Only then can you really start to discover yourself."

This is a message he says he will bring as keynoter of the Adventuresports Forum. Mountain Travel-Sobek is the presenting sponsor of the Forum that has been planned by the Adventuresports Institute of Garrett Community College to bring together adventurers, educators, health and fitness professionals, business entrepreneurs, and other adventure sports enthusiasts to hear from the experts and to learn about new trends in the industry.

Anyone desiring further information about the Forum may call the Adventuresports Institute office at 301-387-3032.

Man Injured

following a two-vehicle accident Sunday morning on the Sang Run Road.

Police said Wanda Sisler, 46, was transported by Trooper 5 helicopter to Cumberland Memorial Hospital following the 11:55 a.m. accident. She was admitted to the hospital, but has since been released, a spokesperson said.

Also injured was Keith E. Fisher, 32, who was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. He was reportedly treated and released.

According to a report filed by Tfc. P.R. Brown, Fisher was driving a 1983 Ford Ranger east on the Sang Run Road when he failed to negotiate a turn, crossed the center line, and struck Sisler's 1985 Chevrolet Cavalier broadside.

Fisher's car reportedly left a 60-foot skidmark on the road. He was charged in the incident.

STRIKES GUARDRAIL

A single-vehicle accident late Sunday evening on the Mattingly Hill Road, near Rt. 219, sent a Youngwood, Pa., woman to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Deborah M. Kostick, 29, was admitted to that facility after the 1994 Dodge Shadow she was operating reportedly ran off the right side of the highway, then back onto the road and across the center line, finally coming to rest against a guardrail. She has since been released from the hospital.

Northern Garrett Rescue Squad also responded to the 9:20 p.m. mishap. Kostick's 2-year-old passenger, Aron Kostick, was reportedly uninjured.

DWI ARRESTS

Three DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrests were logged during the past week at the local state police barrack.

Kathy L. Hartman, 37, Elk Garden, was arrested and charged with DWI on June 10 by Tfc. Anderson.

David D. Sisler, 40, no address given, was charged with DWI on June 8 by Tfc. Clapper.

Elsie F. Strauss, 45, no address given, was arrested on a DWI charge on June 11, by Tfc. Anderson.

Father's Day

I know today is Father's Day
And my dad isn't here
To wish a very happy day
To someone who was so dear.
His illness took him from me;
I watched him day by day.
The battle he fought was long and hard
And I was with him
all the way.
How sad it was for everyone
When God chose to take him away
But according to His Holy Word
We will be together
Again someday.
And then I'll have my Father's Day
When I'm with my dad once more.
And how happy we will be Together again, on that golden shore.

Cycle Across Maryland Group Awards Helmets

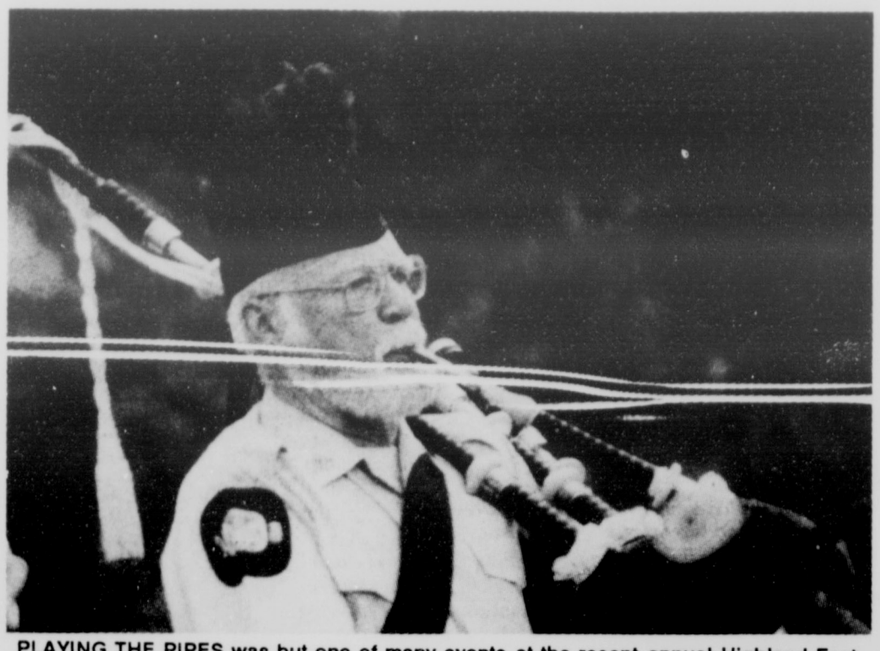
Over 500 bicycle helmets were awarded to 24 non-profit groups in Maryland last week by Cycle Across Maryland Corporation, a non-profit organization working to promote sports safety and training in the state. The free helmets were part of the annual CAM Bike Helmet Distribution Program, created five years ago to provide free helmets to each elementary school district in Maryland. The expanded program was made possible by grants from the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, the Maryland Department of Transportation, and First National Bank of Maryland.

In Garrett County the helmets were awarded to the 4-H program, sponsored through the local Extension Service Office.

"The demand for these helmets was far beyond our expectation with over 120 groups applying for the program," said Pat Bernstein, executive director of Cycle Across Maryland Corporation, "It is an impressive indication of the widespread concern for riders' safety."

All of the groups who received helmets will use them in youth related activities. Award of the helmets was based upon each organization's need and their ability to provide safety instruction along with properly fitting the bike helmet to each child. Cycle Across Maryland also provided a video on bike safety, literature explaining the rules of the road and bumper stickers with the "Protect Your Melon Wear a Bicycle Helmet. . . Correctly!" public safety campaign slogan. The campaign was created by Cycle Across Maryland and broadcasted on billboards, milk cartons, grocery store coupon circulars, and television.

Groups from all over the state were represented in the applications and awards made last week. They included church groups, cub scouts, community outreach programs from area hospitals, schools, and several police departments.



PLAYING THE PIPES was but one of many events at the recent annual Highland Festival,, held at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Pictured above is the Hon. Fred A. Thayer, pipe major of the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums, host band for the festival. A number of exhibits and demonstrations were featured, including the preparation of wool for the making of clothing, pictured above center. There were Scottish athletic games, with the hammer throw being one of the more difficult, and there were historic re-enactments of Scottish Clan wars, pictured far right below. The production of music was not limited to pipes and drums, but also included vocal numbers by well-known Scottish singers such as Carl Peterson, pictured below. Photos by Julie Frazee.

Counseling On Nutrition Is Now Available

Garrett County Community Action's Area Agency on Aging is now offering nutrition counseling by a registered dietitian for Maryland senior citizens aged 60 and older. This service has been made possible through the Health Promotion and Disease Prevention grant, Title III F of the Older Americans Act.

Amy Ritchie, RD, through a contractual agreement with the Garrett County Health Department, will offer assistance to elderly who require therapeutic diets and/or are at nutritional risk.

Ms. Ritchie will be visiting Area Agency on Aging senior centers and nutrition sites to complete Maryland Nutritional Screening for seniors. The screening can determine nutritional risk, thereby in-dicating a need for nutrition counseling.

Ms. Ritchie will be available at Mary Browning Senior Center, 104 E. Center Street, Oakland, on Wednesday, June 21, 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Seniors interested in completing a Maryland Nutrition Screening should attend. Seniors do not need to be regular participants in order to receive this service.

For additional information about the nutrition counseling service, persons are asked to call 334-9431, ext. 137.

Majorie Fratz Memorial Garden To Be Dedicated

The public is invited to attend the dedication of a memorial garden planted in memory of Marjorie Keller Fratz this Saturday, June 17, at 3 p.m. at the Accident Town Hall.

Mrs. Fratz was the Accident Town Manager who died in August 1993. In tribute to her service to the town, a Memorial Committee was formed to plan a memorial in her honor, culminating with a garden surrounding the flagpole at the Accident Town Hall designed by McKenzie's Nursery of McHenry.

The Accident Concert Band will begin the dedication with music beginning at 2:45. Guest speakers will include Dr. Stephen Herman, president of Garrett Community College; Stephen Schlosnagle, former director of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society; Rev. Ernest Lindner, director of the Accident Cultural and Historical Society; Rev. William Carlson, member of the Memorial Committee; Richard Carlson, president of the Town Council; Mayor Dale Rodeheaver; and Seth and Kelly Fratz, children of Mrs. Fratz. American Legion Post 208 will conduct the flag raising ceremony.

Town Residents Are Reminded Of Dog Ordinance

The Mayor and Town Council of Friendsville are reminding dog owners in the town that their pets must be contained according to the Garrett County Dog Ordinance, Section D.

The ordinance reads, "It shall be unlawful for the owner of any dog to allow such animal to be at large in Garrett County, meaning to be off the premises or property of the owner, unless under restraint, except dogs accompanied by the owner or trainer and being used or trained for hunting being followed by person on foot, horseback or in vehicles."

The Council states if Section D is violated, Section J will apply, which reads as follows: "Any person violating any provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof before the District Court of Garrett County shall be fined a sum of not less than $50 nor more than $200."

These restrictions are deemed necessary to keep the order in the community. The Mayor and Town Council asks citizens, "to work together in keeping Friendsville safe and pleasant."

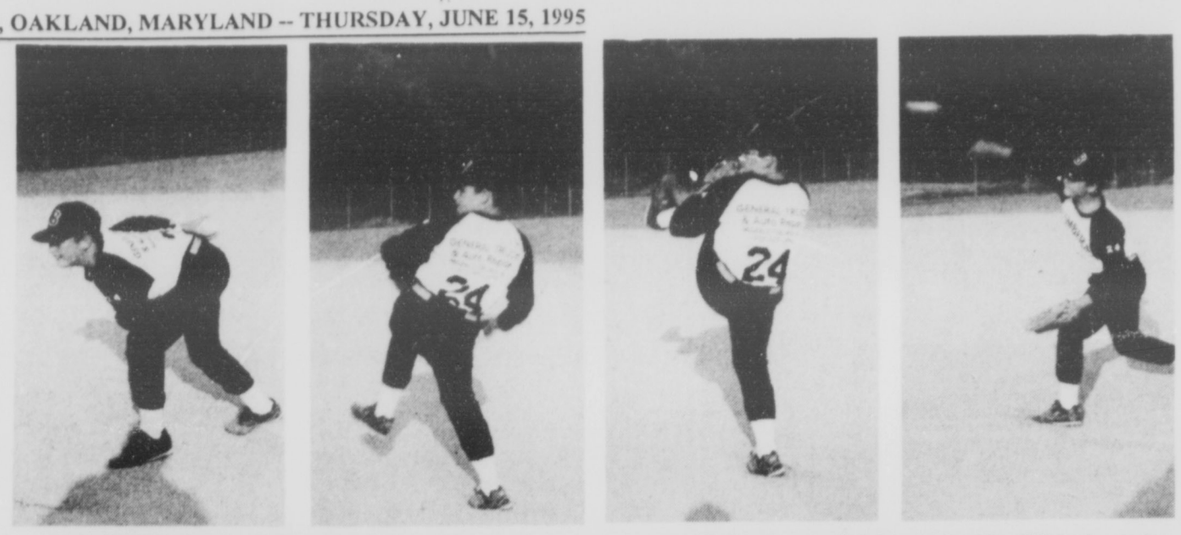
Jeremy Murphy Wins Feature

Jeremy Murphy won his first feature go-cart race of the season Saturday at the Augusta, W.Va., Speedway, and with the win moved into second place in the overall point standings.

After being involved in a crash in his heat race, Murphy started last in the 20-lap Junior Stock main event. He worked his way through traffic, passed the current point leader on lap 12, and retained the lead the rest of the way for the victory.

Cody Hardesty, another local racer, started from the fourth spot in the Stock Heavy main event at the Fairmont, W.Va., Speedway Friday night and placed third.



THROWING A NO-HITTER in baseball, at any level, is a rare event and a major accomplishment, but it is almost unheard of to pitch two consecutive no-hitters. That's what Nathan Klink of Accident did last week for his team, the Confluence Bombers of the Confluence Little League. In the first game against the Blue Jays, Klink struck out 11, issued three walks, and allowed one fly-out as his team rolled to a 23-0 victory. The contest was called after four innings because of the 10-run rule. His second no-hitter was recorded just a week later against the Wildcats, as he struck out 16 batters, allowed four walks, and forced one fly-out and one ground-out to lead his team to a 3-1 victory. The Wildcat run was scored on a wild throw from home on a steal by one of the walked batters. The Bombers are currently undefeated on the season. Nathan, a student at Northern Middle School, is the son of Albert and Carol Klink, Accident.

GCC Basketball Camp Slated To Be June 26-30

The Garrett Community College Laker Basketball Camp will be held the week of June 26-30 at the field house in McHenry, according to GCC Coach Dennis Gibson, camp director.

Friday, June 30, is Championship Day, as double-elimination tournaments for each division are held, as well as three-on-three, one-on-one, and free-throw ladder championships are held.

Camp will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. Campers may pack a lunch or purchase lunch and soft drinks each day in the college cafeteria. Each camper will receive a t-shirt, camp notebook, and award certificate.

Area coaches and GCC players will staff the camp. Youth may be registered by contacting Coach Gibson at 387-3051, or they may be registered between 8:30 and 9 a.m. the first day of camp (June 26).

FORMER RESIDENT KILLS BEAR - This six-foot, 275-pound black bear was killed by Ted Wakefield Jr., pictured above, a former Oakland resident, during a recent hunting trip in Canada. It was reportedly the first black bear killed during the spring season at Zaverucha Outfitters hunting camp, in Cochrane, Ontario. Wakefield, a 1964 graduate of Southern High School, currently lives in Rivesville, W.Va. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Darvin Reckart, Oakland.

Area Speedway Review

Somerset County Speedway

In the pits at the Somerset County Speedway Friday night were 63 cars ready to chase the checkered. Heat winners in the Street Stock division included Rodger Stephens, Brian Taylor, Jon Deal, Bobby Smith, and Roger Shaulis. The Pro Stock heats went to new driver Donnie Williams and John Sayler.

Jack Dively of Johnstown was able to pull out a first time win at the speedway when he pulled into victory lane in the "C" Main. He was followed by Brad Reckner, Henry Bockes, Brian Cotter, Bob Davis, and Dan Delancy.

Ben Ansell from Rockwood went to the front of the pack in the third lap of the "B" Main to pull out his first win this season. He was able to pick up his trophy sponsored by Meyersdale Truck Service. Ansell was followed by Dwane Shultz, Clyde Prince, Clair Duppstadt, Doug Barclay, John Tressler, Bob Singo, Carl Riskus, Doug Kimmel, Don Bittinger, Terry Mitchell, Joe Fullerton, Kirk Smith, and Dave Geyer. It was nice to see Clyde Prince back this week since a wreck early in the season did major damage to his car.

The "A" Main began with Craig Breegle on the pole but Jim Sayler of Meyersdale quickly took the lead. Watch for Sayler near the barriers as he often takes the high groove when he races. Saylor went on to win the "A" Main but not before Breegle rolled his car side to side and end over end in the third lap. Breegle of Rockwood got out of his car uninjured. Sayler led the way for Duane Horning, Brian Taylor, Kevin Bender, Eric Paugh, Bobby Smith, Roger Shaulis, Dale Wilt, Don Shaffer, Doug Shaffer, Greg Cornell, and Rodger Stephens.

J.R. Isner of Cumberland picked up his second victory at the speedway driving the #8 Red Dog sponsored car. Isner was last year's track champ in this division. He was followed by Brad Brown, Donnie Williams, Tom Humberson, Ed Kemp, Joe Donaldson, Mike Barndt, Dave Porter, Dave Grasser, Mike Ritter, Duane Folk and Gene Moats.

Racing will continue at the speedway on Friday night at 7:30.

Interstate 79 Speedway

After a week of rain, racers were ready to do battle at the Interstate 79 Speedway on Friday night. There were also bike races for the kids with many happy faces receiving trophies and ribbons.

Danny Hamrick took advantage of the invert 12 start to jump from the pole and lead all 25 laps to win his first ever late model feature. Hamrick drove the "race of his life" to hold off several challenges from a trio of drivers who were battling for the second spot. From lap one, Gary Dalton, Steve Steele, and Tim Hitt ran side by side without any contact. Hitt finally gained the advantage and took the position ahead of Dalton and Steele. Rounding out the top 10 were Denny Chamberlain, Chuck Harper, Dave Groves, Robbie Scott, Frank Wilson, and John Tallman. Heats went to Jerry Haseleu and Mark Myers.

In Semi late action, Sonny Conley has shown no mercy to the competition as he picked up win number four over Scott Miles, Tim Harsh, Kevin Hamrick, and Rick Strickler. Conley and Chris Smith won the prelims.

Butch Summers was victorious in the pure stocks followed by Jim Byers, Jim Shaffer, Paul Watson, Jr., and Randy Revels. Earlier action found Watson, Shaffer, and Brian Tonkery winning heat races.

Rick Burrows led every lap of the UMP main event with Mike Hawkins, Greg Tressler, Mark McGill and Sonny Conley rounding out the top five. Grabbing heats were Charles Cochran, Dave Everly, Jr., and Phill Jefries, while Jeff Thomas got the consy.

Tommy Pennington was the declared winner in the 4-Cylinders after Dave Summers was disqualified in post inspection. Jim Hurley, Jr., Larry Speicher, Ron Hurley, and Don Cutlip followed. Heats went to Pennington and Hayward Baker.

Racing action continues this Friday with regular racing plus Dwarf Cars. Be sure to mark Sunday, July 2, on your calendar when the second round of the West Virginia State Championship Series for late models will be paying $5000 to win the Don's Disposal Special.

Garrett County Wins Four In Legion Play; Ups Record To 7-2

The Garrett County American Legion baseball team, composed of both players and coaches from Northern and Southern high schools, remains undefeated in Mountain District competition (3-0) and holds a 7-2 overall record.

The local team recorded four more wins this past week with a 7-2 victory over host Fort Cumberland last Thursday at Allegany Community College, an 8-6, 8-6 sweep of visiting Preston County on Sunday, and an easy 14-3 win over host Faraday Post of Frostburg last night.

Ryan Folk provided most of the offense for Garrett County against Fort Cumberland last Thursday, as he recorded four hits in five at-bats, including a double and a triple.

Seth Tressler aided his own cause on the mound by rapping a double and a single, while Aaron Blocher added a triple and a single.

Fort Cumberland led 2-0 after three innings on run-producing singles by Jason Holler and Chad Roy.

Garrett cut the lead to one run in the fourth when Brian Heslop doubled and then came home on a fielder's choice by Matt Umbel.

The host team held a 2-1 edge until the seventh when Blocher singled and later came home on a double by Folk to tie the score.

The final five runs of the game were all scored by Garrett County in the eighth, as Tim Sines reached on a fielder's choice and Jamie Bernard followed with a double. Danny Butler then reached on an error that brought Sines home to score what would be the winning run. Blocher and Folk followed with back-to-back triples to score three mores runs and Tressler singled home the final run later in the inning.

Tressler went the distance on the mound, as he scattered eight singles, struck out nine, and walked only one. Holler singled three times for Fort Cumberland.

It was the season opener for Fort Cumberland.

Biz Tasker was the winning pitcher in the first game on Sunday against Preston County, after he got two innings of relief from teammate Joel Uphold.

The score was knotted at 5-5 after three innings, but Garrett County took the lead for good with three runs in the fourth. Tim Sines led off with a single and Uphold doubled to bring Sines home with the tie-breaking run. Tressler followed with a single and came home on a sacrifice fly by Jim Pamepinto. Brenneman then doubled to plate Tressler.

Leading the Garrett hitting attack were Andy Brenneman, who doubled and singled for two RBI, Tressler with a double and a single, Sines with two singles, and Zack Leverenz with a home run.

Leading Preston's offense were Weaver, who had a double and a single for three RBI and Ridenour, who singled twice and sent home two runs.

Danny Butler earned the win in the second game after relieving starter Aaron Blocher, who also contributed two singles for three RBI. Tressler added a double for two runs.

Last night's contest with Farady Post in Frostburg was called after seven innings because of the 10-run rule, as Tressler and Blocher combined for a four-hitter. Tressler pitched the first five innings and recorded nine strike-outs, and Blocher tossed the last two, earning three strike-outs.

Uphold rapped two home runs, Jeremy Fitzwater recorded three singles and a double, and Tressler added a double and a single to lead the Garrett offensive effort.

Mark Harbaugh singled twice for Farady Post (0-3).

Garrett County, which is coached by Southern and Northern varsity coaches Jim Bosley and Phil Carr, will host Cumberland this afternoon at 5 p.m. on the Northern High School diamond. They will also compete in the Elkins Tournament this Friday and Saturday.

At trade-in time, the difference between a Deere and the competition is even more appreciable.

Buy a John Deere and you'll find out the lawn isn't the only place we outperform the competition. We also beat them at resale value. John Deere lawn tractors consistently have the highest resale value in their class.* It isn't hard to figure out why. Our in-line mower drive, metal steering bushings, and exclusive Xenoy® hood may sound like tech-talk now. But you'll appreciate it after years of enjoyable mowing. So visit your John Deere retailer now. And see why your dollars are a little greener when you buy a John Deere.

Our LX178 with 38-inch cutting deck and 15-hp engine may give you higher resale value when the time comes.

Grantsville Stopped Twice, Central Wins Two, Western Splits Pair

After opening the season with a 5-0 record in the Bi-State Pony League, Grantsville stumbled by one run twice this past week, losing in an extra-inning game to host Georges Creek last Friday, 4-3, and dropping a 5-4 contest last night to visiting Ellerslie.

Meanwhile, Central Garrett improved to 4-2 with a 5-1 win over host Midland on Friday and a 17-10 victory over Western Garrett in Accident yesterday.

Western Garrett (2-4) also won last Friday, edging Elk Garden 8-7 at Friendsville.

A base hit by Dave Goff in the eighth inning broke a 3-3 tie and gave Georges Creek its upset of Grantsville on Friday, as Wesley McCutcheon came home with the winning run.

Eric Schramm led the winners (4-1) in hitting with two singles, while Jerry Wilhelm singled three times and Derek Brown hit two singles for Grantsville.

The Grantsville players managed just one hit against Brian DeHaven of Ellerslie yesterday, and DeHaven aided his own cause by hitting a solo homer. He recorded 15 strikeouts.

Josh DeHaven doubled for Ellerslie.

Zack Rawe and Joe Wilhelm allowed only four hits.

Herman Arndt allowed just four hits in going the distance for Central Garrett against Midland (0-4) on Friday, one of which was a double by Jeff Baker.

Arndt finished with 10 strike-outs, while the Central offense generated nine hits. King finished with three and Sisler had two.

Central recorded 12 hits yesterday in its win over Western Garrett, with Terry Rodeheaver recording a double.

John Snelling stroked a two-run double for Western, while teammate Aaron DeWitt also doubled.

Central Garrett will play at Mt. Savage on Friday, while Western Garrett will play at Lonaconing.

Local Striders Participate In Several Events

Local members of the Garrett County Chapter of the Queen City Striders participated in a number of running events recently, with two also competing in the ninth annual YMCA Rocky Gap Triathlon in Cumberland, held Saturday.

Colleen Nordeck, Oakland, and Richard Good, Accident, were among the 1,144 runners in the Wheeling, W.Va., Big Boy Classic, held May 27 in Wheeling. The event distance was 20 kilometers, or 12.4 miles.

Nordeck finished with a time of 1:37:39 to place second in the women's 45-49 age group and 457th overall, while Good placed fifth in the men's 60-64 age division and 755th overall with a time of 1:49:08.

Mike Kozier, Oakland, ran in the Bel Air Town 5-K (3.1 miles) in Harford County on June 4. He finished with a time of 19:26, while his wife, Joanne, and son, Mikie, completed the one-mile walk.

Running the in Garrett County Loggers/Forestry Field Days 5-K on Saturday in McHenry was Nikki Brown, Mtn. Lake Park, who recorded a time of 22:12. Donna Sites, McHenry, won the one-mile walk in 14:35.

Participating in Saturday's Alpine Fitness 5-K at Alpine Lake near Terra Alta, W.Va., were Nordeck, Brown, David Ritchie and Amy Ritchie, Swanton, and Jerry Wine, Oakland.

David Ritchie placed third overall among 26 runners with a time of 18:43, Nordeck won the 45-49 division and placed 11th overall in 23:17, Brown, running in her second race of the day, placed first in the women's 20-24 group and 12th overall with a time of 24:22, Amy Ritchie was first in the 30-34 women's division with a time of 27:59, and Wine finished third in the men's 50-54 division in 27:54.

Jimmy Railey, McHenry, was the fourth place finisher among 121 finishers in the Rocky Gap Triathlon near Cumberland, as he completed the quarter-mile swim, 10-mile bike ride, and 2.8-mile run with a time of 49:34.

Storms, Gusts Pose Problems For Sailors

by Harry Filemyr

The DCYRA's second week of the June series was again interrupted by a thunder storm. Saturday's first race had fresh breezes (force 5) under lowering clouds. The second race was postponed then canceled as a storm cell blew through, dragging anchors and capsizing one boat.

On Saturday Steve Zecher, a Laser sailor of only three weeks standing and new to Deep Creek Lake racing, scored second.

Sunday's race became an unforgettable experience for Tom Wolffe. The plan was to sail with an experienced crew and have guest Amy Smucker along for the ride. Amy had never been in a sailboat before, but the regular crew was not available. Tom and Amy went racing anyway. A fun learning experience was expected.

Starting last and slipping back on each tack was not surprising. On the long downwind leg they risked hoisting the spinnaker. Then the winds got brisk and gusty, and strong puffs carried the followers to the front. Control became difficult. Dave Mahan planed past the wrong side of the jibe mark, while Keith Spinnenweber and Gary Schubert ran over it. Unplanned jibes and tangled spinnakers were the rule. This was no place for an inexperienced crew.

Tom Wolffe prudently took down the spinnaker "early" and headed clear of the confusion. Then a dramatic wind shift found him in the right place with the right sails to charge into the lead and go on to win. Nice race, Amy.

SATURDAY 1ST

Laser - Dan Rubel, first; Steve Zacher, second; and Gordon Clefton, third.

Scot A - Bruce and Lauren Spinnenweber, first; Ted Rissell and Kathy Rubel, second; and Harry and Marilyn Filemyr, third.

Scot B - Ted and Barbara Kemp, first; Lynn and Jane Workmeister, second; and Dave and Monica Wible, third.

SUNDAY

Laser - Gordon Clefton, first; Dan Rubel, second; and Keith Spinnenweber, third.

Scot A - Tom Wolffe and Amy Smucker, first; Mark and parents Arleen and John Morey, second; and Bruce Spinnenweber and Gary Schubert, third.

Scot B - Dave and Monica Wible, first; Ted and Barbara Kemp, second, and Lynn and Jane Workmeister, third.

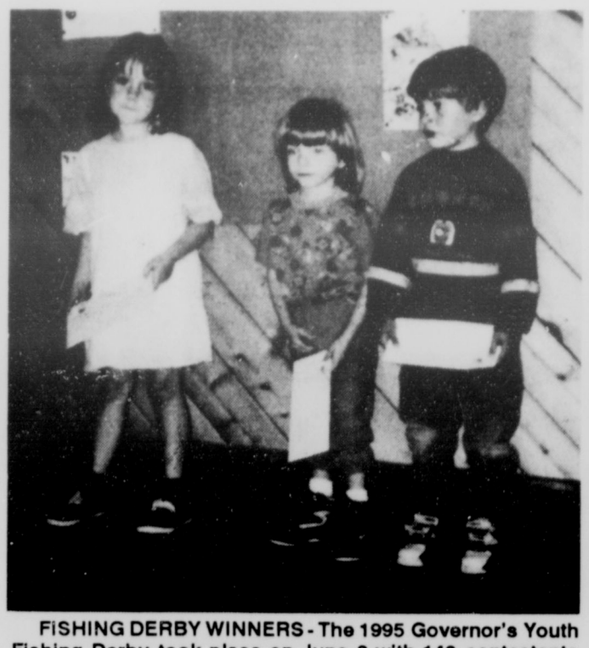
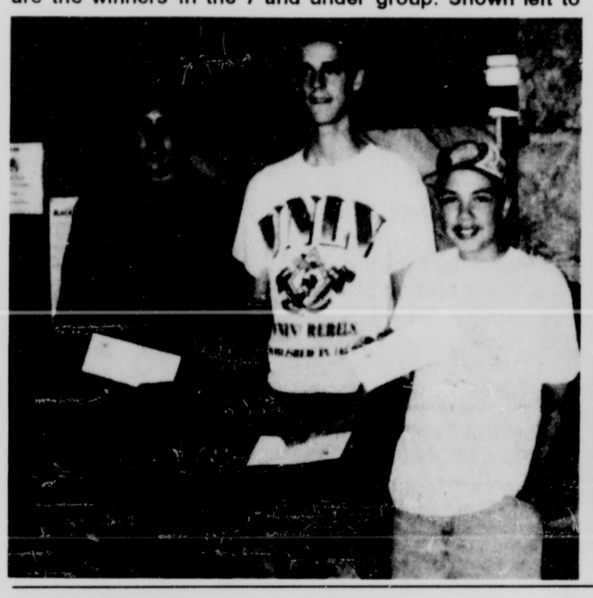
DONATION GIVEN FOR FISHING DERBY - The Garrett County Realtors Association donated funds for the recently held Governor's Youth Fishing Derby. Shown above is Cindy Evans of the association as she hands the check to Ranger T.N. McMillan. Approximately 140 contestants took part in the event, and free hot dogs and pizza were provided to all guests. McMillan said the Maryland Department of Natural Resources was grateful for the donation, as well as gifts from Pepsi Cola, Woodmen Life Insurance Society, Treasure Island, Maryland DNR Fisheries, Garrett County Health Department, Herrington Manor Concession, and WKHJ Radio.



FISHING DERBY WINNERS - The 1995 Governor's Youth Fishing Derby took place on June 3 with 140 contestants taking part in the event. The derby was held at Herrington Manor State Park and prizes were awarded in three age categories. Savings bonds of $100, $75, and $50 were given to contestants who caught the largest, second largest, and third largest fishes, respectively. The largest catch of the day was reeled in by Nick Sypolt, 11, who received a vacation package for a weekend stay at a Herrington Manor six-person cabin. Pictured above right are the winners in the 7 and under group. Shown left to right are Sara Beckman, first; Thomas Friend, second; and Keith Beckman, third. Shown in the top right picture are winners in the 12-16 age category. Shown left to right are Jamie Tasker, first; Jared Beckman, second; and Todd Tasker, third. Winners in the 8-11 category are shown below left. Shown left to right are Pat Friend, first; Megan Ross, second; and Nicole Chapman, third. Aaron Beckman, shown below right with Ranger T. N. McMillan, won the grand prize drawing, receiving four day passes to King's Dominion. Numerous other prizes were given out, and a casting contest was held. Winners of that event were Tim Reams, Todd Riggleman, and Michael Chapman.



"None of the rents will be directly subsidized, but they will be kept more affordable through the low-cost government financing of the project," a Sarbanes representative explained. "This [financing] includes: $447,249 from the ARC, $1,495,096 from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development through its HOME program, $1,400,000 from the State of Maryland's Rental Housing Production Program, and $1,130,151 in local resources."

The funds from the ARC will be used for site development activities such as grading, excavating, installing utilities, paving, and constructing walkways.

Ground-breaking on the project is expected to begin within the very near future.

not be nearly enough to offset the $5.2 million disparity between FY 95-96 budget requests and budget revenues.

While part of the budget gap is a result of a requested 4 percent salary increase for county employees, Braskey explained that another reason is that the county has practically no carry-over funds from last year's budget. While crafting the 1994-1995 budget, the commissioners enjoyed use of a $1.8 million carry-over from the previous year, he said.

Braskey commented that this is the most difficult county budget that he has had to tackle since entering office in 1982. However, the three commissioners have reached an agreement on the piggy back tax.

"Once again, the board is unanimous in not increasing the local piggy back tax, which they are authorized to do up to an additional 10 percent," Braskey said. "Approximately 30 percent of the counties [in Maryland] have now increased their piggy back tax."

County Administrator Robert Fousek commented that approximately six Maryland counties have raised their property tax rate in recent years.

Nine residents attended this week's public hearing. Some expressed their concerns over increased value assessments of their homes and perceived waste in the county government.

Current budget requests from some county agencies include significant increases over their FY 1994-1995 allotments. The local state's attorney's office was budgeted $168,000 last year. However, as a result of proposed salary and staff increases, that office has requested $273,700 for the upcoming fiscal year.

The local department of solid waste is also seeking a significant increase in funding. Last year that agency was budgeted $795,000 for operating costs. However, for the upcoming fiscal year, the solid waste department has requested a total of $1,350,491 in operating funds to help pay for daily operation of the new landfill as well as for debt retirement for construction of the new landfill and closure of the old Round Glade facility.

The Sheriff's Department has requested $84,000 in capital funds this year to pay for four new police cars. That office was originally budgeted $10,000 in capital funds last year, but will probably spend $19,564 in capital dollars before the end of fiscal year 1994-1995.

The General Services office is seeking $1,143,000 in capital funds this year. Last year, that agency was budgeted capital funds totalling $200,000, but will have spent only $7,775 of that total before June 30. The General Services office is seeking more capital funds this year to cover the cost of moving the health department into another facility, if such a move is deemed necessary, and for expenses associated with proposed renovations to the county jail.

In preparing the FY 1994-1995 budget, the former board of commissioners allotted $12,000 for legal council. However, the county will have paid an estimated $47,022 for legal council before June 30. For the upcoming fiscal year, a total of $50,000 has been requested to pay for legal council.

The Garrett County Board of Education has requested an increase in funding of some $2 million for the 1995-1996 fiscal year. Last year, the education board was allotted $10,552,000. For the upcoming fiscal year, the board has requested $12,382,000.

in a long and difficult process," commented Executive Director Duane Yoder of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc. "It was made possible because of the patience and commitment of our partners, including Sen. Sarbanes, Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, and state officials."

The Glades West and Yough West projects are being sponsored by the CAC, and construction is expected to take 10 months.

According to the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, there is currently a severe shortage of housing for low and moderate income elderly tenants in the Oakland area. The Yough West development will be an attempt to address this need.

K-9 UNIT VISITS BLOOMINGTON ELEMENTARY - Deputies from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, along with K-9 Unit "Deek," made a recent visit to Bloomington Elementary School. Deputy Mike Bittinger and Deek, with assistance from Deputy Pat Kelly, demonstrated to the students the many uses of a K-9 to the sheriff's office. The deputies explained how the dog can search an area for a missing or wanted person, and how he searches an area for a specific item. Bittinger then showed the students how Deek locates hidden drugs, and how the dog will attack when commanded to do so.

CHILDREN'S BOOK MONTH - The Garrett County Board of Commissioners recently met with Claudia Coughlin of the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library; Gary Yoder, co-chair of the American Trust Bank Annual Charity Golf Tournament Planning Committee; and Travis Bohrer, representative of American Trust Bank, to issue a proclamation designating July as Children's Book Month in the county. Yoder stated that the annual golf tournament has raised a total of $80,000 for charity over the years, with last year's tournament revenue of $20,000 going to the Ruth Enlow Library. He added that tournament planners hope to raise $25,000 for the library this year. Yoder also expressed his gratitude to the corporate sponsors of the annual tournament. Pictured left to right are Commissioner Roger Glotfelty, Bohrer, Yoder, Coughlin, and Commissioners John Braskey and Wayne Wilt.

KNIGHTS DONATE TO HOSPICE - Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., recently received a financial boost from Council #1771, Knights of Columbus, Oakland. The Knights held an evening of Bingo, after which John Kurilla, Past Grand Knight and current treasurer of Council #1771, presented the proceeds to Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice, pictured above. "We are very appreciative of the support the Council has given to Hospice over the years, helping Hospice to continue to serve the terminally ill and their families in Garrett County," Mrs. Butscher said. Council #1771, which consists of some 50 members, is one of the oldest councils in the state of Maryland. John R. Toston is presently serving as Grand Knight.

Former DEED Office To Be Re-Structured

Maryland Secretary of Business and Economic Development James T. Brady announced this week plans to re-structure what was formerly the Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) to sharpen the state's focus on retaining existing Maryland businesses and attracting new business to the state.

"Economic development is highly competitive today," Secretary Brady said. "We must be very aggressive in retaining our existing businesses and in pursuing new business opportunities for the state. We have a new but already strong private sector partnership with the Maryland Economic Development Commission, and we will be making additional linkages with our many regional and local partners around the state. This new organizational structure will enable us to better focus on our customers -- every company located in Maryland today and every other company that we would like to bring to Maryland."

Legislation passed during the 1995 General Assembly authorized the reorganization of DEED. Effective July 1, its Division of Employment and Training will be transferred to a restructured Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation, and DEED will become a streamlined Department of Business and Economic Development, reflecting its single mission of business attraction and retention and its private sector focus.

The same legislation also created the private sector Maryland Economic Development Commission to assist the department in creating a strategic plan for economic development and marketing the state for business relocation. The Commission has held two meetings and this month embarked on the strategic planning process, which will be undertaken in concert with public and private economic development organizations around the state.

The new Department of Business and Economic Development will have five divisions. Two new divisions -- Marketing and Regional Development -- will replace the former divisions of Business Development, Business Resources, and the Maryland International Division. There will continue to be divisions of Tourism and Promotion, Financing Programs, and Administration.

The Division of Marketing will bring together all the state's national and international business recruitment and retention efforts. This division will include an Office of Business Development, an Office of International Trade, and an Office of Industry Sector Assistance.

The Division of Regional Development will include an Office of Federal and Regional Response, an Office of Regulatory and Environmental Assistance, and an Office of Workforce Assistance in addition to the state's Small Business Development Centers and the new Forum for Rural Maryland.

All of the new department's approximately 250 employees ultimately will be located in the current headquarters building at 217 East Redwood Street in Baltimore.

FIRST UNITED JOINS CIRCLE -- Ben Rosenthal, president of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, right, extends his appreciation to Robert Kurtz, executive vice president at the First United National Bank & Trust, as First United became a member of the hospital foundation's George W. Loar Circle. "The George W. Loar Circle is a recognition program for businesses and civic associations that have become actively involved in supporting high quality health care for Garrett County and surrounding areas by making an annual contribution of $1,000 to the hospital foundation," explained Rosenthal. "Membership in the Circle signifies First United's firm commitment to helping assure quality health care for its employees and customers," Kurtz said. First United also provided substantial support for the Foundation's first fund drive, the Capital Campaign, with a contribution of $50,000.

George Receives State Small Business Award

Thomas George II, a recent graduate of Southern High School, was among 28 of Maryland high school student business owners recently recognized by Governor Parris N. Glendening for their entrepreneurial achievements, at the 11th annual Small Business Awards Breakfast held last month.

George, son of Tom and Cheryl George, Oakland, received the statewide Entrepreneurial Award after being nominated by Marketing teacher Lisa Bender of Southern High School. He owns and operates a desk top small business.

A marketing and small business management student, he served as the treasurer of VICA and was a member of the Opening and Closing Team. George was also an award recipient during the Success Night ceremony.

Mettiki Coal Honored For Saving Energy

Energy-saving measures taken by Maryland's largest coal producer, Mettiki Coal Corporation of Garrett County, have earned it the National Capital Area Energy Conservation Award-ENCOMP-for 1995. The ENCOMP award honors businesses which have increased energy efficiency during the past year. Mettiki not only received the first-place award in its individual category (Industrial), but was also selected as the most outstanding of all entries.

The Potomac Edison Company's Western Division Manager William Mann presented the award to Mettiki's Vice President of Operations Charley Wesley and General Manager Tom Wynne at a special ceremony held at the Key Bridge Marriott in Rosslyn, Va. A total of 50 winners were presented awards as part of this year's energy conservation competition.

According to Mann, Mettiki has taken "an aggressive approach" to energy management in order to save electricity.

"Mettiki has been very successful in saving energy during the past year in which we have worked with the company on this demand-shifting project," Mann said. "The company's coal mining operation uses long-wall technology which, before this program started, necessitated running the mine 24 hours a day and a coal preparation plant 16 hours each day. By rearranging work and maintenance schedules, Mettiki was able to operate the mine 16 hours per day and the preparation plant 16 hours each day during Potomac Edison's off-peak hours. Mettiki installed metering which is driven by pulses from Potomac Edison equipment, allowing the company to continuously monitor its demand for electricity."

Mann added, "Mettiki reduced its electricity costs by more than $371,000 during the first 12-month period in which the program was in operation. These are very significant savings. The company also reduced on-peak demand for power by nearly 20 percent. Mettiki will continue to realize savings in energy and energy dollars as it continues its demand-shifting program.

"Mettiki's dedication to energy conservation is commendable. We are pleased to have a business from our service territory receive this honor."

Wesley stated, "Demand-side management is an essential part of Mettiki's culture. Every employee is an owner in this operating scenario. The Mettiki employees realize the competitive nature of the coal business and represent themselves as owners in all matters that deal with job security, quality of life and safety."

Along with Potomac Edison, ENCOMP awards are sponsored by Potomac Electric Power Company, Northern Virginia Electric Cooperative, Metropolitan Washington Heat Pump Association, the Association of Professional Energy Managers, ASHRAE National Capital Chapter, Consulting Engineers Council of Metro-Washington, Mid-Atlantic Association of Shopping Centers, the Property Management Association of Metropolitan Washington, and Virginia Power.

The awards were established in 1980 as a means of exchanging practical ideas on energy efficiency and to recognize excellence in these endeavors, as was exhibited at Mettiki.

Mann said that Potomac Edison has programs in place to help all types of businesses determine ways of saving energy and energy dollars. Persons desiring more information on these programs may contact Potomac Edison at (800) 654-3317.

Food For Thought

by Chef Francesco Pisano McClive's Restaurant

Yielding to temptation, Americans consumed about 11 pounds of chocolate per person last year--a mere nothing compared to the Swiss, who munched some 26 pounds per person.

Make that birthday cake your very own creation with a custom-designed frosting. "Personalize" ordinary canned frosting by melting a few tablespoons of your favorite jam, then folding it in.

Soaking raw onions in water tones down the raw, bitter flavor. Soak sweet onion rings in ice water an hour, then drain. Arrange on tomato slices and drizzle with thyme and balsamic vinaigrette.

Minced garlic won't burn if you "saute" it in oil in the microwave. Add a minced, seeded jalapeno pepper and two diced ripe tomatoes and zap again. Then pour in ½ cup white wine and a 10-ounce can of baby clams. Terrific sauce over cooked linguine.

Need ladyfingers for that special dessert? You can substitute an equal amount of sponge cake or pound cake.

There's no substitute for the "magic touch" our chef adds to the first-class ingredients served at

Ashby Joins World Learning Organization

Dawn Ashby, Accident, recently joined the team at World Learning's International High School Program, located in Greenwich, Conn. Founded in 1932 as The U.S. Experiment in International Living, World Learning is the oldest provider of homestay experiences, and is a non-profit, educational organization.

The International High School program provides an opportunity for teenagers from abroad to spend a school year or a semester with an American family, according to a World Learning spokesperson. Students attend local public high schools, share everyday life with their host families, and participate in sports, school clubs, and community activities.

Students in the program have been carefully screened, speak English, and have their own spending money, the spokesperson said. Their insurance, visa, orientation, and flight arrangements are taken care of by World Learning.

"All a family needs to provide is a bed and quiet place to study, two meals a day, and an open heart eager to receive a 'son' or 'daughter' from another country," the spokesperson added.

Interested families are invited to call Ashby, who will represent World Learning's intercultural exchange to families, schools, community groups, and local media in this area. She can be reached at 746-8867. Persons may also call Ruth Hurwitz, regional director, at the national office in Greenwich, at 1-800-448-9944.

Bartlett Backs Elimination Of Dept. Of Energy

District VI Congressman Roscoe Bartlett recently participated in a news conference in Washington, D.C., in which legislators called for the elimination of the Department of Energy. Bartlett released the following statement at the news conference:

"As a scientist, I am well acquainted with the excellent research produced by the Department of Energy. However, I am also acutely aware of similar work done by other agencies and departments within the federal government.

"The American way is finding a better way to do an important job. That's why I am joining my colleagues in seeking to abolish the Department of Energy and reorganize federal scientific research to eliminate duplicative and wasteful administrative inefficiencies."

According to a Bartlett spokesperson, Dr. Bartlett brings a lifetime of experience as a scientist, inventor and professor to his responsibilities in Congress. With a PhD in Physiology, a research career which produced more than 100 scientific papers and 20 patents, and experience as a researcher for the National Institutes of Health, the Navy, and NASA, Dr. Bartlett is particularly qualified to help develop public policy concerning scientific research."

Through a scholarship from the Oakland/Mountain Lake Park Lions Club and staff development funds, Michele Duda recently attended the Maryland Library Association Conference held the first week of May in Ocean City.

"The MLA Conference was an ideal way to meet and share ideas with libraries across the state," Duda said. "It was exciting to see and hear about the new technologies that Garrett County will soon be receiving and to speak with people who are already involved with Sailor and Internet."

Various library exhibitors were at the Maryland Conference. Sessions included "Catching the Information Wave," "Strategic Plan for Maryland Libraries," and "Public Libraries on the Information Highway."

Hager's work has won awards and has been included in numerous galleries, including the Hoyt Institute of Fine Art, Newcastle, Pa.; the Aqueous Open at the Lafond Gallery, Pittsburgh, Pa.; and the Associated Artists of Pittsburgh Annual Exhibition at the Carnegie Museum of Art, Pittsburgh, an event spokesperson stated.

"Hager integrates the old with the new using a combination of many elements," explained gallery manager Carol Calhoun. "His mixed media represents the hectic pace of modern day life, while scraps and pieces from older works represent the past. His works, which always manage to be in motion, are sometimes vibrant, sometimes dark, sometimes cynical, sometimes whimsical, but always direct, straight forward, and to the point."

Gallery hours are Friday through Monday from noon to 7 p.m. For more information, persons may call 746-4083.

Data Entry Co. 30 Years Old

The staff and employees of the Data Entry Company, Oakland celebrated its 30th anniversary on Wednesday, June 14.

The Oakland data center was acquired in 1965 with six employees by G. Maurice DuFour. The Data Entry Company is now one of the top 10 employers in Garrett County, with over 150 employees.

To allow for the increasing demand for data entry services, a building was constructed on the current site in 1968. In 1986, the building was expanded to its current 14,000 square feet.

"Today our business has increased to better meet the needs of our customers. In addition to our existing data entry services, we now offer In-Home Data Entry, Mail and Payment Processing Services (MAPPS). Telemarketing Services, and Enterprising Sales Solutions (ESS)," stated a company spokesman.

The Data Entry Company has offices in Bethesda and Oakland, and also in Winchester, Va., and is one of the largest data entry companies in the country today.

Dunkleberger To Address OBE Committee

Dr. Gary E. Dunkleberger, assistant superintendent of instruction for the Carroll County Board of Education, will make a presentation to the Garrett County Board of Education's ad hoc committee investigating Outcome Based Education on Monday, June 19, at Garrett Community College.

The meeting will take place in room 314 of the continuing education building and will start at 6:30 p.m. The public is invited to hear this presentation.

Carroll County Public Schools recently involved more than 700 county citizens in a series of community meetings to implement recommendations for school improvement. Parents, teachers, students, school administrators, and members of the business community identified the essential curriculum and the knowledge and skills that they believed students need by the time of graduation.

A series of exit outcomes were developed which had to be agreed upon by 80 percent of the participants before adoption by the county school system.

During his presentation, Dunkleberger will explain the process used to implement the changes in the school system, discuss the seven exit outcomes, answer common questions about the program, and show a video created by parents involved in the curriculum revision.

"This brief video gives the parents' perspective of what was being done and was not made by the Carroll County Board of Education," an event spokesperson stated.

Dunkleberger received a B.S. degree in chemical education from Lock Haven State College, Pa.; an M. Ed. degree in natural science from the University of Delaware; and an Ed. D. degree in science education from the University of Maryland, College Park. He organized Carroll County's efforts to develop an "essential curriculum" from the community's Outcomes Summit.

Dunkleberger has also served as consultant to various school systems throughout the country and is the author of numerous books, articles, and publications in the field of science education and general curriculum.

For more information on this event, persons may call Betsy fowler at 334-2909.

R Rx

WE TRY NOT TO KEEP YOU WAITING LONG

Usually, your prescription can be ready quickly. We will first record it, then check the ingredients, dosage, directions, locate the medicine, package and label it and finally recheck those steps before giving it to you. All this is important for your protection. If it is necessary to compound a combination of medicines for your prescription, we will always tell you in advance that it will take a little longer than usual.

On this type of prescription, if you need a refill you can call in the number in advance. In this way we can most often have it ready for you. Our aim is to give the fastest service that caution permits.

A father's love is one of life's greatest joys. Though a son or daughter grows up all too quickly, there are wonderful memories of many good times spent together.

Fathers deserve a national day of honor. Look how much they do for their families. They leave home early each morning and come back late, often tired. Their toil in the work places of the world provides shelter, food, clothes, education and a great deal of happiness...

Above all, a real father gives of himself to those he loves through his understanding, kindness and encouragement. Find strength in the love of our Heavenly Father.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ARE YOU FOR SALE?
June 18, 1995

Background Scripture:
1 Kings 21
Devotional Reading:
Micah 6:6-13

King Ahab is our contemporary. He is a person with great power and equally great appetite. He sees something he wants and makes a reasonable offer. As Ahab said to Naboth, "Give me your vineyard, that I may have it for a vegetable garden...and I will give you a better vineyard for it; or if it seems good to you, I will give you its value in money" (21:2).

There, what could be more fair than that? A reasonable offer: (1) Ahab was the king, (2) the vineyard was next to Ahab's palace, and (3) Naboth would be fairly compensated for it. Surely a reasonable man would go along with a deal like that!

But of Naboth there was one consideration above all others: the vineyard was an inheritance from his forefathers. To sell it to King Ahab would have been a betrayal of family trust. Nothing Ahab could offer would compensate him for betraying that trust. So, Naboth, a man who had remarkably little, couldn't be bought at any price.

VEXED AND SULLEN

The King was also very contemporary in the way that he reacted: "And Ahab went into his house vexed and sullen because of what Naboth the Jezreelite had said to him...and he lay down on his bed, and turned away his face, and would eat no food." Here was a man who had great power and riches, yet he focused not on all that he had, but on this one little thing he didn't have. And that too is contemporary.

Some may be too lenient with King Ahab, blaming Jezebel for actually doing the terrible deed, having Naboth stoned on a trumped-up charge. But Ahab and Jezebel are equal partners in this crime. Ahab could have said, "No, I am deeply disappointed, but I will not permit any injustice." But he didn't. Instead he sets the stage for Jezebel's diabolical advice by sulkily calling attention to his unhappiness.

Note how Jezebel appeals to Ahab: "Do you not govern Israel?" Are you the King or are you not? Don't you have the power? Once again, the deadly, seductive corruption of power. Aren't you the star of the team? Aren't you the CEO of this company? Aren't you the governor of this state?

PERMISSIVE EVIL

And just like today, Ahab gets to eat his cake and keep it too. "Arise, and eat bread," Jezebel assures him, "and let your heart be cheerful; I will give you the vineyard..." He knew it was wrong, but he permitted someone else to do it for him. And so do some of us. It takes only one person to do great evil, but multitudes may willingly profit from it.

There should be no doubt about Ahab's complicity: "And as soon as Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, Ahab arose to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, to take possession of it" (16). No questions raised about this vile deed. No rebuke to Jezebel. No hesitation to profit from this heinous crime.

And then Elijah comes with God's terrible judgment: "I have found you. You have sold yourself to do what is evil in the sight of the Lord" (20). Naboth wouldn't sell himself and his birthright for a magnanimous price, but Ahab sold himself for a mere vineyard.

What about you? Are you for sale?

COVER STORY

Bringing Up Jack reflects fondly on fatherhood

Matthew Lawrence

ABC may have had sentimental thoughts in mind when it pulled Bringing Up Jack from its spring schedule and put it into the summer lineup. After all, the series' six-episode trial run overlaps nicely with Father's Day, Sunday, June 18.

Then again, maybe not. Like big-league managers, network programmers are always trying to field their strongest team. Either way, the TV season is in extra innings and other series are looking tired, so Jack has stepped up to the plate.

The series is based on the experiences of Jack Gallagher, an average sort of fellow who became a father when he was 38. Probably the world would have little noted the event if not for the fact Gallagher (no relation to the melon-busting showman) is a stand-up comic.

Drawing on the experiences of parenthood, Gallagher wrote a one-man show called Letters to Declan, which in turn inspired the series, airing Saturdays through July 8.

Jack McMahon (Gallagher) is the host of a sports talk show at a Philadelphia radio station. A bachelor for many years, he has plunged feet-first into fatherhood, marrying a widowed mother of two. A third child – Jack's first – is on the way.

Harley Jane Kozak (Harts of the West) plays Ellen, Jack's wife. The actors are nicely paired, and Kozak wears well as the more experienced partner in the marriage.

Ellen's older children, Molly and Ryan, are played by sunny newcomer Kathryn Zaremba and mop-topped Matthew Lawrence, younger sibling of Blossom heartthrob Joey Lawrence.

For broader humor, there is Artie, Jack's radio sidekick, played by Jeff Garlin.

"He's basically the devil on Jack's shoulder," Katlin says, "going, 'Hey, just because you're married, just because you're a father, doesn't mean you can't still go with me.' "

Though their friendship used to spill over into Phillies or Flyers games after hours, now more often than not Jack's family life spills over into the studio.

The airwaves may seem crowded with series featuring radio stations (Frasier, Martin, Newsradio et al.). But Katlin and his partner, Nat Bernstein, defend the venue as a natural platform for Jack's thoughts on fatherhood.

"(The sports talk show) is a male bastion," Katlin says. "Very often these shows veer into any topic that they feel comfortable talking about."

"Philadelphia," Bernstein adds, "is one of the biggest sports cities in the country, (with) one of the most popular sports talk radio shows."

So how could Jack refer to Los Angeles Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda as a "coach" in the pilot episode?

"We were hoping you would not notice that," Gallagher deadpans.

OK, so it's not primarily a sports show. But can it hit the summer ratings ball far enough to get picked up for more episodes? Gallagher isn't handing out cigars, but he is optimistic about the newborn's future.

"I think the show is taking on kind of an original – well, not original, but a nice look to it – that says it's ours," he says.

Child TV stars agree: Real fathers know best

BY MARGIE BARRON

Ward Cleaver, the sage patriarch of TV's Leave It to Beaver, was the ideal dad whose words of wisdom solved all of his children's problems.

Is that type of understanding father as extinct as the dinosaurs? Not according to a number of showbiz children, who brag that their dads regularly dispense life's lessons in generous doses.

To mark Father's Day on Sunday, June 18, some proud young TV stars recently enjoyed sharing the lessons and best advice their dads have given them.

Michael Fishman (D.J., Roseanne) relates, "My dad (Nelson) always emphasized that I should just be myself and not try to do things just to please someone else. Because then you'll never know if they really like you or the person you're pretending to be."

Alfonso Ribeiro (Carlton, The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air) credits his father (Michael) with giving him good values to keep him from getting in trouble.

"My dad is my manager. I trust him. He's always looked out for my best interests and taught me to stay level-headed," Ribeiro says.

Producer Aaron Spelling's daughter, Tori (Donna, Beverly Hills, 90210), says he never wanted her to become an actress, but he supported her when she chose to get into showbiz.

"He's great about letting me make my own decisions. That encourages kids to be responsible," she explains.

Shawn Toovey (Brian, Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman) says, "My dad (Jim) has taught me to always do the very best I can. That's the best advice because you can't do more than that."

Michael Fishman stars as D.J. on Roseanne, Tuesdays on ABC. His real-life dad has taught the young actor to just be himself.

SOAP TALK

Executive producers are changing places

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Viewers who aren't any good at musical chairs should avoid the staffs of the three Proctor and Gamble soaps, Another World, Guiding Light and As the World Turns.

All three shows are getting new – but familiar – executive producers.

P&G has announced Jill Farren Phelps, who helped GL garner several awards, is moving to the troubled AW as executive producer.

Michael Liabson takes over her position at GL. Liabson was the executive producer at AW from 1988-93.

John Valente moves from his post as executive producer at AW to ATWT in the same capacity.

"We're very pleased to welcome Michael back to the Proctor and Gamble family and to continue working with Jill," says Kenneth L. Fitts, executive in charge of production at P&G. "Each will bring a special creative energy to the production of these shows.

"We are also very pleased that John is returning to ATWT where he served as producer from 1988-90.

"These changes reflect Proctor & Gamble Productions' commitment to improving the ratings performances of these shows. With the continued support of both CBS and NBC, GL, AW and ATWT will entertain viewers for many years to come."

So what's this mean for viewers? To begin with, big changes in story lines, the wrapping up of old stories and most likely several new characters.

Jill Farren Phelps

Every time new people take over a show, they promise not to make major changes – but it almost always happens.

Whole families will disappear as new ones arrive.

Favorite characters who have been on the back burner will suddenly be brought forward with new stories.

And others will leave either for story line reasons or for new opportunities.

Phelps may find herself in the most difficult job. AW has improved greatly, but the show still flounders at the bottom of the ratings.

•Speaking of changes, check out ABC's Hot Summer Soaps, airing Wednesday, June 21.

The special offers a prime-time peek into upcoming story lines of Loving, All My Children, One Life to Live and General Hospital.

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I am a big fan of Homicide: Life on the Street. Has there been any talk about an Emmy nomination for Andre Braugher? –A Homicide lover in Oakland, Calif.

A: More than one TV critic has called Braugher "the best actor on TV" and tried to attract viewers to this brilliant drama, a consistent ratings bottom-feeder that nevertheless recently was renewed by NBC. Perhaps Braugher will get his overdue Emmy nod this fall.

Q: Where can I find The Adventures of Otis and Milo on video? –Jackie Tether, Napa, Calif.

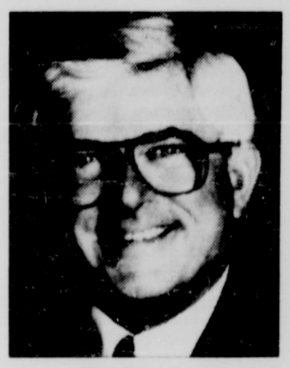
A: That's ...Milo and Otis, for the record (Milo apparently had the better agent). It's available from Movies Unlimited, 6736 Castor Ave., Philadelphia, Pa. 19149. Also, ask for its massive catalog of other titles.

Q: I wrote to Jeff Fahey at the ABC address you gave and my letter was returned. What do I do now? –Pati Mishler, Shallow Water, Kan.

A: I understand your frustration. I don't re-emphasize to often, but it's important to include the name of the show (C/O The Marshal) after the actor's name so the mail room will route it directly to that show's offices. An ABC senior publicist said an employee presumably did not recognize Fahey's name. Try again, and cheer up: The Marshal will be back next season.

Q: Why do the networks drop a show without notice or explanation? Phil Donahue was on one day, then the next it was that jerk Jerry Springer. I feel like I have lost a friend. What has happened? –Viola Carlson, Carlsbad, Calif.

A: The change in syndicated talk shows was a decision made at your local channel, not the network. Donahue is still very much in production. When a program director decides to make a switch like this, he or she understandably wants to put a happy face on the situation, emphasizing the appeal of the new show instead of the perceived failure of the old.



Phil Donahue

Q: Years ago I saw a miniseries that was the first time I saw Pierce Brosnan. He portrayed a young man named Rory. What was it? Is it on video? –T. Bahrke, Green Bay, Wis.

A: The Manions of America is available from a couple of sources. Try writing to Prism Entertainment, 1888 Century Park E., Suite 1000, Los Angeles, Calif. 90067.

Q: Our family can't remember the name of a Western comedy with Goldie Hawn and George Segal. What is it, and is it available to rent on video? –Kay Miller, Winslow, Ill.

A: Yes, The Duchess and the Dirtwater Fox is on video.

Southern Sixth Graders Finish DARE Program

A total of 230 sixth grade students at Southern Middle School recently received certificates after successfully completing the Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) Program.

"The program is a cooperative effort between the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Garrett County Board of Education which teaches students of the dangers and pressures associated with using illegal drugs," an event spokesperson stated.

The program includes 17 lessons which are administered over one year.

"The program is designed to give students information so they can make an informed decision about the use of illegal drugs," commented Detective Pat Kelly, who serves as DARE instructor for the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. "I didn't have the luxury of the information provided to these students when I was their age. This is an invaluable program."

Mennonite VBS Slated

The Maple Glen Mennonite Church, Grantsville, will sponsor vacation Bible school June 26-30 from 9:15 to 11:30 a.m. each day.

The theme for this year's program will be "Declare God's Glory," from the Herald Press Bible School series. Classes will be held for students age 3 through tenth grade. The public is welcome.

For more information, persons may call (814) 662-4108.

Senior Citizens' Crime Prevention Course Offered

A Senior Citizen Crime Prevention Academy will be hosted by the Garrett County Seniors and Law Enforcement Together (SALT) program during the first part of August.

The course will include two weeks of extensive training in the area of crime prevention and agency awareness.

A SALT representative stated that more information on the course will be provided at a later date.

Westvaco Wins National Award

Westvaco Corporation has received the National Great Blue Heron Award in recognition of the company's efforts to provide improved habitat for waterfowl and other migratory birds. Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) Commissioner Tom Bennett, who nominated the company, made the presentation Friday during a KDFWR Commission meeting.

The Blue Heron Award is presented annually by the North American Waterfowl Plan Committee. This international organization (Canada-United States-Mexico) is dedicated to improving habitat and duck flight. This includes adding six million new acres of waterfowl nesting and feeding habitat, and restoring a fall flight of 100 million ducks by the year 2000. Westvaco is one of only two corporations to receive this year's award.

The centerpiece of the nomination is the Westvaco Wildlife Management Area (WMA) which was established in 1991 by a Memorandum of Understanding signed by Westvaco and KDFWR.

"This unique conservation partnership is a public/private cooperative project to provide much needed additional habitat for waterfowl along the western Kentucky segment of the Mississippi River Flyway," said Commissioner Bennett. "It is already creating much needed benefits as evidenced by the 45,000 ducks on the WMA during population counts conducted in January and February."

The WMA is located in Carlisle and Hickman counties along the Mississippi River, just eight miles south of Westvaco's Fine Papers mill at Wickliffe, Ky. Westvaco manages the WMA for both waterfowl and wood fiber production.

Earlier this year, Westvaco received the Land Stewardship Award from the National Wild Turkey Federation. The company also received the Wildlife Stewardship and Forest Management Awards from the American Forest and Paper Association. Since 1980, Westvaco has received more than 50 environmental performance awards from conservation organizations and government agencies.

Cases Of Arson Increase During First Quarter

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced a major increase in arson incidents in Maryland for the first quarter of 1995.

According to data collected through the Uniform Crime Reporting Program, arson increased by approximately 39% during the first three months of this year as compared with the same period in 1993. There were 717 arsons investigated during the first quarter of 1995, compared with on 517 such incidents recorded during the first quarter of last year.

The most significant increase occurred in the Western Region which includes Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties; however, there were no arson cases reported in Garrett County for the quarter. Arson increased by 51.5% in the region during the first quarter of 1995. There were 50 reported arsons documented in the region as compared with only 33 such incidents during the same period from 1994.

The Baltimore Metropolitan Region consisting of Baltimore City, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Harford and Howard counties recorded the second highest increase in arson for the first quarter. Arson rose by 33.9% in the Baltimore area with 320 arsons investigated during the first three months of this year as compared with only 239 for the same period last year.

The Eastern Shore Region, consisting of Cecil, Kent, Caroline, Queen Anne, Talbot, Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties recorded a 25.8% increase in arson. There were 39 reported arson incidents in the region for the first quarter of this year, as compared to 31 such incidents documented for the first quarter of last year.

The Washington Metropolitan Region which consists of Montgomery and Prince George's counties recorded only an 11.6% increase in arson for the first quarter of 1995. There were 163 arsons reported for the first three months of this year, as compared with only 146 such crimes during this same period in 1994.

The Southern Region consisting of Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's counties was the only region of-the state to have a decline in arson for the first quarter of the year. Arson offenses dropped by approximately 34.5% in the region. There were only 19 arsons investigated in the region during the first quarter of 1995, as compared with 29 such investigations conducted during the same period last year.

Additionally one person was killed in an arson related fire during the first quarter of this year. This is a decline from the three arson-related fatalities recorded for this same period in 1994.

The State Fire Marshal is asking anyone with information regarding any arson fire in Maryland to contact the statewide arson hot-line at 1-800-492-7529 to provide tips to investigators regarding these crimes. An arson tip reward of up to $5,000 may be provided to anyone offering information on an arson crime that leads to an arrest or indictment of the person or persons responsible for the crime.

Health & Nutrition
by Judith Sheldon

E FOR AIDS: Some recent studies indicate that the antioxidant nutrients, vitamin E and betacarotene, may help people with HIV from developing full-blown AIDS.

The antioxidants fight the free radicals which attack the immune system. And since AIDS is, essentially, a disease of the immune system, keeping it strong and working is essential.

The researchers involved in these studies suggest those who are HIV-positive consult their doctors about increasing their intake of the antioxidants. Too often, people wait until the disease has become active before taking vitamin supplementation. By that time, the potential benefits may be severely diminished.

C IT TWICE: Although vitamin C is also an antioxidant, and has been shown effective in helping to strengthen the immune system, it was not included in this particular study. However, another study on vitamin C supplementation suggests people take the nutrient twice a day. Apparently, if you take your vitamin C mostly in the morning, the body will have flushed out what it doesn't use in 12 hours. To maintain the benefits of vitamin C for 24 hours, take half your dosage in the morning and the other half before going to bed.

CALCIUM UPDATE: I recently spoke with a dairy industry representative who insisted that the only good source of calcium is milk and milk products. She admitted that in the past, they had problems persuading people to use their foods to help prevent osteoporosis, because the saturated fat content of most milk products could lead to cardiovascular problems as well as overweight. Today, she said, milk, yogurt, and many cheeses are offered either fat free or fat reduced. While that's certainly true, I still don't recommend that you consider milk and milk products as your primary calcium source. Other foods also provide this important mineral, including cauliflower, broccoli, white beans, rutabaga, Chinese cabbage, turnip greens, and tofu (bean curd). Besides providing calcium, they also provide fiber as well as essential nutrients that may reduce risks of developing cardiovascular problems as well as certain cancers.

Antiques

Victorian furniture designers took some of their ideas from the past. They based many of their designs on those from Egypt, France and Greece. Parts of the designs were taken from many sources. French-looking porcelain plaques, bronze Egyptian sphinx heads, satyrs, lion masks and elaborate carvings were used on chairs and tables.

One unusual set of furniture that was probably made in Philadelphia about 1865 looks as if it were inspired by ancient Assyria. Strange carved griffins held the arms. Other creatures were part of the decoration on the chair back and legs. The chairs were possibly made by Allen & Brother, a Philadelphia firm that exhibited even more elaborate pieces at the Centennial in 1876.

Q. I just found a Coca-Cola metal top with a tab that says "Lift-top." When was that sort of top used? I am a collector and have never seen one before.

A. A Lift-Top Coca-Cola bottle was tested in 1964 in Chicago and in Portland, Ore. The customers seemed to like the easy-to-open bottle but the carbonation was poor. It may have been the cap, or children playing with the unsold bottles at the store. The top was discontinued in 1965.

Q. I have a glass bowl that looks as if it were made from two pieces of glass that makes a sandwich, with a piece of lace on the inside. It is signed, Walter. I think it is about 50 years old. I wonder if you have any ideas as to who Walter is.

A. Edwin D. Walter has been making glass like yours since 1948. He calls it "doily" glass. Pieces were made for a company in Tennessee in the 1970s. Two pieces of window glass were laminated together with a decoration in between. Other examples pictured flowers, leaves or geometric patterns.

Such glass is beginning to interest collectors.

TIP: Sometimes when there has been damage to an armchair, it is reworked into a side chair. The new chair can be detected because it is wider than the other side chairs in the set. The incorrect proportions tell it's a fake.

Women At Work
by Tamara Jones

SEXUAL HARASSMENT is still a problem for many people, although there are protective laws on the books. One reason it continues to be a factor in the workplace is because it's often initiated as part of the work process, and the target of the harasser frequently doesn't know how to react or even if she has the right to react.

Earlier this year, some of America's largest corporations have joined in a new campaign to help stop sexual harassment in the workplace. Among these enlightened leaders are David Bell, chairman of Bozell worldwide; John Mack Carter, President, Hearst Magazines Enterprises, and Andrew E. Jackson, Corporate Vice President, Corporate Affairs, Capital Cities/ABC. Their efforts are directed to help make the public aware of the need to stop sexual harassment. As Carter says, "... The goal of this campaign is education (which is) the first important step toward making things better."

One of the advertisements prepared by Bozell for their client, Women in Communications, provides a graphic visual of what a sexually harassing situation might sound like. It shows a dinner setting in a restaurant. The person who is obviously the boss, says, "I appreciate your meeting me here. The office can get so crazy with the phones and everything."

No reply.

Boss continues: Would you like a glass of wine?

Employee answers: No thank you. I'll just have a club soda.

Boss: Allison, here's to you. You're really doing a terrific job. You sure you don't want a drink? I hate to drink alone.

Employee: No, uh, thanks. I'm fine.

Boss: Ah, yes, you're probably wondering why I asked you here. Well, uh, that blouse really looks good on you. Oh, anyway, I was saying ... how about a half a glass? Just a little. Here, take some of mine.

The copy that follows reads: If someone at work is forcing you to mix business with pleasure, don't be afraid to speak up, even if it is your boss. Because unlike other situations at work, sexual harassment is one situation where you're not required to be a team player.

A reminder follows that information is available in the "Stop Sexual Harassment" booklets in your local public library.

Home Tips

HANG IT UP — If you're short on indoor space for drying clothes, buy an adjustable rod, the kind used for hanging up shower curtains. Put it midway across the tub and use it to dry bath towels so they are out of sight. This is also great for handwashables and bathing suits. Sami K., Lubbock, Texas

NO NICKS — I disagree with the reader who said to use a grater to grate eggs for egg or potato salad. While it's a good-enough idea, I usually scratch myself or nick a fingernail.

Instead, my favorite utensil for this job is a pastry cutter. Marie F., Columbus, Ohio

CUT THE FAT — When making crispy rice bars, instead of buttering your hands to press the mixture into the pan, do what I do. I just wet my hands with water and press. It's that simple — no added calories, no buttery mess to clean off your hands. This method actually works better than using butter. Christina W., Shreveport, La.

RECYCLE — With two children in elementary school, I was using a lot of envelopes to send in milk money, lunch money and notes to the teacher.

I started saving the return envelopes from "junk mail" and use them for this purpose instead of throwing them away. It saves money and helps recycle paper. Lynn B., Geneva, N.Y.

Adult Education Students Honored For Attendance

The local Adult Education Program of Garrett Community College has been recognizing the perfect attendance of its students. Each individual, who has perfect attendance for a month, receives a certificate of recognition. In addition, the students with perfect attendance are entered in a monthly drawing.

The May perfect attendance drawing winner was a student from the Oakland Center evening class. This student received two movie passes, compliments of Mid-Towns Cinemas, plus a gift certificate for popcorn and soft drinks for two.

In addition to individual recognition, each class center competed for a prize, based on the highest percentage of class attendance for the semester. The Oakland Center evening class, who call themselves. The Class Act," were the winners for the semester with an 89% attendance record for the semester. These students will be honored with a pizza party for the class, compliments of the Adult Education Program of the Continuing Education Department of GCC.

Potomac Edison Checking Lines Via Helicopter

Now that the spring foliage has emerged, the Potomac Edison Company has begun aerial inspections using helicopters to check vegetation growing near power lines. Patrols, which were scheduled to begin this week, are part of the Company's continuing efforts to provide "safe and reliable" electric service to its customers, according to a PE spokesman.

From a helicopter, a Potomac Edison forester examines all 34.5-kilovolt and larger transmission line rights-of-way for vegetation that may need trimming or removal and for trees that may be growing too close to power lines. Rights-of-way are also checked for soil erosion.

Low-flying helicopters, flown by qualified pilots, are used to examine the transmission system because they can cover large sections of power lines in a short period of time. This saves money and keeps disturbance to the natural habitat of the right-of-way to a minimum, the spokesman said. It is also important to keep rights-of-way dear so Potomac Edison linemen can have safe and easy access to power lines to make any needed repairs, he added.

Aerial patrols of the Company's transmission power lines are completed in two stages each year. Early each spring, company linemen survey the transmission system for hardware that may need to be repaired or replaced. After foliage has emerged, rights-of-way are scouted again in order to check the growth of vegetation near the power lines.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

VBS SLATED

Vacation Bible School is being held at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, June 19-23, with classes for all ages, pre-school through adults. Each day will begin at 9 a.m., with dismissal at 11:30 a.m. "Jesus' Kids--Totally Yours" is this year's theme. Everyone is welcome.

CEMETERY MEETING

The annual meeting of the Accident Cemetery Association is set for Tuesday evening, June 20, at 7 p.m. at the cemetery. In the event of rain, the meeting will be held at the nearby Maple Grove Church. Everyone interested is urged to attend.

RECYCLING OFFERED

Preston Sanitation does pick up recyclable materials in the Aurora area if the items are placed into a clear plastic bag, or marked with a large "R," and placed with other trash pickup items, on the second Tuesday of each month. This month's date for Union District was June 13. The July date is July 11.

Both steel (tin) and aluminum cans with labels removed, plastic and glass, rings and caps removed, rinsed with the labels removed, are accepted. All may be placed in the same bag.

Patrons may bundle newspaper print and place that separately, also. That is also accepted by the Jerry and Terry Hausers' "News for Moos," where it is shredded and baled. A container is placed at the Red House School, or it may be taken to the Hausers' farm.

CARD SHOWERS

Gladys Snyder will celebrate her 80th birthday on June 23. Her address is: Rt. 1, Box 249, Horse Shoe Run, WV 26769. It is requested that she be remembered with a card.

Ross and Kathryn Stemple Harvey, Clarksburg, observed their 60th wedding anniversary on June 15, and are celebrating by way of a card shower. Belated cards still may be sent to them at 113 Temple Terrace, Clarksburg, WV 26301.

Ross lived at Eglon and is a son of the late Guy and Odessa Harvey. Kathryn is a daughter of the late Amos and Lillie Wotring Stemple, who lived in Aurora.

Shad and Lori Helmick of Midwest City, Okla., announce the birth of their first child and son on May 31, 1995 at a hospital there. The seven-pound, 10-ounce boy was named Cody Alan Graley Helmick. He was 20 inches long at birth.

Ron and Pamela Connie Helmick, Terra Alta, are the paternal grandparents. Jerry and Connie Graley, Beckley, are the maternal grandparents. Darrell Slaubaugh, Eglon, is a paternal great-grandfather, and Cora Graley, Beckley, a maternal great-grandmother.

TOPS ATTEND PLAYHOUSE

TOPS #329 Horse Shoe Run went to the Jennerstown Playhouse on May 31 for an afternoon of fun as they viewed the comedy, "Forever Plaid," which was being presented. Those members and guests making the trip were Norma Shahan, Joyce Brenneman, Ardis Teets, Sharon and Dan Hammel, Dorothy Spaid, Marie Mullenax, Wilma Helmick, Ressie Conrad, Opal Myers and Angela Stevens.

EGLON HOMEMAKERS

Lectie Bonner used a theme centered on quieting one's life as the opening devotions for the June 6 meeting of the Eglon Homemakers in the home of Ruth Teets. Jean Winters read a meditation based on an Ecclesiastes scripture, and Mrs. Bonner concluded with a prayer litany.

Roll call was answered by naming a good happening in the member's life since the last meeting when all had been together.

The July meeting will be a picnic, planned for Thursday evening, July 6, at the Farmers' Wildlife Park, providing it is available. Plans for the August meeting were also made, and one of the things planned is a tour to the house on the Forman property. The regular meeting will be "Share and Tell," with each member asked to bring a demonstration, or perhaps an exhibit with instructions.

Rebecca Teets shared the lesson, "Coping With Loss."

Refreshments were served to the above mentioned by Jean Winters and to the following: Mary Rembold, Lillian Knotts, Linda Lewis, Nina Layman, Avenell Parsons, Sandra Hauser, and Rose Ina Harsh, a former member. Four children were also attending, Craig Rembold, Sara Lewis, Marissa Bachtel and Tracy Teets.

EGLON MOUNTAINEERS

On Monday evening, June 5, the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club met at the Maple Spring Church's pavilion. "Words About Fatherhood" was the theme for the devotionals provided by the recreation committee composed of Shawn Rembold, Adam Bachtel, Matthew Bachtel, and Danny Martin. Mark Bachtel led the pledges. All members, including Mark Utterback, were present.

Mark Bachtel, Kari Harsh and Craig Rembold reported their attendance at First Year Member's Weekend Camp, May 12-13. Christopher Mullenax reported that the horticulture judging team has been practicing, and recently went to Green Acres Garden Center for a guided tour of both nursery and greenhouse. They also toured the produce section of Food Lion. The wildlife judging team will participate in competition on June 14.

Four club members plan to attend Older Members' Conference, June 25-30: Tommy Teets, Becky Snyder, Jeremiah Feather and Mark Utterback, a returning scholarship recipient.

A tour of East-West Printing, Davis, has been planned for June 21. Members are asked to meet at 1 p.m. at the Eglon Memorial Building.

There will be no meeting in July. The next meeting will be Aug. 7, with a covered dish dinner at the Farmers' Wildlife Park. Families are asked to attend the 7 p.m. meeting, and members must bring all project exhibits and activity records for grading.

Dana Feather has an illustrated talk, "Marketable Cuts of Beef," and used "How to Crack an Egg" as a demonstration. Leah Strawser told about "My Lamb." Kim Collins talked about citizenship, "When a Cake Has Problems," and demonstrated how to mend a hole in a shirt. Matthew Bachtel explained numbers and names of films. Sarah Snyder demonstrated laying a pattern on material. Becky Snyder's demonstration concerned her entomology project, and she showed how to mount a butterfly.

The meeting concluded with recreation in the form of practice for field day.

UNION SENIORS

Twenty-two members were present for the June 8 meeting of the Union District Senior Citizens at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. The meeting opened with pledge to the flag, and Ted Hardesty asked the blessing for the covered dish meal.

The program was a sharing time and Ruth Snyder read, Greatest Reasons for Thanksgiving. Only Mature was Paul Stemple's contribution. Martha Bolyard read the foreword from George Burns' book, Wisdom of the Nineties and poems, Fathers read by Mary Jane Hanline, Legend of the Dogwood read by Gladys Snyder, The Little Things read by Wilda Stemple, and Why We Go To Church, read by Wilma Knapp concluded the program.

Rita McNear represented the county senior staff, and took blood pressure readings. Betty Martin, who is also on staff, announced that a bus tour is planned for July 6 to the Arts and Craft Fair at Cedar Lakes. Seniors who wish to go must have their reservations into the senior center at Kingwood by June 28, and be prepared to be in Kingwood at 7 a.m. on July 6. Cost of the tour will be $8, which should accompany the reservation.

FATHER'S DAY DINNER

A Father's Day dinner is being served from noon until 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 18, at the Aurora fire hall. Roast beef and Swedish meatballs will be accompanied by a complete dinner including choice of salads and dessert. Donations will be $5 for adults, and $3 for children. Firecracker 200 Event To Benefit Terra Alta VFD

Warrior Trails Sporting Clays, Terra Alta, will host a clay-shooting event, Saturday and Sunday, June 24-25, with a portion of the proceeds from the event to benefit the Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department.

Known as The Firecracker 200, the two-day event is sanctioned by the National Sporting Clays Association, and is open to all shooters.

Participants will use one of Warrior Trails' 20 shooting stations to fire at clay targets simulating pheasants, springing teal, flushing grouse, or running rabbits.

"There are shots to challenge the best of shooters, and others easy enough for the beginner," said a spokesperson for The Firecracker 200.

The cost to participate in this two-day event is $100 per shooter for 200 clays. Trophies for top finishers in all classes have been cast by Sheidow Bronze, Kingwood.

A barbecue will be provided by the fire department, and other refreshments will also be available throughout the weekend. All proceeds from the event will be used to pay for expenses for the event, and to benefit the local fire department.

Work Slated For Potomac Garrett Forest Playground

Local AmeriCorps members will begin work on the installation of a playground at Potomac Garrett State Forest on June 19. The playground will include a sandbox, sliding board, clubhouse, park bench, and swings for young children.

A opening ceremony at the new playground will be held Thursday, June 22, beginning at 3 p.m. Two members of the Governor's Commission on Service have made plans to help with the project and attend the opening, which is open to the public.

In preparation for the playground project, AmeriCorps members held a raffle which raised $650 for the purchase of materials and equipment. The Grand Prize of four hours of light duty yard work by AmeriCorps members was won by Alice Spoerlein, Oakland. Sue Liller, also of Oakland, won a 24 inch mountain bike donated by Proudfoot's Pharmacy, Oakland. Two limited edition Ken Bauer lithograph prints were also given away. These were won by Mary Staggs, Frostburg, and Lois Ford, Accident.

Project organizers also received a monetary donation from Sisler Lumber Company to help defer construction costs. Sisler Lumber also donated wood chips to make the play center safer for children.

The local AmeriCorps office is seeking community volunteers to assist in the completion of this service project. Work on the playground will be done Monday, June 19, through Wednesday, June 21, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Thursday, June 22, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Volunteers are asked to bring a packed lunch. Bird Watchers Log 151 Species

During the recent Garrett County May Bird Count, 38 bird watchers sighted and logged a total of 151 species, tying the second all-time highest total of species for a Garrett County May Count. The highest count was 155 species in 1989.

The local bird watchers spent a total of 196.4 hours traveling a total of 579.4 miles by foot, bicycle, boat, and car to identify 7,674 individual birds.

The ten bird species sighted most frequently were the American robin, with a total of 473 identified; red-winged blackbird, with 374 counted; American crow, with 287 sightings; common grackle, 261; barn swallow, 244; rufous-sided towhee, 242; chipping sparrow, 225; song sparrow, 217; mallard, 199; and black-capped chickadee, with 189 sighted.

Twenty-seven species of warblers were counted, of which 23 species are known to breed in Garrett County. "These are the small, insect-eating jewels of the bird world, so called because of their often brilliant colors," commented compiler Fran Pope.

Of the larger birds counted, six species of hawks, including the osprey, sharp-shinned, red-shouldered, red-tailed, and American kestrel, and four species of owls, including the eastern screech, great horned, barred, and northern saw-whet, were recorded.

This is the twenty-fourth consecutive year for the Garrett County May Bird Count. Results of the count will be published by the Maryland Ornithological Society in its journal, Maryland Birdlife.

Participants in the bird counting event were Ken Bauer, Carl and Connie Beachy, Virginia Beitzel, Mike Berry, Gwen Burkhardt, Lisa Crawford, Carolyn Deverse, Kevin Dodge, Charlotte Folk, Elizabeth Forrester, Robin Gorrell, LeJay Graffious, Marsha Harkins, Frances and Harold Hoecker, Ken Hotopp, Sheila Hughes, Elizabeth Huxford, Jan Janssen, Margaret Kaiser, Hillar Klandorf, Gerry Lawton, Jack, Jeff and Mike McCauley, Joan McKearnan, Jeff Opel, Bill and Fran Pope, Danny Quinn, Judy Sconyers, Jeff Shenot, Connie Skipper, Kathryn Speicher, Byron Swift, Sallie Thayer, and Dave Walbeck.

Annual Summerfest, Quilt Show Set July 13-15 at Spruce Village

by Linda Hawk

On a mid-month weekend every July for the past 18 years, artisans have gathered at Spruce Forest Village, Grantsville, to demonstrate their crafts, share their insights, and keep the traditional Appalachian heritage alive. This year is no exception with the annual Summerfest and Quilt Show planned for July 13-15.

"This is one way to assure that these arts are not lost," said Alta Schrock, founder of Penn Alps, the organization which originated the festival in 1978. "Each year we try to attract new artisans, in addition to those who are here throughout the summer. You can come here and see how things were done in the past."

This year more than 60 craftsmen and musicians will be at Summerfest, plus the more than 150 quilts on display at the Grantsville School, courtesy of Schoolhouse Quilters' Guild.

And they cover the gamut of hand-produced wares. Some create goods that were at one time essential to every household -- the tinsmith, the quilter and the chair caner. The blacksmith kept the horses shod and still can, but now also makes metal works of art, using the same time-honored methods and tools. Some hand crafts were "just for pretty," as the beautiful laces made by the tatter and the decorative arts produced by tole painting.

Beekeeping was and still is a valuable art and the local artisan practicing it demonstrates just why bees are necessary and how to care for them in safety. This gentleman, a Frostburg resident, is also an expert fly fisherman and demonstrates the art of tying flies, as well. He'll show you how it's done plus share plenty of tips on fishing local waters.

Muzzleloaded rifles were the standard in early America, and the making of these firearms will be demonstrated by an expert, wearing the buckskins of the era.

The ancient art of rug braiding will also be demonstrated, as will whittling, potterymaking, quilling, calligraphy, the art of paper cut-outs scherenschnitte, and much more.

The nine artisans in residence at Spruce Forest demonstrate their crafts throughout the summer, including Summerfest weekend. All renowned in their fields, these individuals represent the many faces of the Appalachian craft heritage. Donna Garman, dollmaker; Jody Best, blacksmith; and John Brock, maker of wooden farm tools, are the newest editions to the group. Susan Holt, quilter; Miriam Brode, basket maker; Willetta Rissell, stained glass artist; and Ann Jones, weaver, practice their crafts and share their talents with visitors to the Village daily. The pottery of Lynn Lais is produced here and sold across country. And bird carver Gary Yoder has been recognized as the best in his field at international gatherings for several years.

Entertainment has been expanded for Summerfest 1995 with musicians and performers scheduled for throughout the three days. Andrew Roblin, known to audiences up and down the east coast, is a multi-instrumentalist (banjo, hammered dulcimer, guitar) and singer/songwriter who'll be performing all three days, including a daily kids' show. Also especially for children and families, there will be horse cart rides, the horses being the famous Haflingers. This small breed comes originally from the Tyrolean mountains of Austria and is known for its good temperament and strength. The Department of Natural Resources Scales and Tails program will be there all three days, as well.

Additional entertainers are Greg Latta, hammered dulcimer, Thursday; Lynn Barnes, Celtic harper, Friday; and Roulette Barbershop Quartet and strolling bagpipers, Saturday.

The festival is complete with a full complement of food available from various local service organizations and vendors.

Hours for the 1995 Summerfest and Quilt Show are 10 a.m.-5 p.m., Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, July 13-15. The admission fee covers all activities, entertainment and the shuttle bus between Grantsville School, site of the quilt show and Spruce Forest, with stops at Yoders Country Market, Grantsville. For information on Summerfest or reduced-price advance tickets, call Spruce Forest at 301-895-3332.

Spruce forest is located on U.S 40, one mile east of Grantsville. If traveling west on I-68, use exit 22 and continue west on U.S. 40 to Penn Alps and Spruce Forest. If traveling east on I-68, use exit 19, turn left, then right on U.S. 40, one mile east of Grantsville.

Don't Let Dairy Myths Block Good Nutrition Habits

Someone somewhere started the notion that any food that tastes good can't possibly be good for you -- and vice versa. While most of us know that's not true, many people still harbor a lot of myths about milk and dairy products.

In reverse order, let's scope out the Top Ten Milk Myths and the scientific facts that dispel them.

Myth #10: Milk Has a Lot of Fat.

Fact: Milk is available in a wide variety of milk fat levels, ranging from whole (3.25 percent milkfat) to skim products. There is also a wide variety of other low-fat and nonfat dairy products on the market -- including yogurt, cheese, sour cream, dips and spreads -- for people who need to control their fat intake. The fact is, dairy products contribute only about 12 percent of the total dietary fat available in the U.S. food supply.

And here's more good news. Consuming more dairy products doesn't mean you'll gain weight. A recent study found that 9- to 13-year old girls who increased their dairy food intake increased their bone density without increasing either their fat intake or rate of weight gain.

Myth #9: Only Kids Need Milk.

Fact: Kids benefit from milk, of course, but so do adults. The National Institutes of Health (NIH) Expert Panel recommends that adult men and women consume calcium at levels above the RDA. They recommend 1,000 mg of calcium per day for men and women beginning at age 25, and 1,500 mg per day for post-menopausal women not taking estrogen and for all adults over age 65. Milk and dairy products provide the richest and one of the most economical sources of calcium in the American diet.

Myth #8: I Can Get By on One Glass a Day.

Fact: With an RDA of 800 mg of calcium per day and a minimum of 1,000 mg recommended by NIH, adult men and women need at least three servings of milk and dairy foods daily to get the calcium they need. Low calcium intake is a risk factor for osteoporosis -- a bone-thinning disease that strikes 25 million Americans, including 5 million men!

Myth #7: Do Fortified Foods Instead.

Fact: In the last few years, a number of calcium-fortified foods have come on the market. While these products do contribute to daily calcium intake, none are an adequate substitute for milk, which contributes vitamins A, B6, and B12, as well as riboflavin, phosphorus and magnesium.

Myth #6: Milk is Hard to Digest.

While most people have no problem digesting milk, some people do have low levels of the intestinal enzyme lactase, which breaks down the milk sugar lactose. Simple dietary management steps can help address this problem. For example, you could drink milk in servings of one cup or less, especially with a meal or other foods. Or, try well-tolerated dairy foods like aged cheeses or yogurt with active cultures. Another solution involves purchasing lactose reduced or lactose-free products.

Myth #5: Milk Produces Phlegm.

Fact: Although some people believe you should not drink milk when you have a cold or respiratory infection, thinking that milk produces mucus, science has shown otherwise. In a carefully controlled study in Australia, milk drinkers were infected with a cold virus, then consumed 2.7 glasses a day. No link was found between milk consumption and mucus production.

Myth #4: Teens Can Do without Calcium.

Fact: Calcium intake and weight-bearing exercise during the teen years are especially important to help support skeletal growth. The added benefit of the other vitamins and minerals found in milk are also important to developing bone structures. Unfortunately, less than a quarter of teenage girls today meet their RDA for calcium.

Myth #3: Need Calcium? Just Eat Broccoli.

Fact: While broccoli may have a high level of calcium for a vegetable, it pales by comparison. And that's not just George Bush talking! A half cup of cooked broccoli contains only 36 milligrams of calcium. A cup of skim milk contains 302 milligrams -- equal to more than 4 cups of cooked broccoli. An adult male would have to eat more than 22 servings of cooked broccoli to meet his RDA for calcium. A much easier choice would be 3 cups of milk.

Myth #2: Chocolate Milk Makes Kids Hyperactive.

Fact: The cause of hyperactivity in children is unknown. The alleged tie between sugar in chocolate milk and increased hyperactivity is not supported by science. A recent study published in the New England Journal of Medicine demonstrated that even when preschool and elementary school children consumed larger-than-normal amounts of sugar, their behavior, mood and ability to perform tasks were not affected. And children love chocolate milk. one study conducted in Pennsylvania schools found that chocolate milk was preferred by 60% of all students.

Myth #1: Dairy Foods Are Wholesome, But Wholesome is Bor--rring.

Fact: Dairy foods are indeed wholesome, but boring? Just look at the dairy case in your supermarket. The hundreds of different products you will find offer exciting taste opportunities and cooking ingredients. Who says it can't be healthy and taste--tempting at the same time?

Farm Families Needed To Host Russian Students

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that his department is looking for two Maryland farm families to host Russian agricultural students on their farms this summer. The students would work on the farm for 10 weeks in order to learn about U.S. farming methods and practice their English language. In exchange the hosts would provide room and board and a small weekly stipend.

"Since 1989, Maryland farm families have hosted Russian students on their farms during the summer months. In many cases these visits have formed close lasting friendships and a re-warding sharing of ideas. For any Maryland farmer who has never hosted one of these students, I believe this is a tremendous opportunity," said Riley.

Transportation expenses to and from the United States will be paid by the students. Host families do not have to be able to speak Russian since each student has a working knowledge of English.

Persons interested in being a Maryland host of one of these Russian agriculture students should contact Laurie Adelhardt at the Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, or telephone (410) 841-5882.

Summer Arrives

For the week ending June 11, high temperatures and scattered showers signaled the arrival of summer. Surplus moisture in some areas has slowed haymaking, while shortages in other areas were being noticed. Strawberry harvest was heavy with 67 percent of the crop under harvest. Small grain crops were in mostly good condition. Barley and rye harvest were beginning and wheat was 50 percent turned. Corn planting was nearing completion and the weather was favoring germination and emergence. Planting of full season soybeans was nearing completion and was running on schedule. Vegetable planting was winding down as harvest of early vegetable crops increased. Apple condition was good to excellent with a better than average fruit set. Peaches were in mostly good condition, also with a better than average fruit set. Pastures were mostly good to excellent with three percent poor, 11 percent fair, 65 percent good, and 21 percent excellent.

Across the state, topsoil moisture was three percent very short, 18 percent short, 72 percent adequate, and seven percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was two percent very short, 10 percent short, and 88 percent adequate. Conditions allowed for an average of 5.6 days suitable for fieldwork. Haymaking continued around showers with harvest of both alfalfa and other hay running behind normal.

Maryland's progress for the week ending June 5 was as follows, listing the item, this week's percentage, last week's percentage, last year's percentage, and a percentage for the 5-year average.

Sap Beetle Control On Strawberries

Sap beetles can cause extensive damage to ripening berries and this may be exaggerated this season following a mild winter and wet weather which has favored slugs and rot injury. Once these beetles become established in a favored strawberry field, they attack ripe or nearly ripe berries as well as decaying fruit. Sap beetles usually gain entrance by eating a cavity into a solid fruit from the underside where it is in contact with the ground. A damaged fruit may appear to be perfect because the hole is not usually conspicuous unless several beetles are working together. Also, the beetles disseminate rot organisms to other berries as they move about. During picking, the adults are seldom seen because they fall to the ground and scurry away to hide with any disturbance. In pick-your-own operations, buyers picking berries for their own use complain if they encounter too many damaged or contaminated fruit. Growers have no effective options for controlling sap beetles with insecticides during the harvest period. The few chemicals that do work are prohibited during the picking period because of harvest interval restrictions. If you encounter a problem, please contact me for follow-up advice for next year.

A "No, No" For Weed Control In Sweet Corn

The new herbicide called Permit has been registered for use in field corn but not for sweet corn. I was particularly interested in using Permit for nutsedge control. Dr. Ed Beste, vegetable weed specialist, advised me that Permit is not recommended for sweet corn. He indicated that some of the sweet corn varieties could tolerate Permit; however, most varieties would be severely injured with an application of Permit. Basagran with crop oil is still the recommended herbicide for nutsedge control in sweet corn. Dr. Beste said the best control with Basagran is obtained after the nutsedge passes six inches in height. In his research he obtained best control after the nutsedge obtained 10 inches in height; however, the corn may suffer severely from competition if you wait too long.

"Stiff" Results In Pesticide Misuse

The General Mills subcontractor who unlawfully applied Dursban to 19 million bushels of stored oats later used in the production of 160 million boxes of breakfast cereals was sentenced to five years in prison. During his trial, he admitted using Dursban, which is unlabeled for the use, rather than Reldan, which is labeled, because Dursban was cheaper. In destroying the treated grain, General Mills suffered losses in excess of $140 million. In addition to the five-year prison term, he must also serve three years of supervised release, during which he must perform 200 hours of community service lecturing on the hazards of pesticides.

Milk Production To Reach Record

Reduced culling of cows, lower feed costs and increased use of bST (recombinant bovine Somatotropin) will push milk production to a record 161 billion pounds during the 1996 marketing year, according to USDA economists.

USDA's World Agriculture Supply and Demand Report, which has first estimates for the 1996 marketing year, says milk production expected to grow two percent. Commercial use is projected to be 156.5 billion pounds.

The department estimates 1996 average milk prices will drop to a range of $11.85 to $12.85 per hundredweight, with the average Minnesota-Wisconsin (M-W) price in a range of $10.75 to $11.75 per hundredweight.

Department economists say 1995 production will jump 3.5 percent from last year to 158.4 billion pounds -- up 400 million pounds from April's report.

Forecasters, who said commercial disappearance of dairy products has been "exceptionally strong" in recent months, raised this year's consumption estimate to 155.3 billion pounds, a gain of 900 million pounds from April.

The outlook for 1995 average milk prices was lowered from a range of $12.30 to $12.80 per hundredweight in April to $12.10 to $12.60 this month. USDA says 1995 prices are expected to average around 70 cents per hundredweight lower than 1994's average price of $12.97.

This year's average M-W price estimate was cut from a range of $11.40 to $11.70 per hundredweight in April to $11.25 to $11.45 in May.

USDA says the primary reason for increased milk production is a slowdown in declining cow numbers and "sharply" higher output per cow. The 1996 marketing year begins Oct. 1.

In 1874 Georgia established the first state department of agriculture.

Cheese Works For Speed-Scratch Home Cooking

Good Housekeeping Editor Defines Today's Cooking Style

Home cooking is alive and well and family dinners are the norm in millions of households, says Delia Hammock, associate director of the Good Housekeeping Institute and director/editor of "Nutrition and Fitness."

In fact, almost 80 percent of Good Housekeeping readers polled in a 1994 survey said they are still home-on-the-range five to seven evenings a week. But while the symbolic meaning of dinner may not have changed much, the preparation of it certainly has.

Convenience is now a prerequisite for both the novice cook and the experienced culinary whiz, and no one is apologizing for it, Hammock says. Women see choosing foods that are easier to prepare, to serve, to eat and to clean up as "smart," because it allows them to work outside the home and still get the evening meal on the table.

But while convenience is king (or queen) in the kitchen, this doesn't necessarily mean that consumers want more packaged convenience foods to zap in the microwave, Hammock says. In fact, there has been a definite retreat from such heat-and-eat fare.

"In the past three years, we've seen sales of many well-known microwaveable brands shrink and the number of new entries in the microwaveable category decline," she says.

Instead, women are rethinking meal preparation with an eye toward shortcuts that don't require a major sacrifice in quality or taste. The result is a new style of cooking which has been dubbed "speed scratch" by trend watchers. Speed-scratch bears little resemblance to the traditional "cooking from scratch" which often meant spending hours in the kitchen, or to the old straight-from-the-can cooking, which never fooled anyone.

The '95 version of home cooking is characterized by a combined use of ready-to-use and readily available fresh and processed convenience products. These include pre-packaged and ready-to-cook fresh vegetables, pre-washed lettuce mixes, meat pre-cut for stir-fry or kabobs, pre-seasoned beef cuts, marinated chicken cutlets, rotisserie chicken, jarred sauces, spice blends, frozen vegetable medleys (or stir-fry vegetable and sauce combinations), and high quality canned foods. It's a culinary compromise that blends fast and simple with wholesome and delicious.

Cheese is a perfect speed-scratch ingredient - a ready to use refrigerator staple in most households. Its versatility can take the hasty home cook from hors d'oeuvre to dessert with flair, and it adds nutrition as well as a fresh home-made flavor to any dish - all without a lot of extra work.

Today, cheese can be found in the dairy case sliced, shredded, grated, even cubed. Many varieties now come in resealable bags that further enhance the convenience factor. Flavored cheeses also make it easy to give a meal an ethnic flair without buying special ingredients.

A taco-flavored combination of shredded Cheddar and Monterey Jack is perfect for giving a dish a Tex-Mex twist, or building a gourmet pizza in minutes by teaming up a ready-made pizza shell and tomato sauce with one of the shredded pizza cheese blends on the market.

Cheese also appeals to the increasing number of "part time" vegetarians who are interested in consuming more meatless meals but still want taste, convenience and nutrition.

Speed-scratch cooking doesn't necessarily start with a traditional step-by-step recipe. Instead, it may originate with a meal kit which includes the exact amount of each necessary ingredient. Or it may be as simple as pairing a prepared product with a fresh product and adding a creative garnish.

Speed-scratch recipes are streamlined- ingredient lists are short, steps are few, and preparation utensils are held to a minimum. This short-cut cooking allows the cook to customize the dish to meet the family's needs and taste preferences, Hammock says, and it also offers the emotional involvement and payoff of "homemade" with a minimum of effort. The bottom line? More control, less guilt.

Free Leaflet Offer Speed Scratch Cooking With Cheese

One of the hottest food trends of the day is speed-scratch cooking -- which mean using convenience foods (such as shredded cheese) in creative ways to come up with quick and tasty meals. This leaflet offers seven speed-scratch recipes from the kitchen of Mr. Food, a nationally syndicated TV chef and personality.

Take Azalea Cuttings For A Fresh Start

If you want to start some new azalea plants, take stem cuttings now.

Growing your own azalea plants is simple. You can propagate new plants from cuttings with a minimum of materials and very little care. There are other methods of propagation, but using stem cuttings is the most popular for amateurs.

Horticultural specialists with the West Virginia University Extension Service offer these suggestions:

Take your cuttings from the current season's growth. The best time to take cuttings is June or early July. That's when new stems are no longer succulent, but have yet begun to harden.

Make your cuttings about six inches long, removing each one with a slanting cut. Strip the leaves from the lower half of the cutting. Dip the cut end in a rooting stimulant or hormone, which you can buy at any garden center.

Insert the cutting to about half its length in a rooting medium. A good medium consists of a mixture of half sand and half peat moss. Moisten the mixture. Keep it exposed to daylight but never to direct sunlight. (Heat from direct sunlight may kill the cuttings.) Keep the cuttings moist, but make sure they have good drainage.

Most cuttings will root in about two months. After they have rooted, grow them in a cold frame for one winter before transplanting them to a permanent location.

Salisbury, Pa., Man Convicted In Dist. Court Of Felony Theft Charge

A Salisbury, Pa., man will serve six months in jail after being found guilty in Garrett County District Court of one count of felony theft.

Convicted of that offense was Paul W. Beal, 35, who admitted to stealing 16, 24-inch aluminum wheels, valued at $550, from Menges Trucking, Grantsville, on Dec. 8, 1994. According to the charging statement, when apprehended, Beal admitted to later selling the wheels, but stated there was little left of the $420 he received from the sale.

Initially handed a one-year jail term, all of the sentence was suspended except for six months. Beal was also placed on one year of supervised probation following his release from incarceration.

In other district court news, a Washington, D.C. man was not prosecuted on one count each of assault, battery, reckless endangerment, and being disorderly in a public place, because the victim was not available to testify.

Bleu K. Lawless, 27, was charged with those offenses after a July 24, 1994, incident at the Harbor Bar, Deep Creek Lake, when he reportedly struck another patron, John A. Angelo, in the nose.

According to district court records, Lawless was at the Harbor Bar with several friends, who reportedly left the bar, while he stayed a while longer. The defendant then walked across the landing to where Angelo was standing, and without a word, punched him in the nose. Angelo, knocked unconscious, fell straight backward, and hit his head on a railroad tie. He reportedly suffered a broken nose, a laceration on his face, and a concussion.

Lawless then ran to where his friends were waiting, according to the report, followed closely by security guards, and the bar's owner, James Lascaris. The defendant struggled with the guards, and while they were attempting to contact the state police, he jumped into a friend's vehicle and attempted to leave. Lascaris grabbed the door handle and the steering wheel, and was reportedly dragged 75-100 feet before being struck on the arm with a metal pipe, or a martial arts weapon. The vehicle's driver, Chad Fike, reportedly hit the brakes, threw Lascaris off, and then drove away.

In a related case, Fike, 22, Friendsville, was found not guilty of obstructing/hindering after the incident at the Harbor Bar. Court records indicate he was accused of assisting an assault/battery/reckless endangerment suspect flee the scene of an altercation.

James T. Lascaris, 44, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of battery, because of insufficient evidence. The charge was filed by Chad Fike after an Aug. 14, 1994 incident at the Harbor Bar. Lascaris reportedly reached into Fike's vehicle, grabbed him by the hair, and attempted to pull him from the vehicle. Fike reportedly attempted to drive away, but Lascaris held the steering wheel and made him stop.

Two separate charges of disturbing the peace, filed against Benjamin Shaffer, 20, Deer Park, were placed on the stet docket at the request of the complainants. The charges, filed by Jeannie L. Griffin, Oakland, and Sherri L. Tasker, Swanton, stemmed from a Feb. 6 incident at Diamond Billiards, Oakland.

Judy L. Filsinger, 33, Oakland, pleaded not guilty, and was found not guilty of one count of battery, and one count of malicious destruction of property, after an altercation with John E. Filsinger Jr.

John Filsinger, 31, also of Oakland, was found not guilty of battery, stemming from the same incident. The two filed the charges against each other after an Oct. 18, 1994, dispute.

A pre-sentence investigation, ordered in March for Gerald C. Broadwater Sr., 50, Grantsville, who was found guilty of one count of battery, resulted in a one-year suspended jail term for the defendant, a $150 fine, and one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to make a $41.93 restitution to the victim, and complete 50 hours of community service. The charge had been filed against Broadwater on Nov. 8, 1994, after he pushed his estranged wife, Darleen, against a dresser, and then up against a wall, while she was helping him gather his belongings at their home.

DWI CASES

Several DWI (driving while intoxicated) and DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) cases were heard in recent district court proceedings.

Geoffrey Roger Zurgable, 48, Md., pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty of a charge of violation of probation, stemming from his Feb. 5, 1991 DWI arrest by Maryland State Police. The judge terminated Zurgable's probation, and reimposed his original incarceration time.

Patrick James Atkinson III, 29, Md., had his DWI charge amended to read DUI. He was fined $600, with all of the fine suspended except $300, sentenced to one year in jail, with all of the sentence suspended except 30 days, and placed on two years of supervised probation. He was also ordered to continue his present counseling in Washington County. His DWI arrest by Maryland State Police occurred on April 1.

During a sentencing hearing for Donald Chris Virts II, 20, Md., the judge handed him a 90-day suspended jail term, and one year of supervised probation. He also fined Virts $500 ($400 suspended), and $50 court costs, and ordered him to complete 30 hours of community service for the offense. Virts was arrested for DWI on July 31, 1994 by sheriff's deputies.

A DWI case for Richard Allen Goff, 25, W.Va., was dismissed, and his probation terminated, during recent district court proceedings. He was arrested for the offense by state police on Feb. 21, 1993.

During a sentence revision hearing for David Ellis Stapleton, 23, Md., the judge granted him probation before judgment on his earlier DWI conviction. Stapleton was arrested by state police on April 24, 1994.

Joseph Edward Deoskey, 46, Pa., pleaded guilty to DWI. He was fined $550, and sentenced to 60 days in jail. All of the sentence was suspended except 48 hours, and Deoskey was given 14 hours' credit for time already served. He was also placed on one year of supervised probation, and must attend a six-month alcohol treatment program. A one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license. He was arrested for DWI by state police on Nov. 2, 1994.

Michael Thomas Chura, 34, Tenn., was found to be in violation of probation stemming from an earlier DWI conviction. A bench warrant was issued for his arrest, and a new $3,000 cash bond ordered. Chura had been arrested for the offense on Feb. 2, 1994, by sheriff's deputies.

Gustavo Munos, 29, Md., failed to appear for his DWI sentencing hearing. A bench warrant was issued, and a new $1,000 cash bond ordered. Sheriff's deputies arrested Munos for DWI on Aug. 20, 1994.

During a sentence revision hearing for Tonya Lynn Warnick, 22, Md., she was granted probation before judgment on an earlier guilty verdict for DWI. Conditions of her probation state she must complete 30 hours of community service by Sept. 1. Warnick was arrested for DWI by sheriff's deputies on May 12, 1994.

Patty Hickey, Michael Thomas Wed In July Double-Ring Ceremony

Patty L. Hickey and Michael J. Thomas were united in marriage July 2, 1994, at the Loch Lynn Church of God. The Rev. Robert Fletcher performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hickey, Mtn. Lake Park.

Escorted to the altar by her father, and given in marriage by her parents, the bride was attired in a white satin Alfred Angelo gown. The Juliet neckline featured lace appliques adorned with pearls and seed pearls. The long sleeves puffed at the shoulder, and displayed strands of pearls, sequins, and lace appliques that extended to bridal points at the wrists. The bodice, enhanced with lace and sequins, fell to a Basque waistline, and a slim sheath trimmed with scalloped lace, sequins, and pearls. The fully detachable semi-cathedral train extended from a bow back to a scalloped hemline of lace, sequins, and illusion netting.

Her matching headpiece featured a pearl headband with a dropped flower pearl spray, and a large pouf.

The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white silk roses with dewdrops, baby peach-colored roses, white and peach-colored baby's breath, lilacs, and trailing green ivy. The bouquet was accented with white pearl strands, ribbon, and illusion netting. Her ensemble also included diamond and pearl earrings.

The buffet meal for the reception was catered by Goehringer's Country Restaurant. The cake was provided by Sheryl Meyer, Grantsville. It was decorated in peach, purple, and white, and consisted of three tiers, each accented with cascading stairways, and a purple fountain. FSU Theater Children's Play Set June 23-25

Frostburg State University Summer Theatre will present the children's play The Ice Wolf by Joanna Kraus on June 23-25 in the Studio Theatre of the Performing Arts Center. Performances will be at 7 p.m. on Friday, June 23, and at 2 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25.

Based on an authentic tale from the East Coast Hudson Bay Eskimos, The Ice Wolf tells us the story of a palehaired child who is exiled by her own people because she is "the different one...Anatou." In a village ruled by spirits, shamans, superstition and myth, such a different one has no place. An outcast, Anatou seeks the forest, where no Eskimo ever ventures, and there she begs the Wood Goddess to turn her into a wolf.

The Ice Wolf is recommended for children ages six through 11, but young people and adults should also find it appealing, according to an FSU spokesman. Running time is approximately 75-80 minutes. Admission is $1 for all, For more information, persons may contact University Theatre at (301) 687-4145.

Scouts To Hear Former Redskin Bobby Mitchell

Redskins football great Bobby Mitchell will be the featured guest speaker at the Tuesday, June 27, "Friends of Scouting" dinner, according to Robert Wozniewicz, chairman of the Potomac Council, BSA's 1995 Sustaining Membership Enrollment (SME) campaign.

"Few names are more synonymous with the Washington Redskins than Bobby Mitchell. In 33 years of service as a player, scout, front office executive, and good-will ambassador, Mitchell has garnered the respect and admiration from the entire NFL and Washington, D.C. community," Wozniewicz said.

A 1983 inductee into the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Mitchell joined the Redskins' personnel staff in 1969 following his retirement as a player. He was promoted to director of pro scouting, then to assistant to the president in 1978. He was named assistant general manager in 1981. He enters his 37th NFL season this year.

He played in four Pro Bowls, one with the Cleveland Browns and three with Washington over his 11-year playing career and is considered one of the NFL's all-time great multi-purpose players. He came to Washington in 1962 after starting with Jim Brown in the Cleveland backfield. When he retired following the 1968 season, he was the NFL's second all-time leading receiver behind Raymond Berry with 521 catches. He was second behind Jim Brown in total yards with 14,078 and was fourth in touchdowns with 91. From 1962-67, he ranked first, second, fifth, sixth and fourth in receiving.

The Friends of Scouting Dinner is an annual event attended by financial supporters of Potomac Council who have made significant contributions to the current SME campaign. This year the dinner will be held at the Ali-Ghan Shrine Club, Cumberland, Tuesday, June 27, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

A limited number of tickets are still available for the Potomac Council Friends of Scouting Dinner. For information, persons may call the Scout Service Center, 301-729-1300, before Thursday, June 22.

Education Board Reminds Parents Of Registration

The Garrett County Board of Education has issued a reminder to parents that children who will be entering school for the first time this fall should be registered soon.

Parents who did not register kindergarten or new first grade students during the recently held pre-registration program should do so by contacting the principal of the child's prospective school, or arrange an appointment. This should be done as soon as possible, a spokesperson for the board said.

Parents must take the child's birth certificate, social security card, and immunization records with them at the time of registration.

Any child who will be five years of age on or before Dec. 31, must be enrolled in kindergarten or apply for a one-year maturity waiver. Any family who is planning to use home instruction (home schooling) instead of enrolling the student in school, must submit forms at least 15 days in advance of the start of school. Information may be obtained through the Pupil Services Office at the Board of Education building or by calling 334-8938, or 359-9209.

Families who are planning to move during the summer should check with the local school or Pupil Services Office to see whether or not the child will be attending the same school this fall, the spokesperson said. If the new residence places the child in a new school district, a transfer during the summer, rather than after school begins, is recommended.

Thayer Promoted By First United

Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board, president, and chief executive officer of First United Corporation, recently announced the promotion of Frederick A. Thayer IV to first vice president and regional executive officer.

Thayer, an Oakland native, is a graduate of The Mercersburg Academy, Mercersburg, Pa. He holds a bachelor of arts degree in economics from the College of Wooster and a master's of business administration degree from Vanderbilt University, with a concentration in finance and marketing.

Following Thayer's completion of his master's program, he was employed by Centerre Bank, St. Louis, where he served as a management trainee and was later promoted to a lending position in the Special Lending Division. In 1985 he joined MNC Financial as a commercial loan officer in the middle market division for Maryland National Bank. Later that year he joined another MNC Financial subsidiary, American Security Bank, as a senior examiner in the Loan Review division. Following that position, he was with Maryland National Bank as a unit leader for the Prince George's County Real Estate Group. During Thayer's tenure with MNC Financial, he was promoted to assistant vice president in 1986 and vice president in 1990.

"Rick has proven his leadership and advisory skills during his career with First United," Stanton said. "He currently manages the Allegany County offices and the West Virginia offices of First United Corporation. He is a strong asset to our team."

Thayer resides in Cumberland with his wife Karen and daughter, Rebecca. He is a member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Potomac Lodge #100 A.F. & A.M., and the Cumberland Rotary Club. He serves on the Board of Directors of the Frostburg State University Foundation and on the Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America. He also serves on the Lay Advisory Board of Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Twin Brothers In State Police Named Outstanding ACT Alumni

Sgt. Randy C. Resh and Cpl. R. Jay Resh, twin brothers who have pursued distinguished careers in the Maryland state police since graduating from Allegany Community College, Cumberland, nearly two decades ago, were named ACC Outstanding Alumni for 1995.

The two, who both work in criminal investigation, received ACC's Outstanding Alumnus Award, presented each year at May commencement exercises, in recognition of their achievements and contributions to society.

Graduated in 1974 Salisbury-Elk Lick High School, the brothers went on to earn associate degrees in ACC's electronic data processing curriculum, now called computer science and technology. They graduated magna cum laude (with high honors) in May 1976 before embarking on their careers in law enforcement following brief work in computing.

The Reshes had seriously considered police work after high school (their brother, Gary, who is six years older, had already taken that path), but the state police academy had a minimum age of 21 for cadets. Interested in computers, the twins chose to attend ACC and study data processing because it was an emerging field with great potential.

Neither regrets the choice of major nor the choice of school. After graduation each found jobs quickly, Jay at a Riverdale firm that developed computer software for government use, and Randy at a poultry processing plant near Berlin, Pa. Before long, the latter joined his brother at the software company, Data Technologies Industries, in Prince George's County.

Each felt that ACC had well prepared them for their then-chosen careers. "I felt that when I was ready to graduate, I was ready to go to work," said Jay. "There was nothing they [DTI] asked for that I couldn't do for them." Although they enjoyed the work, they didn't like living in or near big cities, which the computer field then seemed to require.

The Resh brothers, who grew up on their parents' Somerset County dairy farm, preferred country living. They figured that if they acted on their prior interest in law enforcement and joined the Maryland state police, they could eventually work their way to a rural area, preferably Garrett County.

"You can take a boy out of the country, but I guess you can't take the country out of the boy," Jay explained.

After about six months at DTI, the Reshes began their careers in law enforcement, working first as state police cadets at the I-95 truck scales in Cecil County. After more than a year there, and by then 21, they entered the state police academy for 24 weeks of training. In mid-1978, they were appointed state troopers.

From there, their paths diverged, converging some years later in Garrett County, when their strategy to return to their home area succeeded. Jay was assigned to the state police in rural Carroll County, working road patrol in a criminal investigation-oriented barrack. Randy drew an assignment in Rockville, putting him in Maryland's other suburban county of Washington, D.C., for road duty.

After three years in Rockville, Randy headed west; to Hagerstown. He remained there for another three years before an assignment to McHenry came through. At that point his and Jay's careers crossed again, because Jay was by then also working in McHenry, after having spent five years in Westminster.

But it was a reunion of three Resh brothers this time, because the twins' brother Gary was on the job there, too. (He's now a trooper first class assigned to the auto safety enforcement division.)

"There were times when only Reshes were working the road in Garrett County. It was kind of frightening to think about," Jay said, jokingly.

More amusing was the tendency of many residents to render the three brothers into a composite sketch, a single "Trooper Resh." "It was kind of a joke for a while," Randy said. "People would call and ask for us by saying, 'Don't send anyone if you can't send Trooper Resh.'"

The brothers took all the confusion over their identity as a compliment. "You knew you were doing a good job when they asked for you by name," Randy added.

In time, the Resh twins began working in criminal investigation. Jay now supervises McHenry's criminal investigation division, while Randy, after a total of four years at the barrack, now works with Allegany County's combined county criminal investigation unit. He is assistant supervisor of the C-3-I unit, based at Cumberland police headquarters.

Each finds his work satisfying and rewarding. "You get a tough case and have a good outcome, and you feel like you've accomplished something," Jay said.

Jay was named Maryland's Trooper of the Year in 1991, in large measure because of his work in criminal investigation. Randy's C-3-I unit earned a governor's commendation for a recent homicide investigation. Both are quick to say that successful criminal investigation involves team effort, including other law enforcement personnel and the state's attorney's office.

Both Reshes say they have found the education they gained at ACC to be valuable in their work and their lives, and their specialized training in computers to be a particular boon.

"We have computers here and [they] make it easier," Jay said, noting that in law enforcement "computers are where it's at now," such as for record-keeping and data-search.

"I still program for the agency. It's easy to write a program and let it do the work for you," Randy said.

Both say they appreciate the general education they received, including English and other subjects outside their computer major. Jay estimates that a great deal of his work involves spoken and written communication with others. For example, when a well-written report is sent to state police headquarters it "reflects well on the [local] agency," he said.

He added, "If there's ever been something truly said, you can't get enough education." In addition to receiving an immediate self-esteem boost from success in his courses, he finds the knowledge has stayed with him and proved useful, including with his three children. "They appreciate having a tutor in the house," he said.

Of their two years at ACC, Jay recalled, "The professors we had in data processing were some of the best people that I'd ever been around. They took a personal interest in us. When we graduated, there was work waiting for us. It's a good school to get you started."

The twin brothers are the sons of Kenneth and Joan Resh of Salisbury. Jay and his wife, Paula, have two children, a 12-year-old son, Joshua, and a 10-year-old daughter, Cortney. Randy and his wife, Carol Ann, have two daughters, Jamie, 16, and Jackie, 13, and a son, Jared, 11.

In addition to their work in law enforcement and involvement in the activities of their children, the Reshes continue the interest in agriculture that they developed as boys.

Jay's raises replacement heifers for dairy use at his parents' farm. Randy does the same, for both beef and dairy cattle operations, at his uncle Cecil's farm near Salisbury. He also helps his in-laws on their farm in Addison, Pa., and works with his brother-in-law in his cable television service covering Friendsville, Addison, and nearby areas.

Rohrbaugh Named Outstanding Chem. Student At SHS

Jeremiah Rohrbaugh has been selected as the outstanding chemistry student at Southern High School for the 1994-95 school year. He was honored by the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society at its June meeting, held at the Maplehurst Country Club, Frostburg.

Rohrbaugh is a member of the National Honor Society, and a member of the football team. He is a member of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) at SHS, and will serve as its president during the 1995-96 school year. He has been selected to compete in the VICA USA Skills championships in Kansas City, for his occupational health and safety notebook.

He lives in Oakland with his parents, David and Peggy Rohrbaugh.

"Solve A Mystery, Read A Book!" is the theme of the 1995 Summer Reading Club at the Ruth Enlow Library. Special activities and speakers will appeal to children ages K-6th grade, and certificates and parties will celebrate those who finish the club. The schedule is as follows:

VOL NO. 118 OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, JUNE 22, 1995 PER COPY 47¢ Printed on RECYCLED NEWSPRINT

JAKOB'S DAY AT BROADFORD - Summer must be here at last, as anyone can see by the antics of Jakob Scheffel, son of Anita and George Scheffel, as he enjoys the abundant water at Broadford Park. He even found a lake just his size. Jakob's summery fun was captured by staff photographer Craig Phillips, who incidentally was offered some soggy animal crackers several times by the charitable tyke during the photo session. The hot season is upon us, and temperatures have soared a mite high for the Mountaintop in the last few days. Thunderstorms are expected, although they will not deter the numerous events occurring throughout the county. Grantsville Days gets underway this weekend, the Fourth of July celebrations are planned for next week in Accident and Terra Alta, and Thomas, W.Va., will once again host Mountaineer Days. Other activities available are performances with the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival and Music at Penn Alps. The parks are open and the water is fine - just ask Jakob. Who says there's nothing to do in Garrett County?

Cross-Complaint Seeks $1.6 Mil. From Former Board, W.D. Stover

In a legal action connected to the ongoing Hinebaugh suit against the county, Associates Commercial Corporation has filed a cross-complaint in Garrett County Circuit Court seeking $1.6 million from the former Garrett County Board of Commissioners, composed of Brenda Butscher, Elwood Groves, and John Braskey, and former county attorney W. Dwight Stover.

The four-count cross-complaint, filed last week, accuses the former county board of "negligence," "breach of contract," and "constructive conversion" in relation to the county's 1993 lease-purchase of $1.5 million worth of road equipment (seven John Deere wheel loaders and seven John Deere motor graders.) Associates Commercial provided the county with lease financing for this equipment purchase.

Associates Commercial's cross-complaint alleges that the former Garrett County Board of Commissioners and former County Attorney Stover caused the company financial harm in the amount of $1,612,802.61 as a result of the lease-purchase transaction.

The county's method of securing a supplier for the equipment purchase was challenged in court last year by Sang Run resident John Hinebaugh, who filed suit against the former Board of Commissioners and County Clerk Robert Fousek on September 1, 1994. In the suit, which has not yet been settled, Hinebaugh alleges that the four officials violated bid laws in purchasing the road equipment.

While the first three counts of Associates Commercial's cross-complaint seek judgements against the former board, the fourth count seeks a judgement against Stover, who served as the county attorney at the time of the equipment purchase, for alleged "legal malpractice: negligent breach of contract."

The first count of the complaint alleges that, "The county breached its duty of care in that it failed to follow relevant and mandatory law concerning the acquisition of the equipment, which breach and failure constitutes negligence."

In the second count, the complaint claims that, "The county breached its contractual obligations by failing and refusing to pay Associates amounts when and as due under the lease, despite reasonable demand therefor."

In April, current Garrett County Commissioner Roger Glotfelty reported that the county has not made payments on the road machinery since it is not yet known if the county will retain the equipment after the Hinebaugh suit is resolved.

In the third count against the former county board, the complaint alleges that, "The county has ignored Associates' demand and failed and refused to surrender or pay any money for or on account of the equipment... The county's

Education Board To Hold Special Meeting Tuesday

The Garrett County Board of Education will meet in special session on Tuesday, June 27, at 5:45 p.m. to award the bid for the six-classroom addition at Northern High School. The board was to have awarded the bid at last week's monthly meeting, but because the awardee's bid came in with an overage of approximately $77,000, and because the Garrett County Commissioners have not yet finalized the budget, the education board had to delay the bid award until June 27.

The bids were high for the six-room addition, according to architects Altman & Altman, and the $890,000 offer of Pifalo Contracting, Luke, was the

Two Lives Lost In Separate Accidents Saturday Morning

Two people died in separate accidents Saturday morning on Garrett County Roads, according to reports filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry.

Michael E. Ketterman II, 24, Clearville, Pa., was killed after the 1984 Datsun truck he was operating north on Rt. 219, ran through a flashing red signal at the intersection with Rt. 40, and struck a guardrail.

Police said Ketterman's truck skidded approximately 60 feet before it struck the guardrail. The vehicle then reportedly became airborne, and traveled into a wooded area, striking several trees before it overturned. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Tfc. Robert Sharp was the investigating officer. In addition to the trooper and the medical examiner, others responding to the 1:32 a.m. accident were volunteers from the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, and Grantsville and Accident volunteer fire departments.

The second accident occurred at approximately 10 a.m., when Doris Elizabeth Hofmann, 36, Oakland, died at the scene of a single-vehicle accident on the Glendale Road.

According to a report filed by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater, Hofmann was operating a 1984 Kawasaki east on the Glendale Road, near Paradise Point, when she failed to negotiate a curve, ran off the road, and struck a tree. Hofmann was reportedly ejected from the motorcycle.

Also responding to the scene were members of the Deep Creek Lake Volunteer Fire Department, Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, and the Maryland State Police Medevac helicopter.

Hofmann was born Oct. 23, 1958, in Hanau, Germany, a daughter of Alfons Hofmann and Lieselotte (Delhougne) Takala.

She was employed as a clinical social worker with the Garrett County Health Department.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by one sister, Monika Takala.

Memorial services were conducted Tuesday, June 20, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, with Pastor Michael Robinson officiating.

Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, was in charge of arrangements.

Chisholm Estate Monies Fund New Equipt. At GCMH

Contributions to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, through the estate of Lillian Chisholm, have been used to fund new and upgraded state-of-the-art equipment for the hospital's obstetric department. Included in the purchase were two infant radiant warmers and a maternal/fetal monitor. The equipments net worth is $34,685.

Radiant warmers are used at the time of birth to stabilize the baby's body temperature and prevent chilling which can be a serious health hazard for a newborn. The maternal/fetal monitor is used to monitor and record the heart rate, blood pressure, and other vital parameters of both the mother and the unborn infant. This type of information is essential during the labor and delivery process, allowing the physician and nursing staff to respond immediately to any type of distress situation.

Through her estate, Lillian Chisholm provided $99,665 to the hospital with the request that it be used to benefit children. Mrs. Chisholm is remembered by her friends as a "feisty, patriotic, and very sweet lady," according to a hospital spokesperson. She was well-known for having flown an American Flag every day and she had a bell that she always rang on the Fourth of July. Lillian Chisholm's husband, William, was the last known county survivor of the Spanish-American War. Their only child, a

Architect Selected For Amphitheater, Nature Center

After nearly a year of delays, an architect has been chosen to design a 500-seat amphitheater and 6,400-foot nature center at the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area. PELA Design, Inc., a Baltimore-based company, was granted the design contract last week from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

The entire budget for the new facilities is $1,611,000, according to Rick Barton, director of DNR's State Forest and Park Service. The design for the project is to be finished by the fall of this year, and construction is slated to begin in the spring or fall of 1996, according to Barton.

Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Hafer, in cooperation with the DNR, asked for and received funds for the project in fiscal year 1995. The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF), a local non-profit arts organization, also lobbied for the monies and will reportedly contribute to the design of the stage area.

GLAF's interest in the project involves the group's ongoing search for adequate performance spaces, which Garrett County is lacking, according to a board of directors spokesperson. The amphitheater will provide a much needed stage area to enable GLAF's arts program to expand and include performances previously impeded by lack of space, the spokesperson said.

Coordination of the design and construction of the facility will be accomplished by the Department of General Services, according to a release from the DNR.

Woman, Child Injured When Vehicle Overturns

A Sanford, N.C., woman and her child were injured in a single-vehicle accident Monday afternoon on Interstate 68, at the top of Big Savage Mountain, when their car slid out of control and rolled across the median.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Shannon Atkins, 23, lost control of her 1993 Ford Explorer as she crested Big Savage Mountain, causing the vehicle to skid sideways, overturn several times across the median, and cross into the westbound lane, where it reportedly came to rest on its top.

Atkins was transported to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, by Trooper 5 helicopter, where she was admitted in "critical" condition. A hospital spokesperson told The Republican this morning that she has been upgraded to "fair" condition.

State police said the child, 2-year-old Randy Atkins, who was apparently not restrained in a child safety seat, was ejected from the vehicle. There

Grantsville Man Jailed Without Bond After Allegedly Stabbing Wife

A Grantsville man remained incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail this morning, held without bond, after being charged with the murder of his wife Saturday night, according to Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry.

Larry Lee Brenneman, 46, has been charged with first-degree murder in the stabbing death of 41-year-old Brenda Lee Brenneman. She was pronounced dead at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, shortly after arrival, following the 8:25 p.m. incident.

State police responded to a 911 call at the Brenneman residence, located on Main Street in Grantsville, for a reported stabbing/suicide. Tfc. Wayne Dixon, the responding officer, arrived to find the victim on the kitchen floor with an apparent stab wound to the upper left chest area.

Brenneman reportedly told the officer his wife stabbed herself, but later "admitted to a struggle with the victim, and she was stabbed," according to Dixon's report. The body was taken to the State Medical Examiner's Office for an autopsy.

Police said a butcher knife, believed to be the one used in the incident, was found in another room at the Brenneman resi-

Other written reports indicate Brenneman had been arrested by state police twice previously for assaults on his wife, according to Lt. F. Ray Milburn, commander of the Western Region of the Criminal Investigation Division.

There were no witnesses to the stabbing, Dixon said. Brenneman reportedly attempted to administer mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to his wife following the incident. He said he then ran next door to his mother's home and dialed 911 for help.

Also assisting in the investigation was the Allegany County Combined Criminal Investigations Unit, and the State Police Evidence Collection Unit.

Brenda Lee Brenneman was born Nov. 15, 1953, at Painesville, Ohio, a daughter of Duane Horning Sr.,

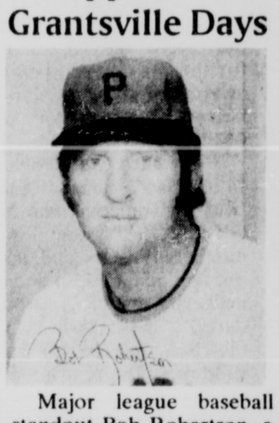
Bob Robertson To Appear At Grantsville Days



Major league baseball standout Bob Robertson, a Frostburg native, will sign autographs at this year's Grantsville Days celebration, which will open with a parade on Main Street on Friday, June 23, at 7 p.m.

During the 11 years Robertson played for the Pittsburgh Pirates, he set the all-time major league record for home runs in a league championship series, hitting four over the wall - three of them during one game - in the 1971 best-of-five National League playoff against the San Francisco Giants.

Pittsburgh won that playoff, but in the subsequent World Series versus the Baltimore Orioles, the Pirates lost the first two games. In the following contest Robertson hit a three-run homer off Mike Cuellar, triggering a comeback that propelled the Pirates to the World Series championship, four games to three.

Robertson also holds the major league record for assists in one game by a first baseman, with eight against the New York Mets in 1971. He played in four National League championship series and compiled a .821 batting average.

Robertson will sign autographs at the Grantsville Park on Saturday, June 24, from 5 to 7 p.m.

See the Grantsville Days Directory and Business Guide in this issue of The Republican for more information on the weekend of events.

ENJOYING THE COMFORT and warmth of a new infant radiant warmer is Trevor John Alexander, son of John and Connie Alexander, Aurora, W.Va. "We really appreciate the equipment funded through the foundation. Having current technology available is so important when caring for our patients," commented Charlene Bennett, nurse manager of the obstetric department at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, who is pictured above with Trevor John. Inclusion Issue Discussed By Education Board

The Garrett County Board of Education met for its regular monthly meeting last week and the topic of including physically, mentally, and medically fragile children in the schools' mainstream was discussed. Steve Benson, UniServ director for the Garrett County Teachers Association (GCTA), addressed the board with concerns from members of the GCTA and the Garrett County Association of Education Support Personnel (GCAESP) who are currently handling various situations involving the challenged students.

Benson noted the problems involve the various duties that must be performed for certain students, such as catheterization, and asked that the board consider who should truly be responsible to provide these services. He explained that in some instances, such as in a case at Route 40 Elementary School, a teaching assistant was hired with prior knowledge that a medical procedure would be part of his/her job. This individual did receive special training for the procedure and was aware of the situation before applying for the position.

"We have no problem with that," Benson said. "But for someone who has been in the system for a number of years and does not feel qualified [to do any necessary medical procedure], it is certainly not in the best interest of that child or in the best interest of the assistant for this person to try to perform the procedure. It is uncomfortable for the child as well as the assistant."

He said the procedures should be done by qualified medical personnel, even if that means contacting the local hospital for a qualified person to come to the school.

Benson told board members that teachers and assistants are also dealing with children who display disciplinary problems and who are disruptive in the classroom. He said that while some emotional or psychological problems directly cause the disciplinary troubles and stressed that the children should not to be labeled or blamed in this situation, the problem of classroom disorder remains.

The issue of disciplinary problems has been a topic of discussion in the past months, with some board of education members attending at least one "secret meeting" to discuss the issue with concerned teachers and assistants. Three parents at the board meeting last week told board members that their children's education experiences are being adversely affected by disruptive, "out-of-control" pupils.

Board President Rodney Durst thanked Benson for coming forward with the problem and stated that he agreed that the problems exist and that a solution has to be found.

"We need to find real answers [to this problem]. They may cost something, but we have to find real answers - not Band-aids or patchwork - but real solutions to this problem," Durst said. "I think that for too long now we have looked at the single individual and left the other 25 kids alone. It's time we looked at the entire group. We're looking for solutions, so I welcome you [Benson] on board [in the search for solutions]."

Wilda Massi, director of pupil services, said the problem is being addressed, and that committees of teachers and administrators are currently working on the issue. She said she would welcome any suggestions from parents or any other individuals who are interested in helping.

Charlotte Sebold, board member, noted that teachers have been offered a class on inclusion that has been helpful. She said that she felt it is important to make sure the teachers who are receiving the troubled students are the ones who are alerted to special training classes so that they can be prepared when the school year begins.

"A teacher who is receiving [a challenged child] needs to know how that child learns. And, as the law says, she must be able to offer the kind of assistance that child needs," Sebold said. "We should be sure we are helping people get prepared."

Massi said multidisciplinary teams are set up to look at the needs of the specific child with challenges, and the team writes a plan for the child.

"Every child deserves an education. That's our goal," Massi said. She explained that special equipment is sometimes needed, depending on the need, and that she and her staff attempt to find the equipment already somewhere in the school system.

"We need to try certain things, borrow experiment, and do what we can with what we have. If we find a piece of equipment is appropriate and we don't own it, then we may purchase it," Massi said. She then concurred with board member Patrick Riley's statement that these plans for the special children have "nothing to do with the other children in the class." Riley said that issue is his concern, and that it is currently an issue being nationally discussed. Massi agreed.

The discussion turned back to the medical issue, and Massi concurred again with Riley when he stated that teachers enter the system to teach and do not expect to have to perform medical procedures. Massi said the process of adapting to the laws and finding answers to the problems is a long process and that it is a concern of the administration.

"If this board has to come up with funds to hire an orderly to be in every school for these medical procedures, then that's what we have to do," Durst said. "We will tell the government that 'you make the laws, and this is how much it's costing us to follow the laws' and that's all we can do."

Massi commented that the numbers of students who are considered medically fragile are not high in the local system.

A two-day in-service is currently underway today and tomorrow, according to board spokespersons, to discuss the issue of emotionally disturbed children. Parents, teachers, and principals of area elementary schools, psychologists, representatives from local children advocate agencies, and several administrators and other staff members are attending the workshop. The school board members were invited to the second day of discussion.

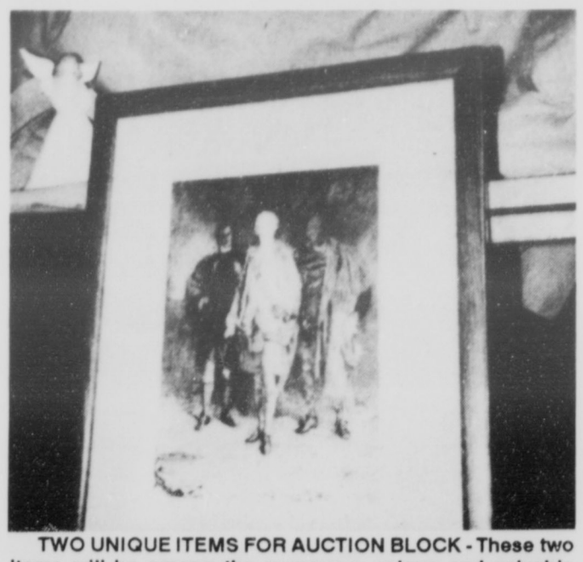
cabinet makers at Casselwood Furniture have designed and crafted a solid wood piece for GLAF. The item this year is a small version of a plantation desk in walnut-stained poplar.

An original watercolor titled "Amish Farm" will be on the auction block. The painting is the work of Alexis Lavine, a Cumberland artist who is the founder of The Haystack Mountain Workshops and is a member of the National Association of Women Artists, as well as the watercolor societies of Baltimore, Pennsylvania, and Western Maryland. Lavine's work has been included in numerous juried and gallery exhibitions as well as private and corporate collections throughout the country.



TWO UNIQUE ITEMS FOR AUCTION BLOCK - These two items will be among the numerous unique and valuable objects at this year's Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Gala Benefit auction, to take place during the "Red Hot Affair" dinner and dance on Saturday, June 24, at Wisp's McHenry House. This 1893 lithograph print is a signed, dated, and monogrammed full-length portrait of a Scotsman, donated by Robert Boal, local appraiser. The painting, which is in its original frame, hung in the Pennington Cottage, now known as the Deer Park Inn, in the year that it was completed. The angel shown behind the lithograph is a porcelain Lladro figurine, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mullen. Part of permanent collections in museums throughout the world, these handcrafted pieces have been given as gifts to heads of state, including the president of the United States and the Pope. Individual flowers, parasols, and other details are handcrafted and hand-applied in a time-consuming process that makes them unique. See story for information on other available auction items.

Correction Noted

In a photo caption published two weeks ago in The Republican, the members of the band Crosswinds were incorrectly described as singers. The group is in actuality a dance band and will be providing instrumental dance melodies for the GLAF benefit guests. The error is regretted.

Funding Saved For Summer Youth Employment Prog.

Funds have been spared for the Summer Youth Employment and Training Program operated by the Western Maryland Consortium and the Garrett County board of Education, U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes announced late last week.

Funding for the program, which provides summer jobs for up to 200 young people in the Garrett County through a $200,000 federal grant, had been targeted for elimination by a rescission bill which was passed in the Congress earlier this year, a Sarbanes spokesperson explained. The funds were preserved when President Bill Clinton vetoed the legislation, a move which preserved not only the jobs program, but also several other social programs, the spokesperson added.

The Garrett County commissioners drafted a letter to Sarbanes in March expressing their concern over the potential loss of the summer jobs program.

"Not only will the loss of over $200,000 in funding mean the loss of 200 jobs for youth and 20 jobs for support staff," the commissioners stated in their letter, "this loss will also have a tremendous impact on the state parks, local towns and schools, and Broadford Park. These places are dependent on the summer youth each year to assist in the day-to-day activities."

The commissioners also commented in the letter that the jobs program provides valuable training and work experience to local young people.

Sarbanes wrote back to the commissioners that the decision to cut the funding had been reconsidered in the Senate and that the Senate Appropriations Committee had restored funding for the program, a move which was subsequently upheld by the President's veto.

"It is my strongly held view," Sarbanes commented in his letter, "that the positive effect of the Summer Youth Program reaches far beyond the individual young people it serves. Garrett county is an excellent example of how the entire community benefits from preparing its youth for the future.

"In my view, many of the rescission proposals are penny-wise and pound-foolish and would serve only to prevent the most vulnerable members of our society from moving up and utilizing their talents and abilities to the best of their capabilities - and to the benefit of society."

The Summer Youth Training and Employment Program serves disadvantaged youth ages 14 to 21.

Va. Man Found Not Guilty In District Court Of Manslaughter

A Chesapeake, Va., man was cleared of charges of manslaughter against him in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings.

Judge Timothy Finan, district court judge of Allegany County, rendered his not guilty verdict in favor of Pernell Parker, 45, who had been charged with the offense following a fatal vehicle accident, in connection with the death of Frances A. Paugh, on Dec. 16, 1994. Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett had recused himself from this case.

An additional not guilty verdict, for passing in a no-passing zone, was also handed to Parker. He was, however, found guilty of reckless driving and exceeding the speed limit. These two chargers were merged, and the defendant was fined $515 for the combined offenses.

According to district court records, the charges against Parker stemmed from the accident that occurred on U.S. Rt. 40, after the tractor-trailer he was operating struck Paugh's American Eagle car as she was attempting to make a left turn onto Pig's Ear Road. The defendant's rig completely destroyed the victim's vehicle, and landed partially on top of it.

Parker's rig was reportedly traveling at a high rate of speed as he approached Paugh's stopped vehicle, and in a failed attempt to pass it, he struck the Eagle, causing both vehicles to travel more than 300 yards past the point of impact.

In other district court news, Melvin S. Seeley Jr., 21, Baltimore, pleaded guilty to one count of malicious destruction of property. He was handed a one-year jail term, with all of the sentenced suspended except for 30 days. He was also fined $350, ordered to pay $1,365 restitution to the Wisp Resort, and placed on one year of supervised probation. Additionally, he was found not guilty of being disorderly in a public place.

The charges against Seeley stemmed from his Jan. 16 arrest by Maryland State Police, after he vandalized a bathroom at the Wisp. The defendant pulled two sinks up from the counter, threw a hand-mounted air freshener in the urinal, damaged plastic water pipes, and ripped a hand-mounted hand dryer from the wall, according to the charging statement. The defendant was reportedly intoxicated at the time of the incident.

During a sentencing hearing for John L. Tasker Jr., 28, who was found guilty in April of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), driving while intoxicated, and driving on a revoked driver's license, the judge sentenced him to a total of 32 days in jail for the combined offenses. He was placed on two years of supervised probation upon his release from incarceration.

Jacki E. Duckworth, 38, Frostburg, was not prosecuted on one count of negligent driving, one count of passing in a no passing zone, and one count of harassment, at the request of the complainant, Ella M. Foutz, Grantsville. Foutz filed the charges after a March 10 incident involving the two.

Andrew D. Shaffer, 70, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of fourth degree burglary, because of insufficient evidence. The charge was filed on Nov. 5, 1994, by Ruth E. Oliverio, Oakland, who claimed the defendant had attempted to enter her home at a time when he knew her husband was at work, but was stopped by her dog. He had also asked her to move her car so he could put some lumber in her garage.

Carole A. Porter, 34, Mtn. Lake Park, was fount not guilty of forging private documents, and not guilty of uttering false documents. William J. Murphy, Accident, claimed she had forged and cashed a Blue Cross/Blue Shield insurance check, in the amount of $92, after the couple was legally divorced. He said Porter received the check and cashed it without his permission.

During a sentence revision hearing for Robert L. Miller Jr., 20, Meyersdale, Pa., who was found guilty in April of fourth degree burglary for breaking into a storehouse belonging to Walter L. Engle Jr., the judge revised the defendant's sentence to "time served." The balance of his jail term was suspended.

Alvin R. Beeman Jr., 31, Bloomington, pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty of harassment. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to have no contact with Robin Beeman. The complainant claimed that between June 8 and Oct. 8, 1994, the defendant continued to harass her after their divorce, after he had been ordered by the court to stay away.

During a sentence revision hearing for Merle E. Sines, 31, Friendsville, the judge granted him probation before judgment on an earlier guilty verdict for CDS possession, because the defendant successfully completed his court-ordered community service. The terms and conditions of his probation will remain as Philosophical Change Needed...

We live in a society that adheres to the idea that, under most circumstances, we should pull out all the stops and pay no attention to the financial cost in order to sustain human life as long as possible. After all, one cannot put a monetary value on a life.

Unfortunately, living longer and longer is expensive, and this "drive to stay alive" philosophy is beginning to break the bank. The Medicare program, for example, cost us $500,000,000 in 1965, the year it was created by President Lyndon Johnson. That same program 30 years later, expanded over time to include younger people with disabilities, now costs us $178 billion a year, and is rising 10 percent annually. Because of advances in medical technology and the more effective treatment of various illnesses and injury, our older population is growing rapidly.

Not only is the technology expensive, but many of the people whose lives are lengthened because of it ultimately need more and more care, resulting in still more expense. That care is being paid for by a relatively shrinking number of workers.

Most agree that the Medicare program is, and always has been, structurally and financially unsound; in fact, its design encouraged overspending by inviting physicians and hospitals to perform unnecessary tests. Abuse of the system, plus our litigious-happy society, have also greatly contributed to the enormous cost.

So the president and Congress have their work cut out for them, as bankruptcy of the Medicare system is predicted to occur in the year 2002 if it is allowed to continue as is.

Among the solutions to the problem are managed health care programs, having the wealthy retirees pay more coverage, continued regulation of fees paid to physicians and hospitals, tort reform, and higher taxes and premiums.

But we also need a change in our philosophy on longevity. First of all, simply keeping someone's heart beating and lungs functioning is not necessarily living. Secondly, we must re-think our conclusion that sparing no expense in maintaining one's life is always the right thing to do. Thirdly, we must do a better job of accepting the reality that we simply cannot and will not live forever on this old earth, no matter how good our medical knowledge and technology becomes.

To the Editor:

We are writing in response to the editorial that appeared in the June 15 edition of The Republican entitled, "The Inclusion Mandate." It's unfortunate that, in this country, so many of our policy decisions must be institutionalized. Because we have not been able to trust people and institutions to do the "right" thing, we instead must force them to act according to basic principles of human decency. The consequence of forcing people to comply, however, is that they become resentful of the policy decisions which have been imposed on them and they then scapegoat the target beneficiary group. Such is the case with inclusion.

Historically, we educated our children in segregated settings -- disabled students in one school or classroom, non-disabled students in another; gifted and talented students in one classroom, average students in another; black students in one school, white students in another. We rationalized that this policy was the best way to meet the individual needs of each of these groups. The irony of this practice, however, was the fact that we then expected these groups to interact in the wider community without having given them ample opportunity to learn how to do so in a protected classroom setting.

The comments in last week's editorial seem to be confusing policy decisions with policy implementation. Because aides and teachers are being put in situations for which they currently lack skills, you conclude that the policy of inclusion is a dangerous one and should be repealed. Because, in your opinion, the needs of other students are being neglected due to the amount of attention being invested in students with disabilities, you again conclude that the policy of inclusion jeopardizes the education of all and therefore should be discarded. We would argue that these are implementation problems that can be addressed. They are not necessarily a reflection of the policy itself.

You argue that full-time nurses, rather than teachers' aides, should be hired to attend to the physical needs of the children. We would agree that nurses are needed in schools but not just because there are children with disabilities being included in regular classroom settings. Let us not forget that all children have physical needs which require the attention of a nurse at critical times. Suggesting that children with disabilities need nurses rather than teachers' aides is implying that their only needs are physical. It would seem that in noting the disabilities these children have, you have forgotten that they also have all of the same needs that any child has. They need love; they need to be challenged to learn; they need the opportunity to develop normal peer relationships; they need to play; they need the chance to make mistakes without fear of ridicule; and they need the opportunity to develop relationships with people who are different that them. You may not have understood this because you were educated in a segregated setting apart from students with disabilities.

By isolating children with disabilities in self contained classrooms we are depriving them of many of these opportunities. In addition, we are also depriving other non-disabled students from the lessons that they can learn from their peers with disabilities. If, as was suggested in the editorial, only occasional opportunities are provided for children, both those with disabilities and those without, to interact, the interaction will fail to take place. Friendships begin in the classroom and are solidified on the playground and in the lunchroom. If teaches and other school personnel don't model how to relate to persons who are different in the classroom, chances are that the non-disabled will play in one corner of the playground and the disabled will play in another. No one will have learned anything.

We believe that fear separates people. As adults, we find it intimidating to face a child whose body is malformed and missing limbs. We don't know how to talk with a child who is deaf. We are uncomfortable relating to a child who is non-verbal and drools. Our own fear and discomfort prevent us from getting to know these children as little people who happen to have a disability. Even sadder, however, is that our discomfort prevents us from making opportunities for our children to relate to people with special needs. We are denying them the chance to get to know one another.

In closing, we'd like to put a face on those "special children" you believe would fare better in a self-contained classroom. They are children like our four-year-old son, Joshua. This past year, Josh spent one day a week in a self-contained classroom and two mornings a week in an included setting. Although these were in different schools, both are part of pre-school programs. We are not sure what type of setting will be best for Josh once he is ready to start kindergarten. We do know that the choice ought to be ours in consultation with school personnel. The inclusion mandate gives us that right.

Sincerely,
Fred and Kathy Powell
Frostburg

To the Editor:

On Monday evening around 8 o'clock a black or dark blue pickup came down in the Southern Garrett Industrial Park and a lady put out four little kittens that were not able to fend for themselves. In the first place, they were trespassing and, also, this is not a dumping ground for unwanted animals.

You know who you are and I would like to know how you sleep at night knowing what you did. You had a lot of nerve putting these defenseless little kittens out at a policeman's back door. We also support the humane society.

Why didn't you take them to the animal shelter so they could at least be put to sleep and not left to starve to death? They were nothing but hair and bones anyway. Everytime anyone says to take strays to the animal shelter. People will say, "Oh, they will just put them to sleep." For heaven's sake, isn't it better to put them to sleep than to dump them out somewhere?

This pickup came back again at 11:10 p.m. and stopped for just a few seconds right by the tall grass where they left the kittens, but only long enough to see if they were there.

What's the matter, did your conscience bother you just a little bit? I doubt it, for people like you don't have a conscience.

I am going to hope and pray that you never have one night's good sleep the rest of your miserable life, and don't ever let me see you or anyone else in the Southern Garrett Industrial Park dumping animals again. These places over here may look far away to you but I can see you real close up. I will keep my camcorder ready from now on.

Take your animals to the shelter if you don't want or can't keep them.

Garrett County should be ashamed that we don't have a spay/neuter program. They can spend the taxpayers' money for other things that are not anymore important.

Thank you.
Mrs. W.G. Gnegy

To the Editor:

Collecting my thoughts and observations from experiences as an advocate for special populations for the past 15-plus years certainly lead me to remember times of wonderment at the success possible. But, unfortunately, also recalled times of absolute infuriation at the barriers inherent to our institutional systems. Your editorial in last week's paper necessitated a response. The question was how to cover as concisely as I could a topic like Special Education, and specifically, inclusion, in as short a forum as a Letter to the Editor would permit?

Let me begin by agreeing with your contention that "problems" are associated with inclusion. However, let me suggest that inclusion does not generate these problems. Rather, I believe, as you clearly point out, that a lack of funding is the primary culprit. Adding to the funding shortage are a host of other possible contributors from inadequate planning to lack of administrative support, and worst of all, the notion that persons who are physically and/or emotionally challenged are not deserving of a public education. I can assure you that in may of the institutional settings I've frequented in NIMBY (not in my back yard) phenomenon or in this case, not in my school, is alive and flourishing. Hence, segregated corridors and converted janitor's closets.

Let's be careful not to scapegoat inclusion. Not only would it be detrimental to students with special needs, it also excuses the public from looking closely at its responsibilities to public education. Let's also be aware that what is being presented, or not so delicately, being crammed down the throat of mainstream education, in the name of inclusion is in fact inclusion. Could it, for example, be a venture to avoid some program inconvenience, to eliminate budgetary reallocation, or safeguard against fears of future litigation?

In 1975 Congress passed Public Law 94-142, what is now known as the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), the first legislation requiring special education for all school-aged children and youth with disabilities. In 1986, the provision for special education progressed further with Public Law 99-457. IDEA prescribes that all persons with "special" challenges receive the following: a free and appropriate public education, the least restrictive environment, an individualized education program (IEP), due process, and evaluation and placement.

The least restrictive environment, LRE, is the foundation upon which inclusion will rest.

This provision gives a legal basis for the practice of "mainstreaming" (inclusion), or placing students with challenges with their less challenged peers for as much of their instructional program as possible. The continuum of special education services required is conceptionally a broad one and ranges from consultation to residential placement or home/hospital care (levels 1-7). The continuum of placement within each individual school is as varied. The Admissions, Review, and Dismissal (ARD) multi-disciplinary team, which includes the parent, determines the level of intensity and scheduling.

In most school settings, the inclusionary placement practices for students who are severely and profoundly challenged are limited to related arts, resource, and lunch. Some students do fare better, for the short term, in situations that have controlled environments and which, hopefully, have specially trained teachers. On the other hand, research clearly points out that students with challenges from mild retardation to severe emotional disturbances are most effectively dealt with in the regular classroom setting (Madden and Slavin, Calhoun, Elliot, et.al.).

Inclusion works at its best in innovative and supportive environments and can be dismal in the less apt environments. Regular classroom teachers are a key ingredient in the transitioning process. When integrating students with challenges in the regular classroom, the teacher's attitude toward these students is critical not only for teacher-studentinteractions, but also as a model for the non-challenged students in the classroom. The needs of many students with challenges can be accommodated in the regular classroom without neglecting the class at large, with the construction of well-structured individualized instruction programs. Supports to the teacher, including classroom adaptations, trained support staff, and increased in-service and planning, are essential.

The provision for inclusion was given legal status in 1975 and reform has been a 20-year process. After such a length of time, nothing about inclusion warrants surprise and shame on the few educators and parents who are creating the hoopla. And, while it would do my "bleeding", democratic heart good to work in systems that have funded mandates, well, all I can say, "hold on to your hat, because the slash and burn has only begun."

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford, MSW

was, however, a child seat present in the vehicle. Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported the child to Cumberland Memorial, where he, too, was admitted in "critical" condition. He also has been upgraded to "fair."

DWI ARRESTS

Four DWI (driving while intoxicated) and/or CDS (controlled dangerous substance) arrests were logged at the local state police barrack during the past week. No address was available for any of those arrested.

Mark Long, 25, was arrested on DWI/CDS charges on June 14, by Tfc. M. Clapper.

Thomas E. Parker, 38, was arrested and charged with DWI by Natural Resources Police Officer J. Milbourne, on June 15.

Wayne Winner, 40, was charged with DWI on June 15, by Tfc. Clapper.

Shawn Nascembeni, 27, was arrested and charged with DWI on June 16, by Cpl. Davy.

FIVE TREATED

Five people were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a two-vehicle accident Saturday afternoon.

Lois E. Mousch, 28, Oakland, her three passengers, 6-year-old Matthew A. Burns, 2-year-old Brandon S. Burns, and 1-year-old Brittany L. Burns, all of Oakland; and the driver of the second vehicle, Michael Kirsch, 22, Berkeley Springs, W.Va., were all transported to the hospital by Southern Garrett Rescue Squad.

State police said Mousch, who was operating a 1992 Ford Tempo, was stopped on Rt. 219, attempting to make a left turn, when her vehicle was hit in the rear by Kirsch's 1966 Mustang. The Mustang reportedly skidded 30 feet prior to impact, and pushed the Tempo yet another 20 feet following the impact.

Kirsch was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, following the 2:36 p.m. mishap. Police said Mousch and the 6-year-old were wearing their seatbelts.

TREATED, RELEASED

Three people were treated and released at Garrett Memorial following a single vehicle accident Tuesday afternoon on I-68, near the Lower New Germany Road.

According to a report filed by Tfc. M. Rodeheaver, Jeynelle M. Jones, 20, Mountain Lake Park, was operating her vehicle west on I-68, when she apparently fell asleep, causing the vehicle to travel off the road, and strike an embankment.

Jones and her passengers, Saretha Park, Deer Park, and Jerry Welch, Mtn. Lake Park, were all transported to the hospital by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, following the 3:51 p.m. mishap.

FALLS OUT OF TRUCK

A 16-year-old Accident youth was reportedly transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital after he fell out of a pickup truck as it traveled along the Aiken Miller Road, near the intersection with Rt. 219.

State police said Aaron F. Miller was a passenger in the bed of a 1990 Ford F-150 operated by Ralph F. Miller, 48, also of Accident.

Volunteers from Northern Garrett Rescue Squad responded to the 2:44 p.m. mishap. The hospital had no report of Miller being treated.

CDS ARREST

A Friendsville man was charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance after being stopped for a routine traffic violation Wednesday morning.

State police said Joseph Douglas Fowler, 29, was initially stopped for an equipment violation. A check through the Motor Vehicles Administration revealed he was also driving on a suspended license, following the 10:04 a.m. stop.

During a search at the McHenry barrack, a baggie containing suspected marijuana was found in Fowler's sock.

son, died at the age of 4 while they were residing in the Philippines. The Chisholm extended their generosity and love for children by opening their home to other children, the spokesperson said.

Funds contributed through the Lillian Chisholm Estate are under the management of the hospital's foundation.

"We think that Mrs Chisholm would be pleased to know she has funded equipment that will help children get off to a healthy start at the time of birth," said Elaine L. McDonald, chairman of the foundation. "A plaque honoring Lillian Chisholm now hangs in the pediatric area of the hospital."

lowest of the five received. All bids varied by only 13%. The bid came in at 10% over Altman & Altman's estimate, and in a letter to Superintendent Jerome Ryscavage, Thomas Glasgow of Altman & Altman stated that the best explanation for the overage is the relatively small size of the project and the local market condition for construction in Garrett County, which, Glasgow wrote, "has been historically high."

Over half of the $77,000 overage may come from monies left over from the Southern High School locker room project, which total $42,400. The balance of $34,600 will have to come from the commissioners, or one of the six rooms can be omitted from the plan for approximately $35,000.

Board members appeared to be united in the sentiment that the six rooms should be built if at all possible. Altman & Altman also recommended that the board continue with the original plan. The board is now waiting for the budget decisions being made by the commissioners. The fiscal authority plans to announce the budget on June 27, after which the board will meet to finalize bidding plans.

Oakland Update

by Mayor Asa McCain

Cycle Across Maryland

I am proud to announce that Oakland will be hosting the seventh annual Cycle Across Maryland on Sunday, July 23, and Monday, July 24. Riders will be housed at Southern High School as well as local motels. As of this writing, we are expecting over 1,000 participants.

You can join me in making the riders feel welcome during this event by volunteering. I will need approximately 60 volunteers to performs tasks from unloading equipment to giving general directions to leading tours to Swallow Falls. I also need vendors and/or organizations to sell lunch to the participants on Sunday July 23 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The first meeting to organize vendors and/or volunteers will be Wednesday, June 28, at 7 p.m. at Oakland City Hall, 15 South Third Street. If you are interested in helping out but are unable to attend the meeting, you may call Sue at Oakland City Hall at 334-2691.

Handicap Curb Cuts

The Oakland Street Department is now finished doing the handicap curb cuts in the downtown Oakland area. The State Highway Administration will be doing the curb cuts on Third and Oakland streets in the near future. The town council and I would like to thank everyone for their patience and cooperation during this construction.

Paving

Paving is still scheduled for this summer. To complete the job, we will still need to apply the surface/top coat. This will also include the "tie in" of the driveways and intersections. Work is scheduled to begin in the immediate future.

The Glades Project

Construction of the Glades Project (former Bradley Manor site) will resume in the very near future. The project should be completed in 10 months.

Man Accused Of Cultivating CDS Is Arrested

An Oakland man who was allegedly cultivating marijuana was arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week. Gary M. Young, 39, has been charged with manufacturing a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), possession of CDS, and possession of CDS paraphernalia.

Detectives J. Murphy and M. Proulx reportedly received tips about Young's suspected activity, and the two officers set up surveillance near the defendant's home, according to the report. Discovered on the property were 16 Styrofoam cups with suspected marijuana plants growing in each cup. While officers were watching, the defendant's wife reportedly came out to the plants and poured weed killer on them. When they approached her and questioned her about her activity, she told them she had not wanted the plants on her property.

Young told officers that his wife had nothing to do with the marijuana, and she was not charged. A search of the couple's house was conducted, and the detectives reportedly found marijuana in a baggie and marijuana seeds. The defendant's vehicle was inspected and the officers reported the discovery of two packs of rolling papers in a cellular phone case inside the truck.

Young was released on his own recognizance.

In other sheriff's office news, Tammy K. Sharpley, 24, Keyser, W.Va., was arrested on the strength of a warrant. She is charged with felony theft stemming from a March incident in Kitzmiller. Further information was not available.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Thomas E. Bowman, 40, Rowlesburg, W.Va. He is accused of failing to appear in district court on May 18.

DNR Seeking Information On Bear Kill

A bear killing that occurred on Shingle Camp Road, McHenry, in May of this year has led the Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) to seek information leading to the arrest and conviction of person or persons involved.

Located by a person driving along Shingle Camp near Deep Creek Lake, the bear was an adult male and was found with the head and hide removed.

During the past ten years, Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has carefully monitored trends in Maryland's black bear population and has documented 16 illegal black bear deaths during the period, according to a DNR spokesperson. Investigation by state and federal wildlife law enforcement agencies have suggested a wide-ranging North America trade in black bears in the United States. Garrett County, unlike some areas of the Great Smokey Mountains in Tennessee, has not been thought to be a major target of poachers killing wildlife for profit, the spokesperson added.

"This particular bear concerns us because it has obviously been killed for commercial purposes. The removal of the bear's hide indicated that someone will attempt to have this bear mounted either for their personal display or for resale," stated an NRP official. "If the trend is beginning to change, and if in fact bears are being killed for profit, the sportsmen and citizens will have to help us in order to make Garrett County an unwelcome place for these types of activities, and to work in partnership with the DNR in black bear conservation efforts."

Anyone with information regarding this illegal bear kill is encouraged to contact the NRP's "Catch-A-Poacher" hotline at 1-800-635-6124. Rewards are available for information leading to the arrest, and charging of the responsible parties. Officials will keep the name of the informant strictly confidential.

Thefts Reported To Sheriff's Off.

Three cases of theft are currently being investigated by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Culprits have stolen items including a $2,000 mining bit, spare tires from a local car dealership, and a wallet containing money and credit cards.

Paul A. Savage, Oakland, contacted the police when he discovered on the morning of June 7 that someone had entered his 1995 Chevrolet truck and stole a mining bit worth $2,203, as well as a rain suit, atlas, safety hat, 12 pairs of gloves, and a lamb skin seat cover. The total loss was listed at $2,343.

The theft took place sometime between 10 p.m. on June 16 and 8 a.m. the next morning. There are no suspects in the case.

Mike Howell of Team One, an Oakland car dealership, contacted the sheriff's office to report the theft of three spare tires. The tires were apparently stolen from three Geo Trackers after the suspects broke the locking devices off with an impact tool.

The loss in the case is $870, according to the report. The theft occurred on the night of June 8.

A wallet was apparently stolen from Patricia K. Schrock, Oakland. The item was inside the victim's purse, which was in her home at High View Apartments. On June 18 sometime during the night the wallet was stolen. There are some leads in the case.

The wallet contained $100 in cash, credit cards, a calling card, and pictures. The item itself was worth $50.

Seeks $1.6 Mil.

continued possession and use of the equipment is not consensual, is a deliberate and intentional act, without justification, without Associates' permission, and constitutes constructive conversion of Associates' property."

In count four of the cross-complaint, it is alleged that Stover executed an opinion of counsel which "represents that the lease constitutes a legal, valid, and binding obligation."

Count four goes on to allege that, "At the time he executed the opinion of counsel, Mr. Stover knew or had reason to know that the county failed to follow the bidding statutes."

Associates Commercial's legal representatives in the case, the Baltimore law firm of Leitess & Associates, declined yesterday to comment on the cross-complaint. The current board of commissioners also declined to comment this morning.

However, Oakland attorney Robert Watson, who is representing Hinebaugh in his suit against the county, issued the following statement: "This [cross-complaint] is the inevitable result of the reckless stubbornness and irresponsibility of this new commissioner board in not resolving this matter when they had a chance to do so. They are now exposing the county to extreme liability and it's the people who are going to have to pay for it. This is going to mean a whole new set of lawyers and a whole new level of litigation."

In April, Watson told The Republican that the current board of commissioners had refused an out-of-court settlement offer from Hinebaugh.

Garrett Co. Still Undefeated In Legion Play; Overall Record 10-3

The Garrett County American Legion Team recorded two more wins in Mountain District competition during the past week, to up its undefeated record to 5-0; and also went two-for-two in tournament action in Elkins, W.Va., during the weekend, for a 10-3 overall record.

The home team overpowered Fort Cumberland Post 13, 12-1, last Thursday, and edged by Frostburg, 7-5, on Tuesday in Mountain District Junior American Legion competition at Northern High School.

Garrett pitcher Joel Uphold allowed just one run in the first inning on Thursday, when Fort Cumberland's Jason Holler singled, moved up on a bunt by Ben Brauer, and scored on a two-out double by Mike Carter.

In the bottom of the first inning, Seth Tressler slammed a two-run homer, which came after a two-out walk to Jeremy Fitzwater, giving Garrett the lead for good. In the third inning, Ryan Folk's leadoff home run moved the lead to 5-1, and a seven-run fourth upped the lead even more, to 12-1.

The game was shortened by the 10-run rule after seven innings. In six innings of pitching, Uphold struck out eight, walked four, and allowed just one run. He was relieved in the seventh by Danny Butler, who pitched a scoreless inning.

Folk's homer and double, and Jason Sweitzer's two singles led the Garrett offense. Holler had two singles for the losing team.

Garrett led the way throughout Tuesday's game with Frostburg, but allowed the visitors to score three ninth inning runs before pulling together and recording the final out to remain unbeaten in district competition.

Matt Newcomb led Garrett with a single and three runs for the winning team. Steve Kline and Cheyenne Hartman each hit two singles, and John Dawson added a single and a double for Frostburg.

During Friday and Saturday's Elkins Hardball Hillbilly Classic, Garrett County lost its first game to Mt. Lebanon, Pa., 9-5. In game two of the tournament, Garrett blanked the Moundsville, W.Va. team, 14-0, and then lost the third in the series, 9-2, in its contest with Maynard, Ohio. The tournament concluded with Garrett's big win over Buckhannon, W.Va., 14-1.

Central Splits Pair, Western Loses Two, Grantsville Shut Out

Central Garrett recorded one loss, and one win in Bi-State Pony League play this past week, falling 7-6 to Mount Savage on Friday, and overpowering D&L Coal, 14-3, on Monday. The win upped Central's record to 5-3 on the season.

Western Garrett (2-6) was plowed under with its 22-6 loss to Lonaconing Friday, and failed to rally on Monday when it dropped a 4-1 contest to Ellerslie.

Grantsville (5-3) was shut out by Keyser, 17-0, in a game Saturday that lasted only five innings, because of the 10-run rule.

Herman Arndt led Central Garrett with a double, single, and three RBI in Friday's failed attempt to defeat Mount Savage. Teammate J. Reed tripled, and Terry Rodeheaver and Matt Settle added two hits each, but Mt. Savage's Colby Bucy came through with the game-winning single in the seventh inning to give his team the edge.

In turn-around fashion, however, Central's Arndt fired a four-hitter on Monday, and teammates Settle and Ryan Butler provided the offensive power to lead that team to its fourth win of the season.

Butler and Settle each drove in two runs on a double and single, and Rodeheaver added to singles in Central Garrett's victory over D&L Coal.

D&L's Jay Bruckey in the third inning wasn't enough to pull his team out of the slump, and Central ran away with the 14-3 win, assuring it of a Friday evening bye.

Lonaconing rolled over Western Garrett Friday evening in Friendsville, erupting for 14 runs in the first inning.

P.J. Workman had two singles in two at-bats in Western Garrett's losing effort, but Lonaconing's Travis Love hit home runs in the first and second innings, winning pitcher Joey Lanhorn homered and singled, and Jon Miller was a perfect 4-for-4 with two doubles and two singles, causing the game to be shortened to five innings by the 10-run rule.

Western Garrett managed just one hit against Ellerslie's Brian DeHaven in Monday's loss, and DeHaven hurled a complete game, scattering three hits, and firing 15 strikeouts, ending the game with a 4-1 score.

Matt Fritz doubled, and Travis Holliday added a single for Grantsville's two hits in Saturday's loss to Keyser.

Persons interested in registering for the tournament or obtaining more information may contact American Trust Bank.

The home team knocked 12 runs in the first inning, and tacked on five more in the second, in a game that ended after five innings because of the 10-run rule.

Jake Ellifritz struck out eight Grantsville players, allowing only two hits and two walks in the shut-out.

Friday evening play will see Grantsville at Midland, and Western Garrett will host Keyser.

Mike Gustave went two-for-four, including a home run in the top of the third inning, to drive Oakland past Hyndman, 10-6, in Pen-Mar League action Saturday. Assisting the Oaks' hitting attack were Christian Smith and Terry Helbig, who added two hits each.

Pitcher Kent Taylor fanned five Hyndman batters, and another five were struck out by Smith, who relieved Taylor on the mound, to record Oakland's win.

Jason Cutter took the loss for Hyndman. Teammate Jeremy Kennell was two-for-four with a triple, to lead the offense. Dave Deter had a pair of doubles, and Rich Stiffey was two-for-four with a double for the losing team.

Third Week Of Yacht Club Races Results Noted

by Harry Filemyr

The third weekend of the Deep Creek Yacht Racing Association's June series was the first of the year without rain -- and almost without wind! Setting the course for the first race on Saturday was a challenge for race commander, Doug MacMillan, as the wind direction rotated almost 180 degrees before the start. In spite of the light and variable wind, 31 boats gathered for the race. Don and Barbara Griffin, masters of light wind sailing, started the race in A Fleet at the flag end of the line where they expected a crowd, but found themselves alone and kept this advantage to sail in clear air and finish first. Twenty-one boats returned for the second race in spite of the marginal conditions. However, just as the Lasers were about to start, Race Commander MacMillan hoisted the "canceled" flag. He felt that the winds were just too fickle for there to be a "fair test of skill."

Light winds continued under sunny skies on Sunday. Just as the Lasers were starting, a little breeze came up and two Lasers accelerated across the line early and had to re-start. Gordon Clefton, however, started clear and clean, but Spinnenweber soon caught up and dogged him the rest of the course. In spite of starting five minutes later, B Fleet, with a following wind, merged with A Fleet at the downwind mark. Twenty boats converged to start a giant pinwheel of sails. In Scot A Fleet, Harry Carpenter, with son Jimmy, fouled another boat before the start and had to do penalty turns after starting. (Jimmy and sister Carrie also crewed to within a quarter-point of winning the Canadian National Championship). Carpenters maneuvered to keep clean air, moved to the front and rounded on the inside of the pinwheel. Harry then picked the patches of breeze to stretch his lead to a half mile. Thagards, in the B Fleet, cut across behind the pinwheel and rounded with the leaders. The Thagards finished first in the B Fleet and were third overall.

RACE RESULTS

Saturday, June 17, first race (second cancelled):

Laser - Tom Johnson, first; Gordon Clefton, second; Keith Spinnenweber, third.

Scot A Fleet - Don and Barbara Griffin, first; Bruce and Lauren Spinnenweber, second; John Meredith and Tony Kaminski, third.

Scot B Fleet - Dave and Monica Wible, first; Al and Jean Thagard, second; Frank and Sheila Vandol, third.

Sunday, June 18:

Laser - Gordon Clefton, first; Keith Spinnenweber, second; Steve Wilson, third.

Scot A Fleet - Harry and Jimmy Carpenter, first; Harry and Marilyn Filemyr, second; John Meredith and Tony Kaminski, third.

Scot B Fleet - Al and Jean Thagard, first; Dave and Monica Wible, second; Rollo and Mary K. Farnum, third.

LOCAL HUNTER RECEIVES NATIONAL AWARDS - Garrett County native Ron Beeghly was recognized recently in Kerrville, Texas, when he received three national first place awards from the Exotic Records Club for harvesting two exotic rams and one exotic angora goat with a muzzleloader. The rams scored in the top 10 in the nation, and the goat netted Beeghly a world record with his muzzleloader. He is pictured above with his quarry. The Exotic Records Club, a hunting preserve for exotics in Stuart, Va., is composed of men, women, and youth from all over the United States and Canada who enjoy hunting. The awards banquet is held each spring in Kerrville to honor rifle, pistol, bow, and muzzleloader hunters who were successful in their efforts the previous year. Beeghly uses a Gonic Arms 50 cal. magnum muzzleloader.

There will be no basketball tournament this year because the basketball court will be used for spectator seating. The entertainment will be performed on a stage adjacent to the basketball courts. It is suggested the public bring lawn chairs for their seating comfort. Questions can be directed to the Deep Creek Lake Garrett County Promotion Council at 334-1948 or to Gerry Beachy at 895-5177.

Area Speedway Review

Somerset County Speedway

It was a beautiful night for racing as 65 cars took to the track at the Somerset County Speedway on Friday. Doug Shaffer of Somerset lead all the way to take the first heat of the evening. Other heat winners in the Street Stock division Jon Deal of Confluence, Jim Sayler of Meyersdale, Ben Ansell of Rockwood, and Brian Taylor of Corinth, W.Va.

In the Pro Stock competition, J.R. Isner of Cumberland took a heat as well as John Sayler of Meyersdale.

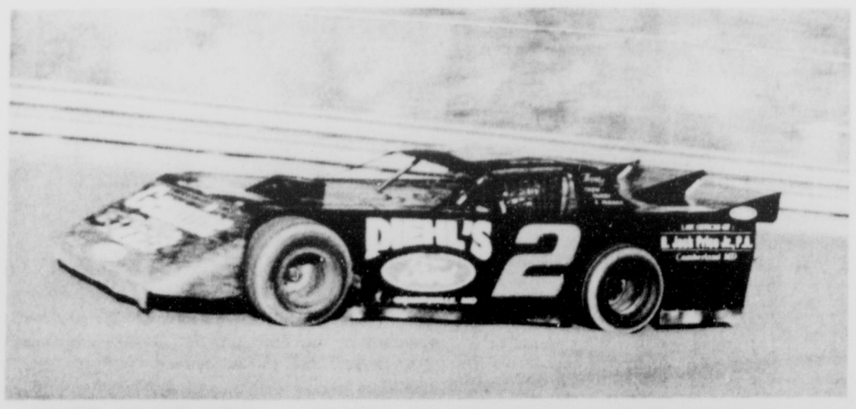
In a tight "C" Main, "rookie" Joe Fullerton of Grantsville was able to pick up his first career win and the trophy sponsored by Tressler Oil. Fullerton took the lead in the fifth lap and was able to hold off Bob Davis in this hard fought victory. They were followed by Roger McKenzie, Brian Cotter, Henry Bockes, and Randy Schartiger.

The "B" Main was a start and stop contest before Robert Porter picked up his first win of the season. The event had to be stopped several times as accidents and roll-overs plagued the race. John Valentine of Stoystown was the first to roll over on the backstretch and Jim Will of Somerset rolled four times after shooting out of turn four. Both Drivers escaped uninjured. Porter was followed by Doug Kimmel, Bob Singo, Dale Wilt, Carl Arnold, Clair Duppstadt, Greg Cornell Sr., Doug Barclay, Dan Delaney, Dwane Shultz, Dave Greer, Bill Nolf, and Dennis Sell. One of these days, Doug Kimmel of Somerset is going to pick up a win. He has had several second place finishes this year and continues to chase that elusive checkered flag.

Jim Sayler of Meyersdale picked up his third victory of the season when he powered his way to victory in the "A" Main. Sayler also received extra prize money from Tressler Oil of Confluence in this main. He was followed by Ben Ansell, Duane Horning, Jon Deal, Roger Shaulis, Brad Dickey, Clyde Prince, Brad Reckner, Eric Paugh, Vince Smith, Doug Shaffer, Jamie Kemp and Brian Taylor.

After several disappointing starts in the Pro Stock division, John Sayler of Meyersdale was able to pick up his first victory of the season. If you have been following the races, you will know that Sayler has had some bad luck this season. Finally it was his turn in the winner's circle. He was followed by Joe Donaldson, Tom Humberson, Bryan Mitchell, J.R. Isner, Brad Brown, Duane Folk, Matt Hayman, Mike Ritter, and Mike Barndt.

Racing will continue at the speedway this Friday when we run the mid-season championship races. Also on the card will be several special event races. Racing will start at 7:30 p.m.



DRIVER OF THE WEEK -- Jeff Miller, Late Model owner and driver from Cumberland, is this week's driver of the week. His black #2 can be seen racing at Cumberland, Ebensburg and Hagerstown. The Bullitt chassis with a wedge nose body style has a 423 small block Ford engine built by Miller Racing Engines. Miller's sponsors are Diehl's Ford Sales in Grantsville, Western Md. Distributing, Miller Genuine Draft and Ayers Physical Therapy. The 29-year-old driver has been racing for five years. He and his wife, Sally, have a 13-month son, Derek. Members of his pit crew are Leroy Miller, Bill Thompson, Ken Stair, Bud Leister and Jamie Emerick. Miller finished 10th in points in 1994, and his goal for this year is to win two feature races and have a top 3 points finish.

Elkins Motor Speedway

After a week off for bad weather, racing resumed at its usual fast and furious pace Saturday night at Elkins Motor Speedway. In the Bank One Late Model feature, Danny Hamrick took advantage of an invert-12 field of cars to win his first race of the season. In tighter racing were the six cars vying for second. Chuck Harper, Robbie Scott, Kevin Marsh, Dave Groves, and Mark Myers, traveling for most of the 25 laps in a tight pack, each held the second spot at some point. At the end, Harper passed Myers with two laps to go and crossed under the checkered flag behind Hamrick after coming all the way up from a 12th position start. Behind Myers were Groves, Scott, Marsh and Duane Moreland.

Avoiding entanglement with the multitude of cautions seemed to be the most challenging part of the semi-late feature. Scott Miles, coming off a ninth position start, picked his way toward the front and passed Tim Harsh with three laps to go for his fourth win of the season. The remaining survivors of the race in order of finish were Harsh, Steve Booth, Shaun Davis, Bernard Keene, Danny Bismark, and Kenny Gould.

Twenty-three racers showed up for the Coca-Cola U.M.P. Modified feature. Steve Cook pulled out in front early and held off Greg Tressler and Ron Parrish who were engaged in a tight battle for second. Cook took the victory and it wasn't until the last lap that Parrish managed to find a groove around Tressler. Ray Johnson, Jr. and Roy Gibson rounded out the top five.

In a caution free Pure Stock feature, Denny Sandy captured the lead on lap 11, after Mark Spicer broke in a cloud of engine smoke, and took home his first win of the season ahead of John Smith and Dave Robinson.

Tommy Pennington got back on the winning track in the Four Cylinder Stock feature by grabbing the lead on the third lap and crossing the finish line ahead of Mike Simpson and Dan Stalnaker.

Finally, the last event of the night was the second running of the Powder Puffs. This time the women were driving the four cylinder stocks and the field of cars numbered 12. Sheila Cross, driving Tommy Pennington's #37 was the victor. Pam Coffman and Joyce Speicher were second and third respectively.

Next week at Elkins Motor Speedway it's the Mid-Season Championship. Double points will be awarded in all classes.

Interstate 79 Speedway

Scott Peltz became the first driver to take the "challenge" at Interstate 79 Speedway this season as he gave up his pole position to start last for extra money. However, Peltz came up a little short and did not collect the extra $1200 sponsored by Melvin's Transmissions, Jack's Auto Wrecking and I-79 Speedway. As Peltz made his way into the fourth spot by mid-race, he became the meat in the sandwich and spun, seeing his victory hopes dashed. Up front, it was all Tim Hitt's race as Chuck Harper and Mark Myers battled for the next two spots. Danny Hamrick wound up fourth followed by Steve Steele, Peltz, Mike Benedum, Butch McGill, Mike Hawkins, and Robbie Scott. Heat winners were Myers, McGill, and Frank Wilson.

Jim Shaffer pulled off a last lap pass to beat Kenny Reed and Randy Revels in the 33-car field of pure stocks. Denny Sandy and Brian Shaffer followed. Jerry Teter, Sandy, Mark Bell and Brian Tonkery won heats while Gary Tonkery took the consy.

Last year's semi-late champion, Rick Strickler got his first win of the '95 season over Scott Miles, Chris Smith, Kenny Gould, and Steve Wilmoth. Heat race winners were Tim Harsh and Jon Li Messenger.

In the UMP class, it was Kevin Rogers nabbing his first feature win this year followed closely by Roy Gibson, Ron Parrish, Rusty Jones, and Doug Horton. Prelims went to Rick Burrows, Horton, and Greg Tressler.

Hayward Baker captured the 4 Cylinder win ahead of Jim Hurley, Tommy Pennington, Jim Hunt, and Larry Speicher just as the fog began to set in. Earlier heat wins went to Chad Haney, Dan Stalnaker, and Baker.

Eighteen DWARF cars made their monthly appearance with John Mollick coming home first as Rich Mitchell, Al Roach, Marvin Lutz, and Mike Hall rounded out the top five. Mitchell and Hall were heat winners.

This Friday night is Special Olympics Night with racing in all five divisions. Coming on sunday, July 2, is the second race in the West Virginia State Championship Series for late models paying $5000 to win the 50 lap Don's Disposal Special.

Interstate 79 Speedway is located at Exit 125 just north of Clarksburg, W.Va. For information, call the speedway office at 304-592-3200 or on race day call the track at 304-592-0916.

Area Go Kart Racing

originally imposed. Sines was charged with the offense after an Oct. 28, 1994 drug arrest at his home.

A motion for early expungment, filed by Kevin A. Lohr, 23, Oakland, was denied by Judge Finan. Lohr was convicted in August 1993 of CDS possession, after his April 10, 1993 arrest at the Treasure Island parking lot, by Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

A motion for early expungment, filed by David E. Huffman, 20, Morgantown, W.Va., was granted by Judge Burnett. Huffman was convicted on possession of CDS paraphernalia after his Sept. 17, 1993, arrest by Maryland State Police, during Operation Intercept on Interstate 68.

Charles Uphole, 38, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of battery, because it was determined he was acting in defense of his property. The charge was filed on Feb. 25 by Steven Thomas, whose car became stuck in Uphole's yard. Thomas claimed the defendant "came out and started hitting everyone in the car." The occupants reportedly got out of the vehicle and ran to get out of Uphole's way.

Sheila A. McMillen, 42, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count of battery, and one count of reckless endangerment, at the request of the victim, Sylvia Moore, Mtn. Lake Park. Moore stated that during an argument with defendant on Jan. 25, she was struck in the head and nose, and then McMillen threatened her with a knife.

His Will Be Done

"His will be done," we say with sighs and trembling,
Expecting trial, bitter loss, and tears;
And then how does He answer us with blessings
In sweet rebuking of our faithless fears.

God's will is peace and plenty and the power
To be and have the best that He can give,
A mind to serve Him and a heart to love Him,
The faith to die with and the strength to live.

It means for us all good, all grace, all glory,
His kingdom coming and on earth begun.
Why should we fear to say: His will - His righteous,
His tender, loving, joyous will - be done"?

First "Thunder On The Mountain" Festival Slated July 4 At The Wisp

The Deep Creek Lake Business Association is sponsoring its First Annual "Thunder on the Mountain" Festival to be held July 4 at the Wisp Resort.

"A limited number of tickets will be sold to allow participants a spectacular view of the fireworks," said a spokesman for the event. "A special holiday package featuring a chairlift ride to the top of the mountain, barbecue dinner, beverage and dessert and entertainment by Neil Krebs and his acoustic guitar will make this Fourth of July celebration one to remember."

Lawn seating will be available for ticket holders, who are asked to bring their own blankets. No lawn chairs or coolers will be allowed on the mountain. Costumed members of the Chautauqua will be on hand to talk to people. Volleyball, bocci ball and other games will be available before the fireworks, according to the spokesperson and beer and wine will be for sale throughout the event.

The scenic chairlift departs from lift chair #1 which is located at the A-frame structure at the foot of the Wisp. Boarding for the trip up will be held from 5-7 p.m. The chairlift will be shut down before and during the fireworks, which will be held from 9:30 to 10 p.m. The chairlift will begin taking guests down the mountain at the conclusion of the fireworks. A special shuttle van will be available for special needs.

Dinner will be served from 6-9 p.m. Krebs will provide entertainment from 6-11 p.m. This fundraising event for the fireworks is sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Business Association. In the event of rain, dinner and entertainment will be held in the McHenry House. T-shirts, specially designed for the event by Bjorn Shogren, will be available for sale at the festival.

Tickets are available at the following locations: WISP Resort Hotel, Arrowhead Market Business Center, High Mountain Sports, Railey Rental (lake office), Slopeside Market (CITGO), Lakeside Creamery, and Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty Rental Office.

Bulk May Be Best
Choosing a Laxative

A key to preventing and treating constipation is getting adequate dietary bulk or fiber. This can be accomplished by cutting down on fats and eating more fruits, vegetables, and whole grain cereals such as whole wheat bread. Many brands of psyllium seed derivatives are available as a source of fiber. Psyllium can do more than just prevent constipation. As an added benefit, psyllium often lowers blood cholesterol levels.

Garrett County Arts Council Meeting Slated

The Garrett County Arts Council will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday, June 27, at 7 p.m. in the Bausch & Lomb art gallery, which is located in the fine arts building on the Garrett Community College campus. All members of the public are invited to attend.

Board members will be elected and grant making plans and activities for the coming year will be discussed. Anyone interested in submitting a grant application for an arts or arts related project, and anyone interested in local arts projects is encouraged to attend this meeting.

Entertainment and refreshments will be provided. For more information, persons may contact the Arts Council at 387-3121.

TO REDUCE MEDICAL-SURGICAL supply costs, Garrett County Memorial Hospital has entered into a consignment program with Medline Industries, Inc., one of the largest privately-held medical manufacturers in the United States. According to GCMH's purchasing director Jim Rush, the consignment program allows Medline to stock the hospital's inventory, while Garrett Memorial pays only for the supplies it uses on a monthly basis. "This partnership program will enable us to be as competitive as we can be while also making us financially healthier," said Rush. Four hundred hospitals across the United States are currently active in Medline's partnership program. "Because Medline is a privately held company, we can set up custom plans for hospitals that are tailored to meet the organization's specific needs," remarked Kelly Hale, Medline sales representative. Pictured above left, Garrett Memorial's vice president of financial services Terry Weaver, and hospital president Benjamin Rosenthal, at right, were presented with a check from Ms. Hale, representative of 10% of the savings Garrett Memorial has realized as a result of their participation in Medline's consignment program.

Lighthouse Board Of Directors Meets; Elects New Officers

The Board of Directors of Garrett County Lighthouse, Inc., met for their annual meeting, June 15, to elect officers. They are: Martha Jachowski, president; Barbara Briggs, vice president; Betty Malloy, secretary; and Art Naylor, treasurer.

Executive Director Debbie jo Adams-Noroski presented the annual report to the board, which included a program overview, objectives, and the Fiscal Year 1996 budget.

"We plan to continue to enhance delivery, focusing on a community support system for individuals with mental illness," said Adams-Noroski. "Continuity of service that results in positive consumer outcome has always been a standard for Lighthouse."

Norma Schlosnagle, administrative assistant for Lighthouse, presented the Transportation and Financial Report for 1994-95. She provided the board with statistics on transportation, funding, and the new computer Management Information System. Bob Witt was recognized in the report as maintaining "an excellent safety record for three years."

The Quality Assurance Annual Report and Consumer Profile was presented by the program coordinator, Donna Gregory. The Quality Enhancement Committee meets quarterly to discuss program improvement and quality assurance. "We will maintain our standard of excellence through continuous evaluation," Gregory said.

During the meeting, board members were awarded certificates of appreciation, and Lighthouse mugs for their service during the past year.

Chautauqua To Come To GCC Next Weekend

Two weeks from the scheduled appearance of "Democracy in America" Traveling Chautauqua at Garrett Community college July 5-8, final plans are being made for the event that will bring characters from the 19th century to life in the mountain top community.

LITERARY CHARACTER Frances Wright, portrayed by Sally Ann Drucker, shown above, will appear in the Chautauqua tent on Friday evening at GCC. (See related story)

Seven humanities scholars will portray seven famous individuals giving their perspectives in American democracy as they interact with community residents and visitors. Each evening the Chautauquans will appear under a tent on the college campus and during the days they will have breakfasts with community groups and present workshops at designated locations.

On July fourth, four of the Chautauquans will march in Accident's homecoming parade and others will attend the picnic atop Marsh Mountain preceding the fireworks display.

Each evening's performance will start at 8 p.m. with 30 minutes of entertainment by local artists before the Chautauquans appear at 8:30. Local artists to entertain are folksingers Tom & Sue Peterson on Wednesday, dulcimer and fiddle ensemble Hammers and Strings on Thursday, GCC Pipes & Drums on Friday, and magician Ben Sincell on Saturday.

The Chautauqua program will begin with Alexis de Tocqueville, who observed American democracy as it was beginning to take shape and laid out the broad themes that form an organizational structure for the presentations. Issues including women's rights and racial prejudice will be presented by Frances Wright who formed racially intregrated utopian colony and pioneer black abolitionist Maria W. Stewart.

Author Harriet Beecher Stowe who addressed compelling issues of her day through her books and stories and Domingo Sarmiento, former president of Argentina, will give their perspective on the America they knew. The final Chautauqua program on Saturday evening will feature the views of P.T. Barnum, originator of "The Greatest Show on Earth," and journalist Horace Greeley.

Craft booths and food concessions will be set up around the Chautauqua tent on the college campus to lend a country fair atmosphere. It is still possible for individuals or organizations to reserve spaces for these at a fee of $25. Interested persons should contact Terry Norris at 387-3041.

The "Democracy in America" Traveling Chautauqua is presented by the Maryland Humanities Council and made possible by The Inland Empire Educational Foundation Humanities Coalition through a major grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Additional support has been provided by the following local sponsors: Garrett County Arts Council; Maryland State Arts Council; Frostburg State University, Frostburg; Garrett Community College, McHenry; Bausch & Lomb, Inc., Oakland; Book Mark'et, Oakland; Devlin, Inc., Oakland; and Peters Fuel Corporation, Grantsville.

Women's Health Lecture Set For June 28

Garrett Memorial's Wellness program will host the third in a series of monthly women's health lectures titled "The Female Focus Health Series."

The third lecture of the series, "Getting Around To It: Downshifting from the Driven Lifestyle," will be held on Wednesday, June 28, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the hospital's Community Services Center. Guest speaker for the lecture will be Mikal Crawford, Ed.D., staff psychologist at Frostburg State University Counseling Center and adjunct faculty member in psychology and education.

According to Wellness coordinator Debora Nichols, the program is designed to provide women of all ages with education and support regarding various health issues and concerns. "The more informed we are, the more we can do for ourselves, finding greater satisfaction in our lives," she said.

Nichols emphasized that the lecture series is targeted to all women whether a college student, a stay-at-home mom, working professional, or senior.

"We are involving members of our community in our planning sessions so we can provide a range of presentations that will better meet the needs and interests of our area residents," she said.

For more information about the Female Focus Health Series or to be placed on the mailing list for notification of upcoming lectures, persons should call 334-2155, ext. 408.

R Rx TAKE CHILDREN TO THE DENTIST EARLY

It is a natural reaction of young and old alike to be afraid of the unknown. Once exposed to a situation this fear will not often diminish or disappear altogether.

At about three years of age, it is a good idea to take your child on a "visit" with you to the dentist. Try to make it when you are just scheduled for a checkup or cleaning rather than some work. Your dentist will let the child sit in the chair for a few moments. Then, when you take the child for his first examination he will have much less fear. Discuss this with your dentist beforehand.

"Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee."
Psalm 55:22

The Bible clearly instructs us to give our problems to God ... to "cast" them upon Him. Yet, do we give them to God or merely lend them to Him, only taking them back when the answer is not immediate, or if it is not the one we desire?

Once again the Bible speaks to us ... "Whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive" (Matthew 21:22). We must believe that God's answer is the correct answer, though it may not seem so at the time. Someone once said, "Everything in the universe is subject to constant change, and everything is on schedule." Is that a contradiction? No, that is a fact.

When you visit God's house each Sabbath, you will become increasingly aware of the spirit of God at work in your life. You will come to know peace, trusting Him with every care. Give Him your problems and take Him at His Word.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT DO YOU DO WITH GOOD NEWS?
June 25, 1995

Background Scripture:
2 Kings 6:24 to 7:20
Devotional Reading:
1 Thessalonians 5:8-18

This is an interesting, if somewhat puzzling story. When King Benhadad and the entire Syrian army besiege Samaria the northern capital of Israel, a terrible famine falls upon the land. The King of Israel learns that some of his people have been reduced to cannibalism and for some unapparent reason he blames the prophet Elisha for this calamity—"May God do so to me, and more also, if the head of Elisha the son of Shaphat remains on his shoulders today" (6:33)—even though the prophet and the king have been on good terms.

When a messenger from the king arrives to inform Elisha, the prophet also reacts with surprising vehemence: "Do you see how this murderer (the king) has sent to take off my head?" (6:32). But, by the time the king arrives at Elisha's house, the king realizes that the Lord is responsible for the calamities. "This trouble is from the Lord!" He proclaims to Elisha. "Why should I wait for the Lord any longer?"

DOUBTING THE GOOD NEWS

But the prophet counsels patience and prophesies an end to the famine by the next day (7:1,2). One of the king's most trusted captains scoffs: "If the Lord himself should make windows in heaven, could this thing be?" (7:2). One of the problems with good news is the reluctance of people to believe it. We become so conditioned to bad news—TV, newspapers, magazines—that we resist believing good news, including the best news of all, the gospel.

The story shifts abruptly to the gate of Samaria and four lepers. Starving, they decide to throw themselves on the mercy of the Syrians. But, arriving at the Syrian camp, they find it utterly deserted. The writer of 2 Kings explains that the Lord had tricked the Syrians into thinking they heard sounds of a great army coming out against them.

The four lepers seize the opportunity and begin to loot the deserted camp of food, drink, silver, gold and clothing. But, after they have hidden their loot, they realize that, although they as lepers are shunned by their fellow Israelites, they nevertheless must go back and share with them the good news: "We are not doing right. This day is a day of good news; if we are silent and wait until the morning light, punishment will overtake us; now therefore come, let us go and tell the king's household" (7:9).

SHARING GOOD NEWS

Once again we can see how doubt and cynicism get in the way of faith. Going to the court of the king they share their good news, but the king, suspecting a Syrian trap, refuses to accept this confirmation of Elisha's prophecy. Only when a reconnaissance party returns confirming the good news does the king and his people go out to see for themselves.

You and I care little about the invasion and flight of the Syrian army. What was good news to the people of Israel is to us just a footnote in Biblical history. But, we can apply the principle concerns of this story to our own lives. We have a good news that is infinitely better than the good news the four lepers brought Israel. Like them, because of our conditioning with hourly bad news, it is often difficult for us to believe the good news of Jesus Christ.

And, like the four lepers of old, we must realize that the only thing we can do with good news is to share it. That's what being a Christian is all about—living and sharing the good news of God's redeeming love revealed in Jesus Christ.

COVER STORY

Drew Carey

Warning: The networks' new fall lineups may produce a feeling of deja vu.

But don't be fooled: All of the following shows are new, even if the ideas are reminiscent of shows gone by.

ABC adds The Drew Carey Show to its fall roster. The sitcom, scheduled to air Wednesdays, stars Carey as a twenty-something who hangs out with friends after work. In other words, Cheers meets Friends.

Two prime-time soap opera alumni are joining forces for yet another saga about a rich, powerful family. The Monroes, ABC's new Thursday drama, stars William Devane (Knots Landing) and Susan Sullivan (Falcon Crest) as the heads of the Monroe clan.

Comic Jeff Foxworthy joins his peers who have their own series. He will star in Somewhere in America, Saturdays on ABC, playing a family man with his own perspective on life, not unlike Tim Allen in ABC's Home Improvement.

NBC expands on the orphan-children-managing-on-their-own theme that started with ABC's On Our Own and Fox's Party of Five. Joey Lawrence stars in Brotherly Love, scheduled to air Sundays, as an older sibling taking care of his brothers (played by his real-life brothers Matthew and Andy) after their father dies.

Thursdays on NBC, Lea Thompson will star in Caroline in the City as a cartoonist whose experiences creep into her work. Notice the similarities with Barry and his column on CBS' Dave's World?

CBS introduces Bless This House on Wednesdays. Cathy Moriarty and Andrew Clay star as a married couple, with the requisite two children, who have a knack for fighting. This family seems reminiscent of the Bundys in Fox's Married... With Children.

Central Park West, slated for CBS' Wednesday lineup and featuring Mariel Hemingway, looks at a group of young New Yorkers making a living. The ZIP code is different, but the tax brackets are similar to those of Fox's Beverly Hills, 90210.

Fox joins the borrowing frenzy with Sunday's Too Something, about longtime friends working together while pursuing their dreams. ABC's Bosom Buddies, with Peter Scolari and Tom Hanks, quickly comes to mind.

Love and the law remain popular themes:

ABC looks at the legal system in Murder One, a Steven Bochco creation headed for Thursdays. All rise for Pamela Reed as a judge in NBC's The Home Court on Saturdays.

CBS will introduce Patricia Wettig as a judge in Courthouse on Wednesdays, followed by John Grisham's The Client, with JoBeth Williams, on Thursdays.

As for Cupid, Nancy Travis and Kevin Kilner will play romantic interests in CBS' Almost Perfect on Sundays, coupled with Elizabeth McGovern and Hank Azaria as lovers in If Not for You on Mondays. Also Sundays, Fox will focus on the male perspective of love and marriage with Misery Loves Company.

The themes may be familiar, but the networks are banking on fresh faces to make their new lineups successful. Only viewers and time will tell.

Jack Jones heads the cast of 1959's Juke Box Rhythm, also starring George Jessel, Hans Conried and Johnny Otis.

Peter Cushing plays a foppish messenger in Sir Laurence Olivier's 1948 version of Hamlet.

Eileen Heckart, the mother-in-law on The Five Mrs. Buchanans, won an Oscar for 1972's Butterflies Are Free.

Actress Uma Thurman (Dangerous Liaisons), like her three brothers, is named for a Hindu deity.

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Why is Chris Noth leaving Law & Order? Tell me anything you can about his background. –Elizabeth Corley, Ormond Beach, Fla.

A: Noth, technically speaking, was not fired: His contract wasn't renewed.

According to an article in the April 14 issue of Entertainment Weekly, L&O executive producer Dick Wolf didn't think there was enough conflict between Detective Mike Logan (Noth) and Detective Lennie Briscoe (Jerry Orbach). Wolf chose instead to hire 30-year-old Benjamin Bratt (Texas) to interject a Generation X flavor.

The departure of Noth, 38, means there is no one left from the original cast (Steven Hill, who portrays District Attorney Adam Schiff, wasn't in the pilot).

Here's the brutal history: George Dzundza, who played Detective Sgt. Max Greevey, bailed after the first season. His replacement, Paul Sorvino as Detective Phil Cerreta, left soon thereafter.

Richard Brooks (Assistant District Attorney Paul Robinette) and Dann Florek (Capt. John Cragen) were canned to make room for the first female characters, played by the equally capable Jill Hennessy and S. Epatha Merkerson. Michael Moriarty (Assistant District Attorney Ben Stone) clashed with Wolf and left the show. At last report, he was leaving the country, claiming he had been blacklisted.

Noth (rhymes with "both," not "cloth") is the son of former CBS news reporter Jeanne Parr. He was born in Madison, Wis., and grew up in Connecticut, England, Yugoslavia and Spain. A classically trained stage actor from the Yale School of Drama, Noth also has many theater credits.

His feature films include Off Beat, Smithereens, Baby Boom and Naked in New York. On TV, he has appeared in Hill Street Blues, I'll Take Manhattan, Killer in the Mirror and several other TV movies.

Q: What happened to Me and the Boys? It was one of our favorite programs. –Jan Lebert and Andy Ewing, Davison, Mich.

A: A spokeswoman at ABC says the show did OK in the ratings, but executives thought it was too "kid-driven." ABC must target a more adult audience next season, when it will face a strong challenge from NBC for first place in the Nielsen race. Meanwhile, the network is said to be looking at possible new projects for Me star Steve Harvey.

Q: Can you tell me how to reach the Statler Bros.? –Billie F., Pismo Beach, Calif.

A: You can write to them c/o The Nashville Network, 2806 Opryland Drive, Nashville, Tenn. 37214.

Yankee serves as guide for Lost Civilizations

BY SUZANNE GILL

Sam Waterston has watched all 10 installments of NBC's Lost Civilizations, a series making its debut Sunday, June 25, with "Egypt: Quest for Immortality."

Waterston, who narrates the series, is among the last to work on it before completion, like a slave putting the final stone into a pyramid.

Three years in the making, Lost Civilizations uses location footage, computer enhancement, re-enactments and interviews to tell the stories of 10 cultures now lost or disappearing. The series travels from the Holy Land to China, from Tibet to sub-Saharan Africa. Waterston's Yankee tenor pulls it all together.

"I hope you like this voice, because you're going to get a lot of it," he kids.

"But there's also a lot of other stuff, too. There's a fantastic amount of reconstructed history, a technique that is only very recently available to documentary filmmakers.

"There is very impressive and realistic-looking scaffolding, for instance, that was made out of lollipop sticks and juxtaposed against a real building, and you can't tell which is what, and what's real and what's not. There is a considerable amount of that."

The 10 episodes of Lost Civilizations are set to air throughout the summer. Time Life, whose books inspired the series, will make the episodes available on home video about a month after they air on NBC.

"A lot is brought together here that you might have been able to pick up scattered around in a number of different places, but it's very, very interesting to have it all in one place," Waterston concludes.

Mummies, papyrus and pyramids are the stuff of "Egypt: Quest for Immortality," the first of 10 episodes in Lost Civilizations. The series debuts Sunday on NBC.

SOAP TALK

Shoberg, Reed, Tucci leaving daytime TV

BY CANDACE HAVENS

An All My Children longtime favorite is leaving the show. Richard Shoberg, who has played Tom for 18 years, is leaving due to inactivity.

Since the departure of Tonya Pinkins, who played Tom's wife, Livia, Shoberg's character has not had a story line.

Shoberg is not the only one who will be looking for a new job. Another World's Christine Tucci, who has played Amanda since July 1993, will leave the series in early July. The decision was dictated by story considerations.

"I regret the decision by NBC and Proctor & Gamble to terminate my contract," Tucci says. "I want to extend my love and thanks to the fans who have shown me such support over the years."

There are no plans to recast the role. Tucci recently became engaged to Paul Michael Valley, who plays Ryan on AW.

Another Proctor & Gamble casualty is Margaret Reed, who portrays Shannon on As the World Turns. Reed's departure is also driven by the soap's plot line. Reed is pregnant and will postpone her job hunt.

Dear Candace: I am writing in regard to Jerry Douglas, who plays John Abbott on The Young and the Restless. He is doing an excellent job playing a recovering stroke victim. My heart fell as he cried while trying to tell Jack (Peter Bergman) he wanted to go home from the hospital. Thumbs up to Jerry Douglas! –Kelly, San Angelo, Texas.

Dear Reader: Douglas is doing a terrific job. Some of us feared when John went into a coma he would be unconscious for a long time. But Y&R surprised viewers by bringing in a very meaningful story line of John's recovery.

Dear Candace: I would like to know if Ned (Wallace Kurth) and Lois (Rene Sofer) on General Hospital are married in real life? They make such a good combination. –Kristen Sperdute, Ellwood City, Pa.

Dear Reader: Kurth and Sofer are indeed a couple off-screen, but they are not married.

Sofer won in the supporting actress category at the Daytime Emmy Awards this year. During her acceptance speech she commented on their relationship and how very much in love she was with Kurth. Marriage could be in the future.

On Dean's List

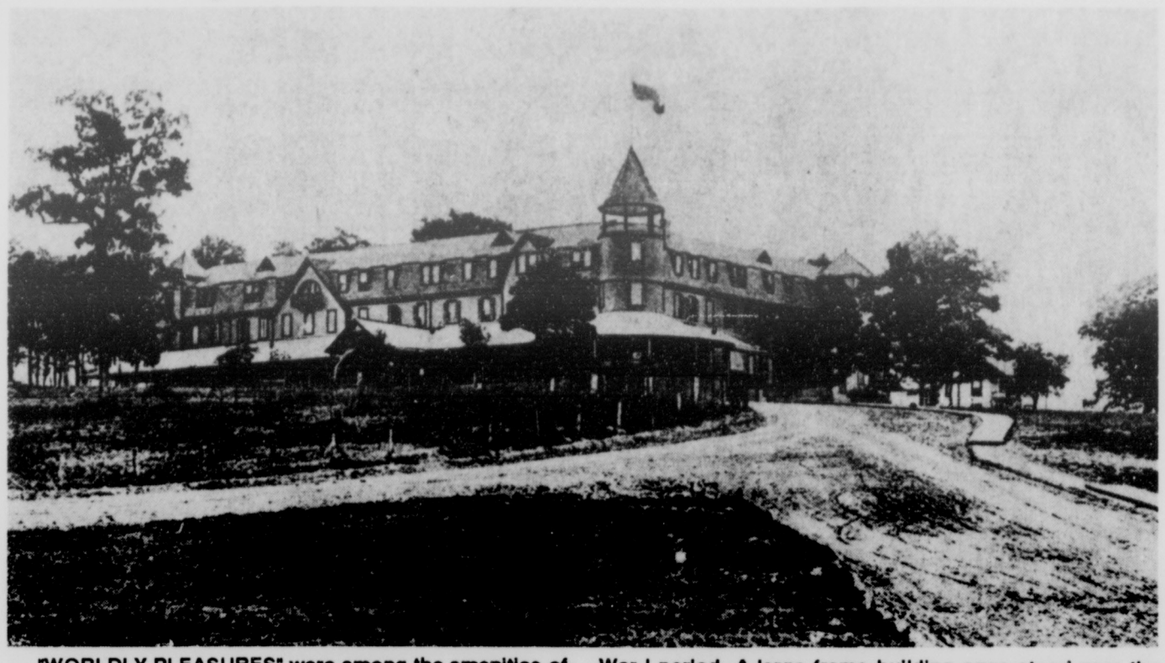
Addy Wilson, daughter of David and Mary Wilson, Swanton, has been honored for being among the best academic students at West Virginia Wesleyan College, according to Dean G. Thomas Mann.

Students on the dean's list have achieved a 3.5 or higher grade point average for the semester, while carrying a load of at least 12 semester hours.

Wilson, a sophomore elementary education major, is a 1993 graduate of Southern Garrett Senior High School.

West Virginia Wesleyan College offers more than 50 academic majors in the liberal arts and career-related fields of study including four bachelor degrees and the master of business administration degree. Affiliated with the United Methodist Church, Wesleyan has an enrollment of approximately 1,680 students.

Glimpse of The Past . . .



"WORLDLY PLEASURES" were among the amenities offered by management of the Loch Lynn Heights Hotel late in the 19th Century and early this century. The imposing structure stood "across the tracks" from Mtn. Lake Park, a town founded by Methodist ministers who frowned upon its far more liberal sister community. Built around 1893-94, the hotel was operated for many years by Mrs. L.C.B. List of Wheeling, W.Va. It was destroyed by fire in the World War I period. A large frame building once stood near the hotel site and was called the Casino, offering forms of recreation that were likewise "condemned" by Park founders. This information was obtained from the book Garrett County, A History of Maryland's Tableland, by Stephen Schlosnagle. The photo, on loan by Martha Kahl, is published courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican.

Oakland Student Earns Scholarship

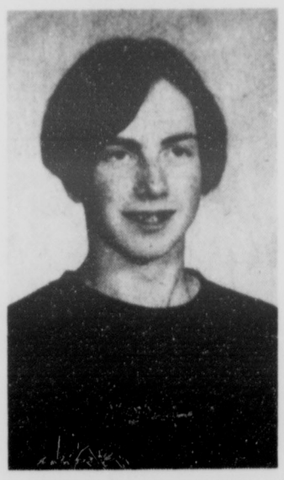
Carla Ann Swearman, Grantsville, has received the Elisabeth Hitchins Memorial Scholarship, and the Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Scholarship for outstanding academic performance during the 1994-95 school year. Her goal is to become an elementary school teacher.

While majoring in early childhood/elementary education at FSU, Swearman was named to the dean's list and received the All-American Scholar Collegiate Award. She is also listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges, and is an Awana youth club leader, a Sunday School teacher and a Northern Food-SHARE volunteer.

She is the daughter of Parley E. and Mary M. Deal.

The FSU Scholarship program is administered by the FSU Financial Aid Office. Funding is provided through the FSU Foundation, Inc.

Herbert Named To Who's Who



Adam Herbert, son of Doug and Barbara C Herbert, Swanton, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students for the 1994-95 academic year. Only 5% of the students from our nation's 22,000 high schools receive this honor. This is the second consecutive year Herbert has received this honor.

An honor roll student at Southern High School, he is also a member of the United States Achievement Academy. He finished his sophomore year with a 3.40 grade point average, and will be entering his junior year at SHS this fall.

As a nine-year member of the North Glade 4-H Club, Herbert is currently serving as club president. He recently received the 1994 4-H all-star trophy for exceptional record book completion. He was also a member of the cast of I Never Saw Another Butterfly, a one-act drama presented by the SHS Dept. of Theatre Arts.

Correction Noted

In a photo of persons participating in the recent Garrett County May Bird Count, which ran in last week's issue of The Republican, Sheila Hughes was pictured but not identified. The error is regretted.

Carlson Honored At WM College

A Garrett County student was among the more than 20 Western Maryland College students who received academic awards and scholarships during the college's Spring Awards Ceremony on Sunday, April 23.

She is Ingrid R. Carlson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Carlson, Oakland. A double major in Spanish and political science, Ms. Carlson received the Jean Alpaugh Award for Interdisciplinary Study. The award is presented annually to the student with an appreciation for cross-cultural experiences whose proposal for off-campus study will most benefit his or her academic program. The recipient must also embody the enthusiasm for learning, the breadth of scholarship, and the interdisciplinary interests of Jean Alpaugh, WMC Class of 1990, who, while graduating with honors in English, also excelled in anthropology, photography, art, history, and music.

Before the presentation of awards, Dr. Jane DeGroot, assistant professor of communication at Western Maryland College, delivered a talk entitled "A Redefinition of Power."

Located in central Carroll County, Western Maryland College is a private, independent college emphasizing high standards and achievements in the liberal arts and sciences.

Antiques

The kitchen of the past was decorated with a limited palette. Green and beige or red and white or perhaps blue were almost the only colors.

The young women who might have become household maids or cooks before World War I looked for higher-paying factory jobs in the 1920s. But the housewife found she could save some time with the new canned foods, small gadgets and electrified machines. The kitchen itself was planned for the first time with factory-made cabinets that were designed to hold tools, spices and pots and pans. The electric refrigerator replaced the icebox.

There doesn't seem to be anything that was used in a kitchen before 1960 that isn't now being collected. Small tools are especially popular.

It is difficult to find the iron eggbeaters and tin nutmeg graters of the 19th century, but the wooden-handled tools used from the 1920s to 1950s can still be discovered at garage sales or in Grandmother's kitchen cabinets.

Housewives tend to keep old mixing spoons and mashers and even give them to their newly-married daughters. Natural wood and iron or steel mashers, pounders, ricers and food mills had been in use in earlier times. But the masher of the 1920s had a colored wooden handle and bright chrome or steel parts.

Today's homemaker can buy mashed potatoes frozen or dried, meat tenderizer, or instant rice. The electric food processor or juicer will chop and dice or squeeze the fruits and vegetables. So the old mashers you collect will probably not be needed very often and will remain hanging as an ornament on the wall most of the time.

Home Tips

SHOPPING TIP — When you go shopping, the clothes are so nice and pressed on the rack and then the store salesperson takes them off their hangers, balls them up and by the time you get home, they are wrinkled.

I take hangers from home to the store. The salesperson is more than happy to transfer the clothes from their hangers to mine. Covered with a plastic bag, they're ready to go.

TAKE IT OFF — I recently joined a health spa and really enjoy going three times a week. After the first week, I noticed that I broke out in a rash which I never had before.

I happened to mention it to my exercise instructor and she told me to remove any makeup before exercising. She said while sweating, skin pores open and absorb the makeup, which can result in a rash.

Now, I wash my face, put on a little moisturizer and work away. After exercising, I wash again to remove the perspiration. My skin has never looked better! Rita C., Arkadelphia, Ark.

GLASS CLEANER — After doing a home permanent on my hair, I always have a number of papers left over. They make excellent cleaners for your glasses.

Keep some of the papers in the car to clean your sunglasses. They are flat and small and can be tucked anywhere within reach.

CLEAN THONGS — To clean dirty, stained and soiled rubber thongs, flip-flops or beach sandals, take them along to the car wash.

The high-pressure wands do an excellent job, particularly on white or light-colored pairs. Katy N., Walla Walla, Wash.

VINEGAR MAGIC — We removed wallpaper from a room in our home, but the residue from the self-stick paper would not come off regardless of what we used.

We called stores and tried what they recommended. Finally, a paint store suggested using vinegar in warm water. My husband laughed at the idea, but I tried it. Presto! The residue came off in no time at all.

Household Help
by John Amantea

Q. This summer, I plan on taking care of the interior of my house. The rooms need to be painted, including ceilings. However, my wife has this brainstorm about wallpaper. She wants the kitchen, bathroom and living room wallpapered. I've only put up wallpaper once, and I wasn't very successful at it. What can you tell me to help me through this?

A. My wife is also a wallpaper freak and I also hate doing it. However, I've discovered that the most work goes into the actual preparation and not the hanging of the paper. If you take the proper steps before you apply the paper, it should practically hang itself.

First, make sure the room you are working in is cleared of as much furniture as possible. Move everything away from the walls. Then, thoroughly wash the walls down with Soilex. This product should be readily available at your local hardware store. However, to my surprise, I was unable to find it at those huge, big-name stores. I did locate it in my local hometown hardware store.

After washing down the walls (you'll be surprised how much dirt there'll be), apply a coat of primer to them. This will insure that your wallpaper adheres firmly. Give this primer coat 24 hours to dry before even attempting to put up the paper.

Now, most wallpaper today is prepasted. This means you just have to dip it in water and apply it. However, I feel it's best to apply a product called "Activator" to the back of the paper. (Any home-decorating center will carry this.) What this product does is activate the pre-applied glue and makes it more effective. Best of all, you don't have the mess you normally have when you dip the paper in water.

You can apply the activator with a glue brush, or you can put it in a paint tray and apply it with a roller. I have found the latter method the best.

Be sure you give yourself enough of a flat working space to roll out your paper and cut it. Allow two inches of slack on the top and bottom of the paper to compensate for matching up your pattern.

Dollars & Sense
by Bryon Elson

Most standard homeowners' insurance policies allow you to choose replacement cost coverage for your home and its contents. This allows you to receive the full replacement cost up to the limit of your homeowners' policy. Without this coverage, your insurer may opt to repair a damaged item or replace it with another one of lesser quality.

When you choose replacement cost coverage, inquire about inflation guards. This option automatically raises your coverage, and your premium, annually to keep up with inflation. Even with an inflation guard, you must determine if your home's value increases faster than the automatic increases built into your policy. For example, if you make expensive improvements or if real estate values in your area outpace those in the rest of the country, your home's replacement value may rise sharply.

Many homeowners' policies set relatively low limits on the basic coverage of "luxury items," such as jewelry, furs, silverware, or electronic equipment. If you own a high-priced valuable, consider adding a rider or floater to cover that item specifically. Issued either separately or as an endorsement to your regular policy, a rider or floater covers the insured item up to a designated amount. To purchase additional protection, you must provide a copy of your receipt or an appraisal of the item you want to insure.

Many insurers automatically include $5,000 of coverage for home office equipment and business property in homeowners' policies. In most cases, you can raise that amount of $10,000, if you need more coverage. Contact your insurance agent for more details.

If you run a home-based business, your homeowners' liability policy will not cover business-related liabilities. You must purchase a separate business liability policy, for additional coverage.

You may qualify for a significant insurance discount, if you have a centrally monitored alarm system. Other devices, such as smoke detectors, dead-bolt locks, motion detectors, or an inside sprinkler system, also may qualify you for lower rates. Some companies even offer reduced premiums to retirees whose increased presence in the home reduces the risk of burglary. In addition, other safety discounts may apply if all the occupants of the home are nonsmokers.

Bartlett Backs Defense Bill

District VI Congressman Roscoe Bartlett recently expressed his support for the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 1996, a bill which the House passed on Friday by a large margin.

"I worked very hard as a member of the National Security Committee to craft this defense bill so that it would meet our national security needs while simultaneously keeping our promise to work toward a balanced budget by the year 2002," Bartlett remarked shortly before the bill was passed.

"This task was complicated by the fact that the Congressional Budget Office (CBO) has estimated there is a $120 billion gap in the next five years between the administration's national security strategy and the administration's budget for defense."

According to a Bartlett spokesperson, the bill is structured around four principles intended to bridge the gap: "1) maintaining the quality of life of American soldiers and their families, 2) sustaining core military readiness, 3) reinvigorating modernization, and 4) streamlining Pentagon bureaucracy and cutting non-defense spending."

Bartlett remarked that the bill reverses a decade of declining defense spending.

"I am very pleased that as part of our modernization efforts, I was able to secure $45 million for purchase of the AGM 130, a precision guided 'smart bomb' that is manufactured right here at the Allegany Ballistic laboratory," Bartlett commented.

"This is a good bill that will strengthen our defense capability, shrink the defense bureaucracy, and maintain our global leadership while at the same time keeping our promise to balance the federal budget."

Sales, Use Tax Revenue For May Up From Last Year

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced sales and use tax revenue for May, 1995 totaled $154,605,590, up 2.8% from the $150,381,040 received during the same month a year ago. The Comptroller noted that the largest categories of collections, taxable food and beverage and general merchandise, produced $34.3 million and $26.6 million, respectively. May revenue is based on April retail activity.

May sales and use tax revenue reflects the anticipated slowdown in business activity. "The consumer spending that generated significant growth in sales and use tax revenue through most of the current fiscal year should guarantee that these taxes meet or exceed revenue projections for the current fiscal year," Goldstein said.

Two construction-related categories of collections, building and Contraction and hardware, machinery and equipment, seemed to reflect the volatility of interest rates, according to the Comptroller. The building and contractors category produced $19.4 million, a slight decline from May, 1994 figures, while the hardware, machinery and equipment category produced $5.5 million, a 1.6% increase.

"Homebuilding is especially important to the sales and use tax because each new home constructed and occupied generates $2,500 to 5,000 in sales tax on items such as lumber, furniture and carpeting," Goldstein said.

For the first 10 months of fiscal year 1995, sales and use tax revenue totaled $1.61 billion, up 8.4% over the $1.49 billion collected for the same period of the previous fiscal year.

Health Theater Troupe Available For Performances

With four performances under its belt, Garrett County's improvisational teen health theater, Pandora's Box, is looking for more opportunities to present its educational dramas, a Garrett County Health Department spokesperson stated this week.

"We want to get out into the community and talk to young adults about the health issues that they are facing every day," remarked Brenda Caldwell, who directs the theater group with Melissa Beachy.

In response to local data and concerns outlined by Garrett County residents, Pandora's Box was developed as part of the Healthy Year 2000 program and organized by the Garrett County Health Department's AmeriCorps program.

"The troupe consists of thirteen local teen performers educating area youth and adults about health issues," the health department spokesperson stated. "Skit topics range from family relationships and communication to the dangers of smoking and smokeless tobacco, recognizing and confronting abuse, coping with depression, overcoming eating disorders, HIV prevention, the realities of teen pregnancy, self esteem, and positive peer pressure."

"The message to teens and their parents is that, even though they are facing tough health issues today, there is hope, and help, available to them," stated Caldwell.

In the performances, the actors use improvisation dialogue rather than written scripts. Before taking the stage, scenes are outlined so that the actors know what takes place in the story, but the dialogue comes from the individual students. "This technique allows each performance to be unique, educational, and entertaining, promoting both individual responsibility and social awareness among local youth," the spokesperson stated.

Pandora's Box has completed five local performances since its initiation at the beginning of 1995. Shows have been featured at the Children's Summit, an event organized by the Garrett County Office of Children, Youth, and Families; at Northern High School as part of pre-prom activities; for the annual meeting of the Garrett County Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse; and at a special performance for the parents of actors participating in the teen health theater.

An upcoming show is being organized for the Regional Conference of the Governor's Commission on Service on July 18.

"Anyone concerned about the issues facing adolescents today, including church groups, civic groups, or other interested community organizations, can schedule a free performance," noted Beachy. "Shows are geared toward teenagers and adults and can be held in any space large enough for 5 to 12 actors and an audience."

To schedule a performance, persons may contact Kendra Todd at the Garrett County Health Department at 334-8111 or 895-3111.

Garrett AARP Chapter Meets

Garrett County Chapter 779 American Association of Retired Persons met recently at the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland.

President Betty Foy presented a report on several matters concerning the national organization, and representatives from Garrett Memorial Hospital discussed symptoms, effects, and prevention of strokes and heart attacks.

Chapter members also made plans for an all-day trip on the Potomac Eagle excursion train. The train will leave Romney, W.Va., at 9 a.m. on July 29. The train will then follow the South Branch of the Potomac River to Petersburg, W.Va., and return to Romney at 5:30 p.m. Cost for the trip has been set at $28.00 per person, and reservations accompanied by payment, with checks made payable to the Potomac Eagle, are due by July 12.

Vans will leave the local senior center at 7 a.m. on July 29 to transport participants to the Potomac Eagle station in Romney.

The next meeting of the local AARP chapter will be a luncheon meeting at Will O' the Wisp restaurant, Deep Creek Lake, on July 12. To reserve tables for the event, persons should call Foy no later than July 10. The meal will be served at noon with the meeting to follow. At least three guests, including District AARP Director Bob Cummings, his wife, and a representative of the Seniors and Lawmen Together (SALT) program, will be present at the meeting.

Oakland High School Alumni To Gather

The sixth annual Oakland High School Alumni Reunion has been slated for Saturday, August 12, at 4 p.m. at the Oakland Elks Club.

The theme for this year's reunion will be "Aloha Welcome," and casual dress, with an emphasis on Hawaiian style, is suggested. A buffet dinner will be provided, but guests will be served at their tables upon request.

Because of the limited parking, shuttle busses will again be available this year to provide transportation from the Oakland parking lot to the Elks Club. Return trips will run continuously throughout the evening.

During the event, members of the Garrett County Historical Society will be on hand to sell publications.

The cost of the dinner is $15 per person, and spouses and guests are welcome. Persons who have not received invitations, but who wish to attend, may contact Robert Stockslager by phone at 387-6505 or by mail at Route 5, Box 3840, Oakland, MD, 21550.

Letters should include the interested person's name (including maiden name,) years at the school, and graduation year. Persons may also enclose a check as payment for tickets. Persons are advised to respond as soon as possible because attendance is limited and reservations will be honored in the order that they are received.

No one will be admitted without reservations.

Oakland High School operated from 1908-1952, and a total of 2,400 students graduated from the school, with three students graduating in 1908 and 86 graduating in 1952.

Progressive Farmer, ACE Program Sponsor Safety Camp For Kids

McHenry will host a Progressive Farmer Farm Safety Day Camp, which is being locally sponsored by the Agricultural Care and Education Program (ACE).

The camp, which teaches children ages 10 to 15 to be aware of safety hazards on the farm, will be held Saturday, July 22, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry.

Topics for hands-on demonstrations at the camp will include animal safety, first aid and small equipment safety.

"The Garrett County team has been great because they're as enthusiastic about farm safety as we are," said Susan Reynolds of Progressive Farmer. "So many of our readers know children or adults who have been injured on a farm. We hope this day camp will encourage farm families and remind them that safety must always come first. If we prevent just one child from being killed or injured, we'll consider this program a success."

"Even adults who have been farming for years can see their lives changed in one moment of carelessness," said Progressive Farmer Editor Jack Odle. "Kids are even more at risk because they tend to think they're invincible. Unfortunately, nothing could be further from the truth."

The camp will cost $5 per child, and attendance is limited to 175 participants. To participate, children must pre-register before July 5. Registration forms for the day camp should be mailed to Mikal McCartney, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, 251 North Fourth St., Oakland, MD 21550.

Registration forms will be distributed through the Garrett County extension office; Grant County, Preston County, and Tucker County, W.Va. extension offices; Garrett County Memorial Hospital; and the Garrett County Health Department.

Local sponsors include Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the Garrett County Health Department, and the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Service Systems (MIEMSS), consortium members of the ACE program.

This summer marks the beginning of the Progressive Farmer safety camps. The magazine has scheduled 18 other camps between May and August 1995. They will be held in Alabama, Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, Texas and Tennessee.

Progressive Farmer is published by Southern Progress Corp., which also publishes Southern Living, Southern Accents and Cooking Light magazines, as well as Oxmoor House books. The Birmingham-based company is the largest regional publisher of books and magazines in the country.

Farming In Maryland.....

Interim Crop Insurance Regs Issued By MDA

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley reminds all Maryland farmers that the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation recently issued interim regulations for the Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program. This insurance program applies to crops for which federal crop insurance is currently unavailable. Eligible commodities encompass commercially produced crops grown for food and fiber, and includes floricultural and ornamental nursery crops, Christmas trees, turfgrass sod, industrial crops and aquacultural species.

"To be eligible under the Noninsured Crops Disaster Assistance Program, farmers must report their acreage to their local Consolidated Farm Service Agency (CFSA - formerly ASCS) office shortly after planting. I recommend that if a farmer has a question about crop insurance that he contact his local CFSA office as soon as possible. Farmers will not be eligible for protection unless they report their acreage," Riley said.

For Maryland farmers all acreage must be reported to the Consolidated Farm Service Agency office by July 15.

The new regulations went into effect in May 1995 and are printed in the Federal Register of May 18, 1995.

Livestock Students Receive Training At GCC

The Garrett Community College (GCC) Livestock Management Class recently participated in an artificial insemination workshop sponsored by Sire Power, Inc. at GCC. Lloyd Green, A.I. Training coordinator from Thurmont conducted the workshop. Green is responsible for training A.I. technicians for Sire Power and farmers across the United States. The morning was spent discussing reproduction, heat detection, and bull mating. In the afternoon, Green demonstrated the process of inseminating cattle with preserved reproductive tracts. He also demonstrated the proper procedure for thawing semen and preparation of semen for breeding. Sire Power, Inc. is a world wide distributor of cattle semen headquartered in Tunkhannock, Pa.

On May 11, Dr. Donald Kling presented a program to the class on embryo transfer in cattle. Dr. Kling, a practicing veterinarian who specializes in embryo transfer travels throughout the tri-state area with his practice. Dr. Kling described the process involved with flushing embryos and transferring them to donor cows. He also showed a video of the entire process.

Dr. James Fearer, regional field veterinarian for the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA), presented a lecture to the class on interstate shipment of livestock. Dr. Fearer discussed the necessary paperwork and vaccinations required in order to ship livestock from state to state. He also discussed some of the MDA program diseases such as pseudorabies.

The Livestock Management Class finished out the year by assisting with the shearing of Robert Lacy's flock of sheep. The Agricultural Management Program at GCC appreciates the help of these individuals and others for assisting with the Livestock Management Class.

Cleanup First Step In Roach Control

Cockroaches are among the most hated of pests around the home. One reason is their association with uncleanliness and poor sanitation.

If your house has roaches, your first step in getting rid of them is a good cleanup. Good sanitation first and bug killers second is the proper order, suggest entomology extension specialists at West Virginia University.

That doesn't mean that, if you have roaches, you have a filthy house. Roaches eat about the same things that humans eat. Therefore, even a crumb or two lying around can give these bugs something to munch.

Be sure to dispose of garbage and trash properly. Leftover food should be refrigerated, not left on a table, stove top or shelf to attract pests of any kind.

Once the proper cleaning is complete, apply a ready-to-use household cockroach spray to areas where the bugs hide during the day. These places include cracks and dark places under and behind refrigerators, washing machines, water heaters, floor and ceiling moulding, sinks, bathtubs and cabinets.

If you prefer, you can use cockroach bait stations instead of a spray. Bait stations have the advantage of reducing the exposure of household occupants to the insecticide. If you use bait stations, be certain to follow label directions and to place them along edges and in corners in the locations mentioned. Don't place the stations on sprayed surfaces or spray near them.

Two kinds of cockroaches are commonly found in West Virginia. They are the small, light brown German cockroach and the larger, dark, short-winged Oriental cockroach.

The German cockroach is found primarily in kitchens and bathrooms. The Oriental can be found in these areas plus in basements and also outdoors during the summer. If you need to treat outdoor areas, apply a cockroach spray labeled for outdoor use to door sills and other entry points.

Be cautious using any insecticides inside or outside the home. Use them only according to label directions.

Alfalfa Twilight Meeting

This coming Monday evening, June 26, Dr. Les Vough and I will be reviewing the five-year alfalfa research results conducted at the Garrett Community College. The research included variety trials, responses to different fertility levels, yields for cutting from three to five times a season and yields from different alfalfa/grass mixtures. Les has also complied nutrient contents on all cutting over the past five years. There is a lot of useful research information for the grower. The program will start at 7:30 p.m. at the research plots located off Bumble Bee Road behind the baseball diamond. Preceding the program we will be having a cookout with the trimmings (no cost), starting at 7 p.m. For food preparation, I will need your reservation by calling my office at (301) 334-1990.

Potato Leafhopper Alert

The warm weather and southern winds have already brought some of the potato leafhoppers into our alfalfa fields. The leafhopper can do a lot of damage on the regrowth of alfalfa. Don't wait until you see the yellowing to spray. At the Alfalfa Twilight meeting, this Monday, we will be demonstrating the procedures for monitoring and determining when to spray for leafhopper control.

Dairy Month Recipes

Cooking teacher and TV personality Francis Anthony, known as the "Love Chef," appears frequently on Live with Regis and Kathy Lee. He was given this affectionate title 20 years ago by a student of his "Cooking with Love" course, who said that since he cooked with so much love, he must be the Love Chef. Try his recipe for this luscious, creamy Penne Pasta with Prosciutto...

Penne Pasta With Prosciutto Sauce

8 ounces penne pasta, uncooked
3 tablespoons butter
4 ounces prosciutto, cut in ¼-inch wide strips*
1 small onion, diced (about 3/4 cup)
6 plum tomatoes, diced (3 cups)
1 cup whipping cream
½ cup fresh or frozen green peas
Freshly ground black pepper to taste
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cook pasta according to package directions until tender yet firm; drain and set aside. Meanwhile, in a medium skillet over medium heat, melt butter. Add prosciutto and onion; cook until onion is tender, 3 to 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Stir in tomatoes. Add cream, peas and pepper; simmer until mixture is slightly thickened, about 5 minutes. Stir in Parmesan cheese. Toss cream moisture with pasta. YIELD: 4 to 6 servings. *Cooked ham may be substituted for prosciutto.

As a host of QVC's enormously popular In the Kitchen with Bob, Bob Bowersox knows how to make delicious meals in a hurry. For example, try Bob's Mushroom Broccoli Stroganoff, a satisfying two-cheese vegetable casserole that takes just minutes to assemble. Enjoy this meal in itself, or serve as a side dish.

Mushroom Broccoli Stroganoff

2 tablespoons butter
1 large onion, chopped (about 1½ cups)
8 ounces mushrooms, sliced
1 cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup dry white wine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon dried basil leaves, crushed
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 cup EACH: shredded Monterey Jack and Cheddar cheese, divided
1 pound broccoli
12 ounces uncooked spinach noodles
1/3 cup chopped walnuts

Preheat oven to 350°F. In large skillet melt butter over medium heat. Add onion and mushrooms; cook until softened, 2 to 3 minutes; remove from heat. Stir in sour cream, wine, lemon juice, basil, salt and nutmeg; mix well. Add ½ cup each of the Monterey Jack and Cheddar cheeses and transfer to large bowl; set aside. Wipe skillet clean. Trim tough ends from broccoli. Cut remaining broccoli into small flowerettes and coarsely chop the stems. Add broccoli to skillet with 1 inch water. Cover and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer until just crisp-tender, 2 to 3 minutes; drain well and add to bowl with mushroom mixture. Meanwhile, cook noodles according to package directions in boiling, salted water until firm-tender. Drain thoroughly and add to bowl with mushroom mixture; mix well. spoon into lightly buttered 13x9x2-inch (3 quart) baking dish. Bake uncovered, 25 minutes or until heated through. Top with remaining cheese and the walnuts; bake just until cheese melts, about 5 minutes. YIELD: 8 main dish servings.

New York Times syndicated columnist Pierre Franey, creator of the "60-Minute Gourmet" and host of Public Television's Cooking in America, celebrates America's greatest culinary offerings in his easy-to-follow recipes. Here, a fragrant wine and blue cheese sauce blankets sauteed chicken breasts.

Chicken Breasts With Blue Cheese Sauce

4 skinless, boneless chicken breast halves (about 1¼ pounds)
Salt and freshly ground pepper, to taste
3 tablespoons butter, divided
1 tablespoon flour
3/4 cup milk
½ cup chicken broth
4 ounces blue cheese, crumbled (1 cup)
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup dry white wine

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper; set aside. In a large skillet melt 2 tablespoons of the butter over medium-high heat. Add chicken; brown lightly on one side. Turn and continue cooking until cooked through, about 5 minutes. Remove chicken to a platter; keep warm. Meanwhile, in a medium saucepan, melt remaining 1 tablespoon butter over medium heat. Add flour, stirring rapidly with wire whisk. Add milk and broth, stirring rapidly. Add cheese; stir until melted; remove from heat. Add onion to skillet, cook and stir over medium heat until softened. Add wine; stir to dissolve the brown particles on bottom and sides of skillet. Stir in cheese sauce. Using sieve, strain sauce back into saucepan, stirring and pressing down with a spoon. Pour sauce over chicken and serve. YIELD: 4 servings.

Art Ginsburg, star of the Mr. Food syndicated cooking segments, provides his viewers with a no-nonsense approach to cooking with quick and easy recipes using off-the-shelf ingredients. The base for Mr. Food's The Right Punch is ice cream and only four other ingredients.

The Right Punch

3 cups (24 ounces) pineapple juice, chilled
2/3 cup orange juice, chilled
1 tablespoon lemon juice
4 cups cold milk

In large bowl combine ice cream, pineapple juice, orange juice and lemon juice. Beat with an electric mixer until blended. Gradually add milk; beat until frothy. Pour into a chilled punch bowl. YIELD: 3½ quarts. *Ice cream should be very soft.

Number Of U.S. Ag Workers Slightly Lower

There were 2.82 million people working on the Nation's farms and ranches during the week of April 9-15, 1995. This compares with 2.92 million people during the April 1994 survey week. Self-employed farm operators accounted for 1.40 million of the total, along with 386,000 unpaid workers, and 822,000 workers hired directly by farm operators. Agricultural service employees working on farms and ranches made up the remaining 214,000 workers.

Farm operators paid their hired workers an average wage of $6.49 per hour during the April 1995 survey week. This rate was up seven cents from a year earlier. Workers paid on an hourly basis earned $6.20 per hour compared with $6.11 in April 1994. Field workers received an average of $6.05 per hour, up three cents from the April 1994 survey week. Livestock workers earned $5.88 per hour compared with $5.80 a year earlier.

Building Trades Students Complete Training At GCC

Five Garrett County residents recently completed a Building Trades Program, offered by Garrett Community College, in cooperation with the Western Maryland Consortium.

James McCrobie, Richard Seeders, Mary Skipper, Shawn Albright, and William Baker were among the students in the program, who ranged in age from 18-40, who completed the training in May, which prepared them for work as carpenter and electrical helpers, or in retail sales associated with the building trades.

The students began their studies by learning basic math for carpenters, building trade terms, blueprint reading, communication and interpersonal skills, as well as retail selling fundamentals. After "hands on" learning in frame carpentry, they specialized in electrical work and finish carpentry.

"Each of these five students demonstrated exceptional attendance and teamwork skills, as well as excellent skills in construction," said a spokesperson for the program. Throughout the 14-week, 432-hour training program, they learned building techniques by constructing a small building which will be used to house the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival office.

"The students have demonstrated competencies in all areas, and they are ready to join the local workforce as carpenter helpers, and electrician helpers," the spokesperson said. "They are also prepared to function in retail sales associated with the building trades, and in the manufacturing of building materials as well, in service, remodeling, and maintenance positions."

Employers interested in reviewing students' resumes are encouraged to contact Virginia Jeffrey at 387-3103, or Julie Yoder at 387-3089.

Waterfowl Hunting Violations To Draw Stiffer Penalties

Bird hunters who violate the law in Maryland will face higher standard penalties beginning June 19, according to A. Eugene Hester of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Northeast Region Law Enforcement office.

In an order approved May 11, Chief U.S. District Judge J. Frederick Motz increased the standard fines for unlawful hunting of migratory birds and other related offenses to $500. For offenses prior to June 19, the standard fine is $200.

The standard fines, which apply in routine cases, are far lower than the maximum penalties that the court may impose, Hester said. The maximum sentence is a $5,000 fine and six months imprisonment. Violators may also be placed on probation, have hunting activities limited, and received other restrictions.

"These new penalties stress the importance of obeying hunting laws," said Hester. "Although the vast majority of hunters obey the law, the few who abuse the privilege are endangering resources for everyone. We hope all hunters will take note of the new penalties and take special care to observe the law."

Hester said that while the standard $500 fine will be sought in routine cases involving first-time offenders, the service expects to seek stiffer sentences in cases involving more serious conduct or repeat offenders.

The most common offenses by the higher penalties include: hunting over a baited area, which unfairly lures wild gamebirds; hunting with the aid of live birds as decoys, including domestic ducks and geese; shooting more than the legal limit; using lead shot, which is highly toxic to waterfowl; shooting outside of legal hunting hours; and violating tagging regulations requiring hunters to account for the legal limit of birds.

In many instances, first-time offenses may be resolved by paying a fine. However, repeat offenders and those who blatantly ignore wildlife regulations will likely receive more severe penalties and restrictions on their activities, Hester said.

Enforcement of migratory bird hunting regulations has become increasingly important as the population numbers dwindle. According to Larry Hindman, waterfowl project manager for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Canada geese populations wintering in Maryland are still in trouble and are well below population objectives. Although some improvement has been seen in wild duck populations, they remain below population objectives, he said.

For information on federal wildlife hunting regulations, persons may contact the service's senior resident agent for law enforcement at 410-962-7980. The state of Maryland may have more restrictive hunting regulations and should be contacted regarding state laws.

Fatty's Garage Is Landmark In Mtn. Lake Park Community

by Perry Shaffer

In Mtn. Lake Park, on Pittsburgh Avenue, there is a high concrete block building with a large metal sliding door. It's cool in there in the summer, and in the winter it is heated by a woodburner made from a 55-gallon drum. There are overhead workshop lamps and a concrete floor which often has patches of sawdust around to take up an oil spill. The place smells of that oil and gasoline, and there is always one car jacked up while another has its hood raised with a trouble light hanging over the engine.

Seated nearby is an elderly man who just stopped by to take a rest on his daily walk around the neighborhood. He has been greeted by the man bent over the engine and they exchange small talk while the work goes on. A radio plays country music somewhere in the building and a scanner keeps everyone up to date on police, fire, and rescue operations.

A neighborhood youngster comes in with a bike needing its chain put back on the sprocket. The telephone is ringing, and that is the first priority. After talking with the caller a few minutes, this quiet man with the thinning gray hair pushes his glasses up on his nose and looks at the boy and his bike. "O.K., Bobby, let's get that chain where it belongs."

The smiling child is pleased because he and all the other kids around here know they will receive the same helpful attention the adults get, but it won't cost anything. They have been here before and they know "Fatty" can fix anything.

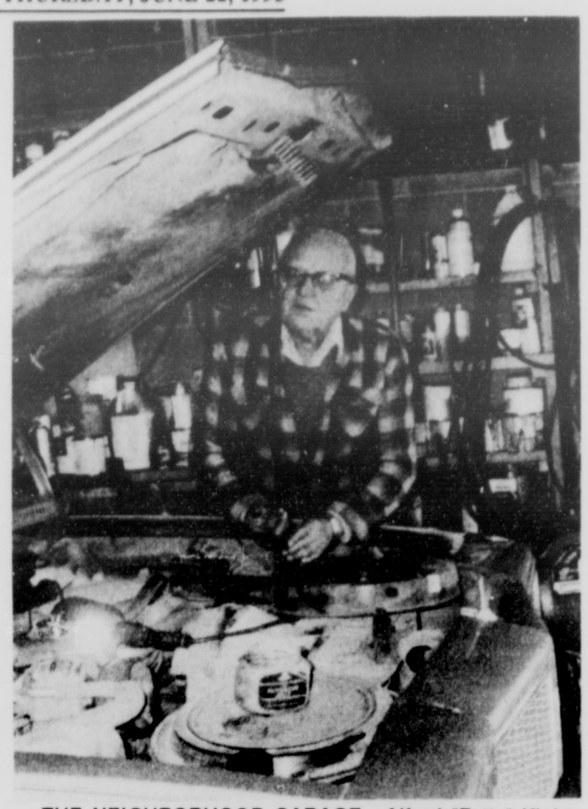
This garage belongs to Alfred "Fatty" Kight, longtime mechanic, Navy veteran, family man, active club member, and friend. His may well be one of the last of a great American institution - the neighborhood garage.

Everyone around Oakland knows Fatty. He was born in Pierce, W.Va., in nearby Tucker County, just a few miles over the line from Maryland on Route 219. When he was just a baby, a neighbor tagged him "Fatty" and that's all most folks ever knew his name to be.

The family moved to Gnegy Church in Garrett County while he was just a child, and he went to the Gauer School. While he was a teenager he dismantled junk cars to salvage usable parts for Ralph Pritts and soon became a mechanic working inside at the Dodge-Plymouth dealership.

In 1944 Fatty joined the Navy and when he returned home, he drove a bus from Oakland to Grantsville for a brief period. In 1949 he went to work for Clarence Sharps at the Chevrolet garage in Oakland and was employed there for the next 25 years. It was there that most people in this area became acquainted with him, and his reputation for being a first class mechanic was well known.

Fatty bought the Pittsburgh Avenue building around 1974. He did some independent hauling for Phenix Construction Company, and in the winter he had a snow-plowing contract with the Maryland State Highway Administration. This was the beginning of the garage we have been talking about.



THE NEIGHBORHOOD GARAGE - Alfred "Fatty" Kight, pictured above, applies his years of experience as a mechanic as he works on a car in his Mtn. Lake Park repair shop. Guest writer Perry Shaffer believes the local shop to be "one of the last of a great American institution." See story.

Fatty works this place alone, although he seldom is alone. People come by all the time, like the man on his daily walk who talks about his garden and offers some advice on how better to do the job on which Fatty is presently working. This man has had 17 cars in his life and he is qualified to provide some assistance. Fatty listens and then does the repair the right way. If it happens to be time for lunch he will drive his visitor on the way to his own house. Betty will have his meal ready. They have been married since 1940 and she knows his routine by now.

There are occasions when you might find three or more men in the garage at one time. Very seldom is there a female - somehow this is a man's place. One fellow has come to ask when Fatty can change his plugs and check for a noise that's just developed. Another man stops to pay a bill he found over his visor with his keys. The car, with work completed, was left on the lot last evening when Fatty had to leave early to help someone who's car wouldn't start in his driveway.

There is another visitor who just came in to shoot the breeze, and all the men start to kid each other or someone has a new joke to tell and things get a little crazy for a few minutes. They all feel that the warmth of the atmosphere here among the sights and smells of this special garage.

There is no cash register here, no printed invoices, no bins stocked with parts. If a part is needed, Fatty is off in the old green Dodge pickup with the gray primer that is going to be painted someday. To the parts store and back in just a few minutes and the work is completed. There is no computer and no hurry, just a lifetime of knowledge and learned tricks that today's young, schooled mechanics wouldn't believe even if Fatty showed them.

Skillful hands, sharp eyes and ears that hear things most need electronic equipment to point out today. That's the problem with the cars of the '90's. Things, they are a'changin'. You need that investment of many thousands of dollars for computerized diagnostic equipment and the training to operate it. Well, that's not going to happen here, and anyway, we aren't as young as we used to be, and Fatty can't spend all those hours bending and lifting and cracking his knuckles on engine blocks.

But it's still there, one of the last of the beautiful neighborhood garages. You can never tell who might be there, so stop by and say hello. There is no place like it and no one like the man who owns it.

Author's note: Unfortunately, Betty Kight died Saturday, June 3, before this article could be published.

Training To Meet The Challenges Of Changes

by Sandy Major

According to Dr. Price Prichett, internationally known advisor on cultural change, "Things are changing. Status quo management won't work. If you manage for the next several months the way you've managed during routine times, you're going to have real problems. It's time to switch gears."

Change is a vital force in today's highly competitive business environment. The need for manufacturers to produce higher quality products more efficiently is essential to their survival in today's global economy. This requires that American companies use technologies today that were not even imagined a few years ago.

American workers are finding that they must rethink their jobs to keep up with new ways to do things, and develop new skills. Companies with vision are recognizing the need to help employees gain these critical skills and employees who recognize the importance of working with new technologies are taking steps to strengthen their skills.

The maintenance department of the local Bausch & Lomb plant has taken positive action to ensure that they are trained in the new skills needed to maintain the pace of advancing technology.

Today Bausch & Lomb has 45% of the domestic market and 50% of the world market in the sales of premium sunglasses. The steady addition of increasingly automated and sophisticated equipment is making it possible for Bausch & Lomb to retain its highly competitive position in the sunglasses market throughout the world.

The introduction of automated equipment has made dramatic changes in the lives of the B&L maintenance workers. Many of those in the maintenance department have worked for the company for more than 15 years, and have gained a wide range of skills in working with various types of equipment. I spoke with some of the employees who make up this rapidly changing department.

According to Roger Smith, the skills needed to do their jobs today are much different than they were even two years ago.

Keith Bean who has worked for the company 22 years and seen the equipment getting more and more complex says that soon B&L will have an entirely automated line. "This means," he said, "we better be highly skilled in electronics."

Maintenance workers now set up, maintain and repair highly computerized equipment. All these tasks must be performed quickly in order to meet production needs. According to Bean, responding to change is an important part of the everyday work life at B&L. "We're moving away from relay type equipment now and into Programmable Logic Controllers. Change and new equipment keeps you from falling behind and we need both to keep up with the competition," he said.

To do their jobs effectively in this changing environment, maintenance workers need many new skills. "We need to be able to use problem solving skills as well as technical math skills," Rick Cassidy explained. They also need to be able to read and comprehend highly complicated technical equipment manuals.

A new training program for maintenance employees is now being offered, in partnership with Garrett Community College, to help develop and strengthen skills in each of these areas.

Ten maintenance workers participated in the first training class which began in October and was completed in January. During the 240 hours of training, employees worked on upgrading their math and problem-solving skills in preparation for future training in electronics. They also upgraded their reading comprehension capabilities.

CARL WHITEHAIR

Classes met for four hours a day five days a week. B&L showed its commitment to the program by paying for the costs of the training and paying the employees for one-half of the training time. Employees felt it was so important to develop these skills that they willingly gave of their own time to participate in the classes and complete the required out-of-class work.

The results of this first training class have been dramatic. Test scores indicate significant improvements in the capabilities of each of the participants. Rich Rohrbaugh, who heads the maintenance team, has been happy with the progress made by the workers as well as the many positive comments they have made about the class.

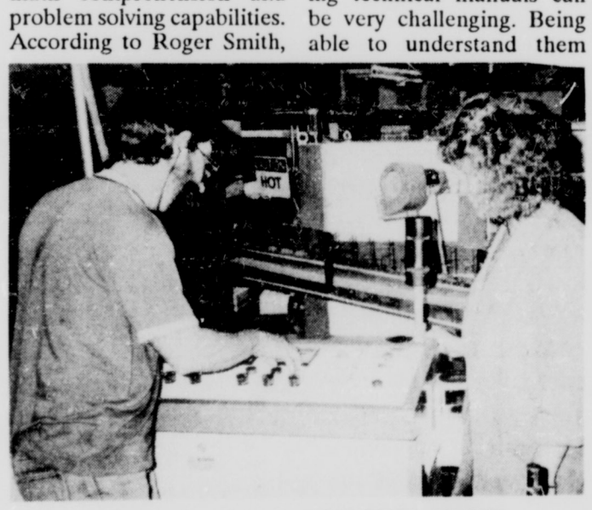
Equally important, all the members of the class feel it was a very valuable learning experience that strengthened their self confidence as well as their math comprehension and problem solving capabilities. According to Roger Smith, the class involved considerable work, but was well worth it. Roger and most others felt the teacher, Mark Kardel, was the most important reason for the class working so well.

Dan Nelson explained that if they had a problem understanding an idea, Mark would stop and explain the concept in a different way, so it became clear to them.

When they first started class, workers were a little intimidated as they had been away from classroom learning for many years. They immediately began to relax and enjoy the class, though, because of the classroom atmosphere fostered by Mark. According to Carl Whitehair, they were able to get a lot out of the class because Mark took the time to work individually with each of them.

"The teamwork was really important," John Hinebaugh explained. "Mark worked with us as a team and we all worked together to solve problems and help each other learn."

Tim Yommer appreciated the opportunity to sharpen reading comprehension skills explaining that reading technical manuals can be very challenging. Being able to understand them makes his job easier.



KEITH BEAN AND VESTA GANK

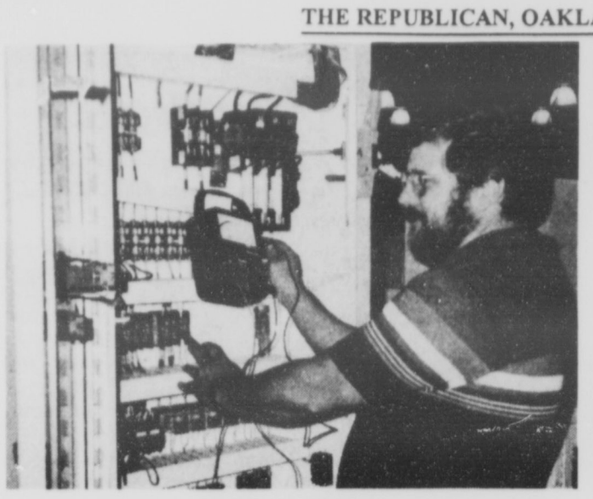
Class members feel that having the instructor teach the classes at the plant saved them time and enabled them to get more out of the training.

The flexibility that was a part of the classes is also critical on the plant floor according to Charlie Brown. "Being flexible allows us to broaden our capabilities and be able to service more types of equipments" he explained.

Another important reason the class worked well according to Larry Kimble was "the willingness to learn on the part of the students. We went into the class wanting to learn more. Our jobs will be more complex in the future and we need to be continually learning," he said.

All members of this first class look forward to other opportunities for learning more new skills in future classes. They believe that their ability to adjust to change and strengthen their skills will be vital to doing their jobs effectively in the future. According to Dave Spirk, Human Resources Manager, ongoing training will become a life long process at Bausch & Lomb. "Maintaining our current competitiveness in the global market place can only be achieved by the initiative and ingenuity of our people at this plant. This partnership with GCC is probably first of a series. I'm personally grateful they were able to respond to our needs with professional instruction which matched our needs and, at the same time, met the needs of our maintenance department employees. These guys perform a critical job in satisfying our customers worldwide," Spirk said.

This unique training program was developed and is being implemented through a team partnership with Garrett Community College. The effort has been led by B&L team members Spirk, Rich Rohrbaugh, the plant engineer and maintenance team coordinator, and Vesta Gank, training coordinator. They joined forces with Garrett Community College team members Steve Herman, GCC president, Lowell Bender, associate dean of Continuing Education; and Sandy Major, program director, to develop the basic criteria for the program late last summer. In the fall, the training curriculum was finalized by Mark Kardel, the instructor for the program.

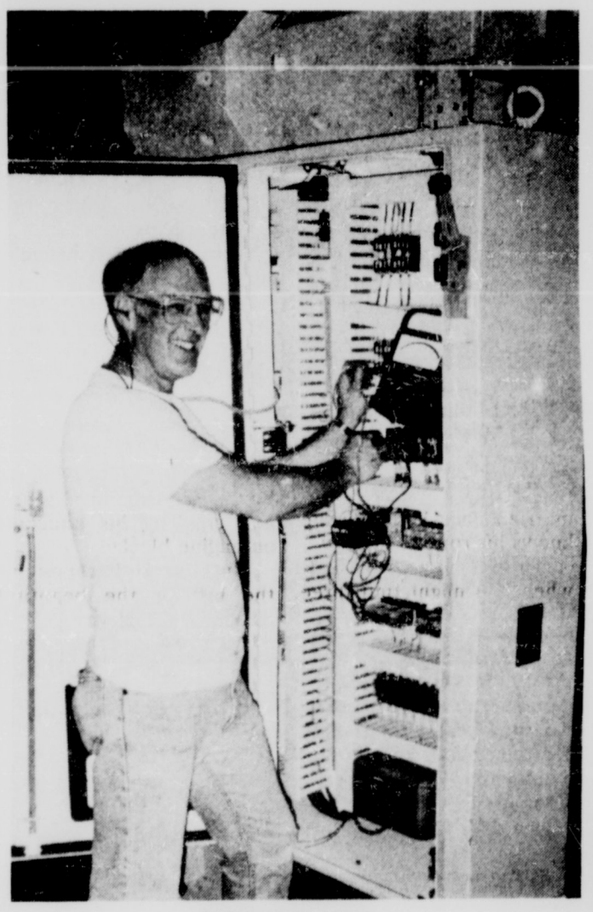


RICK CASSIDY

RICK ROHRBAUGH AND RON HARVEY

Bender believes this type of training is a vital part of the mission of the college. "A major role of Continuing Education," he said, "is to act as a partner in assisting businesses with their training needs."

Training is now underway for the second group of maintenance employees. They too are experiencing very positive results during the classes. Others will participate in this training in the future. Mark Kardel believes the goal of the training goes beyond simply learning facts and figures. "Practicing a variety of problem-solving techniques," he said "yields increased confidence for facing the many different problems outside the classroom. I've seen this kind of growth in the classes and have grown through the process myself. I think it is a win - win situation for all involved."



DON NELSON

As the administrator of the program, I have the opportunity to evaluate the training on an ongoing basis. I am excited about the progress being made by each class member and about the long range benefits of this type of training for the employees and for Bausch & Lomb.

As a business trainer and small business counselor, I have daily experiences which point to the vital importance of training and developing employees. More managers need to recognize that their businesses will thrive only when they train and empower their employees. I think it's great that we have an employer like B&L, taking the lead in this effort. I'm happy to have a small part in preparing local businesses for meeting the challenges of competition in today's tough business climate.

As Dr. Prichett points out, in today's business world where change has become "the new status quo," employees need to take personal responsibility for preparing for and managing change. In the maintenance department at Bausch and Lomb, the employees are recognizing the importance of change and taking vital steps to prepare for it.

Food For Thought

McClive's Restaurant

There's a taste of Tuscany when lightly pounded chicken breast halves are layered with Fontina cheese, roasted sweet red pepper and sage leaves, then rolled tight, jelly-roll style. Roll in flour, brown in oil, then simmer in wine or broth until done. Slice to serve.

Watermelon is more than juicy deliciousness. Turns out it's a good source of vitamin A, B6 and B vitamins, plus vitamin C, potassium and magnesium. All that for 100 calories a wedge.

Add basil to dishes at the last minute, just before serving. To make slivers, stack leaves, roll like a cigar, and cut crosswise.

Cottage cheese usually comes in large or small curd. That affects the consistency and texture, but not the calorie count. Regular cottage cheese has 120 calories per half cup, low-fat 90 calories.

Make it special. Dress up ordinary ice cream with extraordinary toppings. Splash juicy strawberries with balsamic vinegar, and pour it all over a scoop of vanilla. Grind some fresh black pepper over all.

Make it special. Celebrate occasions with a special meal at

Sconyers To Live In Germany As Exchange Student

Jacob Sconyers, Terra Alta, W.Va., will depart in July to live with a volunteer host family and attend school in Germany for one year. A student at Preston High School, Sconyers is a recipient of the Congress-Bundestag Youth Exchange Program scholarship. The program is administered by Youth For Understanding (YFU) International Exchange in cooperation with AFS Intercultural Programs, ASSE International Student Exchange Programs, AYUSA International, and World Learning.

Before meeting their host families and immersing themselves in the German culture, the YFU group of Congress-Bundestag scholarship recipients will attend a month-long orientation and language course in Germany. During the year, they will travel to Berlin and Bonn for political, historical, and cultural seminars and meetings with German government officials. Upon returning to the United States in July of 1996, the students will attend a re-entry orientation in Washington, D.C., for Germans and Americans alike.

This year over 1,150 students applied nationwide for the exchange scholarship, and 317 students were awarded scholarships on the basis of written applications and personal interviews in their home states.

Now in its 12th year, the Congress-Bundestag Youth Exchange Program is jointly sponsored by the United States Congress and the German Parliament (Bundestag). Approximately one-half of the cost of the program is financed by Federal monies, amounting to 2.5 million dollars, which is channeled through the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs of the United States Information Agency.

Youth For Understanding (YFU) International Exchange, which administers all recruitment and selection for the program, is a private, non-profit educational organization dedicated to international understanding and world peace. YFU is one of the world's oldest and largest international exchange organizations for high school students. Since its founding in 1951, more than 175,000 young people have participated in its program. YFU has offices in 40 countries, with regional offices throughout out the United States and nearly 3,000 professionally trained volunteers around the world.

For additional information about YFU youth exchange opportunities, including the opportunity for American families to host international students in their homes, persons may call 1-800-TEENAGE.

Preston Resident Among Students To Travel To Russia

A Preston County resident is among four students from the Governor's School for Science and Mathematics and five teacher-participants who will visit Russia as part of a West Virginia-Russia exchange program, directed by Dr. Virginia Simmons, coordinator of the governor's schools.

Amanda Teets, Horse Shoe Run, and a student at Tucker County High School, will join Ernest Wang of Cabell County, Vincent William Burskey of Hancock County, and Brian G. Brannon of Lewis County, along with several other students from various governor's schools, to spend approximately four weeks in Kaliningrad, Russia, this fall.

In exchange, five Russian students and an educator, along with a cosmonaut and a ballet dancer from the Bolshoi Theatre have been invited to the Governor's School for Science and Mathematics, to be held at West Virginia University, June 25-July 15. The group was selected by the West Virginia Foundation, and is supported by a grant from the United States Information Agency.

At the Governor's School, the students will explore scientific, mathematical, and other intellectual topics, and will engage in creative pursuits at a level and pace not always possible during the regular school year, according to a spokesperson for the school. Also, students will have an opportunity to visit points of interest on field trips, and interact with leaders in science and industry.

"We want to give the students more exposure to the international arena and sensitize them to what's going on internationally by exposing the students to Russian culture," said Dr. William Collins, director of the Honors Program and the Governor's School at WVU.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Navy Seaman Recruit John J. Bobo, a 1991 graduate of Elk Garden High School of Elk Garden, W.Va., recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Bobo completed a variety of training which included classroom study, practical hands-on instruction, and an emphasis on physical fitness. In particular, Bobo learned naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival, and a variety of safety skills required for working around ships and aircraft.

Bobo and other recruits also received instruction on the Navy's core values - honor, courage and commitment; and what the words mean in guiding personal and professional conduct. Bobo joins 55,000 men and women who will enter the Navy this year from all over the country.

Men and women train together from their first day in the Navy just as they do aboard ships and at shore bases around the world. To reinforce the team concept, Bobo and other recruits also were trained in preventing sexual harassment and ensuring equal opportunity.

"Even as the naval service gets smaller over the next few years, highly motivated young people like Bobo, are still finding an opportunity to improve their knowledge and education as they become part of the most highly technical naval force in history. This year alone the Navy will have more than 57,000 job openings and opportunities, most of which include guaranteed training," stated a Navy spokesman.

LOOK FOR THESE IMPORTANT CHANGES ON YOUR NEXT GAS BILL.

In order to serve our growing community more efficiently, we're making some changes in our billing and meter reading schedule. That means that your Columbia Gas meter reader will probably arrive on a different day of the month than you're used to. To know when to expect us, just check the "Next Reading Date" (A) on your next Columbia bill. And, as always, be sure to check your meter reader's Columbia identification card before you let him or her into your home.

The day of the month that your bill arrives may also change, which could result in a slightly shorter or longer billing period for the first month or two (B). Rest assured, this will not result in any additional charges to you but it will affect your payment date (C) and (D).

Please read your bill carefully for the next few months. And if you still have questions, contact your local Columbia Gas office. We'll be happy to help you.

We can be proud of our public schools in Garrett County!

"I'm a graduate of the Garrett County public schools, and so are my five children.

In my business, I talk to a lot of people from West Virginia and Pennsylvania, and from what I hear we are very fortunate to have the schools that we have in Maryland, and especially in Garrett County. The curriculum, the teachers, the values that are instilled in the students are excellent.

As a employer, I find that the young people coming out of our schools are very well prepared to take their place in the work place.

GCARES Plan Local Set-Up For ARRP Field Day

The Garrett County amateur Radio Emergency Service will work around the clock this weekend to set up field radio communication stations, get on the air, and contact thousands of other operators in the U.S. and Canada, to participate in the American Radio Relay League's (ARRL) Field Day.

According to Jerry Kee, president of G.C.A.R.E.S. and local emergency coordinator, Field Day is the "shakedown run" for the NRRL's national Field Organization.

This is a chance to fine tune emergency communication skills," Kee said. "We use generators and battery power, and we set up antennas in the field. The idea is to put together a self-sufficient working station quickly and begin making contacts."

The ARRL Field Organization has been effective in establishing emergency communications nets during floods, hurricanes, fires, earthquakes, and other major disasters. The league estimates that more than 35,000 amateur radio operators participate in Field Day every year.

The G.C.A.R.E.S field day set up will begin Friday, June 23, at 4 p.m.. The operators will go on the air Saturday at 2 p.m., and will remain on the air for 24 hours. The public and any visiting Hams are invited. For those coming from Oakland, persons should take the Oakland - Sang Run Road north, turn right on Mount Nebo Road and continue to the top of the hill. The operators will be in the field on the right side of the road with antennas hanging from a drag line boom.

For more information, persons may contact Mac MacNichol [N3TGM] 334-1892 or Jerry Kee [N3KAP] at 334-2231. "We will be using AA8QS as the Field Day station call," Kee said. "For a talk-in, use our repeater 146.805 pl 118.8. 73, N3TGM.

Friendsville Blood Drive Results Noted

Esther Benedict, R.N., local chairperson of the event, later received a letter from the Johnstown unit which stated that at least 144 persons benefitted from the 38 units through component processing, a procedure in which the blood is divided into different blood products.

Multiple donors in Friendsville included Connie Wakefield, Jay Umbel, Dorene Dawson with one gallon each; Terry Speer with two gallons; and Gene Benedict and Barbara J. Fike with three gallons each.

Volunteers assisting with the blood drive were Esther and Belinda Benedict and Amy Platter.
